Rye Neck Educational Future Staked On Vote For High School

District Will Ballot Jan. 12 On Proposal Submitted By Board

The educational future of Rye Neck will be decided Jan. 12 when the district voters act on a $1.85 million bond issue referendum. If the new high school is to be built, a 60 per cent vote is required according to state law because of the limits imposed by law on the borrowing capacity of school districts.

The proposed high school, suggested after long study by both the Rye Neck Board of Education and a 22-member citizens' committee, has been designed for 600 to 500 pupils but can be easily expanded to care for 800.

Completion Date
If approved by the voters and constructed on the Palmer site, the school is expected to be completed by September 1958.

At that time, from projected student enrollments, it will care for 400 pupils in the 12th grade, 100 in the 11th, 110 in the 10th, and 100 in the ninth.

The expandable element in the proposed structure is that the building will accommodate immediate high school needs for the four top grades and core facilities, such as gymnasium and auditorium, are so designed that they are able to care for a 900-student population if the State Board of Education, show 11 classrooms instead of the originally planned 10, and additional

High School Major Need, Board Feels

One question that arises in the minds of residents of the Rye Neck School District, when considering the $1.85 million school bond issue to be voted upon Jan. 12 is: Why only a senior high school?

The question received the serious consideration of the 22-member Rye Neck Citizens Committee for the study of the problems of the district, as well as by the Board of Education.

High School Key
Every group that has studied the problem for the last 10 years, the school board pointed out, has agreed that the high school phase is the key to the problem.

The P. E. Bellows High School, built to accommodate 350 students between the seventh and twelfth grades, now has an enrollment of 501, a 43 per cent overload.

In view of this overload, the Citizens Committee was unanimous in its decision that at least a senior high school accommodating students in grades nine through twelve is a necessity. Sixteen of the committee members, feeling that a junior-senior high school, graduating through twelve, should be constructed.

Elementary Schools
The Citizens Committee also made recommendations concerning the elementary schools where they are admittedly serious problems. Elementary school space, designed for a maximum of 655 pupils, must now accommodate 787, an overload of more than 20 per cent.

Daniel Warren School, and particularly the Barry Avenue School, lack adequate facilities for many services.

But such considerations as leaved school days next year, meaning "headaches" for the school staff and an impact on schedules, and the coming tide of pupils from elementary school to high school were factors in leading the School Board to decide that the key problem is the high school.

A major factor in the decision was the fact that the high school building will provide temporary space when can be made available to class groups while permanent areas were being prepared.

Nothing can be done, of course, the School Board and Citizens Committee emphasize, unless the bond issue wins approval of the voters of the district on Jan. 12.

Property values, the Board also stated, are based to a large extent on good and adequate schools in the area. Such schools mean increased values and stability of property for those who must consider this factor when selling in the section.

This means the Board deems that the factor of preservation of property values and proper education of children of the district are inextricably intertwined.

REVISD PLANS, above, for the proposed new Rye Neck High School, prepared after suggestions from the State Board of Education, show 11 classrooms instead of the originally planned 10, and additional gymnasium dressing room facilities, as well as other minor alterations. The total square footage of the proposed structure has not been changed in the revision but alterations have been made in order to better utilize space. Below is shown the location of the proposed structure in relation to the Boston Post Road, Sterling Avenue, and Harrison Avenue. A referendum will be held Jan. 12 on a $1.85 million bond issue for the construction of the new school. The plans have been prepared by Perkins and Will, school architects of White Plains.

Advisory Committee Unanimously Backs Board School Plans

The entire Rye Neck Citizens' Advisory Committee has endorsed the Board of Education plan for a new Senior High School building on the Palmer site, it was announced today.

Thirteen members of the committee backed the $1.85 million project at a public meeting recently and the remainder of the committee, which was appointed in November 1954, has been polled and concurs in the action, it was stated.

Set up by the Board of Education to recommend a solution to the overcrowded Rye Neck school condition, committee members were chosen by residents of nine community areas.

They included: William C. Pitts Jr., chairman; Francis Aulista, H. Edward Block, Malcolm D. Wainwright, Christopher, Daniel Covello, James J. Fagan, John C. Dudley, Albert Zeigler, Joseph Fix, Justin Gerwig, Walter Heithaus, H. Charles Kwasha, Edward Man, Ben H. Naiches, Dominick Santomenna, David E. Schanz, Henry Toy Jr., John Usowski, Marvin Wintler. The public was invited to all meetings.

The first step by the committee was to determine that the school space shortage existing in the school system is a problem. The committee investigated present enrollments made a preliminary survey of the classrooms and facilities now available in the schools, and, after a year-long formula, projected the probable future enrollments. The unanimous conclusion was that no other way to solve the space shortage existed, but that it was of some magnitude, and was.

The committee investigated present enrollments made a preliminary survey of the classrooms and facilities now available in the schools, and, after a year-long formula, projected the probable future enrollments. The unanimous conclusion was that no other way to solve the space shortage existed, but that it was of some magnitude, and was.

Belongs High School, which was built for 350 children, now has 501 and by 1960 is expected to have 647. The two elementary schools built to accommodate 675, now have 787, and by 1960 are expected to have 885.

The committee discovered that the play spaces for all the schools are far below the minimum necessary to carry on a proper athletic program, and far below the minimum required by state law. Subcommittees

Subcommittees then explored every facet of the situation, and a possible solution. After six months of intensive work, meeting in full committee once a week, and in sub-committees as often as three times a week, the full committee unanimously agreed:

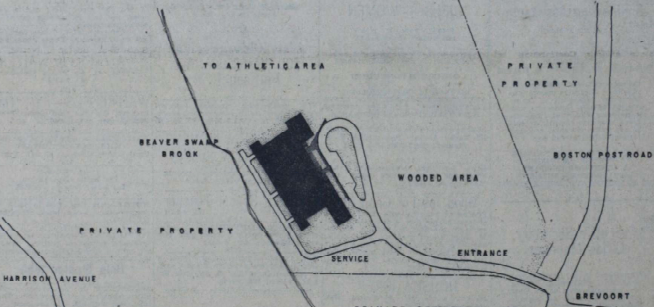

1. that centralization with any other school district was not possible, and that Rye Neck must embark on some type of school building program;
2. that the only site in the entire district large enough for a high school building is the Palmer property;
3. that the cost of any new building must be held to the absolute minimum, but that the present educational program must in no way be curtailed;
4. that any new building must lend itself to economical expansion for future increases in enrollment.

The committee studied and analyzed 20 different types of building, and recommended by approximately three-fourths of the members.

Test findings made by Perkins and Will, architects for the district, reveal that satisfactory building conditions for economical foundations prevail.

"The Board's continuance of her offer is contained in part in a letter from Mr. Bardusch as follows:

"If such proposal is adopted, the Board will be prepared to complete the gift in accordance with the terms and conditions of the agreement entered into in 1954, subject to such changes as may be necessary because of the resolution of the question to the voters. However, if the voters should reject the proposal, Mrs. Palmer's offer of gift will be deemed rejected and be of no force or effect."

Who May Vote

To vote on the $1.85 million bond issue for a new senior high school in the Rye Neck District on Jan. 12, the following are the general and special qualifications:

General Qualifications
He (or she) must be: 1. a resident of the district for at least 30 days before the meeting; 2. at least 21 years of age; 3. a resident of the district for at least 30 days before the meeting; 4. at least 18 years of age; 5. a resident of the district for at least 30 days before the meeting.

Special Qualifications
1. Own, lease, hire, or be in possession under a contract of purchase of real property in the district, liable to taxation for school purposes.
2. Be the parent of a child or children of school age enrolled in a school of the district for at least eight weeks preceding the meeting; under this provision both parents may vote.
3. Not being a parent, have residing with him (or her) a child or children of school age meeting the same enrollment conditions mentioned above.
(Under this provision only one person in such household may vote, namely the head of a household.)

The final specification is, of course, registration. A person is qualified to vote on Jan. 12 must have registered for the annual school election last May, in which case he has been deemed registered by the Board of Education. In the event of a change of residence between 3 A. M. and 7 P. M. Jan. 7, to the gymnasium of Bellows High School.

'Frills' Out In Proposal For School

No "frills" of any kind are included in the Rye Neck School Board's plan for a new high school. It has been emphasized by voters of the district will decide Jan. 12 on a bond issue amounting to $1.85 million, which will provide for a high school building based on the most austere type of construction consistent with maintenance and safety requirements," the Board has announced.

"There will be no unessential construction or frills of any nature," the Board stated.

Registry Set Saturday On Bond Issue

Residents of the Rye Neck District who wish to vote on the $1.85 million bond issue to build a new high school in the Palmer tract, must register. Those who voted last May at the election of school trustees do not need to register. They are carried over for the bond election, and have been so notified. But those who did not vote last May must register and registry books will be open Saturday from 9 A. M. to 7 P. M. at the Bellows High School gymnasium.

A public meeting will be held at 8:15 P. M. Jan. 10 for the purpose of clarifying any questions that may arise concerning the need for a new high school. The amount of space required by each department of the new school is itemized elsewhere on this page.

$4.63 1st Year On Tax

Bond Issue Passage Means

30-Year $3.45 Average Rise

	10,000	45,300	3.89
	15,000	69,450	5.72
	20,000	92,600	7.72
	25,000	115,750	9.45
	50,000	231,500	19.23

The proposed $1.85 million school bond issue which residents of the Rye Neck School District will vote upon Jan. 12 will add an average of $3.45 to $10,000 of assessed valuation per year over a 30-year period to the property of taxpayers of the Rye Neck School District. This means $3.45 per year for the average homeowner in Rye Neck whose residence is assessed for $10,000, the Rye Neck School Board pointed out.

Assuming an interest rate of three per cent that the Board expects the bond issue will bring in the open market, the tax rate increase the first year will be $4.63 per thousand of assessed valuation. After the first five years, since the rate per 1000 increases yearly, will be $4.31.

A quick look at the table below will give the average taxpayer accurate information on which he may determine his first year monthly additional school tax cost, based on his assessed valuation.

Palmer Offer Holding Good Only If Bond Issue Passes

The offer by Mrs. Edgar Palmer to present a 12-acre plot with school building on the Bellows High School district holds good only if voters at the district pass the $1.85 million bond issue Jan. 12, according to a letter received by the Board of Education from William E. Bardusch, attorney for Mrs. Palmer.

The Rye Neck Citizens Committee studying the needs of the Bellows High School District consists of this property the best available in the district. In their study of the school district, they found that the most important element of location, the amount of space required by each department and other miscellaneous expense and other items Development 175,000 Administration and least 15,000 Contingencies 75,000 Equipment for school 30,000 Total $1,850,000 was composed of H. Edward Block, Francis A. Aulista Jr., and Marvin S. Wintler.

The letter, made by Perkins and Will, architects for the district, reveal that satisfactory building conditions for economical foundations prevail.

"The Board's continuance of her offer is contained in part in a letter from Mr. Bardusch as follows:

"If such proposal is adopted, the Board will be prepared to complete the gift in accordance with the terms and conditions of the agreement entered into in 1954, subject to such changes as may be necessary because of the resolution of the question to the voters. However, if the voters should reject the proposal, Mrs. Palmer's offer of gift will be deemed rejected and be of no force or effect."

Geiger Counters, Leaf Specimens Among Students' Projects

RUSHLI ENGAGED in the construction of a geiger counter is George Adams, fifteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard M. Adams of 27 Old Road, Purchase, and a sophomore at White Plains High School. To put it in George's own words: "I am making a geiger counter from plans that I got out of a science magazine. It is a simple indicator of radioactivity by means of clicks in earphones. My plan is to make a complete counter. I am learning the basic principles by constructing this one." At school, George is a member of the Science Club.—Staff Photo by Al Carlin.

CAUSE AND EFFECT—It is Norman Zimmerman's contention that cold affects plastics as well as the body, food and other elements. In order to determine the effects, the ninth grader at Bellows Falls High School, Mamaroneck, has set up a science project to study at the school and at his home, 408 Wagner Avenue, just what happens when a cold condition is set up around some plastic experimental material. Chemicals, such as the young man is experimenting with here, also play an important part in his effort to find a substance for making plastics resistant to acids. Norman has set up his project under the direction of Robert Turk, science instructor at the school.—Staff Photo by Dante Raffalli.

Suggestions For Your Post-Holiday Cooking

Make Use Of The Leftovers

By CECILY BROWNSTONE, Associated Press Food Editor

A happy aftermath of a turkey dinner, if you are a knowing cook, is a kettle of rich turkey broth. To prepare the broth, never the turkey's gizzard, head and neck, plus the turkey carcass and bones from which the meat has been cut, with water; add a few peppercorns, a bay leaf, a whole clove or two, a handful of celery leaves, a small onion and carrot and let simmer. Skim and strain. One way to use the broth is to add condensed tomato soup, corn and okra to it.

SOUTHERN TURKEY SOUP
 Ingredients: 2 cups rich turkey broth, 1 can (10½ ounces) condensed tomato soup, 1½ teaspoons sugar, pinch of crushed or ground dried thyme, pepper.
 1 can (7 ounces) vacuum packed whole kernel corn, 1 can (15½ ounces) cut okra.
 Method: Put broth, condensed tomato soup, sugar, thyme and pepper in taste in a saucepan. Add corn. Simmer to blend flavors and heat thoroughly. Makes

AFTER that turkey dinner comes turkey broth as a base for good family soup.

5 to 6 cups, enough for 4 large or 6 small servings.

Note: There is a generous amount of okra in this soup; you may use as little as ½ cup, in this case, do not add liquid from okra can.

NEW KITCHEN AIDS
 If among your New Year resolutions, you vowed to widen your culinary scope, you might look into these recently published cook books.

"Mary Meade's Kitchen Companion" by Ruth Ellen Church (The Bobbs-Merrill Company, Inc., New York), has a wealth of information along with some basic recipes and modern food preparation techniques. This latter ranges from how to use a butter paddle to how to mix a supremely good Roquefort cheese spread. The author is well equipped to write her book, which should be helpful to any cook with an inquiring mind, because she is a home economist with a great deal of practical training as well as professional training in running a home-

Go Out And Make Friends, Lonely Widower, 45, Advised

By MURIEL NISSEN

Question: Since the death of my wife three years ago, I have become increasingly lonely. My teen-age children are growing up and have their own friends, my sister, who is sixty-two and keeps house for us, has her friends, who are somewhat older than I. My wife had been ill a long time and consequently we had drifted away from all our friends. My work is with married men who are completely wrapped up in their own families. What can you suggest as a means of making friends and keeping busy in my spare time? I am forty-five.

Answer: If it's feminine company you seek there certainly should be no difficulty as the supply of widows far exceeds that of widowers. Why not talk to your pastor? There may be activities in church that will interest you; there certainly will be work for you to do there and working together is the best way for folks to become acquainted.

Perhaps there's a play coming up and you could help make scenery. You might work with the Boy Scouts—there never is enough leadership for them—or begin to work and plan summer activities.

Teenagers have lots of need for fatherly cooperation. You might help transport the gang to basketball games, skating parties, dances or other affairs. This may not sound like fun, but youngsters are a lively crew and proof against boredom. Besides one of your boy's classmates may remark what a swell dad Tim

Vivid, Tailored Swimwear In Matched Pairs Sets Style

NEW YORK—In California, where a smile is the populace's habitual expression in marked contrast to the furrowed brow so common in our own general environs, they have more older than in any other state of the union.

True, many move there only when they retire. But the chief reason, especially now that there is a whole generation of "movers" where once the native-born Californians was a rarity, must be their way of life: the sunshine, the lazy pace, the relaxing backyard swimming pool, that make the living easy.

Brash colors, as well as too bold lezge pastels, "belong" in that violent setting of intense sunlight and two-tone architecture. But there've been some changes made. California has learned that "vivid" need not be "violent" and "dramatic" need not be saudy enough to put your eyes out.

Dressed in Black!

Why, I even found two sophisticated young friends dressing almost exclusively in black or navy, during my recent visit to Los Angeles. In other words, the speed of travel has brought not only people but their ways of dressing closer together.

Consequently California's new poolside-play wear is making a growing impact on the rest of the country. And the biggest single fashion, come their entry into balmy Spring, and our somewhat late Summer, are "matched pairs."

California's his-and-her ensembling has become so popular that their designers are now extend-

MOHR ABOUT FASHION

TAILORED SWIMWEAR, long a California forte, features "matched pairs" in clear bold patterns (as opposed to former garish multi-colors) for coming swim season. First left, travel poster print made into shirt and shorts with matching beach shirt; distaff version is striped halter; mallet in identical shirt. Second, Polynesian print features unusual new tunic, here removed to reveal man's abbreviated swim shorts; called a "pareu," it is wrapped sarong-fashion about the waist for cover-up, and adapted from the islands where it is worn much as Americans wear slacks and walk shorts; the woman wears a two-piece suit of the same print in a lighter shade. Third, a family affair; while sports coats with blue-checked walk shorts in a loosely woven rayon-cotton with considerable texture interest and coolness; in the usual order, a two-button, patch pocket jacket, a girl's leisure jacket with push-up sleeves, and a "Car-mel" leisure jacket with buttoned side vents and vertical panels in front. Far right, bold wide-and-narrow striped shirts with shorter spread collars, new stand-up flaps over hidden pockets, and vented sides for in-on-out wear.

A Decade Ago

(From The Daily Times)

Charles Gronberg took over as new Mamaroneck town clerk. He succeeded Robert D. Payne... William Brady became president of the Mamaroneck Kiwanis Club... Tension mounted as additional thousands throughout the nation joined in a wave of strikes in major industries. The Mamaroneck Chamber of Commerce made plans to reorganize along broader lines and to conduct a membership campaign with its objective the enrollment of every retailer in the community... A long distance race out was planned by the New York Telephone Company... A sharp drop was predicted in civilian butter supplies... Sixteen teams filled entries for play in recreation basketball leagues... Mrs. E. Charles Hanna resigned after three years as chairman of the camp and hospital committee of the Mamaroneck Red Cross and 18 months as vice chairman of the Westchester County camp and hospital committee.

Model D2A Soft Top. Dispatcher with durable canvas top. Zippered rear window provides easy access to cargo area.

Model D2A Range. Proves itself as low as $1367.48. Delivered at your Write dealer's, plus state and local taxes if any. Optional equipment extra.

Saves you time and money on every delivery!

- Delivers More Miles per Gallon. The 'Jeep' Dispatcher is designed for top fuel economy. It saves gas in stop-and-go driving, and delivers many extra miles per gallon.
- Extra Maneuverability. The Dispatcher parks easily in spots too small for other vehicles. It also flows through 5-foot openings in traffic, here or on 18-foot roads.
- Easy Maintenance. Every working part is within easy reach for quick maintenance and repair. Open skinned fenders leave the entire wheel mounting readily accessible.
- Functional Design. Saves money by eliminating "limousine" trim—leaves fewer surfaces to get bumped and dented—requires less upkeep or replacement.

Smart Like a Fox

Disgraceful and annoying was the news last week of the removal of John "Domino" Fox of Larchmont as U. S. delegate to the International Basketball Federation.

Fox, a world authority on international ball-clubbing for a quarter century, simply refused to believe the news. He just wanted to know the truth. He had been in Belgium, Luxembourg, France and Sweden, and he had the story broke into the metropolitan press.

Olympic and AAU officials never told Larchmont that Fox was out. He had read it in the morning newspaper. In fact, one official told Fox after the story was out that he knew nothing about it.

Monday morning, the writer spoke with Mayor Hubert Maritnes of London, highly regarded and elite figure skating authority who made no secret of his feelings on the matter. He said "Fox was a great man, but he was not a politician." He said that he was not at all surprised at the removal of Fox, but that he was surprised at the fact that Fox was not a politician. He said that he was not at all surprised at the removal of Fox, but that he was surprised at the fact that Fox was not a politician.

No-Jury Plan Given Albany By Williamson

ALBANY — An amendment to the state constitution designed to relieve congestion in the courts has been introduced by Senator Pliny W. Williamson of Scarsdale and referred to the Judiciary Committee, of which he is chairman.

The amendment would make it possible that negligence actions for personal injury or property damage be tried without a jury. A note accompanying the proposed amendment states: "For some years past, in the metropolitan counties of the state, delay in the trial of cases on the jury calendar in the Supreme Court has ranged from 18 months to more than four years. This situation has, in many instances, resulted in a denial of justice. It is universally agreed that an important contributing factor to this delay is the large number of negligence cases placed upon the jury calendar."

The purpose of the foregoing amendment, which is permissive, is to permit the Legislature to abolish the right to a jury trial where it deems such action necessary for the prompt and efficient administration of justice. Many jurists, attorneys and others who have studied the congestion in the courts believe that abolition of jury trials of negligence cases is necessary to correct this situation.

One obstacle, however, is the attitude of many lawyers, particularly those who specialize in negligence cases, that jury trials should not be abolished unless there is accompanying legislation to permit the court to consider comparative negligence. The law now provides that a person cannot recover if his negligence contributed to the accident.

State Swears 4 Mediators

ALBANY (AP) — Post members of the State Mediation Board were sworn in yesterday and urged by Governor Harriman to work toward holding down time lost through labor disputes.

Writing in the British Medical Journal, he said he had examined 70 patients with coated tongues and discovered: Almost all heavy smokers have furry tongues. Many smokers with upset stomachs do not have coated tongues. Some perfectly healthy people have a furry tongue even if they do not smoke.

Jordan Calm, Syria Flares Against West

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—A new government took office today as Jordan settled down to calm after a weekend of rioting and demonstrations against the pro-Western Dashdash pact.

The Premier and Deputy Premier in the outgoing government switched offices. Sami al Rifai, the former Deputy Premier, is the new Premier. Ibrahim Hashem, who resigned as Premier Saturday, is the new Deputy Premier.

El Rifai said his policy is not to join any pact, to remain neutral and to assure Arab rights in Palestine.

American and government sources said that only minor incidents, including the shooting of an American S. A. & C. in Aleppo, Almon in East Jordan, occurred today.

Syrian press dispatches received in Damascus, the capital, said 11 rioters were shot dead and 38 wounded in the recent disorders in Jordan but did not say whether they were killed or injured.

Wagner Defeats Iona College Agers, 74-66

Savarese Scores 21 To Again Lead Gaels

GRYMES HILL, N. Y.—The Iona College basketball team will have two weeks' rest before beginning today the Winter examinations, which begin tomorrow. If the boys continue to play the brand of ball after hitting the books that they did before, some of these days, the Gaels may be able to turn in their favor. But as things stood last night, the Gaels were still knee deep in the midst of their worst losing streak in many years. They dropped a ton, 74-66, to the Wagner Seahawks here last night in a television meeting.

As usual, Coach Jim McDermott hit Wagner with a zone defense which worked well in spots. The Seahawks captured an eight-point advantage at the eight minute mark of the first half but Joe Bernardi sunk three driving shots in a row to bring Iona within two points at the 20-24. The Gaels trailed all the way. They just never caught up, though they were down only one point, 61-60 with five minutes left. But Wagner got three quick points in the 42-42 advantage which proved safe.

The final buzzer to give the Gaels a night, but well deserved 31-24 success. Hill ended up with 24 points but "Persian" Lamb was the game's high scorer with 20.

Wagner has an informal chat with Joe Corbais of Yonkers, second from left, and Walter Oettinger of Pleasantville, president of the Westchester Sports Forum. Corbais, a postman in Newark, has been a Ranger fan for some time, traveling as far as Montreal to see his boys.

In 10 years he's missed six home games at the Garden—his last was last year's year Phoebe by John Savino.

Wagner has a good small college team which finished third in the Hofstra Christmas Tournament. Ed Peterson scored his 1000th point for the winners last night and received a tremendous ovation when he accomplished the feat. In addition, Ed had 16 points while Charlie West paced the winning attack with 20.

County Boats To Seek Ice Sailing Titles

The Westchester Ice Sailing Club plans to seek six boats for the annual championship regatta in the Eastern Long Island Association this weekend.

The contests will be held, for the first time in 18 years, on the salt water of Belpoint Bay, L. I. Off Great South Bay, weather conditions permitting. There has been nine inches of ice at Belpoint this winter. A minimum freeze of six inches is required for safe ice-boating.

Ice-sailors welcome the opportunity of racing on salt water freeze. It offers a longer expanse of surface than even wind unimpeded by hills which surrounded inland lakes.

Among members expected to seek titles are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kelly of Mamaroneck, with their Scotch Mist, V. Hall Everton of Greenwich, Conn., and Ted and Dorothy Warren of Rye. Other boats of Westchester are Mr. Pockets, all in Class A, and the Last of New York with Tally-Ho in Class E, and John Childs of New Rochelle with Whirlwind in Class A.

4 MSBL Titles Set Thursday

Approximately 323 players are slated to compete for 36 teams when the Mamaroneck Basketball League opens its full swing Saturday in four gymnasiums.

Entering its second week of activity will be the Rye Neck Middle Division which has three games on tap at the Daniel Warner gym. Colites will meet the Trotters at 8:45 A.M., the Warriors will tangle with the Pirates in the second contest, while the Knicks and Royals will clash in the finale, high school level.

Last Saturday's scores found the Warriors downing the Knicks, 29-14, the Royals edging the Colites, 28-24 and the Pirates toppling the Trotters, 23-14.

The Rye Neck Junior League is slated to make its debut at the Bellows High school gym Saturday, when Cornell meets Holy Cross at 8 A.M., Harvard faces on Yale at 10, and Dartmouth concludes against Notre Dame at 11.

Franklin's 'Streak' Reaches 14 As Margin Widens To 8 Games

The Franklins continued to lead in the Major Pin League race last night at the Larchmont Bowl, defeating the Suttions in three games to extend their win streak to 14 straight and widen their first-place margin to eight titles over the defending champion Yellow Cabs.

Mike Vendola paved the way for the Franklins conquest, 14 straight by posting a 562 series defeat of a poor 148 opponent, Vendola finished high gear with 200 and 234 efforts to cap loop legions honor.

DAVID DANIEL, LAURIE CARROLL, AND SAMMY SMITH in "PLAIN AND FANCY"

THURSDAY evening sees the City Center slight again and the popular Bard in possession. Oron Welles has the Man of Stratford in hand and from all accounts there should be some excitement.

Welles has been an enigmatic since his boyhood and we have known him all the years back when he was the bright student of Todd, a private school outside of Chicago. In those days Welles was the boy wonder and a theater man by instinct.

He was the exciting mainstay of the Mercury Theatre in New York, his productions were flaired with theatrical brilliance. His version of Julius Caesar has not been equalled for what it set out to do and the same applied to his Jr. Faustian and other exhibits of that staid company.

There are other items of more than passing interest that may be noted in these beginning obituaries of 1956. Over at the Broadhurst Theater Shirley Booth is moving in towards a hundred performances of The Desk Set. This is the comedy that gives Miss Booth some of those sharp lines to utter that made her so choice and so extraordinary.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three physicians examined President Eisenhower today and reported that "his physical condition is excellent."

The new medical report on the President's health, produced by the White House physician, Dr. Paul T. Pott, said the President's health is excellent.

Quito, Ecuador (AP)—Planes combed the Amazon jungle today for five Protestant U. S. missionaries believed seized by savage Indians. The U. S. Air Force reports of a body lying near their plane's skipper's aircraft accused fear for their lives.

The U. S. Air Force helicopter was dispatched from the Canal Zone today to take part in the hunt for the men, missing in a remote jungle region of northeastern Ecuador. Planes from the zone's U. S. Air Force rescue squadron also joined in the growing search.

The Air Force emphasized that this report made no identification of the body, either as that of a white man or an Indian.

The Air Force joined the search after another flying missionary, John Keenan, made a reconnaissance flight over the area and reported seeing the stripped Piper plane. He said he saw no sign of the missionaries but spotted several Indian canoes heading down the river.

After today's examination in the President's White House living quarters, press secretary James C. Hagerty issued this statement on the behalf of the three physicians:

The usual electro-cardiogram study was given to President Eisenhower and the president's recovery continues to progress satisfactorily.

MILFORD, Conn. (AP)—The yesterday because he wanted the jumping needle of a geiger counter at a construction job gate turned up a small cylinder of deadly, radioactive cobalt today in the possession of a bewildered workman.

Benjamin Zwacki, thirty-three-year-old electrician, told a reporter he took the cylinder last night.

Zwacki said he was unaware that radio and television stations in this area had been broadcasting warnings all night, advising whoever had the cylinder to dispose of it in a vacant lot, notify police and report immediately to a hospital.

Before he was taken off to the hospital, a reporter asked Mr. Zwacki why he took the cylinder.

"Well," he said, "I was looking for a piece of string, and I saw this thing hanging there and I took it."

Mr. Zwacki said he left the cylinder in his car all night, parked at a street much used by pedestrians.

He has been active in local civic affairs for many years and is a past president of the Mamaroneck Lions Club, a former member of the Mamaroneck Village Park Commission, a past trustee of the Mamaroneck Lodge of Elks, and a former treasurer of the Mamaroneck Red Cross branch.

He was also formerly active in sports circles and was a football and basketball official at many high school games.

The meeting by receding events leading up to the bond issue proposal.

Draft stressed the fact that the Citizens Committee had worked entirely independently of the Board and was composed of members representing every facet of thought in the community.

Mr. Garfunkel also emphasized that the Committee, starting with strongly divergent views, ended up by unanimous endorsement of the proposed plan.

"Edison," he continued, "has any issue been given as complete and thorough an airing as this matter. The meetings of the committee were open and both the Committee and Board have done their best to disclose all the facts.

Entirely New Look

Mr. Rye explained the work of the Committee, stating that "no prior reports or conclusions were accepted by the Board. We started from scratch and took an entirely new look at the problem."

That new look, he said, showed that the schools of the district are now overcrowded and the overcrowding will get progressively worse with the enrollment of 647 in 1956 in grades now using Bellows High school, a building designed for only 350 pupils.

This is not a temporary problem or budget," he said. "It will certainly get worse."

Mr. Pitts also explained that possible solutions such as centralization, consolidation, and double sessions were considered but were found to be impractical.

Building alternatives such as adding to present buildings and remodeling were also considered, he said, but "would be just about as expensive as a new building."

Need Established

"We have established beyond doubt the need," Mr. Pitts concluded. "That need must be met and we believe that this community will meet it."

Dr. Willard Beatty, architectural consultant for Perkins and Will, architects, said that the proposed plan met the demands of "simply, economy and expandability."

"The building will be austere and free of any architectural or educational frills," he said.

"It's what we architects call an open-ended building, which means you can tie on additions in the future without destroying the usability of any other space.

Adequate Core

"The core facilities, such as gymnasium, auditorium, cafeteria, may appear large for the moment, but when and if the time comes to add to the building they will be no more than to handle the expansion. In view of this any addition can be made far more cheaply than the core sections had to be rebuilt."

"The site," he concluded, "is admirably suitable as best buildings have shown."

Site Criticized

"How are you going to drain the bog on the site?" asked Peter C. Doern, the only school board member who opposed the proposed plan.

Murray PTA Opens Subject Board Ponders Languages In Elementary Curriculum

The question of involving teachers of foreign languages for elementary schools was discussed last night at a meeting of the Mamaroneck Board of Education in the Mamaroneck Avenue school.

The Board deferred action pending further study.

The subject was brought to the Board's attention through letters from members of the Murray Avenue School PTA.

The Helen M. Lutz, assistant superintendent, told the Board the letters pointed out that French is taught on a volunteer basis at that school and the parents now feel the Board should employ a regular teacher.

Volunteer teaching started five years ago at Central School, Mrs. Helen Reich of 224 Woodlawn Avenue told the Board.

One Not Enough

The Murray Avenue PTA suggested that one teacher be employed for the fourth and fifth grades throughout the district and that would require more than one teacher.

She estimated that, with growth of the sections, the cost would amount to about $20,000 a year for French alone.

A school in Long Island, Dr. Long stated, uses three and a half teachers for a similar program. The course is one in conversational French only, it was explained, with the grammar and writing coming later.

The movement toward such teaching, Dr. Long pointed out, is small, and locally the criticism would come from those who wanted other languages included, Spanish, too.

CAREFUL STUDY

Mr. Pitts also stated that the Citizens Committee had a special subcommittee on site and after careful study unanimously recommended the Palmer project as the best solution.

He said that the project would require "prohibitive condemnation expense of residential properties as well as a long period of time."

Harry Gillies, also of Perkins and Will, stated that "the 'site improvement' item in the proposed plan would improve the entire drainage of the area, and Mr. Switzer considered a state-of-the-art study of the area, following heavy rains with the remarks that "the area around the proposed school is not in any miserable condition. Even with no development, it was not miserable after heavy rains."

Educational Needs

Dr. Alvin Hicks, superintendent of schools, stated that the proposed plan "does not suit everything but is a sound plan which should get the hearty support of Rye Neck."

"Realization of this plan will enable us to maintain the type of education to which our students are entitled," he said.

"It's doubtful," he continued, "whether any school district has studied its problems more carefully than Rye Neck and come up with a proposal which will economically meet the immediate needs of the district."

Access

Dav Johnson of Anita Lane, asked about access roads or walkways in the new building which would be built. Any access planned at present would be on the Post Road.

Carl Mackintosh, school trustee, stated, however, that early village maps show a proposed road never built, from Harrison Avenue and also mentioned the possibility of an easement for a walkway from Sterling Avenue.

"However," said Mr. Garfunkel, "our present plans call for only the Post Road access. Details can come later. Let's get on with it."

"If we have to try to get the question from Mrs. Albert Valenzuela, first chair of the board, dealt with alternative plans and future proposals as she asked ment—worth on the average $100,000 in additional lifetime income to the four-year college graduate when compared with the life expectancy of high school graduates. In addition, there are many personal satisfactions and social advantages to be derived from a college education.

The moral to the story is clear—the investment should be safeguarded as much as possible by a wise choice of college in the beginning.

How to Choose Wisely

There are many ways to choose a college, some of them good and others not so good, or even better.

Every college is a "good college" for some prospective students and at the same time is a "poor college" for others.

The problem which any high school graduate faces is to find a "good college" for him, one which will be able to adequately provide for his individual needs for higher education and in which he will be able to achieve a great deal of satisfaction and advancement while spending four of the best years of his life there.

Since choosing a college wisely is a highly individual matter, a student should study himself first before he studies the colleges. Placing undue emphasis upon glamor and sentiment is one of the major reasons for poor choice of college, which, in turn, often leads to poor adjustment and underachievement in college and resultant deep frustrations.

"The student, his parents and the school counselor should form a 'partnership' the purpose of which is to assure the student a sound approach and decision in the matter of his college choice. Wechsler high schools have on staff some of the best professionally trained and experienced counselors in the country to assist students with their educational and vocational plans. Parents and counselors should help the student a great deal in studying both himself and colleges, but, in the final analysis, the decision should be made by the student himself.

Early Choice Helps

With the school counselor's assistance the student should start in his freshman or sophomore year, by making a list of perhaps 10 or a dozen colleges which seem to be good for him in terms of vocational preparation, size of college, type of college, location, and the like. Then he should systematically go about getting as much information as he can concerning each of these from catalogues, bulletins, present students at the college, alumni and his counselor.

By the time he reaches his junior year he should reduce the list to five or six of those which most appeal to him and make arrangements for himself and his parents to visit them.

Use of the "How to Visit Colleges" handbook, which will probably be available through the counselor's office, will be of considerable help. The handbook gives a long list of things to look for and ask about at each college.

Education Insurance

Carefully planned college visits are excellent "educational insurance" and are well worth the time and expense involved. They are almost a "must" for a wise choice of college. There is no better way to learn of the educational programs, faculty, facilities, spirit and atmosphere of a college than to visit the campus which may become the student's home for the major part of four years.

By the time a student and his parents return from their college visits, which should be completed during the first semester of the senior year, and have discussed the colleges further with the counselor, the student will have decided upon the three or four to which he is going to apply. It will also have a good idea of his own strengths and weaknesses.

Of course, there's a lot more to be learned from the few brief points which have been mentioned here, but that's why it's so important to form the "partnership" we have suggested and to help greatly in arriving at a realistic choice of college, based on sound facts. The student who chooses his college wisely seldom fails to be adjusted to the college of his choice.

NCAA Keeps Miami U. On Yr. Probation

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Florida must remain in the doghouse for another year, the number of football scholarships must be reduced and a lively fight involving small college basketball and track events will be proposed.

That was the picture today as the National Collegiate Athletic Association went into its final session.

The NCAA council, which is the governing body of the organization, last night extended the probation of Miami for one year.

Two Boxing Guilds Are Indicted In Suit

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two boxing guilds and three of their officers were under indictment for allegedly charging with boycotting and otherwise violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

One of the defendants named in the indictment, returned yesterday by a federal grand jury here, says his group did not boycott anyone and worked for the good of fighters because "the promoters were making all the money from television."

The denial was made by Albert W. DeMonte of Cleveland, president of the Boxing Guild of Ohio. Named with DeMonte and the Ohio Guild in the seven-page indictment were the International Boxing Guild of the International Charles Johnson of New York, general president of the IBCG, and William Daly of Englewood, N. This means little push-away, little pressure, little difficulty in pushing a bowling ball down the lane instead of swinging it from the old toe-to-toe stance.

The stars have switched to the extended foot method for this season. Standing erect with the right knee back, a little on to the right heel, insures comfort in the push-away stance. This is a major factor in any sport, anything to eliminate pressure, anything to bring the new stance does it.

It has other advantages. As it shows: In an erect position the ball is held comfortably in the palm of the right hand with the arms sufficiently forward so that the elbows are snug against the side. This position of the ball slightly above waist level—just high enough so that it can be held by the left hand, and the left hand helps with the push-away. The ball is on its side with the left hand, and the right hand takes over immediately.

Spending Budgeted, but it May Raise Spending

President's Plan Goes To Congress Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower plans to send to Congress Monday a balanced budget—but one that indicates that highways are likely to keep climbing in the next several years.

chester's parkways were built, there was no federal or state program for highway improvement and your party improved the parkways at a cost of more than $40 million. This entire cost was borne by the taxpayers of Westchester County and for the most part, was charged against the real estate of Westchester County.

"Since that time, the state has built hundreds of millions of dollars of state and interstate highways and parkways with the aid of federal funds and every part of the state of New York has benefited except Westchester County.

Party's Strength Listed

SSING that Westchester has two Republican Congressmen in Washington and six GOP Assemblymen and three state Senators in Albany, he asks:

Mount Hope

A eulogistic (post-humous) eulogy was given at the funeral of Mr. Thomas M. Hughes, 65, of 104 North Tarrytown, who died at 10:30 P. M. Saturday, Jan. 7, 1956, after a long illness.

guaranteed until disclosed to Congress. But on the basis of Mr. Eisenhower's State of the Union message and other official pronouncements it seems certain the budget will forecast: (1) spending of between $65.5 billion and $68 billion; (2) income of at least that much, and (3) a deficit of $2.5 billion.

"We, therefore, suggest also you control all of the Westchester legislators that your proposal to create a Westchester Authority is premature and unnecessary. The solution is federal and state aid for interstate highways. Wake up, Mr. Hopkins, we are not living in a state where interstate roads were a local problem. It is a state and national problem today.
