PATCHING THE COUNTY CHARTER

No less than seven changes in the administration of county government were proposed to the board of supervisors in White Pains last Monday. And it is likely that before the end of the year there will be many more adjustments in the county's governmental structure suggested. Of the seven, one has already fallen by the wayside. The supervisors rather bluntly turned down the suggestion of County Executive Bleakley that study be given to the form almon of a county police force, into which municipalities might come at their own good time and discretion. Tollitical dynamits," decided the G. O. P. majority in cascus and the idea was pigeon-bedded by the board without a dissenting voice from either political organization.

Of the remaining six, three came from the committee on legislation and three from Supervisor McCulloch of Mamaconeck, the latter group relating wholy to county debt.

The legislative commission recommended that the terms of appointive commissions, expire at the end of the calendar year, namely Dec. 31, as do the terms of elective officials, There appears to be no objection to that and it should tie in neatily with future administrations.

Another recommendation from the committee is that towns and villages should have the right to withdraw from appears to be no objection to that and if should tie in eathy with future administrations.

Another recommendation from the committee is that fowns and villages should have the right to withdraw from the county health department upon due notice, as do cities in at present. This would then extend to the smaller municipalities the name right now exceeded by the four larger cities. It might be wise to have approval of the county and state to health departments before this door is opened.

The third committee suggestion was that an extended period, around 30 days, be allowed for study by the taxpayers of the county budget before a public hearing is held. That change should certainly be made. Taxpayers are not always able to give the time to such documents, nor are they so familiar with them, as public officials. By all means, make this change.

Mr. McCulloch's cuggestions, indicating considerable research and fiscal ingenuity, are that: (1) A referendum be ordered on all county expenditures in excess of $100,000, instead of $10,000,000, as the charter now reads; (2) That the county, cities, towns, villages and special districts allocate themselves what percentage each may berrow against the assessed valuations of their aveas, and (3) That the maximum interest charge permitted to municipalities by law on their borrowings be cut from six to four per cent.

There is meat in all three of these suggestions, although the second may be technically difficult to work of deep study. Ye of it is designed to bring about a condition whereby when money is dear and interest rates high, that is above four proposence and interest rates high, that is above four proposence and interest rates high, that had there been such a regulation in the past. Westchester and its miner est hanges. Mr. McCulloch has ceitimate that had there been such a regulation in the past. THE TYSON CONTROVERSY

THE TYSON CONTROVERSY

The Tyson controversy, which has split the Rye Neck Board of Education into two distinct factions, has now reached a position of stalemate which appears to be final.
Trustees Raymond T. O'Connell, Edmund Lowery and George C. Coffin refuse to budge from the position which has blocked the recommendation that another teacher be added to the faculty of the F. E. Bellows High School and which renders hopeless the desire of a great majority of the residents of the District to see Harold C. Tyson, former principal, restored to the school's faculty.

Added to the numerous exhibits which have been accumulated since the controversy started, are two new documents, both voluminous and both representative of the views of the respective facions they emanate from. The one justifies the need of the added instructor; the other denies the need.
Both contain statistical matter purporting to prove their respective claims.

the need of the added instructor; the other denies the need. Both contain statistical matter purporting to prove their respective claims.

But the average person in the District is not today so much concerned with the literary efforts which have been inspired by the disagreement as a he is with the tutter disregard displayed by Trustees O'Connell, Lowery and Coffin for the recommendation of Dr. Samuel Engle Burr, principal and superintendent of the District, and for the wishes of the people of the District as expressed by petition signed by approximately 800 taxpayers. This disregard is today being viewed with a feeling very much akin to awe.

That Trustees O'Connell, Lowery and Coffin have been well within their rights in assuming the position they have taken and in stolidly boiling to that position cannot be gainsaid. On that score they are not to be challenged. As to their good judgment in setting aside the recommendation of an experienced educator and they woive of poblic opinion is another matter and, at least, weakens the position they have taken. That three laymen have overruided the advice of Dr. Burr, in a matter so vital, leads one to wonder if the day is coming when educational teadership is to be ausured by laymen and if the advice of educational experts is to be laughed down by those who have never qualified as experts. Purthermore, The Times does not believe that public officials are everjustified in over-riding public quinton, much the force is no clear cut that the public can be shown as unreservedly wrong and the officials indisputably right. In this instance, that has not been shown. If it had been, we are certain three members of the Board would not have locked horns with Measurs. O'Connell, Lowery and Coffin.

The only thing that must be perfectly clear to everyone is that ruit responsibility for this non-action rests upon the gentlemen who refused to change their minds. The reaction is had for Rye Neck citizens—many of them, at any rate-regard this action as a conviction where no real case
