No Complaints

Joseph Lamp of 33 Glen Eagles Drive, Larchmont, could not complain about the service he got from the town police when he reported his car stolen at 12:34 A. M. yesterday.

When the police arrived at his residence, a short time later, they were driving the missing car. They had spotted it on Rockwood Avenue between Glen and Spruce Roads, as they were driving to the Lamp residence to get more data.

The keys were in the glove compartment, but the battery was dead, so the police had to get it with a police car to get it started. A search of the area revealed no trace of anyone who might have stolen and abandoned the burn.

Couldn't Be Safer

The complainant was reassured, however, when the police shortly after reported that the men couldn't be any safer. The two men were from the State Conservation Department and were just checking up to see that no one was doing any duck shooting.

Drops Wasted

They would have complained even if there hadn't been a water shortage. Two diners at the Town House restaurant at 127 Mamaroneck Avenue, yesterday noon became mildly disturbed when some of the portulacas with water conserving drops seeping through the ceiling on to their coats.

Mamaroneck police and the superintendent of the building determined that a leak had developed in an upstairs office. Victim during the weekend.

Uncertain Fate

It's enough to make you wonder sometimes what your fur coats are made of, or ones with those deceptive names.

Police found a muskrat trap yesterday in the woods of Griffin Avenue, Larchmont, that had caught a dog by one foot.

Whether the dog would have ended up in someone's fur wrap will never be known, however, since the police released the animal and took him to a veterinary for treatment of the injured paw.

PEAK SAVING HIT IN CONSUMPTION OF WATER HERE

Residents Cut Use 14.3 P. C. Friday But Weekend Figure Drops

The drop in water consumption reacting a high of 14.3 per cent Friday, but weekend figures declined to about 13.5 per cent per day, statistics compiled by the Westchester Joint Water Works and released by Supervisor Owen A. Mandeville of the Town of Mamaroneck, chairman of the Water Board.

While the savings were within two per cent of the daily goal, statistics compiled by the New York City officials to stretch reserves, they represented a substantial increase over the drops reported during the first part of last week. The percentages, compiled in comparison to daily consumption, showed a savings of about 8 per cent for the Dec. 4th weekend. The figure rose to 11 and 12 percent on Tuesday and Wednesday, culminating in a 14.3 per cent drop Friday, 13.8 Saturday and 13.3 yesterday.

Despite the rise in percentages, the rain that fell yesterday, consumption by gallons indicated a continuing decline. Residents used 3,023,000 gallons Friday, 2,996,000 Saturday and 2,926,000 yesterday.

The complainant was reassured, however, when the police shortly after reported that the men couldn't be any safer. The two men were from the State Conservation Department and were just checking up to see that no one was doing any duck shooting.

Mr. Slater was taken by Town Police Sgt. Eugene De Veau to New Rochelle Hospital, where two sutures were required to close the cut in his forehead. He was released after treatment.

Mr. Slater filed the town police that he was driving East on the Post Road about 2:15 P. M. when the Roosa car, coming from the drive on his left, cut in front of him as it turned east and that he was unable to avoid collision with the rear of the Roosa car.

Both autos were badly damaged as the force of the impact sent the Slater car wobbling out of control across the Post Road, over the north curb, and down the sidewalk, where it finally came to rest against a light pole.

The Roosa car was hauled over the south curb, and stopped with its rear wheels in the road and its front section on the sidewalk. The rear of the Roosa car and the front of the Slater car were demolished. Both vehicles were towed from the scene.

VANDALS RANSACK HIGH SCHOOL OFFICE

The Mamaroneck Junior High school was entered sometime Friday night or early Saturday morning and although vandals thoroughly ransacked one of the offices, dumping papers on the floor and disturbing the contents of drawers, they found nothing of value.

In fact, they could say that their work was pure gravy after the extra Board of Supervisors meeting. A. E. Tuttle, assistant to the superintendent, Principal Joseph C. McLean, Superintendent Economics Supervisor Miss Dorothy Bachelder were feted at a dinner prepared and served by the Home Economics club in the Home Economics room of the senior high school.

On the staff under the supervision of Maryann F. Starnes, the teacher, were Barbara De Gaetan, Helen Henke, Jill Heintz, Shirley McKelvey, Alice MacArthur, Peggy Perry and Barbara Steinman.

Thief Tries Again

The marauder who pulled a job on Murray Avenue in Larchmont this week couldn't be called unpractical. The unexpected money-and-wed set seems to have reminded him that what he was to find himself a new pair of rubbers, so he lifted a pair from their drying place on the porch at 141 Murray Avenue, Monday night.

The complainant made it an even easier case by reporting that last after the first snowfall last Wednesday the new footprints leading up to her porch and back to the street again.

Apparently the rubber thief's job was not done at that time, but the thief returned, and finally got himself out for the rainy day.

Smoke Blankets Avenue As Flames Destroy Job Office

Center to Hear Talk by Bulow

The worst fire Mamaroneck has seen in four years destroyed a wooden building here by Job's Storage Warehouse at 117 1/2 A. Croce and 2nd L. Dominick Yonkers, where the fire under control within 30 minutes.

The building was used by Tan Job's to store materials he uses in connection with moving. Almost all of the equipment, which was packed to the rafters, was destroyed either by the flames or water. Assistant Chief John Lombard, who directed the fire fighters, said the blaze had been caused by a short circuit in the wiring.

The fire department worked rapidly, and the fire was out in about 15 minutes. The fact that clouds of smoke were blowing above the building and flames licked the roof, was a warning that the fire had spread through the heavily developed business district, where other buildings were being threatened.

PRAYER FOR TODAY—I want to overcome the trammels of smallness, to be big where the heart is called for to be generous where righteousness might be a sin, to be helpful where it might be so easy to turn aside, to minister to those who are broken where I might be inclined to regard it as another's responsibility.

SALVE FOR HIGHWAY WOUNDS
THERE are certain fundamentals in connection with highway and parkway expansion in Westchester which must be accepted.

1. New York City is bringing to the southern boundary line of the County several high-speed traffic routes which must be extended through Westchester if we are to avoid congestion on our already crowded thoroughfares.

2. The construction of such through-traffic arteries must follow valleys and take advantage of other topographic features if we are to hold down the costs.

3. The cost of the construction of the major units of traffic relief is to be met by the State and, therefore, the State must be given some authority in plan and routes.

4. These highways and parkways must be built upon land; they cannot be hung in the air upon sky hooks.

Accepting these premises, it is logically to the inescapable fact that these thoroughfares cannot be built without disturbing somebody at some place along the route. Westchester is not virgin territory and there are certain to be damages inflicted upon homes or property values wherever new roads are built.

Nevertheless, it is admitted that some owners of homes and other types of properties are going to be hurt, regardless of whose fault it is when these traffic routes are constructed. The problem, then, is how to reimburse these persons properly.

Where a home must be razed, there is no way, of course, to restore the sentimental value which may have accumulated over a long period of years. But there is a way to recompense the owner for the material damage. And that is to pay him a price for his home which will permit the displaced owner to acquire a new home, similar in size and value, elsewhere. Too, where there are consequential damages, that is where a section of the new highway destroys the quietude and peace of a home, compensation should be adjusted.

This is, we submit, the right way that the State and the County should go in its acquisition of rights-of-way for the new parkways and highways planned to take care of the increasing traffic through Westchester. Anything less is immoral. And, too, despite what the Fair New Deal has done in connection with the 20 years, confiscation of private property is still unconstitutional.

So, let it be thoroughly understood at the outset that any citizens whose homes or other properties are to be damaged in the tremendous parkway and highway expansion just about must be fully recompensed in the material sense.

That should prove to be of some solace to those who are hurt economically, who even tolerate of gracious living is interrupted temporarily.

PROPAGANDA JUST AHEAD

AUTHORITATIVE reports from Washington, from observers whose accuracy has been proven over many years, are that there will come shortly after the first of the year an "unemployment scare" wave of propaganda.

The real facts are that anticipated unemployment in January is expected to be about 4 million, as compared to 3.4 million last month and 2.2 million in last February. That is not a substantial increase but is considered normal for the season, since unemployment always rises in the Wintertime.

The purpose behind the propaganda is to lead weight to the Truman administration's drive for bigger unemployment benefits and for a wider spread of the coverage. The Truman program will include not only larger benefits but a shorter waiting time and larger amounts for payments of the unemployed.

The policy of utilizing propaganda for legislative ends is not new. And occasionally it works. We suggest, therefore, that the public condition itself in advance to the claims which will be advanced for political reasons, remembering that 1950 is a Congressional election year.

Forewarned is forearmed. Don't let the propaganda panic you.

Col. Joe Bush Says:

As near as we can get the picture out of news dispatches from Key West, Fla., the sun-kissed confederate is to determine how they can give away more sun-burned dollars so they can cash in on more modern, burned toys.

County Clerk Bob Field of Peekskill is trying to get some more "W" and "VE" auto license plate series instead of the "V" series which Albany usually issues us when we run out. We are sure about it. We are sure about it.

We are conserving water to heat the band. Every time we go out in the rain we come back in and squeeze out our hat and raincoat. It's the tub. By New Year's we expect to have enough for a bath.

Thoughts as the year ends: "Twas a fine '49 and John L. Lewis' "On the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh days, he rested."

In the old days, pretty near every American industrialist who was to have his picture took, always got out his pipe. Now, when they take his picture, always puts his big pipe in his mouth just before the photo shoots. Has changed that and it ain't stylish over here no more.

An oldtime is a guy who can remember when city streets were two-way. And there's a new law pending in Congress to shoot every motorist who, when stopped, comes back with a one-way through-put. "Well, I'm goin' only one way, ain't I?"

Try And Stop Me
By Bennett Cerp
Harry Hansen and Charles MacArthur, bound for a luncheon in the Woodstock room of the Waldorf, entered the revolving door on the heels of an imposing figure in uniform. He wore a gold epaulet, a plumed hat, three rows of medals on his chest, and carried a huge sword at his side. Who can he be? wondered Hansen. MacArthur swung his one-way through-put whizzer. "Identify yourself, please."

importance of the lead sentence in a news story collects outstanding examples of some. One of the best, he thinks, was written by Hugh Fullerton of the Chicago American. A gent discovered on his wedding that his bride had a glass eye, and sued for annulment. Chronically published in the Chicago American, his wife's eye proposed Steve Mxyzwick to his new wife—and she raised her glass.

RFC Oil-Drill Loan To Co-Ops
Loses Mystery With Discovery

WASHINGTON. — The Reconstruction Finance Corps recently announced that it had loaned $15,000,000 to business and cooperative interests in Kansas City and other Missouri centers has lost its original aura of mystery as a result of the discovery that certain banking and promotion beneficiaries are in a contractual way for many years.

The transaction has caused a sensation in the Southwest, the Far West and in petroleum circles generally because it is the first time that the RFC has underwritten a loan for actual oil production. Since the earliest days, the RFC has refused to finance such schemes because of their highly speculative nature.

Another reason for industrial and commercial concern is that the loan is being made available from both the RFC and the Farm Credit Administration, are major participants in the new venture. Inasmuch as the RFC-financed oil company has properties in Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, New Mexico, Louisiana and California, it appears that the White House-managed RFC intends to make large-scale operations in both speculative and cooperative fields, to the detriment of the tremendous investments of oil-established and less profitably favored firms.

TYCOONS — A key figure in the new corporation, which was first known as the "Tommaso Petroleum Company of Dallas, Tex.," is Arthur W. Kincaid of Wichita, a center of considerable oil financing. He is an oil lawyer and banker there, and he is also board chairman of the new corporation. He had a leading part in organizing it, and in obtaining RFC funds.

Mr. Kincaid is a prominent member of the American Petroleum National and local cooperative organizations. He has been an officer of numerous banks and real estate mortgage companies in Texas and Oklahoma. He is now president of the Fourth National Bank at Wichita, which has served as partial financier of numerous petroleum operations in this area.

William Thornton Kemper Jr. is director of the Wichita Fourth National Bank and also president of the First National Bank at Independence, Mo. Although these posts comprise only a few of his and his family's far-flung interests, the Kemper brothers are among the tycoons of Kansas City and the Midwest generally.

HOLDINGS—Their father, the late William T. Kemper, was Democratic National Committee man of Missouri for many years. His two other sons, James M. Kemper and Rufus Crosby Kemper, are officers and key figures in so many Kansas City corporations that it is almost impossible to list them. But it is known that they control a vast portfolio of interests awarded by the Democratic office of Kansas City, Jackson County and the State of Missouri.

Their holdings include banks, trust companies, life insurance companies, oil and gas and several mortgage business. They are also interested in Braniff Airways, public utilities, theaters and restaurants. In addition, they own mill and elevator companies, oil products, sand and gravel companies.

James M. Kemper was chairman of the Kansas City advisory board for the RFC from 1933 to 1939.

POWER—As a Jackson County judge until 1934, President Truman undoubtedly had some business dealings with Kemper Interests, including the State of Missouri in lumber, utilities, oil products, sewer pipe, sand and gravel firms.

The Kemper take no active part in politics, never serving as members of committees, appearing on platforms during campaigns or holding office. But it is obvious that any family with such extensive holdings in the fields listed, in addition to the fact of their father's active participation in Democratic politics, are a power. They are so recognized.

Kansas Citizens here say that they have recently decided to branch into the oil industry, and that William Thornton Kemper, Jr., Mr. Kincaid's associate in the Wichita bank, has been assigned to handle all developments of this kind.

Unique 'Tree' Features Skit Of Jr. League

"We don't have to face the music when the chimes sound after the skit," but "there's no disputin' that commin' is not meant for the weak," was the theme throughout the skit of tunes and poetry enacted by the Professional Group of the Eastern Westchester Unit of the New York Junior League at a special joint meeting of the unit held last night at the Larchmont Yacht Club.

As a gift from "Mrs. Santa Claus" played by Miss Gloria von der Lehr of Larchmont, a huge Christmas tree decorated the dining room. The tree, ingeniously constructed by G. S. Yeager and Dr. Clarence H. Strassman of New Rochelle, was decorated with "professional bulbs" as pictured in the accompanying photograph.

The tree was spotlighted after "Mrs. Santa Claus" made the gift presentation. "Mrs. Santa Claus" was introduced by Miss Mary Louise Whelan, and the skit was written and directed by Miss Betty Cobbs and Miss Nancy Yeager, co-chairmen of the program.

Preceding the program there was a short business meeting conducted by Mrs. George S. Squibb Jr., chairman of the unit. Mrs. Richard C. Staelin, co-chairman of the unit, announced that the orientation course required by the Association of Junior Leagues of America will start on Jan. 10 and that attendance at each session will be required of the entire membership.

Mrs. G. Gordon Biggar of Larchmont, chairman of the unit's theater, announced that the final rehearsal for the new program of three plays will be held in the unit rooms Jan. 8 and that the Lilliput Theater will be given to Graceland Hospital Jan. 16 and to the New Rochelle Day Center, Jan. 22. Mrs. William T. Maddox Jr. of New Rochelle, chairman of the microfilming project, reported that 78 Larchmont records, representing 894 hours during a two-month period had photographed 10,191 records, using 4,800 feet of film.

Mrs. Robert I. Dodge Jr. of Thornhill announced that the unit will give a Christmas party for the children in the tuberculosis ward at Graceland Hospital, and that, in addition to toys, each child will receive a piece of clothing.

Belows Quintet Shells Croton, 46-28, In Court Season Debut

Petrie's 17 Markers Spearheads Panthers

Belows blew the lid off the 1949 basketball campaign last night before a near-capacity partisan crowd in the East End Bandbox, blasting past a confused Croton quintet to register at 46-28 triumph. Coach Jack Haseley took the wraps off his current Panther court effort in this recent league engagement but his charges, although thoroughly efficient, showed only signs of brilliance in the one-sided contest.

Sophomore flash Ed Petrie was the big scoring gun for the East Enders, kicking 17 points through the cords to start the Panther team on the BHS victory with a lead bang. Only Herb Down of Croton, six feet four inches of stamazing flesh with a hankering for wild hook shots, was able to persevere in double digit play and Croton beanpole hit only four times out of uncountable tries from the floor but added six free throws for 14 points.

Most of the Belows rebounding was done by George Fischer and Ken Delner, the latter doing perhaps a slightly better all-around job while playing a reserve role. But on the whole it was Petrie's night to shine.

The Panthers, sporting new sea-blue uniforms, had a field goal as a flash on the tape of play and Croton never recovered from the shock. The Haslemans, spinning the fast break to their own advantage, had a 17-4 blue at quarter and looked as if they would trump the Panthers but Petrie, as quickly as they had followed the margin, the East Enders scored once or twice, changing their attack to a distance shooting game. When they failed to hit with anything near half of the set shots, the locals followed that pattern until there were three minutes left in the game. Haseley then instructed a switch back to the basket and the punch style, and veteran BHS players threatened to make a complete runaway of it.

Harmon led all nine of his variety careers during the encounter and all but two of them entered the scoring column. With the two officials keeping their whistles at bay, one another pair of Pan's there escaped the personal foul column.

Petrie grabbed the opening tap and drove to the key for a bucket and Panky Vitetta followed with the spread layup two-point. Petrie insisted on underhand shooting the another to 6-0 and added a free toss before Down broke the tie for Croton with a jump shot and Lou Vitetta made one that matched Charley DeStefano's four with his goal from close range. Petrie landed a set-shot through

KOSLO WAS BEST 1949 N.Y. HURLER

NEW YORK, (AP)—Dave Koslo of the New York Giants was the National League's leading pitcher for 1949 according to official averages announced today.

Koslo, a left-hander, posted the lowest earned-run average of any pitcher in the league who worked 10 or more complete games. His figure of 2.56 per nine-inning stint was the clear advantage over his closest rival, Howie Polite of the St. Louis Cardinals, with 2.77.

In games won and lost (11-14) no higher than No. 21 among his league contemporaries. No more exact method of computing a pitcher's effectiveness has yet been devised than the old earned run.

Roe Led in W. and L.

In percentage of games won and lost among the hurlers, more than 10 games won, that's different. The leader was Roy Halladay of the Philadelphia Phillies, who won 20 of his 34 games.

Looking at it from still another viewpoint, Warren Spahn, Boston's classy southpaw, won the most games, 21. But he dropped 17 games. He also was the only pitcher to pitch more than 200 innings. He pitched 215, pitched the most innings, and led the league in strikeouts.

Don Newcombe, Brooklyn's big right-hander, won the "Rookie of the Year" award, pitched his third winning percentage with his 17. Spahn was also the only pitcher to have an earned run average below 3.00. He pitched 207 2/3 innings, swishing 14 out of the 20 that were granted.

TWO BLANKINGS IN MCL MATCHES

The Unknowns popped up with a surprise shutout victory in Mamaroneck Community League bowling matches at the Mamaroneck Rec Center last night when the Taverners also recorded a sweeping win in the weekly matches. The Friendly Services men swatted the Diners 2-1 and the Mamaroneck bled the Jets by the same score in the other matches.

Wait Wender of Mamaroneck was the best individual single, 222. Harry Leggett, former NYU and Dartmouth College defensive whiz, led out of Colgate in University, where he shattered the Red Raiders' all-time scoring mark. Frank Casani, who played with Howard Kahn's NYU varsity for two seasons; the Cooper brothers, Frank and Eddy, plus M. Vernon products Erie Alteri, Tony Vetter and Johnny Branch.

The other games which vaulted into the select category were credited to Danny Goetz, Nat Tomlin, Lanza and Johnny Smirge. The Friendly Services put three games of more than 200 pins together for the high team single of 954.

TRICKLING OFF the rim is Dave's Johnston, attempted field goal in the third quarter of last night's Belows-Croton game at the BHS gym.

Gaels Batter NR Hilltop Five
But Starke Nets 26 Points

The Gaels had more trouble than they did the entire New Rochelle Hilltoppers' effort last night at Mamaroneck Avenue School although the local cagers breezed to a comparatively easy 26-4 conquest before a crowd of about 75 persons.

Starke, who is on the NYU football varsity since graduating from N.Y.S. 26 points during the first three quarters of the game.

Saints After Second Victory As Branca's Stars Inmate

Ralph Branca's All Stars of Mt. Vernon, undefeated in three court engagements this season, visit St. Augustine's gymnasium tomorrow afternoon at 3 P. M. for another meeting with the Larchmont Saints.

The Friendly Services men, who are expected to put in an appearance and will have as their partner a group which included Harry Leggett, former NYU and Dartmouth College defensive whiz, led out of Colgate in University, where he shattered the Red Raiders' all-time scoring mark.

Local Riflers
Trim Richmond

Richmond Hill gave the Mamaroneck Rifle Club their closest match of the season last night but the MRC sharpshooters managed to keep the air humming with accurate shots which led to a 118-110 victory. It was a non-league encounter but nevertheless was treated as a challenge to the local riflers who are striving to go through their campaign without blemish.

Without Roddy Holland handed in a card of 236 and Art Weller and Fred Cole posted identical scores of 226, it was again Alvin O'Keefe who furnished the spark for the Mamaroneck shooters to lead onto Kolb and Irvin Tekulsky were the only entries who had perfect scores in their prone and sitting rounds but Kolb stood alone from there, finally coming out with 247.

The MRC has two league matches next week, both of which will be vital in their drive to the championship.

A final 18 holes today concluded the 54-hole tournament.

Harbert, long-hitting Detroit golfer and his amateur partner from Havana had a total of 122 to lead in best ball scores. Harbert shot a 69 yesterday which left him tied with Claude Harmon, Mamaroneck, N. Y., at 130.

Townies Score By 3-0

The Townies posted a 3-0 shutout while the Toddlers, Dons' Four and Mechanics won only 2-1 counts in Larchmont Ladies League bowling at the Larchmont Rec Center last night.

However, Dons' Four remained at the top of the ladies league with the Toddlers edging up on the second slot. The Expressettes stayed in third place although their chances were dealt a near-death blow when the Townies blanked them. All of the scores will be printed in Monday's paper.

Drama Department Entertains With Plays For Club Program

The Woman's Club of Larchmont held its annual Christmas program yesterday at the Larchmont Avenue Church house with about 40 mothers and mothers-in-law of members as guests of the club.

Feature of the program was the presentation of two one-act plays by the Drama Department both emphasizing the relationship between children and the Christmas season.

In humorous vein, the first play, "Enterprising Oswald" by Ruby Edmond, told the story of Christmas in Aunt Gladys' apartment, with Aunt Gladys played by Mrs. Douglas Wakefield Cutler, and her niece, Helen, mother of Oswald, played by Mrs. Robert C. Henson. Oswald never put in an appearance, but it was his agile mind and seven-year-old imagination and earnestness which caused not one puppy but five, to be delivered for his present from Santa Claus.

The real stars of the play were the dolls who appeared in the stage, "Penny," a cocker spaniel owned by Mrs. Frank Tierney of Larchmont, and "Rex" while Spitz named by Mrs. Charles Kidd of Bronxville.

The second presentation, a nearly sentimental play entitled "The Christmas Eve" by Carol Fuller, offered a strikingly effective performance by Mrs. J. S. Stanley Basgeman in the role of Mrs. Flaney, a genial Irish landlady. Mrs. Louis Church portrayed Mrs. Ellen Arthur, an unmarried, sensitive artist consumed with a love for children, and Katy, her understanding maid, was played by Mrs. Philip Cooby.

Mrs. T. W. Hoach directed the two plays, and the production staff was composed of Mrs. William W. Lanyon, Mrs. Harry Hampton and Mrs. Stanley H. Hoach, setting and properties, Mrs. Robert H. Von Stern, make-up, Mrs. Robert Blatt, lighting; Mrs. H. M. Hobbins, publicity; and Mrs. Sally Warren, program.

Mrs. Raymond P. Reese, Drama Department chairman, presided over the program, with incidental music by Mrs. Ralph Hawkins.

The Choral Group, directed and accompanied by Mrs. Arthur Richtner, entertained between the plays with selections, "Virgin's Slumber Song" by Max Reed and "Jesus, Jesus Rest Thy Head," in Anabaptist Christmas carol.

During the performance of the Drama Department, the Choral Group led the audience in a group of familiar carols, including "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," "The Town of Bethlehem," "Silent Night," "The First Noel," "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing."

Personality Of God Topic At CNR Talk

The personality is the thing sought in the studies to appear in the news and other widely read magazines of today, commented the Rev. Walter L. Hughes, C.R., S.T.D., during the fifth in a series of talks on "Theology for Laymen" for an audience of about 250 persons last night at the College of New Rochelle.

Westchester Chapter, CNR Alumnae Association is sponsoring the series. Father Hughes is professor of moral and mystical theology at the Dominican House of Studies, Catholic University of America, Washington.

Turning personally as a composite of human experience, the sum of man's powers, habits and acts, Father Hughes said that personality is also present in God. "Some persons react at the thought of God as a personality, but we do not foster God with a personal appeal similar to the psychologists. God is a reality and has the ability to know and to love. God has much in common with us, yet is beyond our understanding."

Father Hughes explained that will is an inclination to follow the direction of the intellect, and both form the basis for personality, which he said is perfect in God. Father Hughes said that God knows Himself first and then everything else, knowing things because he has caused them.
