McCarthy Gets Things Done, Magazine Article Reports

John J. McCarthy of 32 Wendt Avenue, Larchmont, consultant to General Electric in employe relations, is the subject of a short article in the June issue of Industrial Marketing magazine.

The article tells of the effort made by G. E. to bring about and continue industrial harmony within its plants and states that "a lot of the credit for doing it well goes to a man named John J. McCarthy."

He looks upon his communications problems "as individual matters where every possible phase of training is personalized. His programs are ambitious, but very sound."

Mr. McCarthy was training director at G. E.'s Bridgeport plant before the war. During the war he was assistant chief of the Army school for personnel directors, then labor relations officer in Germany. He held the rank of major. Since 1946 he has been corporate director of personnel and training at Gimbels-Saks.

"When the little man in the little company says it can't be done," the article concludes, "someone generally says: 'Look at McCarthy. . .he's doing it!'"

Mr. McCarthy traveled more than 50,000 miles this year addressing groups in every geographical area in the nation. He has recently been appointed general program manager for the national convention of the American Society of Training Directors. This is the largest of the nation's personnel associations. The convention will be held in New York next May.

Mr. McCarthy will be on military duty at Fort Bragg during July where he will serve as lieutenant colonel in the Corps of Engineers.

He and Mrs. McCarthy have lived in Larchmont six years, having moved here from Nichols, Conn. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus and the American Legion. The couple have two children, Jefferson, fourteen, a student at Stepinac High School in White Plains, and Dana, ten, a pupil at St. Augustine's Parochial School in Larchmont.

Huber Takes Course At Tarrytown Center

Carl H. Huber Jr. of 1118 Knickerbocker Street, Mamaroneck has spent five days at the General Motors Training Center at Tarrytown to learn advanced automotive service techniques which he will use in his work at Cadillac Motor Car CO., Main Street, New Rochelle.

A mechanic with the Cadillac firm for two years, he selected the hydramatic course, taking advanced study in diagnosis and repair.

The Tarrytown training center, with more than 27,000 square feet of floor space, has eight specialized shop classrooms, for use by the Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick, Cadillac, GMC Truck and Coach, Fisher Body and United Motors Service divisions of GM. Each division supplies a highly trained instructor for its courses at the center, which is managed by Thomas Evans.

GM officials expect a total of 5,000 mechanics to attend the center each year.

Tung Hoy Features Oriental Atmosphere

Tung Hoy Chinese American Restaurant opened yesterday at the Ferndale shopping Center on the Post Road near Weaver Street following a reception to officials and invited guests the night before.

Larchmont's newest restaurant is owned and operated by Tung Hoy Restaurant Inc.

Designed, built and decorated by Barney Goldman of Brooklyn, it features a large dining area that will seat 250, a small bar with cocktail lounge, and a special area for those awaiting tables. The kitchen is equipped with stainless steel. The dining and other areas are air-conditioned.

Oriental Wallpaper

The ceilings are asbestos, and part of the dining room ceiling is recessed. It is painted dusty rose with indirect lighting. The rest of the ceiling is hunter's green. The wall paper is oriental in design. The background is green with figures in pink and gold. The floor is a special composition, large red and grey checks, which require no waxing or polishing.

The corner booths are the same hunter's green and the rest of the booths are finished in Monterey pink. The chairs are black with upholstery to match the pink and green of the booths. The legs are bronze and the backs shaped.

All materials used are plastic and washable. Some feature prints usually found only in regular materials.

The chinaware features a Chinese junk in the center with Chinese inscriptions running down each side, one meaning "Prosperous" and the Tung Hoy.

There are two large murals on the rear walls depicting Chinese landscapes. The colors blend with the color scheme of the dining room.

"We are striving," Mr. Goldman stated, "for a suburban effect with the feeling of eating in a garden."

The manager is Tung Hi who has had long experience in operating such restaurants.

Booklet Describes Foods

Each guest is handed a pamphlet on Chinese foods and restaurants written by Ernest Moy, U. S. Correspondent for Asia News Agency and authority on Chinese dining. He is a former general in the Chinese Army.

"Few Chinese diet, since the Chinese diet is almost diet," in one sentence under the heading "Why Chinese Food?" The emphasis is on non-starchy vegetables in Chinese menus. The pamphlet goes on to explain what makes Chinese food outstanding, describes the essence of Chinese cuisine, describes some dishes popular with Americans, declares that millions of Americans eat Chinese foods and describes Chinese banquets.

Mr. Moy and his son, Richard, were present at the reception and official opening.

The chef is Wong Nam, and as an interesting sidelight, Mr. Goldman stated that he is his adopted son.

Richard Moy, explaining a fundamental of Chinese businessmen, said that "to be successful a Chinese proprietor must be an honest man and give good service." That will be the goal of Tung Hoy, he added.

ACCIDENTS DON'T HAPPEN—THEY'RE CAUSED!

Extra Dimes On The Road

FOR WESTCHESTER motorists driving into Connecticut this weekend or hereafter, it may be timely to remind that you must take along some extra dimes for the parkway tolls. With what may be called typical New England motivation, the tolls were jumped just in time to grab the heavy Fourth of July weekend trade.

On the Merritt Parkway the tolls increase from 10 to 20 cents each at the Greenwich and Milford stations. On the Wilbur Cross Parkway there is a raise from 10 to 15 cents at the Wallingford station. Thus, a round trip to Hartford which formerly cost the Westchester motorist 60 cents will now cost him $1.10.

We are impressed not only by the thrift of the Nutmeg State in timing its toll increase to get the extra dimes at the peak of Summer traffic. We are also stimulated by the ease and lack of public opposition with which Connecticut maneuvered itself into the higher fiscal echelons of parkway toll collections.

If that were to be attempted here in Westchester, on our much older and more expensive parkways, every automobile association in the East, every taxpayer group in the metropolitan area, and every politician seeking a vote-grabbing cause—all of these would howl to high heaven and the courts. But in Connecticut the extra bite on the motorists' wallets went through as smoothly as the proverbial eel passing through a barrel of grease.

We don't know whether there's any particular moral to this or not.

About all we can conclude from it is that in leaving Westchester for Connecticut now, be sure to pack along those extra dimes.

An Old Pilot Steps Down

HERBERT HOOVER says that he has retired this week from further public service.

The Commission on Organization of the Executive Branch of the Government has been working hard for two years. It was a group so dominated—and willingly so—by its chairman that in an early stage it became known as the "Hoover Commission." The primary purpose was a study and analysis, followed by recommendations, designated to save taxpayers money in the operation of the executive branch of the government of this nation.

That two-year job has now been wrapped up, and with the exception of one report to come later this month the commission has bowed out from the stage. The 19th report was issued this week. Much of the various reports has been controversial, although more upon an ideological rather than upon a partisan plank of opinion. It was not to be expected that any reports upon such a vast scale, stepping upon so very many influential toes, could avoid bitter debate and harsh acrimony.

There is even difference of opinion as to how much would be saved if all the commission's recommendations were to be adopted—as is not at all likely. Some say $8.5 billion; others say as much as $10 billion. The question, we think, is academic. But what is very realistic is that there should be public support for adoption of as much of the commission's recommendations as may be done without wide dissent at this time. We may have to nibble for a while because we cannot swallow the whole. But if we nibble long enough and hard enough the savings will in time be quite substantial.

And now, if we may, we would like to devote a few words to the man most responsible for this gigantic public task.

We recall that a few years back, around Mr. Hoover's 75th birthday on August 10, 1949, we spoke in this column of his magnificent service to the country after he had left the White House. At that time an earlier Hoover Commission, not limited to executive branch reorganization, had made valuable contributions to the national economy. Pointing out that this service had been rendered in the face of deliberately insulting refusal by F. D. Roosevelt to utilize him in World War II, we said then:

"Smaller men would have sulked the rest of their lives in sullen resentment. . . . But Herbert Hoover, and it was this saving grace of christian virtue and fortitude which brought him in his latter years to one of his greatest contributions to his nation."

And now another and even more brilliant star has been added to that crown of consequence. We can only repeat what we said back there in 1949, and to join anew in the resolution adopted then by a Democratic Congress which read in part:

"The Congress . . . expresses its admiration and gratitude for his devoted service to his country and to the world, and its hope that he be spared for many more years of useful and honorable service."

So do we hope again today.

After all, eighty-one isn't really old, Mr. Hoover!

YOU'RE TELLING ME!

By WILLIAM RITT
Central Press Writer

Gentlemen, it is revealed by an Agriculture department bookler that it is the FEMALE mosquito which puts the bite on you.

The department says if you use a repellent, you will smell bad to them and they will stay away. Females are like that.

The lesson is, if you don't repel those females, you may wind up with an itch.

So why not let well enough alone?

The female mosquito feeds on flower nectar. Probably stays around home during the rays, too, while the Mrs. flits around from picnic to picnic.

You can get rid of female mosquitos the same way you can get rid of some other females. See that they don't have any liquid refreshment.

HEALING EXCESS WEIGHT

Her story will be heard tomorrow at 1:15 P.M. on The Christian Science radio program over Station WOR. The subject of the broadcast is: "The Healing of Excess Weight."

Monday's competition pits Mamaroneck against Ossining at Harbor Island, Ossining, fav-

Bert Muench will be at second, and Pinky DiRoberto, team's tin batter with four homers and a .440 average, will bat third and play right field.

Hitting cleanup for Mamaroneck will be George Yost, sporting a .455 average, while Vladenides will bat fifth and handle the slants of Feldt, Farino and Benedict. Clock Turned Back On Island Diamond

The clock was turned back a couple of years last night at Harbor Island, and in some cases —more than just a couple of years—as former stars and error specialists of the Mamaroneck Independent Softball League tried to carbon some of their better performances of the past.

A 6-6 eight-inning tie and numerous aching muscles resulted from the activity. However, worst of all, the game has been rescheduled for Flint Park Monday, 1 P. M., thereby providing only two days for the MISL veterans to ameliorate their aching conditions.

Highlights

Highlights of last nights thriller were Bill Cunningham's lefthanded blast for the circuit; Eddie Fracas' three doubles in four trips to the plate, and the fine defensive play of Charlie Lanza at the hot corner.

Lanza, looking in slick shape, handled nine chances at third without an error, also collecting one-for-three as Mamaroneck's leadoff man.

Cunningham and Fracas were the big guns in the Larchmont attack, each collecting three safeties.

Mamaroneck's pitching manager Bob Cohen picked up two-for-three against Larchmont's Carl Carpino. Cohen, however, was rocked for 15 hits as Mamaroneck collected eight.

Finsterwald Leads Field In Canada Golf

VANCOUVER, B. C., (AP) — A nattily-attired sportswriter on the gold trail, with a golf swing to match, held the front position today as the British Columbia open golf field headed for the last 18 holes and $15,000.

Don Finsterwald, twenty-five-year-old newcomer from Bedford Heights, Ohio, whittled seven strokes off the par-72 Shaughnessy course in the third round yesterday for a 67-68-65-200 total.

The leader for the first 36 holes, Bob Rosburg of San Francisco, dropped back to second place, two strokes behind Finsterwald. His 70, with half-way rounds of 65 and 67, totalled 202.

In third place was Bud Holscher of Apple Vally, Calif., with 70, 67, 67—204.

Finsterwald came out of the U. S. Air Force nine months ago and started a drive attention. He collected the Fort Wayne open less than two months ago.

He credits much of his precision style, particularly on the tees, to coaching from veteran Doug Ford of Yonkers, N. Y.

Ford himself seemed set to burn up the course yesterday. He was five under on the front nine—32—but failed to continue the pace and settled for a one-over 35. The 68 gave him a 54-hole total of 210.

Laughing Tommy Bolt of Houston, Texas, who strode around the course for a 68, took over fourth place alone with 205. He had earlier rounds of 67 and 70.

Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Ted Kroll of Utica, N. Y., and Mike Petchick, Yonkers, N.Y., shared fifth spot with 206.

Legion Nine On Road For 2d Tomorrow

Victorious in its opener over Tarrytown, Wednesday, 15-0, Mamaroneck Legion Post 99's baseball team will try to make it two straights in Westchester Legion competition at Recreation Park in White Plains tomorrow, at 1 P. M.

The defending champions are expected to go with Marty Grady, who hurled a two-hitter Wednesday, or with Red Finelli, Bellows, in pitching ace.

Jim Peay and Fred Castiglia, Rye and Harrison Hi stars, sparked the Mamaroneck nine in its opening win with two and four hits respectively.

Florida Girl Retains N. Y. Tennis Crown

BRONXVILLE—

Seventeen-year-old Lorraine Schneider of Fort Pierce, Fla., successfully defended her New York State junior girls' tennis title at Bronxville Field Club yesterday.

Miss Schneider who headed the draw, turned back second-seeded Norma Harris of Brooklyn, 6-3, 6-4.

Bonnie Mencher of Forest Hills succeeded Dorothy Gulbenkian of Plainfield, N. J., as queen of the girls' division. Miss Mencher whipped a Forest Hills neighbor, Claudia Henschke, 6-1, 6-3.

In both cases the eventual winners were on the short end of a 1-3 second-set score after comparatively easy going in the opening set.

By her victory, Miss Schneider retained the Dorothy Paton trophy. She will, however, be obliged to relinquish it next year when she no longer fulfills the division's age requirement.

Miss Schneider is ranked No. 2 by the Florida Lawn Tennis Association and Miss Harris holds the same rating in the Eastern LTA.

NYAC Sees Block Island Entry Record

A fleet of record proportions for New York Athletic Club's Block Island race next Saturday is indicated by the advance entry of 23 power cruisers. Cmdr. Eugene S. Hyson, committee chairman, expects that last year's record of 22 will be exceeded before Friday's deadline.

The Sir Thomas Lipton Viking Challenge Trophy, which has rested in the NYAC showcase since 1915, is being reactivated as the chief prize for the race to Block Island. Among the leading challengers for the replica of the Norse Viking ship are the Allen B. Du Mont, returning with Hurricane III, the 54-footer which won last year, and Marcel N. "Manny" Rand of Stamford Y.C., with his 75-foot Jamara.

The predicted log race will cover a course starting off Execution Light. Percentage of accuracy in predicting finish time, rather than boat speed, is the determining factor. Neither captain, navigator nor observer are permitted to carry timepieces. The deadline for finishes has been fixed for 7 P.M. Saturday.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Wynn Keeps Indians After Yankee Scalps

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sportswriter

Considering that Cleveland is seven games behind in the American League race right now, where do you suppose they'd be without Early Wynn?

With the Tribe's once fearsome big four of the pitching staff incapable of chilling anyone these days, the thirty-five-year-old Wynn has become the big guy. He responded to the call again last night, gaining his 11th victory with a 1-0 whitewash of the waning White Sox.

Wynn won it big. It was his third straight shutout and he allowed just six hits, fanning four and walking only one. Larry Doby scored the run with a fifth-inning homer off Billy Pierce, who went all the way for his fifth defeat.

Tribe Close In

The victory brought Cleveland to within a half game of the second place Sox, who now have lost six straight. And it gave the Indians a big jump with six crucial games remaining between the two clubs in the next nine days that could make or break either of the contenders.

What's more, Wynn gained another day of rest for Bob Lemon, nursing a leg injury. With the victory tucked away, manager Al Lopez can take a chance with rookie Herb Score (7-5) today.

Lemon, not nearly as effective as in past years has slipped from the No. 1 spot to No. 2 behind Wynn on the staff. He's won 10. But he's been knocked off six times. The other two members of the 'big four'—Mike Fetzer and Mike Garcia—have only a 6-12 joint record.

29 Scoreless Innings

To take up the slack Wynn now has hurled 29 consecutive scoreless innings and by socking the Sox has beaten every team in the league, including a big 3-0 mark against the first place New York Yankees. The right-hander, with 10 complete games and a 2.23 earned run average, has lost only twice, both times to Boston.

With Chicago beaten again, the Yanks moved to their largest lead of the year, six and one half games, by beating Washington 7-2. Boston beat Baltimore 4-1 in 13 innings and Kansas City upset fourth place Detroit by sweeping a twi-nighter, 3-2 and 7-5.

In the National, Pittsburgh edged first place Brooklyn, 3-2, Chicago regained second place by beating St. Louis 11-7; Milwaukee lost to Cincinnati 14-2; Philadelphia beat New York 9-3.

Ford Wins 10th

Whitey Ford made the 10-victory mark for the Yanks, coasting in after a four-run fourth. Bill Skowron drove in four runs and Andy Carey belted a two-run homer as New York made it 11 triumphs in their last 12 games. Seventh-place Washington now has lost 20 of the last 23.

Vern Law, pitching his first complete game of the season, checked the Brooklyns. He gave up seven hits and three times worked out of jams after getting his lead on Dick Groat's two-run single in the sixth.Johnny Podres was the loser.

Robin Roberts won his 11th, while Johnny Antonelli, a 21-game winner for the Giants last season, lost his 10th. A five-run eighth inning for the Phils put it beyond reach.

THIRD OF SEASON COMPLETED

Harpoon, Aileen Set YRA Pace; 3-Day Regatta Opens On Sound

By AL BAMBERGER JR.

The Yacht Racing Association of Long Island Sound began its second holiday weekend championship regatta of the season today under the auspices of Hunnewot Yacht Club of New Rochelle. Ray W. Kaseler is race chairman at Huguenot, which will sponsor two other YRA events this Summer.

Larchmont Yacht Club's regatta committee, headed by Erwin D. Fraser, and the Manhasset Bay (L. I.) Y. C. committee officials for tomorrow's races.

The three-day session constitutes the 14th, 15th and 16th events of the 36-regatta championship events in 10 divisions.

Trends Indicated

With the season one third completed, trends have been shown in most classes. According to standings for the first 13 regattas released yesterday by Edmund G. "Ned" Anderson of Larchmont, assistant secretary of the YRA, the leaders in some instances are sufficiently in front to indicate a likelihood of their continuing on to class championships.

This is particularly true of Harpoon, the 210 defender owned by G. R. "Bill" Corwin and J. K. "Jack" Starkweather, both of Scarsdale, usually with Corwin at the tiller and with Mrs. Riggie Corwin aboard. In the populous 210 class, Harpoon has won 10 of 13 starts and has a percentage of .954, more than 100 points ahead of the closest challenger.

Jim Phillips' Snark stands second at .846, followed closely by Tom Fitzsimons' Tomuz, .842; Doug Campbell's Royal Scot, .841 and F. F. "Sparky" Gibson's Mag, .828.

Shields Tops Mosbacher

Cornelius Shields of Larchmont with Aileen holds a big edge over Emil "Bus" Mosbacher Jr. of White Plains and Beach Point with Susan, the defending champ, in the big International class, .857 to .800. This is in YRA standings, covering the seven Sunday and holiday races thus far.

Aileen also leads for the overall season championship, 19 races to date, with 318 to Susan's 312. Mosbacher, however, in three of the six Saturday races of the Bermuda series, has won each time to lead with 1,000 ahead of Howie McMichael's Kangaroo, 818.

Walsh, Zeh Pacing MISL In Statistics

Tom Walsh of the Converts and Zeh of the Villagers are currently pacing the Mamaroneck Independent Softball League in batting and pitching respectively.

Walsh has taken a commanding lead in the hitting department, having garnered 15 safeties in 28 trips to the plate for a .540 average. He has scored 12 runs, three of these coming via circuit clouts. Leading in this department is teammate Frank Costa with four homers.

By far the most successful pitcher in the MISL has been Zeh, who has racked up a 7-0 mark for the undefeated Village Gang. Tom has hurled 84 innings, allowed 30 hits, 19 runs and only six walks, while fanning 55 batsmen.

Statistics indicate that Zeh's amazingly good control has been instrumental in his success and that of the Villagers.

Bill Doscher of the second-place Converts is the only other unbeaten flinger. Doscher, who has a 3-0 mark, has pitched 21 innings, allowed 22 hits, 17 runs and six free tickets. He has fanned 29 hitters.

Sporting a 4-1 mark is Manny Pimentel, also of the Converts. Izzy Belowich of the Rockets, Costa, Gil Allen of the Gaels and Ronnie Pauls of the Villagers round out the top five with .360, .358, .343 and .333 averages.

State Tennis To Open At Hartsdale, Pelham

HARTSDALE —

Westchester clubs will be hosts at both the men's and women's state tennis championships next week.

The men's tournament starts tomorrow at the County Tennis Club in Hartsdale and runs through next Sunday. Doubles start Monday.

The Empire State women's titles will be decided at Pelham Country Club starting Tuesday. Both tournaments have been returned to the scene of 1954 play.

The men's championships date to 1891 when P. H. Hovey was the winner. Held only spasmodically through the years, the tournament was permanently revived following World War II.

Bill Tully of Yonkers captured the singles title here last year, when the event drew 99 entries. This year the entry list totals 122 and Tully has been seeded second, back of Ed Moylan of Trenton, N. J. The field includes most of the ranking players in the East, other than those currently abroad who have toured the continent and played at Wimbledon.

Many famous players have worn the New York State crown, among them Bill Johnston, Wilmer and Maurice Mc Loughlin (1911-12), Among others, in more recent years have been Frank Shields, Frank Guernsey, Don McNeill, Frankie Parker, Dick Savitt and Bill Talbert.

Moore Finally Gets Match With Rocky

NEW YORK (AP)—It should be an old fashioned 4th of July for Archie Moore with sky rockets, Roman candles, cannon crackers and pin wheels to celebrate the end of a mission—a heavyweight title shot.

The thirty-eight-year-old ring veteran, who changes home towns with the seasons, finally has caught up with heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano. They will meet in a 15-round match Sept. 20 at Yankee Stadium.

The fight should bring both Marciano and Moore their richest purses. Rocky's biggest score was his $200,568 share of the gate for his first match with Ezzard Charles last Summer. Moore's highest money mark was his $81,668 June 22 for his knockout of middleweight champ Bobo Olson. Marciano gets 40 per cent and Moore 20 per cent of this gate and the same share of theater TV radio and the movies.

In case Moore upsets Marciano, already a favorite, there will be a rematch in 90 or 120 days (probably February) at a 30-20 percentage split.

Sales Events Planner

Alfred Jacobs, manager of Berry's Jewelry at 230 Mamaroneck Avenue, last night was named by the Retail Division of the Mamaroneck Chamber of Commerce as chairman of a committee to plan sales events.

Chosen to serve with Mr. Jacobs at the meeting in Anita's Apparel Shop, 232 Mamaroneck Avenue, were Jack Rabinowitz, George Brower, Martha Schwartz, Eric Mosley, Patricia DuBois, and George Neufeld. Albert Sombino, former chairman of the Retail Division, was appointed in an advisory capacity to the committee.

The Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a Halloween window decorating contest, it was decided. The project will be in cooperation with the art departments of Mamaroneck schools and the Mamaroneck Artists Guild.

John Brewer, chairman of the Retail Division presided, and refreshments were served.

Paper Drive

Sunday, Aug. 17, was set last night as the date of a paper drive by members of Mamaroneck Post 30, American Legion, at an executive meeting held last night.

Cardboard and rags will also be collected during the morning drive.

The next executive meeting will be held Tuesday night at 8 P.M. at the Prospect Avenue Post Headquarters.

MHS Plans In August

Norman Blair of the Larchmont firm of McCoy and Blair, Architects, said last night that final plans for the extension of the Mamaroneck Senior High School would be ready by middle August.

Reporting to the School Board, Mr. Blair said that delivery of certain materials could not be made until September, a factor which would delay the work somewhat.

The Board set Aug. 15 as the date of a meeting with the architects to go over plans. Bids for the work would be let in September, according to Mr. Blair.

Fast Action

An appeal made yesterday by the Mamaroneck Health Center for a radio to be used by a shut-in patient got fast action.

An unidentified donor called the Health Center shortly after 9 A.M. today and offered a radio which, she said, was the size of a newspaper folded in half."

Center officials gladly accepted the donation and the radio will be delivered to the Center this afternoon and quickly taken to the patient.

7 In 10 To College

Seventy per cent of the students graduated last week at Bellows High School have been accepted at and plan to enter institutions of higher learning, Dr. Alvin Hicks, superintendent, last night reported to the Rye Neck School Board.

In addition, Dr. Hicks pointed out, several students were accepted at colleges and other schools, but will be unable to attend.

Acceptances were received from 62 institutions which Dr. Hicks listed in his report. There were 68 graduates in the class.

One member of the Class of 1956, he stated, has won a Ford Foundation scholarship and enter Goucher College in September.

The scholarships won by Bellows graduates exceed $18,000 in value, Dr. Hicks announced.

Writer's Cramp?

School Board member Vito Lucena last night called upon his fellow members to procure a facsimile signature plate in order to relieve the Board president and treasurer of the onerous duty of signing each of the many checks sent out monthly or semi-monthly.

Mr. Lucena stated that i. had been on his mind for three years to have such a device installed.

"It would save both men an awful lot of work," he said. "It would be a more realistic approach."

The checks are also signed by School Clerk Joseph J. Bashieri who would continue to sign each individually, Mr. Lucena pointed out.

He explained that each man would have a key to the signature machine and that the operation of the machine would be in their hands.

"It would then be just a matter of turning the key," he said, "not one of sitting down for a period of monotonous handwriting."

Keep Water Supply Good, Griffin Asks

Continued conservation of water is requested of Larchmonters, at least until a real break in the hot spell, Village Engineer Frank Griffin last night told the Larchmont Village Board.

The reservoir level, he reported, is "pretty good. We've had a pretty better year so far." But the unusually heavy use over the weekend, he pointed out, had lowered the level in the booster tanks to a point that might constitute a hazard in event of a major fire.

To maintain the tank level, he said, steps were taken to reduce use and 500,000 gallons were purchased from the Westchester Joint Waterworks.

Asked by Trustee Vincent Monte-Sano why, if the reservoir level is "good," it is necessary to buy water, Mr. Griffin said that with the night use upped from a 200,000-gallon-a-day

PLANNING BOARD FROWNS ON PLEA FOR SHOP CENTER

Town Panel Declines To Back Business Project Near Thruway

The Town of Mamaroneck Planning Board last night disapproved a request by Frank Guadagnola of Larchmont that a block of land adjoining thruway ingress and egress lanes be recommended for commercial use to the Town Council.

The decision was reached by a 3-2 majority vote in executive session following a public discussion at the Weaver Street Firehouse.

The matter was referred on June 22 to the Board by the Council after Jerome N. Wanshel, attorney for Mr. Guadagnola, advised the Council that the application, which he had withdrawn for legal reasons in February, would be resubmitted at the next meeting.

A large crowd was present made up largely of proponents of the change so that a shopping center could be erected between North Chatsworth Avenue, Garfield Street, Madison Avenue, and Adams Street.

Loud applause at various points in the meeting, and some dissatisfaction or derision at the remarks of opponents, brought vigorous raps of the gavel in the

JOSEPH CURREN

CURREN HONORED ON LONG SERVICE

School Attorney Marks 25-Year Milestone

Joseph Curren's reappointment as attorney for the Mamaroneck School System last night called for both eulogy and quips from members of the School Board when it was learned the appointment marked 25 years of service by the Larchmont resident.

Members of the Board, led by newly elected president, Dr. Francis E. McIntyre, commended Mr. Curren on his quarter-century as counsel for the system.

Remarking that he was glad to see Mr. Curren again a member of the Board, Dr. McIntyre quipped, "Of course, I'd rather have a more experienced man".

Mr. Curren was born in New York City on March 2, 1893, and attended public schools there before enrolling in New York University where he received his B.A. and Doctor of Laws degrees. He was admitted to the bar in 1918.

Census Data Reported Set For Analysis

Reporting that the census project in the Mamaroneck School District is going forward, Dr. Francis McIntyre, president of the School Board last night said the current problem is one of analyzing and tabulating the results.

He said it is the consensus of the census staff and the board committee that the census would best be handled by transferral of all information from the census sheets to punched cards.

Town Cooperates

The Town government is also cooperating closely in providing lot and parcel maps of all property within the district, he said.

Dr. McIntyre pointed out that it would be highly desirable to use the information "beyond the scope of the census." He said the principals of the four elementary schools would then have easy access to highly important pupil information.

Foote Urges Shop Area To Aid Tax Loss

In 41 years there has been only one house built on 22 possible building sites in the area where Frank Guadagnola proposes to build a shopping center, A. J. Foote of 75 Palmer Avenue, Larchmont, civil engineer and former Town of Mamaroneck engineer, pointed out in a statement to The Daily Times today.

The proposed site for the shopping center is bounded by North Chatsworth Avenue, Garfield Street, Madison Avenue and Adams Street. It is part of an area known as "Map of Larchmont Heights" and was renamed as counsel for the laid out in lots in 1914, Mr. School Board.

Hicks Told To Pick New Pupils' Schools

The Rye Neck Board of Education, in an effort to equalize class sizes in Daniel Warren and Barry Avenue Schools, particularly in the upcoming first and fourth grades, last night voted to allow the superintendent of schools discretionary powers in placing children moving into the district in either school.

The resolution passed over the strenuous objection of Dr. Alvin Hicks, superintendent, who stated that "all new children coming into the districts from now on will go to the nearest school, provided the class they are to enter is not relatively overcrowded in which case the matter of the school they are to attend shall be left to the discretion of the superintendent."

Stopgap Action

The action, regarded as a temporary stopgap, is the outgrowth of a recent controversy between the Board and a group of parents whose children were to be moved from Daniel Warren to Barry Avenue School.

After parental objections had been aired, the Board rescinded its action moving 14 children and last night was scheduled to adopt a policy statement regarding class size and the placing of children.

This, however, was tabled because of the absence of George Garfunkel, Board president, who appeared briefly at the opening of the meeting and asked to be excused because of personal matters relative to the recent tragic death of his son, Ira Garfunkel.

Then, in order to make an attempt to resolve classes, the Board adopted the interim resolution giving Dr. Hicks discretion in the matter.

'No Teeth'

Dr. Hicks' objection to the resolution was based on his claim that it lacked teeth and that the discretionary powers were virtually useless. He wanted a resolution setting definite district lines.

"The minute I start to 'dicker,'" he said, "and you get parents here kicking about it, you Board members will void any action I may take under this discretionary authority."

The Board, however, felt that some action should be taken and passed the interim resolution.

Teen-Agers Who Drove Fatal Car Captured

CROTON FALLS

An 11-hour manhunt for two youths whose stolen car killed two persons ended yesterday afternoon when both boys were caught about two miles apart, hiding in bushes.

David Carter, seventeen, of Taunton, Mass., identified as the driver of the stolen car, was ordered held for the grand jury after waiving examination yesterday before Peace Justice Clinton Haight.

Carter, lodged in the County Jail at East View, is charged with grand larceny and with criminal auto negligence resulting in death.

Boy Sent to Cottage

James Waddington, fourteen also of Taunton, a passenger in the car, was turned over to Children's Court for action. County Judge George M. Panelli, acting in New Rochelle as Children's Court Judge, sent the youth to the Children's Cottage in Mount Pleasant.

Reginald Mehling, fifty-one, of Richmond Hill, Queens, and his son, Robert, eighteen, were killed on Route 22 near this hamlet in North Salem. Their car was struck from behind and dashed into a tree by the stolen car while Troopers Harland Reid and Carmen Palombo were chasing the stolen car at the time.

The troopers disappeared into the woods after the crash and finally separated at noon while bloodhounds and scores of police were beating the brush for them.

Found 3 Miles From Crash

At 2 P. M. Trooper James Shannon and Cpl. Thomas Roche found Waddington along the road, about three miles south of the accident scene.

At 2 P. M., Troopers John Dooley and Robert Burke found Carter hiding in the bushes near the Purdys Railroad Station bridge.

Heat Wave Limping Out

It's Cooler--Sort Of

Westchester sweltered for the sixth day today in the season's most severe torrid wave but a cool mass to the north began to show signs of easing the effects of the hot spell by lowering the humidity. It was six degrees cooler this morning than yesterday.

The Weather Bureau, however, says that this easing will not have complete effect for at least two days. It forecast more temperatures in the 90s this afternoon and tomorrow. Then a cool, dry air mass moving slowly from Canada may take over.

96 Yesterday

Yesterday's climb sent the thermometer to a roasting 96 degrees for two hours, from 3:15 to 5:10 P. M., at the County Airport, Rye Lake.

At 11:15 A. M. today at the airport it was 84 degrees compared with 90 at the same time yesterday. The record for July 6 in the New York area is 92.7, set in 1908.

Scattered thundershowers are forecast this evening, with a low tonight in the 70s. Tomorrow will be mostly fair and hot.

Church Hand Guides Activities

Editor's Note: "Keep busy, work for others" is the philosophy encoded in Westchester's youth activities. Its dynamic expression in school, church and community-sponsored programs involving an estimated 115,000 students from five though seventeen years of age, may be a basic reason why there is less than 1 per cent of serious juvenile delinquency in Westchester. While the limelight is occupied by the unfortunate juvenile delinquents who stray and come before the Children's Court each year, the tremendous activity is overlooked in good works that go unglamorized. This is the second of three articles telling and highlighting the worthwhile efforts expended by young people throughout Westchester.

"For Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do."

The wry observation of Old Isaac Watts has been taken almost gospel by the religious leaders of Westchester. Regardless of denomination they are of the single purpose—, "we keep them so busy, they can't even think of becoming delinquent".

They are talking, of course, of the county's youth, and they attempt to translate this philosophy into practical terms.

Their efforts are many and varied, but all have the same goal in mind—to keep the youth of the county occupied with healthful, constructive activities.

Their program is a many-sided one, including athletic competition, cultural opportunities, philanthropy, social affairs, and religious observances which range from silent prayer to Biblical dramatization. All this wholesome activity on an ethical basis builds community leaders.

The Catholic Youth Organization of the Archdiocese of New York has its Westchester headquarters in Yonkers. From there it issues programs, projects and ideas that keep occupied thousands of children and teen-agers in 90 county Catholic parishes. Its director, William Alley, is a staunch advocate of both the character-building and drawing powers of competition. This is especially true in athletics, he reports, but oratorical and quiz contests and dull shows also attract large numbers of participants and observers.

Many Activities Sponsored

Provided are swimming with three meets a year, daily lessons classes for the physically—handicapped taught by competent young people, basketball with over 80 teams in play and a cheer-leaders contest, baseball with 40 teams and 800 players, track, with 250 participating and Summer Day camp helps to keep the young people off the street. A camp institute trains youth, seventeen and eighteen to be skilled camp counselors.

Lady on the spot

It was ten minutes before train time when the girl missed her purse. No ticket, no money and almost no time. Things looked black for the party week end.

That's when the girl told her story to the operator on duty at the public telephone center. The operator called the girl's father. He said he'd send a messenger with some money. But . . .

By the time the messenger arrived at the railroad station the train was gone—and the girl was on it. The money for her ticket, and a little more besides, had been advanced by the operator, out of her own pocket.

Unusual? Well, perhaps. But even though telephone people are busy these days, they manage to find time for the little courteous "extras" that make your telephone service always so friendly and personal. New York Telephone Company.

ZONERS

Barry Avenue corner, and added that it is policed at school time. It is a question of danger, he declared, not of beauty of station.

Alfred H. Schaffer, Board member, reminded the audience that the plot is zoned for business, and when he mentioned the possibility, among others, of a custard stand being allowed there, a brief flurry on "threats" took place between him and Melvin Goldman of 123 Carroll Avenue.

Dominick Santomenna, another Board member, to clarify the situation, he stated, pointed out that the Zoning Board had nothing to do with the custard stands at North Barry and Halstead Avenues and would have no control at Wagner Avenue and the East Post Road unless it is a business under the zoning laws. Only the Village Board can change zoning, he pointed out.

He then declared that he lives at 337 Wagner Avenue and believes that a gas station as proposed would be dangerous and he would oppose it, only changing his mind if presented facts warranted it.

Service Only

In conclusion Mr. Flood stated that the gas station would be for service only and no repairs would be allowed.

He argued that cars moving in and out of the station would tend to cut down speed on Wagner Avenue, and addde that there would be no testing of cars such as brought forth objections when a foreign-car agency was in operation on the opposite corner.

Jubb Apartment

Morris Karnes, a White Plains attorney and former Mamaroneck resident, presented the case of the apartment house for John Jubb of 433 Palmer Avenue.

An application for a 41-family apartment house on 26 per cent of the land, only the first 100 feet in depth from Palmer Avenue zoned for apartments, was denied by the Board five months ago.

Although his application read as before, Mr. Karnes stated that he was asking only for the change of zoning of the rear portion, zoned residence A, to residence B, the use and size of apartment to be built and the coverage of land would have to conform to the regulations, he pointed out. Only 37 apartments on 25 per cent of the land would be permitted, he added.

He stated that the first 100 feet in depth of Palmer Avenue had been changed from business to residence B in 1944, and the rear portion changed from Residence B to A in 1935.

Mr. Jubb, he said, had owned most of the land during this time. He argued that the 10-family apartment that would be permitted on Palmer Avenue would have to be cheaply built to be economic, and referred to the apartment building on Palmer Avenue near Delancy Avenue.

Could Build Houses

He pointed out that the same result could be achieved by building two three-family houses and one four-family house on Palmer, and the result would be the same.

The rear portion could have six two-family houses built on it, for a total of 22 on the entire parcel, he said. But the result would be much less satisfactory than one 37-family apartment, and would put many more children into the schools.

He presented a petition signed by 20 neighbors favoring the project. Speaking in favor were Frederick N. Gilbert of 317 Prospect Avenue, whose property extends to Palmer Avenue; E. J. Quain of 433 Stanley Avenue; Vito M. Barbieri of 441 Palmer Avenue, and several others.

Sees Depreciation

Beresford Proctor of 453 Palmer Avenue opposed the application on the grounds that it would depreciate property values in the neighborhood. He also pointed out that there would be additional traffic and greater traffic hazards.

Apartment tenants, even though provided with parking areas, still use the streets, he pointed out. Both these and four-family houses suggested would be better than an apartment house, he argued.

A letter of protest was read from Arnold R. Manchester of 538 Stanley Avenue, who pointed out that he has lived there for 38 years.

Would See Plans

Barney Epstein of 514 Stanley Avenue said he was in favor of an apartment building on the site, but refused to sign the petition until he could see actual plans. He was not in favor of the plan originally presented, he declared.

He said most of the property to Mr. Jubb, he stated, and feels it is ideally located for an apartment. But he declared that he was strongly against "brracks-type buildings". A proper-type building would be for the best interests of the area, he said.

Mr. Karnes replied that the Board could control the type of building and said that the proposed rents are such as to put them in the semi-luxury class.

Station Proposal

The application of Carlchester Estates, represented by A. John Eder, and Crown Central Petroleum Co., represented by Robert Cavanagh, for permission to build a service station on Halstead and Mamaroneck Avenues brought a discussion between them and the Board as to curbs, shrubbery, grass plots, signs, and lighting.

The plans presented did not clearly indicate what the company proposes to do, and the plans will be subject to correction if the Board should approve.

House Plea

Rene Arachtingi, in his application to build a house on Cooper Avenue with 1,060 instead of 1,650 square feet of floor space as required under triple A zoning, pointed out that there are now only four houses on the street, all small, and that the street is little better than a dir lane, privately wned.

He also requires a rear yard setback of 20 instead of 30 feet, he said, because of County Health Department requirements for septic tank drainage.

No sewers are available, it was pointed out. His application had the approval of the four neighbors, he stated, and letters proved it.

HOUSE NUMBER STOLEN

Mrs. Daniel D. Mahoney of 580 Weaver Street yesterday reported to Town police that the house number had been stolen from in front of her residence.

Committee Urges Aid Fund Slash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee today recommended a 20 per cent cut, amounting to $627 million in funds requested by President Eisenhower to finance the foreign aid program.

In sending to the House floor for debate next week a $2,638,741,750 money bill, the committee complained of a "chaotic fiscal situation" in the military aid part of the program. It voiced concern over last-minute obligation of funds in what it said was an obvious move to prevent them from being reseinded.

Funds provided in the bill are for use during the fiscal year that started July 1. They would supplement an estimated $6,119,100,000 in unexpended balances from previous appropriations.

The biggest cash cut imposed by the committee was $420 million chopped from the $1,125,000,000 requested for military assistance. The $705 million approved, the committee said, "should prove adequate" for requirements of the program during the year.

The total in the money bill as it came from committee was more than $647 million below the amount allowed in a compromise authorization bill which went through both houses of Congress yesterday. The authorization figure was $3,285,800,000.

For military aid the authorization would have permitted $1,123,000,000.

GOP, Dixie May Save Ike Pay Floor

WASHINGTON, (AP) — House Republican leaders said today they still have a good chance to salvage President Eisenhowers proposal to boost minimum wages from 75 cents to 90 cents an hour.

The House Education and Labor Committee yesterday defeated the Eisenhower plan on a 15-15 tie vote and approved instead, 21-9, a Democratic bill to increase the minimum to $1 an hour.

Key Republicans predicted a lively House floor fight next week between advoc'ts of the rival proposals. They said they expected strong support from southern democrats for the 90-cent figure.

If Administration officials put up a vigorous fight, these Republicans said, they probably will be able to pass the lower figure the White House requested.

The Senate already has approved an increase to $1 in the minimum wage, which applies to some five million workers in interstate commerce. Republican leaders see an eventual compromise could put the 90-cent minimum into effect next year and the $1 level in later years.

GOP leaders said they expect to raise the threat of another round of inflation against the Democratic drive to enact a $1 level now.

They said there already is grave concern about inflation as a result of recent wage boosts in the auto and steel industry, and a steel price increase. Further, they noted, the stock market has been shooting up rapidly especially in certain fields.

Democratic supporters of the $1 minimum wage said they will argue this is little enough increase to try to uplift substandard living conditions for many workers, especially in the South.

Rash Of $100s Ties 2 To Top Bank Robbery

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Two men brightening the dice tables with new $100 bills touched off a transcontinental police investigation of their possible connection with the biggest cash bank robbery on record.

New York Police summoned victims of the bank robbery to view photographs of the two men today, and experts are checking their fingerprints in search of a link with the gunmen who took $305,000 from the Chase Manhattan Bank in Queens, N. Y., last April 6.

Police here arrested Frank Ellsworth, thirty-six, and Roy Wilson, thirty-three, after casino cashiers told how they moved from one gaming table to another, buying chips with crisp $100 bills.

Det. Lt. B. J. Handlon said that Ellsworth had 61 of the bills and Wilson 91 when they were picked up yesterday in downtown Las Vegas.

Ellsworth said he sold magazine subscriptions and Wilson said he was a soldier. Police searched their room. All told they found more than $87,000.

Ellsworth was freed last night on a writ of habeas corpus. Wilson remained in jail on an investigation of robbery booking.

While officers in Las Vegas checked the serial numbers on the bills, New York authorities checked photos and fingerprints of the pair. Both have records.

ELEPHANTS are circus and Hunt Bros. Circus which comes to Mamaroneck on Monday at the Palmer Avenue lot has eight of them, with a combined weight of over 26 tons, and all of them trained. Here are the three largest, Dolly, Blanche and Jewel, with Capt. Roy Bush, elephant superintendent.

Hunt Brothers Circus Due, Helicopter, Elephants, Too

A circus with a long history, yet as modern as tomorrow; new attractions plus the old time favorites; aerial advertising from a helicopter;—that is Hunt Bros. Circus which comes to Mamaroneck Monday at the Palmer Avenue lot.

Now in its 63rd season Hunt Bros. Circus is the first circus in the world to use a helicopter to advertise the many wonders of the big show, making flights before show day and on the day of exhibition over the area. The machine, registered as the Hunt Bros. Winter quarters in Florence township, N. J. is the only privately owned helicopter in that state, it is pioneer by Capt. Stuart Clark, a World War II veteran with Korean service.

Originally used for rescue missions and for flying wounded during the war days, Hunt Bros. have turned their "whirly bird" into an advertising medium, equipping the machine with a powerful equad sound system.

The circus is still under the ownership and management of Charles T. Hunt Sr. who founded it in 1892 at Kingston, N. Y. and it has had many "firsts" to its credit. It was the first to have completely motorized equipment, the first to introduce air-conditioning; the first to have flame-proof tents and the first to introduce the Wild West after show.

This season the show is using a new type of big top in which steel cable replaces the usual ropes. Also it is carrying a mobile comfort station for men and women, for both show personnel and the public, complete with running water.

As for the big show program it is replete with many new features. These include Ronnie Rennes, the man who balances on one finger; Miss Aerialette, queen of the trapeze; Louise and Diane in a remarkable demonstration of balance; Buddy, the Hollywood TV star trained seal; Phil Wirth and his circus riding school; and many others.

And of course there are the eight trained elephants; the beautiful Palamino liberty horses; jugglers, wire walkers, acrobats, contortionists, clowns and all the many acts which go to make up a first class, fast moving circus performance.

'MURDERER' SINGS TO WIN FREEDOM

BELTON, Texas (AP)—Eugene Padgett, who confessed to a murder he didn't commit, then had a third time setting on hot before bars, has won his freedom.

The lawyer unanswered a 24-year-old mystery:

Who, then, did beat Will Sanderford to death with a tire tool during a burglary in February of 1931 at Little River?

Padgett walked from jail yesterday after persuading authorities he had an ulterior motive when he "confessed" in 1949.

At that time Padgett was serving a 20-year burglary sentence in the Texas State Penitentiary. The reason he confessed to killing Mr. Sanderford, he explained to the State Parole Board, was that he had a "plan."

Plan Goes Away

His plan: he would be taken from the state prison to a smaller jail where he would be tried for Mr. Sanderford's murder. And a small-town jail, he figured, would be much easier to get out of.

It didn't work out that way. When Padgett was brought to Belton for the hearing in the murder case, officers kept him during recesses of the Travis County Jail in nearby Austin.

Padgett, who had pleaded guilty to murder, waived a right to jury trial and got a 99-year sentence, was returned to the State prison.

He read some law books and began writing appeals to lengthen in the State Court of Criminal Appeals.

He also brought up that you can't waive a jury trial in Texas as when there is a possibility of capital punishment. The judges said they couldn't act on his appeals until he had finished his 20-year burglary sentence.

Appeal Finally Heard

Last May the burglary sentence ran out and the Appeals Court heard Padgett's murder appeal. Now he is free.

Who did kill Mr. Sanderford? There was a thunderstorm at the time. Someone pried a window open at Mr. Sanderford's store. There had been neighborhood burglaries and Mr. Sanderford was sleeping in his store with a shotgun at his side.

But the burglar with the tire tool acted before Mr. Sanderford got his shotgun. And the pounding rain outside smoothed any tracks.

Education Is Two-Way Road To Foreign Exchange Student

By VIRGINIA CLAIR

Success of student - exchange programs is indicated in the essay entitled "Changing One's Mind," written by Oswald Heilsenberger, Austrian youth who completed the senior year at Mamaroneck High School last month. During his year's stay here he was the houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Borton of 10 Doody Lane, Larchmont. The foreign student is now on a tour of the Southern states before returning to his native land to resume study there.

Mr. Borton, a member of the Board of Education in Mamaroneck, describes his young guest, who observed his 17th birthday while living in Larchmont, as having had ideas about the United States contrary to reality upon his arrival here last September. The racial problem, in particular, Mr. Borton said was very much mis-represented to the young student.

The Larchmont host noted as the most decided change in the Austrian youth's thinking his converted belief in free enterprise.

"He became quite enthusiastic about free enterprise and about the origins and operations of big business and industry in plans for his native land and how he might help it increase America. He even thought about such a system. He seemed to develop a personal sense of responsibility for his country."

Mr. Borton found Heisenberger a serious-minded youth with a strong national sense, and an outstanding student and scholar. He was not as keenly aware of social life although he was pleasant and did take active part in school assemblies and also addressed Rotary programs and luncheons in Mamaroneck. Mr. Borton noted, however, that social life is not as important a factor in the life of young students in Austria as it is here among comparable age groups.

Mr. Borton further observed that the foreign student did not show much interest in competitive sports at first but in a short time became an ardent fan of the Dodgers and of Mamaroneck High School's football team. He tended to be more critical than his contemporary Americans and did not seem to appreciate the philosophy that "everyone does his part" regardless of which team wins, his host said.

The student's host explained that he and his family were interested in learning that the Viennese did not have any particular difficulty with the Russians. He also noted that it was an interesting experience for his family to have first-hand information about Austria, especially from a young person who was as well-informed as was Heisenberger. The Bortons' son, James, was also a senior at MHS last year.

Heisenberger, whom Mr. Borton described as "the last word in conduct," was well liked at the high school and was chosen to carry the school colors at various events there. The Austrian youth had studied English for about six years, and although he was accustomed to plainer food in his native land came to like American cookery, Mr. Borton said. The Board of Education member also said that he became more critical and selective of television, which at first intrigued him, especially Western films.

It was difficult for the student to realize the size of the United States and its many and different climatic and economic conditions, Mr. Borton said.

The Austrian youth's year in the United States was sponsored by the American Field Service, International Scholarships, and his interest in engineering was further fostered by Rotary whose members sponsored tours and trips for the student to various plants and factories.

From an educational standpoint, Mr. Borton felt the student visitor and his own family gained from the year's visit. Mr. Borton offered his home to the Austrian youth after he learned about the exchange program through his Board of Education post in Mamaroneck.

Upon his return to Vienna, Heisenberger will enter the Bundesracal gymnasium XVI. At MHS, he was a member of the Ski, German, Forum, Engineers and Mixed Glee clubs.

Ike Honorable About Asians, States Critic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Humphrey, D., Minn., applauded today as an "honorable position" President Eisenhower's reported assurance he will make no commitments on Asia at the Geneva conference.

Mr. Humphrey, a Senate Foreign Relations Committee member critical of some Administration international policies, said in an interview;

"I don't want to see the Soviet Union built up into the position of becoming a broker for Asian countries. We should hold the Soviets accountable for the violations of the truces in Korea and Viet Nam, which they participated in making.

"But it would not be the honorable thing for the Big Four to reach any decision on Asia in the absence of the Asians."

Secretary of State Dulles, meanwhile, arranged to take off this afternoon with a party of top advisors for Paris. There he will hold complete Western strategy for dealing with Soviet leaders in the Big Four Summit talks opening Monday.

FIERY AIR CRASH CLAIMS 11 LIVES

None Survive Explosion As 'Tanker' Plunges

MERCED, Calif. (AP) — Eleven men died today as a four-engine "tanker" plane crashed after leaving Castle Air Force Base near here. There were no survivors.

Fire broke out on the plane as it reached an altitude of about 1,500 feet. It crashed within a moment or two, exploded as it hit the ground, and was demolished.

The flames fired the grain field into which the plane fell.

The tanker, a military version of the Stratocruiser, was on a routine refueling mission from Castle AFB near Merced.

The crash occurred about 15 miles northwest of Merced, near the community of Cressey.

The refueler was to have intercepted a flight of bombers on a fueling mission.

The first report on the crash was a telephone call to the Sheriff's office from the rancher on whose property the plane fell.

"Bodies were strewn all over the field," he said.

The tankers are used to refuel jet bombers and interceptors, and can carry more than 6,000 gallons of jet fuel.

Dial-Day A Month Away

LArchmont 2 Turns TEnnyson 4 Aug. 13

LArchmont 2 telephones will be changed from manual to dial operation at 11 P.M., Saturday, Aug. 13, L. W. Soans, New York Telephone Co. manager, announced today.

Simultaneously, the LArchmont 2 designation will become TEnnyson 4. Customers with party-line service have been assigned new four-digit numbers, which also will go into effect when dialing begins.

Installers are finishing the job of converting telephone instruments to dial in homes and business establishments, and in the telephone central office at 5 Franklin Avenue, Larchmont. Northern Electric Co. technicians are busily test-dialing hundreds of numbers in preparation for the changeover.

Installation of the complicated dial equipment began in December, when six freight cars arrived carrying equipment from Western Electric's Hawthorne plant in Chicago.

More than 200 tall frames bearing thousands of relays and switches and more than 5 million tiny electrical connections occupy 7,000 square feet of floor space. More than 6,000 miles of wire are used in the equipment alone.

The changeover will affect more than 6,000 residences and businesses in the Larchmont area.

Users of non-coin telephones will be able to dial direct to any of 6,400,000 subscribers in Westchester and Rockland counties, New York City, most of Long Island, New Jersey and Connecticut, and parts of Putnam and Orange counties, Mr. Soans added.

STEEL JAMS SET RECORDS

NEW YORK (AP)—The biggest order logjams in history are before steel producers from Age, the nation's metalworking weekly, said today.

The brief steel strike made a bad situation worse, setting back deliveries a week to 10 days on some products, it said. Two weeks after the end of the walkout, mills are still struggling to get back to the pre-strike production level and it's questionable whether they will achieve this in the next several weeks, the magazine said.

Step-By-Step Reunion

Soviet Would Delay German Elections

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union last night proposed a step-by-step reunification of Germany in an all-European collective security system. The Russians said the holding of all-German elections to reunite the World War II foe was a "subordinate" problem which could wait.

"The solution of the German question," the Soviet leaders said, "is indissolubly linked with ensuring the security of Europe as a whole."

The Russians warned against involving West Germany, or a reunited Germany, in any military alliance. Such a policy, they said, leads to an increased threat of a new war."

Meeting 6 Days Off

The Soviet statement was issued through the official news agency Tass and came six days before the Big Four summit conference at Geneva.

"It is not possible under present conditions to reach immediate agreement on the reunification of Germany on peace-loving and democratic foundations," the statement said. "It will be necessary to obtain the solution of this problem step-by step in accordance with the establishment of an all-European system of collective security, with the participation of all European states irrespective of their social and political differences."

The statement said both West Germany and Communist East Germany could join such a security system, then work within it for reunification.

German Choice Rejected

The statement turned thumbs down on any plan that would give Germany a choice of linking up with the Western military alliance. It said the Western Powers would without doubt also reject any proposal to place a unified Germany into the Communist bloc alliance set up under the Warsaw Pact.

The West in the past has demanded that all German free elections be the first step toward German reunification, and that united Germany be left free to conclude any alliances she describes.

Officials in Washington said last night the Soviet statement would be studied carefully to see if it offered any new opening for negotiations at Geneva. Observers said that it appeared Russia was hardening its basic position on German unification.

The West has not announced formally any plan it will offer at Geneva on that question, but diplomatic informants have reported the Big Three would propose a guarantee against aggression for Communist Europe if the Russians would agree to free elections to unify Germany.

BURGLARS STEAL $610 IN 2 MORE BUSINESS BREAKS

Mamaroneck Police Report Area's 11th Case In Week

The rash of burglaries in Mamaroneck which began last week continued unabated last night as two more business establishments were forcibly entered and a total of more than $600 was stolen, according to police.

The two breaks raise the total of burglaries in Mamaroneck and Larchmont to 11 in the last week.

The latest burglaries were discovered by patrolmen in routine nighttime checks of business establishments and both followed the same pattern as the thieves broke rear windows in order to enter the establishments.

Pfc. Alton Palmer discovered the break at Westchester Television, 125 Halstead Avenue, At 1:54 A. M. he found a pane of glass in a rear door window smashed and discovered the desk in the store ransacked. A $1 bill was lying on the floor, according to his report.

The owner, Meyer Shapiro of 10 Harding Drive, Rye, stated that a square eight-inch metal box containing about $600 was missing from the desk.

The second burglary at Aldo's Service Station was discovered 12:05 A.M. by Pfl. Richard Stamegna.

A rear window was broken to gain admittance to the station and a bag containing approximately $10 was taken from behind the cash register, Thomas Dionisio, owner told police.

Police also found a pair of black gloves lying on the floor.

Crime Foes Rip Beck, ILA On 'Inaction'

NEW YORK (AP) — A report by the chairman on the New York City Anti-Crime Committee—submitted to the committee last Feb. 8 and revealed yesterday—said racketeers were trying to take over the trucking industry here.

Chairman Sgruille Braden said Dave Beck, president of the AFL international Brotherhood of Teamsters, had failed to curb the racketeers.

Mr. Braden also said the International Longshoremen's Association and the New York Shipping Association, which represents 170 shipping and stevedoring companies, had failed to support the Waterfront Commission of New York Harbor.

Leaders of the ILA, an independent union, are openly fighting the commission, set up by New York and New Jersey to cleanse the Port of New York waterfront of crime and racketeering.

There was no immediate comment from any of those mentioned in the report.

The Anti-Crime Committee, is a privately financed and operated group. Mr. Braden formerly served as Ambassador to Argentina and other Latin-American countries.

Czechs Free U.S. Sergeant Held 39 Days

WAIDHAUS, Germany (AP)—Communist Czechoslovakia today released a U. S. Army sergeant police seized 39 days ago while he was on a sightseeing trip along the West German-Czech border. The soldier is Sgt. Walter T. Winter of Philadelphia, Pa.

Two Czech border policemen turned Sgt. Winter over to West German guards at this frontier point in Bavaria. The Germans handed him over to two U. S. Army intelligence agents.

Wearing the same civilian suit in which he was arrested June 5, the clean-shaven soldier grinned as he crossed the frontier. In his hand was the movie camera he was using when he was nabbed.

"How was it in Czechoslovakia?" A German border guard asked him.

"No comment," Sgt. Winter replied as he climbed into an automobile and drove off with the intelligence men.

Sgt. Winter was on a three-day pass from his outfit stationed at Thionville, France, when he was seized. He crossed a bridge over the river border to get a better picture of a Czech customs house. Czech guards suddenly appeared and grabbed him. Two companions of Sr. Winter had remained behind, on the German side.

Other drives conducted by the council were for the Ground Observers Corps, Civil Defense, U. S. Savings Bonds, the Crusade for Freedom and CARE.

Stuart Peabody, chairman, said the council's purpose is to promote the use of advertising in the solution of nonpartisan national programs.

Eisenhower Praises Her High Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby today resigned as Secretary of Welfare effective Aug. 1.

President Eisenhower picked Marion B. Folsom, now Undersecretary of the Treasury, to succeed her in the Cabinet post.

The President called a special news conference to make the announcement, and, in an emotion-packed scene, paid warm tribute to Mrs. Hobby as she sat by his side in the conference room.

On her part, the retiring Cabinet officer told Mr. Eisenhower that as he prepares to go to the Big Four conference at Geneva "everyone of us will be praying" the sessions will lead to a "truly universal peace."

Enter Together

The President and Mrs. Hobby entered the conference room together. It was crowded with newsmen and camera floodlights were everywhere.

Mrs. Hobby's resignation had long been expected, and the President apparently took it for granted that everyone knew that was the purpose of the conference. Without ever formally announcing her resignation, Mr. Eisenhower turned to Mrs. Hobby and remarked solemnly:

"Oveta, this is a very sad day."

The President said his mind at the moment went back to a day in 1942 when Mrs. Hobby arrived in London to take command of the Women's Army Corps.

Mr. Eisenhower, at that time, was preparing to lead the allied forces against Hitler's armies.

Mrs. Hobby led the WAC splendidly and it turned out to be one of the finest organizations of the Army ever had," Mr. Eisenhower said.

Salary Revealed

After the conference room ceremony, the White House made *public an exchange of correspon*dence between Mr. Eisenhower and Mrs. Hobby.

"Personal reasons of a high order compel me to take leave of my post as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare," Mrs. Hobby wrote.

While she did not specify these reasons, friends said Mrs. Hobby is leaving because of the illness of her husband, former governor William P. Hobby of Texas.

"Only such reasons could persuade me to leave your Administration or the responsibilities of the department, and if agreeable, I would like to make Aug. 1 the effective date of my resignation," she wrote the President.

In a supplementary statement, issued by her office, Mrs. Hobby said:

"My work with the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare has been a rich experience for me. I leave knowing from personal associations that this government is being guided by men and women of high principle who are capable, dedicated and selfless with their time and energy."

Mrs. Hobby listened intently as the President praised her warmly in the session with the newsmen.

Fighting Tears

Mr. Eisenhower spoke with much emotion and Mrs. Hobby appeared at one point to be fighting back tears.

The President said he had nothing but praise for the manner in which Mrs. Hobby had performed her job.

Mr. Eisenhower said he felt he could best express it by quoting Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey. The President said he informed Mr. Humphrey that Mrs. Hobby was leaving, and "his (Mr. Humphrey's) eyes popped open and he said what the best man in the Cabinet!"

Mr. Folsom, sixty-one, is a native of McRae, Ga., and came into the Eisenhower Administration from the Eastman Kodak Co., where he was treasurer.

Order Effective Till Fall

Larchmont Curtails Watering Of Lawns

By order of the Larchmont Village Board, lawn-sprinkling restrictions from 9 P.M. to midnight daily, July, August, and September, have gone into effect in the village, it was announced today. Water use in the Town and Village of Mamaroneck is also restricted.

The restrictions were imposed because of excessive Summertime water demands on the Larchmont water system coupled with the danger of a low water supply at time of fire, according to Village Engineer Francis Griffin.

The following resolution for regulating lawn sprinkling during the three Summer months was approved by the Board as of July 5:

Sprinkler Overtaxed

"The excessively heavy demands on our distribution system during hot Summer days have at times depleted our water storage tanks at our booster pumping station to dangerously low levels in event of a fire and have also caused reduction in pressures throughout the village.

"In view of this situation and despite the fact there is at present an ample supply of water in our Sheldrake Reservoir, we find it necessary for the common good to impose the following restrictions, effective immediately, for the months of July, August, and September:

"1. *Lawn sprinkling only be*tween the hours of 9 P.M. and 12 midnight. One good watering per week is better for the lawn than nightly sprayving. Watering with pails or controlled hand-watering of individual bushes or shrubs will be permitted.

"2. During hot Summer weather, when the fire siren sounds, please refrain from all use of water except for emergencies for at least one hour; unless a recall is sounded before that time limit.

"We earnestly request your compliance with these reasonable regulations and will keep you informed if conditions warrant further restrictions. Thank you for your cooperation."

Mamaroneck Under Ban

In both the Town and Village of Mamaroneck, sprinkling restrictions from 10 A.M. to 10 P.M. daily have been in force since July 6.

The regulations, which are also effective for the Town of Mamaroneck, were set at the earliest date in Waterworks history because of the terrifically high water consumption during early July.

George Straub, superintendent, said today the restrictions will remain in force until further notice.

Rye Youth Bruised In Canada

7 U. S. Boys' Bodies Taken Off Icy Peak

BANFF, Alta. (AP)—The broken bodies of seven American teen-age boys died in an avalanche high in the Canadian Rockies were brought to this resort town last night.

Two other boys in the 11-member group of novice mountain climbers were injured seriously Monday when tons of snow thundered down 11,626-foot Mount Temple, 40 miles northwest of Banff. The other two—one from Rye, N. Y. — escaped with bruises.

It was the worst climbing tragedy in the history of the Canadian Rockies.

Climbing without a guide and equipped with only an inch-thick manila rope and ice axes, the youths were within 2,000 feet of the peak when the snow slide swept them 1,000 feet down the mountain.

One was killed instantly. The others died of injuries and exposure in the hail and freezing rain that lashed the mountain before rescue parties reached them the next day.

The dead were:

Richard and James Balis, thirteen-year-old twins of Philadelphia; William Wise, fifteen, of Souderton, Pa.; William Watts, sixteen, of Whitemarsh, Pa.; Miles Marble, twelve, of Collegeville, Pa.; David Chapin, fifteen, of Stamford, Conn., and Luther Seddon, thirteen, of St. Louis.

Frederick Ballard, thirteen, and Jerry Clattenburg, fourteen, both of Philadelphia, were hospitalized here with serious injuries.

Peter Smith, thirteen, of Paoli, Pa., and Tony Woodfield, sixteen, of Guion Road, Rye, escaped with minor hurts and made their way back to their base to give the alarm.

The boys were members of a group of 30 who came to Banff National Park on an expedition organized by the Wilderness Club of Philadelphia.

They had been here four days with two adult leaders, W. H. Oesser and O. D. Dickenson, both of Philadelphia.

Mount Temple is regarded as one of the toughest climbs in the Canadian Rockies. Four Mexican

Hard Work As Success Theme Keynotes Sullivan Best Seller

By CARYL POSNER

American college men graduates facing the world of business have gotten too far away from the "hard working" American ideal. Too many possess the distorted idea that the world awaits with baited breath their becoming executives and presidents of whatever they attempt.

This is the theme of "How to Sell Your Way Into The Big Money," by Vincent F. Sullivan of the Carleton House, Larchmont, formerly of 30 Wildwood Road, Woods of Larchmont, which has been on best seller lists since its publication last October by The Citadel Press.

The informative book was recently singled out for an additional honor: it is the July selection of the Executive Book Club of America.

A 14 year resident of Larchmont, and a 30-year advertising sales executive with The Daily News, Mr. Sullivan lives in Larchmont with his wife and two sons, Robert, twenty-four and James, twenty-one. The family resided in Hempstead, L. I., before coming here.

Mr. Sullivan, a native New Yorker, received the Bachelor of Arts degree in journalism from Columbia University. His first book, entitled "With the Yanks in France," was written in 1918 and described Mr. Sullivan's World War I experiences. The book enjoyed success but it was not until "How To Sell Your Way Into The Big Money" that he attempted another book, this one on an entirely different subject from the first.

Help For Young Men

Mr. Sullivan's purpose in writing it was to help young men with hopes for business world futures. "The-world-owes-me-a-living" idea is still too common among young business men, he feels, and emphasizes that hard work without shortcuts, from the bottom of the ladder upward, is the keynote of success. We do not attain anything for nothing, he advises.

In view of the popularity of his present book, and the fact that he feels strongly about its timely philosophy, Mr. Sullivan has begun work on another which enlarges the same theme, but emphasizes the financial aspects of business. On weekends, the author may be found working on his new book at the Sullivans' Summer home on Lake Truesdall, in South Salem, N. Y., where they will spend the next few months.

Mr. Sullivan, who married Corina Saris of Syracuse, N. Y., in 1927, is a member of the Men's Club of St. John and Paul Church, where the couple are members, and of the American Legion's Larchmont Post 347. The family are members also of the Larchmont Shore Club. The Sullivans' older son, Robert, is with the advertising department of The New York Times, and also teaches Spanish for Mamaroneck High School's adult education program. James, the younger Sullivan boy, is a junior at the University of Virginia, in Charlottesville.

The profits on his first book ran out in 1922, and Mr. Sullivan secured a job with The Daily News, at the time a struggling newspaper. During his some 30 years with The News, he has seen its circulation increase to two million, with a Sunday circulation of four million. The author, who now owns a town car, a convertible and a Jaguar sports model, recalls his nine-year-old jalopy which broke down "on an hourly basis" on his honeymoon to Watkins Glen, N. Y.

Vincent Sullivan's crusade, termed "The Sullivan System" by critics and readers, is the striving for pleasures in life which he feels can be attained by the "Back To Good Hard Work" school, whether it be in selling "advertising, anvils, anchors or anything."

James A. Farley, who inspired the author to write his book, states in its introduction: "I know Vincent Sullivan as a man of the things that succeed in selling. He learned them all the slow, hard way, by trial and error, plus hard work. Throughout the years he also has had intimate opportunities to learn the reasons for the success of hundreds of others who make big money selling." Fortunately, he has cast ideas which compelled him to find, somehow, the time to distill his lifetime experience into this book for the benefit of all who want to gain the tangible rewards of financial success."

"THE BOOK WORM," shown above, is one of the Larchmont Public Library's citation cards in the Summer reading program for children. With each book read and signed for, a small green link is pasted to the bookworm's body, shown on each child's card. Fifteen books must be read before the card is filled. Miss Pearl Day, chief librarian, and her staff have prepared a list of 350 children's books for their selection. A club has been formed, called the Summer Reading Club, members wearing red buttons of identification. When the children's citation cards have been filled, they may be framed and hung on a wall. Fashion Unit Plans New Site At Meeting In Haft Home

About 60 board of trustee members and their guests were present yesterday at the annual luncheon and board of trustees meeting of the Fashion Institute of Technology of New York.

Held at the home of Morris W. Haft of 1317 Flagler Drive, Mamaroneck, the meeting was attended by members of New York City's administration, Board of Education, needlework and retail industries, state educators and executives and architects for the Institute's proposed new building.

Plans were discussed for the relocation of the Institute, at present situated on 24th Street, to a new site on the 27th and 28th Street blocks, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues, estimated at a cost of eight million dollars. Also discussed was a Summer market and retailing program to which the Institute will be dedicated.

Calling itself "a soft goods counterpart of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology," the Fashion Institute of Technology's board of trustees and founders believe the 11-year old school to be an important part of society, in teaching young men and women how to become better business people, particularly in the retail industry, through the study of textiles, from their manufacture through their end uses. "New York State is particularly dependent on the needletrade industry," says Mr. Haft, "because of the tremendous number of employes in that trade."

A chair was established at the meeting by Andrew Goodman, president of Bergdorf Goodman, New York, in honor of the memory of his father, Bergdorf Goodman, founder of that establishment. Andrew Goodman in turn was presented a plaque by the board of trustees.

COUNCIL

three months ago of John T. McKeever, but to let the voters do it in the Fall.

Must Be Unanimous

Therefore, he explained, unless all four vote unanimously there can be no decision either way. He stressed the importance of the large audience understanding this before the hearing got under way.

Mr. Wanshel explained at the outset that the previous application had been withdrawn in February because Mr. Guadagnola was unable to get title to one parcel in the block until recently. Now, he stated, title to the entire parcel has been cleared.

He presented a colored rendering of the proposed store structure and declared it would be surrounded on all sides by high shrubbery and trees and have ample parking space. He stated that his client is willing to eliminate the garage from the plan, "thus limiting ourselves to a building conforming in all respects to the type of community it will serve."

Distance From Houses

He also showed a print with distances of the nearest houses from the property line ranging from 80 to 115 feet, to which another 40 feet would be added since the rear of the building is that far from the street line.

He read a letter from A. J. Foote of 75 Palmer Avenue, civil engineer and surveyor and former town engineer, stating that the area was laid out in 25 building plots in 1914 and only one house has ever been built there.

Mr. Wanshel stated parenthetically that that house had sunk one and a half feet.

Mr. Foote urged the approval of the application for rezoning.

Mr. Wanshel stressed the nearness of the thruway access drives and declared these make the property less desirable than ever for home construction. He presented a petition bearing 601 signatures, 41 more than it carried when presented to the Planning Board, favoring the application.

Cites 34 Signers

He read the boundaries of the area included in the membership of the Hills Association and declared that 34 signers of Mr. Guadagnola's petition live in the area, proving, he said, that "the residents are not as perturbed about it as Mr. Bogardus would have you think."

The population of the area is increasing and at the same time the thruway is taking away stores where those residents shop, he pointed out. This situation, he said, will create a worse traffic and parking situation than now exists.

He concluded by saying that merchants being displaced by the thruway want to move stores there, and asked that Mr. Bogardus had told Mr. Guadagnola that such a development would be better than the swamp there and to go ahead.

Bogardus Replies

This last statement brought a sharp reply from Mr. Bogardus who declared that Mr. Wanshel "was hitting below the belt." Quoting from a diary he keeps for association affairs, Mr. Bogardus declared that he knew Mr. Guadagnola was being displaced, that he gave him a zoning map last September and again in November when he found it had been lost, and had discovered at that time that Mr. Guadagnola had done no serious looking around.

When Mr. Guadagnola told him on Dec. 6 that he had bought the property, Mr. Bogardus stated, he told Mr. Guadagnola that he could not believe that it had been bought without conditions of rezoning. On Dec. 29 the executive committee of the association unanimously opposed the center, Mr. Bogardus stated, and he told Mr. Guadagnola so the next day.

'Gamble' Cited

On Feb. 2, Mr. Bogardus said a full meeting of the association membership voted unanimously to oppose the application and Mr. Guadagnola was so told the next day. He was also told, Mr. Bogardus said, that he was taking a "serious gamble" in going ahead with the purchase before a zoning hearing.

"I never told him," Mr. Bogardus stated emphatically "that he could go ahead."

Mr. Zingesser declared that the opposition is not satisfied to win by one vote, and appeals to the Council "to put a stop to such unwarranted use once and for all, a use that will ruin one of the finest residential sections in the Town!"

No Conditions

He declared that the zoning application cannot be granted with conditions, as Mr. Wanshel had stated his client would accept, and that once the area is downzoned, it can be used for any purpose set forth in the zoning ordinance.

Only the Zoning Board of Appeals can attach conditions to a variance, Mr. Zingesser stated, adding that "Mr. Wanshel doesn't seem to known the difference between the Zoning Board and the Town Council".

The residents don't want a shopping center or apartments, he stated and pointed out that the application is not in conformity with a comprehensive plan for the Town.

The petition for the rezoning, Mr. Zingesser stated, points out that Mr. Guadagnola has been in business for 21 years in the Town, is a good neighbor and citizen, and now the thruway is taking his property. "What has that got to do with the proposition?" he asked.

"What has that got to do with zoning?" he asked. "Does it give him the right to invade a high class residential area? We understand he is receiving $270,000 from the thruway for his property."

Deed Restrictions

Mr. Guadagnola started to pick up the property last December, Mr. Zingesser continued, and must have known of a deed restriction against commercial use repeated in a deed restriction as recently as last February. The land, he stated, reading from the restriction, cannot be used for business purposes, and this restriction runs with the land "now will he get around that?" he asked.

There is at present two and a half times as much vacant business land available in the area for business use than is being removed by the thruway, Mr. Zingesser stated, and this point was later clarified by maps presented by Mr. Parsons.

"Help us to keep the Town of Mamaroneck what it now is, a lovely residential community," Mr. Zingesser pleaded. "Do not let it be destroyed by a speculator!"

The map presented by Mr. Parsons showed vacant business parcels on the north side of Myrtle Boulevard, on Madison Avenue in addition to the parcel at Maxwell Street now being developed by Benjamin Jaffe of 32 Forest Park Avenue, Larchmont, with 4 buildings for a supermarkets and three stores, and other business zoned land now being used by residences.

The important distinction, Mr. Parsons stated, is that the land immediately to the south of Mr. Guadagnola's property is being downunder of Larchmont Post 347, American Legion.

He is a member of Engine Co. No. 1 of the Larchmont Fire Department, the Bronxville Tennis Club, and is a past vice

He described it as a "parkway" with two 24-foot roads separated by a 55-foot landscaped mall, and with green grass and shrubbery 25 feet from Garfield Street and 25 feet from the property line adjoining the apartments.

Traffic Reduction

He insisted that cars can get off at Madison Avenue, a point under discussion before the Planning Board, and that traffic along the block from Madison to North Chatsworth Avenue will be reduced, therefore, by at least 25 per cent.

Cross closing he pointed to two parcels on North Chatsworth Avenue, north of Adams Street, recently purchased by Mr. Guadagnola, and added, "What use he proposes to make of these parcels we can only guess."

Prior to and during the meeting, 16 letters and telegrams favoring and 34 opposing the application were presented to the Council.

In addition to attorneys and the Association a number of those present spoke strongly for and against the zoning change.

Among those favoring was Arthur Moller of Chatsworth Gardens Apartments. Among those opposing were S. Edwin Kazdin of 19 Byron Lane, a nationally recognized authority on real estate, appraising and planning. Mr. Mackenzie asked both to express their opinions.

Doern Speaks

Peter C. Doern Jr., as expert witness for the opposition, stated that there is no question that the development of such a shopping center "far outweigh the advantages that might accrue."

He argued that if such a center were developed there, "it would immediately create a tremendous business area and the effect of it would ripple all through the area and create traffic problems of great proportion."

Secondly, he argued that the new shopping center "would syphon off business from the established business area in Larchmont and those merchants will suffer. Larchmont is known for its fine shopping area."

Geneva: Crisis for the Soviet

How Sure Is Russia Of China? Red Brothers Could Be Rivals

(Editor's note— When Premier Bulganin goes to Geneva this weekend he will carry with him, in effect, the proxy of nearly 600 million Chinese. That should help the Soviet Union deal from strength, rather than weakness, at the summit conference. But how sure can Russia be of Peiping? William L. Ryan discusses the question in this article, third of four appraising Russia's capability at the summit conference table.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
A.P. Foreign News Analyst

Whatever its ultimate aims, the Kremlin at Geneva unquestionably seeks a relaxation of world tensions. The fate of world communism hangs in the balance.

The most suspicious regime in the world — one that still defines pacifism as "an imperialistic trick" — goes to the Big Four conference seeking trust among nations.

President Eisenhower has pinned down the Geneva dilemma: There can be no trust without disarmament, but there can be no disarmament without trust.

The Soviet hierarchy is not likely to renounce the aims of world communism. Probably the Kremlin has decided the only safe course is a waiting course. Yet the longer the Kremlin waits, the more time there is for evolutionary forces in the USSR to take their toll.

Old Order to Give Way

Ten, or even five, years of world political peace would have a profound effect on Soviet development. The Kremlin leaders who dreamed with Lenin and Stalin of dominating the world with their ideas are well along in years now. In the natural order of things, many of them will give way to younger men with no memory of Volga revolutions.

The question before western statesmen at Geneva will be not whether Soviet leaders have reformed, but whether the Soviet people will reform the leaders.

Despite the relaxation and air of friendliness recently in Moscow, the leaders still feed the people a diet spiced with hate and fear. Why?

One possible conclusion is this: No matter how anxious the hierarchy might be to settle tensions, it cannot go so far as to tell its people the danger of aggression against them is abating. That would remove a prime excuse for the all-out heavy industry program and give impetus to the Soviet people's demand for more and better consumer goods.

This sort of program also raises the question whether the United States is the Soviet Union's only worry. Undoubtedly the Kremlin has been casting some speculative glances to the east and south — first because there is a latent danger of war in Asia, and second because China promises one day to become a mightily powerful neighbor nation sharing a long frontier with the U. S. S. R.

The role played by Red China in Moscow's developing attitude on world tensions can easily be underestimated. I recall that when I was in Moscow, Months after the post-Stalin collective was established, the Soviet censor was harsh on any comment casting the slightest doubt on the sincerity of Soviet demands on behalf of Red China in the United Nations.

Recently a highly competent source who traveled in China reported indications of a developing Soviet - Chinese mutual distrust in north central Asia.

The Chinese took note of the Soviet program to "open up virgin lands" in Soviet central Asia. A new Russian colonization is under way in these lands, once ruled by China before the Czars seized them.

The informant reports: The Chinese responded with their own program, calling for emigration of 10 million Chinese into Sinkiang Province, bordering Soviet Kazakhstan. For a long time, Sinkiang was in the Soviet sphere of influence and the scene of heavy Russian infiltration.

The Chinese program will occupy two to three years, concurrently with the building of rail lines and establishment of collective farms in Sinkiang. It seems obvious 10 million Chinese can do much to stop further Russian infiltration.

The non-communist diplomatic corps in Peiping is reported convinced for the most part that Moscow views China's future with a mixture of awe and dismay.

Within 10 years, given no major war, China would be a power with which the Russians would have to reckon in the East.

Some of these diplomats now say the Russians want to relax tensions in their relations with the West because China represents a future danger to Soviet Union. There is even a suspicion that recent Red Chinese purges were the result of undercover Soviet pressures.

The Chinese program will mean more and better consumer goods, more and more demanding, more and more authoritative as time goes by, it is likely to put a crimp in any Moscow efforts to spread Soviet political influence toward Peiping.

Tomorrow: Communism around the world

Otis Workers Ratify Company's Pay Offer

YONKERS—

The employes of the Otis Elevator Co. unanimously approved the company's offer for a pay boost and additional benefits in a pension plan at meetings yesterday.

Benefits of 6 cents an hour per employe are added to pension funds. There are 2,200 employes here. Employes in Harrison, N. J., previously ratified the increases.

THREE HEARINGS SET BY COUNCIL

Three public hearings will be held Aug. 10 at the next Mamaroneck Town Council meeting, the Council decided last night.

Price Topping of the Howell Park Association requested immediate hearing of a petition presented some time ago to upzone from a Residence B to A the parcel of land at 65 Palmer Avenue. The change has been the subject of dispute between the Association and the owner, who wishes to erect an apartment house for more than 100 families.

Another request presented by Mr. Topping is the result of one made two years ago asking that a limitation of two and a half stories be placed on all future apartment houses to make the ordinances conform to those of Larchmont and Mamaroneck.

The third request came from Meighan and Mecanumber, attorneys for the Hommocks Association asking an upzoning from Residence A to AA.

In discussing the request to limit construction of apartments to two and a half stories, the Council agreed to advertise the hearing for a limitation to three-story fireproof buildings.

Councilman C. Benjamin Brush asked Supervisor Clough A. Mandeville the status of the Council resolution to proceed legally to close the road from the First National Store property to Weaver Street.

Mr. Mandeville replied that he has not signed the necessary papers because the property owners have retained George F. Forbes Jr., Larchmont attorney and Mr. Forbes has requested that the action be postponed until he returns from a vacation and can have a conference.

Since the Council voted to proceed to close the road, it has been learned Mr. Mandeville said that the Town owns Ferndale Road, previously believed to be a map street. The owners could use Ferndale Road which they now cross as access to Weaver Street, he pointed out.

Zoning Hearing

Furthermore, an application for a variance to permit continued use of the present road will be heard by the Zoning Board of Appeals July 27, he stated. Mr. Brush said he could see what either situation had to do with the Council resolution, and wanted to know what to say to those who call him.

Town Attorney John L. Delius pointed out that in his opinion it would not be possible to get a temporary injunction, and the case could not be heard before October anyway. Therefore, he added, nothing is lost by the delay.

Eggers and Higgins, architects, were authorized to proceed with preliminary plans for a new town hall on a site to be suggested by them, so that the matter can be put on the ballot in November for a referendum.

It was also agreed that the swimming pool project will be the November ballot.

Three new policemen were added to the force. They are William O'Rorke of Mamaroneck, Ronald Boerner of Croton, and Hugh McGinley of Harrison.

Police Chief Paul Yerick received permission to attend the convention of the New York State Police Chief's Association in Syracuse July 26-28, and the International Police Chief's conference in Philadelphia Oct. 3-6.

Town Clerk Charles Gronberg said he was happy to report that the marriage business increased in June. He issued 32

Home Air-Conditioning Talk Set For Rotary

A sound film and a talk on "How to Live in an Air Conditioned Home" tomorrow will comprise the program of the Larchmont Rotary Club at a meeting in the Larchmont Yacht Club.

The speaker will be Erich Kracke, president of Utility Maintenance Engineers and of Ken Calman-Carrier Corp.

The club next Wednesday will meet with the Larchmont Lions Club at the Larchmont Shore Club and the regular Friday meeting will not be held because of Larchmont Race Week at the yacht club.

GOP Pushes Road Fund Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans promised a strong effort in the House Public Works Committee today to compromise rival proposals for financing a mammoth new road building program.

The committee yesterday approved the construction program itself, calling for about $37 billion in federal funds and $10 billion from the states over the next 12 years.

But it defeated, 19-14, President Eisenhower's proposal to finance the new road building expansion largely through bonds to be issued by a special government corporation.

The committee takes up today a substitute Democratic plan to pay for the new roads by immediate increases in taxes on gasoline, trucks and buses, heavy cars and tubes, and diesel fuel.

As approved by a subcommittee, these increases would raise about $850 million a year. Some Republicans and Democrats have protested the increases are too steep, especially on truckers, and drivers were under way to reduce them.

Senate Calls More Writers In Red Quiz

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Internal Security subcommittee called three additional newsmen today in a search for past or present Communists stretching from Brooklyn to Germany and Korea.

Hans Bruno Meyer, described as a nephew of the late Albert Einstein and as correspondent here for a German radio station, was among the trio called to a public hearing.

Other scheduled witnesses were Ira Henry Freeman of the New York Times and Ansel Talbert of the New York Herald Tribune.

Freeman has been nothing in past testimony to link Mr. Talbert to communism.

Meyer, All of them were called in an inquiry that opened June 28 when Winston M. Burdett, a Columbia Broadcasting System newsman, named more than a score of persons he said he had known as Red Communists in the late 1930s or early 1940s.

Mr. Burdett did not name any of the three called today.

16th Wat... Carnival Set For Aug. 20

The 16th annual water carnival sponsored by the Mamaroneck Kiwanis Club has been tentatively set for Aug. 20 at Harbor Island, it was announced last night at a Kiwanis meeting in Seven Pines Restaurant.

Stephen Johnston, head life guard at Harbor Island and Kiwanis chairman for the event, stated that plans are well underway for the swim jamboree and that 82 boys and girls, all of whom may participate in the carnival races, are working out in competitive meets.

William Brady, baseball chairman, announced that more than 400 boys, 8 to 14, are participating in the Kiwanis Grasshopper League. He said that six teams are participating in the Junior League.

Mr. Brady turned over to Pat Spence, treasurer, a $20 donation from two appreciative parents whose boys have participated in the leagues, and $15 from several youngsters who are playing on Kiwanis-sponsored teams.

Plans are being formulated for a ladies night moonlight sail to be held the latter part of August, Stephen J. Luisi is in charge of arrangements.

Jack Pearson, a former member, was welcomed back into the club by Lou Deverich, president. Mr. Pearson taught at Bellevue High School, where he was coach for the football and baseball teams.

Vacationists Malin Eubanks, William Gunn, Mr. Deverich and Mr. Spence were also welcomed back.

'Too Pretty' Display Out At British Store

TAUNTON, England (AP) — Druggist W. H. Adcock appealed yesterday against the Town Council's decision that his window display was too beautiful to be shown.

The display — a perfume advertisement — is a large floral display made from metal. The council said it was so pretty it would distract passing motorists and create a driving hazard.

avoid unnecessary cost and duplication.

"We realize that the execution of such a plan may require considerable time and effort, but given the necessary priority, it is not beyond the capacity of our local, state and federal officials.

Right-of-Way Cost

"You state in your letter that the Village of Mamaroneck would be required to pay for the cost of the right - of - way for a straightened Mamaroneck Avenue. Your statement is based presumably on Section 152 of the Westchester County Administrative Code, which provides that the County Board of Supervisors is authorized, if a road to be widened and straightened by a county road, under this section, if the village board approves, the village is required to acquire by purchase or condemnation the lands necessary for such widening.

"However, even on the assumption that the portion of Mamaroneck Avenue within the Village of Mamaroneck is a county road and not a state road, it would appear that Section 46 of the New York Highway Law must be considered in this connection. Section 46 provides that notwithstanding any inconsistent provision of said law, the superintendent of public works is authorized to construct, reconstruct or improve as a state highway any street within any village which has been or which may hereafter be built by the state as a part of the state

"It would appear, therefore, that if the superintendent of public works takes the initiative in causing Mamaroneck Avenue to be straightened that the Village of Mamaroneck would not be required to provide the right-of-way and bear the cost therefor in view of the fact that Mamaroneck Avenue would then become a part of the state highway system and under Section 340 of the Highway Law the entire expense of the reconstruction or improvement would be paid by the state.

"We have been advised that the State Department of Public Works has long objected to the S-curve, as has the Federal Government, and therefore it appears that the initiative for the straightening will come from the state rather than from the county.

Plan Is Diagrammatic

"Although the plan for a relocated Mamaroneck Avenue was diagrammatic and merely an attempt to visualize how a straightened Mamaroneck Avenue would look, great care was taken to make the radius of curvature not less than the minimum utilized in the cloverleaf as presently planned by the Thruway Authority.

"It would obviously be unnecessary to demolish St. Vito's Church or Mamaroneck Avenue School according to the aforementioned diagrammatic plan. We feel strongly that there must be no condemnation of institutions or unnecessary condemnations of private property.

Traffic Hazards

"We must contradict your opinion minimizing the traffic hazards to children attending both the Barry Avenue and Mamaroneck Avenue Schools. A total of 566 children are understood by the cloverleaf as presently planned. This figure can be broken down as follows:

"Fifteen children would have to cross the access road in the Penimore Road section. The increased truck traffic into the industrial area would have to be negotiated without sidewalks or traffic policemen, or traffic lights by 69 children living between Penimore Road and Rockland Avenue.

"Palmer Avenue and Hoyt five crossings, including the rerouted Barry Avenue.

"It would thus be necessary for these children to congregate at a central point in order to cross Mamaroneck Avenue with the aid of a policeman and/or traffic light, neither of which is in prospect at present. The one crossing on the westerly side would then have to be negotiated by the 61 from Harbor Heights, 24 from the Knolls, and about 12 from the easterly side of Mamaroneck Avenue, totaling 87.

"To say that the stop signs will bring any measure of guaranteed safety to the children is to be unduly optimistic, since without police supervision, their effectiveness is highly questionable.

"In addition to these figures, there are 27 children living between the thruway and the east-erly school boundary who would have to cross the indisputably greater amount of truck traffic on Mamaroneck Avenue. In the Barry Avenue School and in Bellows High School, there are 280 children who would have to cross Barry Avenue four times daily going to and from school. This brings the total of children affected by the present location of the cloverleaf to 566.

Grade 'Excessive'

"While it is true that the hill on Mamaroneck Avenue alleviates the grade on the ramp leading from the thruway to Street would be the truck route into the shopping district of Mamaroneck and to the Post Road, and there are approximately 87 children who would have to cross these streets from the newly reconstructed area.

"About Harbor Heights, you mention that all the crossings have been eliminated on the westerly side of Mamaroneck Avenue on the way to the Mamaroneck Avenue School "with the exception of the traffic from one exit ramp." This "one exception," which all children from the Harbor Heights area must cross, requires that all children east of Mamaroneck Avenue, numbering 61, must cross Mamaroneck Avenue to avoid walking to school on the easterly side of Mamaroneck Avenue where there are to be

Russia Confuses World's Reds; They Fear Eventual Stagnation

Editor's note — Secretary of State Dulles has understood the glaring weakness of the Soviet economy, which hardly could withstand the shock of general war. But all-out peace can be costly to the Kremlin too. William L. Ryan, A. P. Foreign news analyst, has been studying the effect of Soviet internal developments on world communism, and concludes the global conspiracy is in danger of falling apart. This is the last of four stories giving his appraisal.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
A. P. Foreign News Analyst

Walls, and hold on.

This admonition for world communism is not new. But now it has overtones of desperation as the Big Four summit conference at Geneva approaches.

"If you are not prepared to talk seriously," said Soviet Communist boss Nikita S. Khrushchev, addressing the West in general, "we can wait and hold on."

Things have not happened in the world as Marx and Lenin predicted. Now the hydrogen bomb has changed yet another basic Leninist concept — that the communist and capitalist worlds must collide, with communism victorious. A clash with hydrogen bombs would leave nobody victorious.

The communists whom Khrushchev represents still hold to the notion that war is inevitable until world communism holds sway.

Crisis Still Waited

But to the communist way of thinking, there are more ways than one to skin a cat. There is little doubt the present Kremlin leadership has decided to ride with a program of waiting and watching —waiting for a crisis to take hold in the capitalist world, watching for a chance to give the process a shove forward whenever possible.

This sort of thing goes by the name of "living Marxism", which means dogma can be shifted to meet changed demands. But while the communist leaders wait, the Soviet Union continues in a swift evolutionary movement which was boosted it from backwardness to an advanced nation.

The more the process develops, the more world communism suffers. The twists and turns of Soviet policy have had a profound effect on the global conspiracy. Sudden reversals of sacrosanct dogma, such as condoning the Titoist deviation, have made communists outside the USSR grope for tortured explanations.

Some Symptoms

Here are some symptoms of world communism's ailments:

In Asia:

The Communist Party of India is obliged to announce a new program. Why? Prime Minister Nehru was lionized in Moscow. He no longer can be attacked personally because Moscow's blessing stamped him a "progressive."

The Indian Party had to yank the rug out from under its most potent attack. Its rebellion against Hindi as a national language for India played on the sympathies of so many minority groups fearful of their own tongues. Hindi was pictured as a tool of oppression. But the Soviet press recently approved Hindi as a sign of India's independence from the West.

A Communist Party, particularly in a recently colonial country like India, cannot hope to remain a dynamic force by openly supporting those who a short time ago were pictured as enemies of the people.

Japan's Party Torn

In Japan, the communists have just been ordered to shift over to legality, to save the Soviet Union from a black eye in that important country. Already the Japanese communists are losing heavily in popular support, and the party itself is torn between the will for militant action and the need to obey the dictates of Moscow, for Moscow's world purposes.

In the West:

The Soviet Union is on dangerous ground in middle Europe. By embracing the rebel Yugoslav communists, Moscow admitted national communism — which fails to give primary allegiance to the Soviet state — is no longer a sin.

From Tito's Belgrade, Khrushchev and the other members of the Soviet pilgrimage of apology sped directly to the satellite capitals to inform Red leaders that nothing really had changed. But the wind of Tito's victory already has wafted across the borders. It carried a heady scent.

Sacrifice Feared

In East Germany, party bosses boast they are protected by the Soviet version of NATO—the Warsaw Treaty. But they seem to fear they may be sacrificed on the altar of the Soviet neutralization drive.

In France the Communist Central Committee, Bellwether for European Reds, heard an involved defense of Soviet reversal on Titoism and a review of communist duties. These duties involve working hand - in hand with the socialists, whom the communists called their worst enemies.

This, then seems to be the developing situation:

Outside the the U. S. S. R., the arena for militant communism has narrowed, with the disappearance of revolutionary situation. Only in the most backward areas of the non-communist world and in colonial areas where national movements can be joined and used, does communism now act like a revolutionary force.

In western Europe, communist must adopt a non-revolutionary attitude which costs heavily in dilemma, disillusionment and defection.

Chain Weaker

For the rulers of the Kremlin, all this may represent only an expedient while Moscow plans a furious industrial building program.

But world communism looks on in confusion while their ideological base, Russia, continues to cut ground from under them. The chain that ties the world conspiracy to Moscow continues to weaken, and for the communists there is bleak prospect.

SOVIET

only when they feel that they and their children are not threatened by the calamity of war."

'War Bloc' Cited

The Soviet Premier than repeated familiar Moscow allegations against the Western Powers, declaring they were forming "a war bloc" and surrounding the Soviet Union with military bases.

"There is a great deal of talk in the West about an alleged menace from the Soviet Union," the Premier declared. "But we never wanted war nor do we plan any attack on anybody in the future. But in view of the war preparations in the West we must take measures to protect ourselves. We have an Army—a very good Army with all the necessary arms and modern equipment."

6 DENY STEALING TRADE SECRETS

NEW YORK—Charges of improperly obtaining business secrets of a former Byram company, Plastech Inc., in order to set up their own company in competition have been denied by a group of Mamaroneck and Port Chester defendants.

In a counter-action, six of the seven individuals named together with the new company, Aero-Lite Corp., contend that the charges are baseless. They seek a declaratory judgment of the court, claiming that there are no binding agreements between the plaintiffs and the defendants "which extend to the activities in which the defendants are now engaged."

The Mamaroneck defendants are Charles H. Perschke Jr. of 421 Jefferson Avenue and Norman Dahlgren of 200 Fulton Road.

Plastech Inc. charged that after it moved from Byram to Poteau, Okla., in 1953 because of "industrial restrictions" a group of its employes, despite "contracts" forbidding them to do so, revealed the company's patent secrets and helped set up a new company, Aero-Lite, at 9 Beech Street, Port Chester. were never notified before the filing of this suit, that their actions were considered unauthorized. They contend further, that Plastech is "estopped" and barred" from pressing its action because of undue delay.

The counter suit claims the contracts with the individuals is unenforceable and void "because they purport to impose restraints which are unconscionable and against public policy."

Finally, they argue, the so-called secret information is "common knowledge in the art."

Town Court Collects $102

Five speeders last night paid $75 of $102 collected in traffic fines and forfeitures in the Town of Mamaroneck Police Court, Judge Munn Brewer presiding.

A $20 fine for 48 mph was paid by Robert Hellgren of New Rochelle.

Fines of $15 for driving more than 40 mph were paid by Mrs. Mary Jaffee of Harlsdale, Norman Reigh of White Plains, and Henry Lalli of New Rochelle.

A $10 fine for driving more than 40 mph was paid by Stephen Krobrin of New Rochelle, who also paid $5 for traveling left of center.

A $10 fine for reckless driving was paid by Ezell Leak Jr. of New Rochelle.

Six persons paid $12 in parking fines.

Hunter for lacerations over the left eye and left ear suffered when she fell off the back porch stairs of her home. She was given aid by Pfc. Norman Van Tassel and taken to Dr. Hunter's office, police report.

Water Over Bridge Lets It Cool, Close, Release Traffic Dam

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Fire Fighters used hoses and hundreds of gallons of water yesterday to break up a traffic jam at the approaches to Point Street Bridge.

The bridge was opened to let a tugboat pass. When tenders tried to lower the draw spans, they found that the heat had expanded the steel. The bridge refused to close.

Fire fighters played hoses on the metal and —after an hour and 20 minute delay that backed up traffic four blocks—the bridge cooled and the draw spans slid into place.

GEORGE SEES WAR IF GENEVA FAILS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Asfor George, D. Ga., said today the direction taken by the Geneva Big Four conference may determine whether there is a new threat of hostilities in the Far East.

Mr. George, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said progress made by President Eisenhower in conferences with the premiers of Britain, France and Russia toward lessening world tensions is bound to have a "heavy impact" on the Asian Situation.

Separate Deal Favored

"I think Asiatic problems should be dealt with separately as Asiatic problems," Mr. George said. "It will be necessary to deal directly with those problems but they are not first in the order of things.

"If the Big Four c— make a beginning toward the right sort of approach to European issues then it may be possible to establish a better approach toward Far Eastern problems."

21st Varieties Show Held At Country Club

By MARGUERITE CULLMAN HARRISON—

The annual edition of Sky High Varieties was presented at Westchester Country Club last night, and fittingly for its 21st birthday was subtitled "On the Town."

The gay and colorful revue was set in New York cabarets and show spots with emphasis on the show girls.

It was a fast-moving show and despite a few spots yet to be coordinated was a smooth performance.

The three Cribari sisters of Mount Vernon were the hit of the evening. They sang two songs as a trio which were well received. Miss Donna Cribari also sang the "Piano Roll Blues" to a Charleston number done with the chorus, displayed a degree of showmanship worthy of the ensuing ovation. Miss Camille Cribari's solo was "Autumn Leaves" which was also well received.

"On the Town" dance numbers were well presented, especially "Can-Can" and the "Charleston." The young entertainers made up in enthusiasm and willing showmanship what some of the number lacked in sparkle.

Stanley Melba whose orchestra accompanied the show, was master of ceremonies.

Miss Dorothy Fine, producer, engineered the evening. Miss Billeisen Hodgson, director, provided some excellent choreography. The show, presented by Paul Joseph While, chairman of the entertainment committee at the club, will be given again tonight.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Help me, dear God all-powerful, to understand the spiritual struggle in my heart, and give me the insight to appreciate also the spiritual conflicts of others. Grant me the boon of enlightenment by which I may cultivate the essential qualities of character, attitude and vision. May it be given to me to equip myself with a knowledge of God and His works, and also of man, together with the ability to intermix the two so that I may have a powerful and dependable pillar of faith.

An Appropriate Memorial To A Liberal Churchman

AS AN appropriate tribute to the memory of the man who served his parish as spiritual leader for almost 30 years, members and friends of St. John's Episcopal Church are in the midst of a $225,000 building fund campaign for the Francis J. H. Coffin Memorial Building.

The proposed memorial will serve the growing needs for additional Church School facilities, for expanded parish and Guild activities and for the accelerated increase in church membership.

It is an ambitious and costly project but the enthusiasm and determination with which the congregation has tackled the job assure it of ultimate success.

It is a project, as well, which will further enrich the spiritual life of the community which in the last few years has seen the completion of two new houses of worship as well as two church educational buildings.

Because of the influence it will have on Larchmont's moral and civic welfare, the Memorial will be an especially fitting tribute to the man it honors.

Larchmonters of every community faith only two years ago mourned the passing of Mr. Coffin, a liberal churchman who encouraged cooperation among all churches toward a single spiritual force.

Because of the Rev. Mr. Coffin's devotion to the best interest of the community in which he lived for 30 years, because of his friendship toward all who were fortunate enough to know him, because of the contribution the new building will make to the life of Larchmont, we hope that financial support for the Francis J. H. Coffin Memorial will come from many outside the confines of St. John's Parish.

Why All Eyes Look Hopefully Toward Geneva

THE BIG FOUR meeting at Geneva is more than a conference of diplomats. It is more than a gathering of military leaders. It is much more than a session of international representatives.

It is, in fact, the focal point of grave concern for millions of plain, ordinary, common people. For these people who visualize that out of Geneva can come Peace or can come War are those who bear the burdens. It is from their homes that the young men are drafted, many never to return. It is upon their backs that the heavy load of taxes and restrictions of controls are laid. It is in their hearts that anguish will lie far into the future should the bombs fall.

That is why there is such tremendous worldwide interest in the events transpiring at Geneva. This is why all eyes turn upon that Swiss city. Because from that Four Power conference room may come the answer to the greatest of these common people for Peace and for the freedom and the rights and the dignity of mankind which only Peace can bring.

That is one side of the coin—the great hope for peace. But there is another side, too. And this one is not pretty. For it is a negative force, Fear.

That attitude is not unwarranted. It is a fear based upon real cause. It is a fear that some such neurotic-crazed militaristic group as that in Japan which ordered Pearl Harbor is also to be found in Russia and will send forth a bomb-carrying aerial armada to destroy, through attack and counter attack, this order of the universe which we call Civilization.

The soft talk from the Kremlin the obviously artificial geniality of cold-eyed Khrushchev and the mimicry of his attitude by his stooge Bulganin—a Charlie McCarthy mimicry which would be laughable were it not so threatening—these need not deceive an alert America. We can easily remember the pleasing platitudes and the soft-voiced sentiments of friendship from Kurusu and Nomura only hours before their planes struck a sleepy Pearl Harbor. This may not be nearly so much a change of heart in Moscow as a change in strategy.

So, the world hopes for Peace but at the same time fears for War. This meeting at Geneva can be a historic success or it can be a tragic failure.

The American evangelist, Billy Graham, paraphrasing Winston Churchill, epitomized the situation well when he said this week:

"Never before have so many looked to so few (or so much. The next six days may be the most important in the history of the world."

Peace with Justice on the one hand; an atom and hydrogen bomb holocaust on the other.

Is there wonder that world interests hangs breathlessly upon the proceedings within the Council Room of the Palace of Nations at Geneva?

'No Favoritism' Is Warning To Visiting Grandmother

By MURIEL NISSEN

Question: I am a grandmother of two little girls I love very dearly. One is seven years old the other four. I have asked my daughter-in-law if I could have the older child for a weekend not once but many times.

Her answer is that they have some place to go, have made other plans, or something like that.

However, when I called at their home on one of these weekends I found the children in the care of a baby sitter. I spoke to my son about it, but he offers no explanation.

B. B.

Answer: Why do you always ask for the older child? Therein lies the cause of your trouble. Parents dislike having favoritism shown by one offspring and not the other. Ask for both girls, and don't make your request for a favor sound like a demand. Also, stop checking up on the family. Your manner is a bit dictatorial; tone it down.

Question: I'm a man of twenty-one, and have fallen in love with a girl the same age; I have parted with her for three years and just realized that I love her.

Recently, we attended a party and like all parties, someone mentioned playing kissing games. When I kissed this girl, she knew I loved her. Then she told me she'd been engaged to someone else. How can I persuade her to break off?

P. P.

Answer: Aren't you a bit old for kissing games? They belong to adolescence. And what was the girl doing at a party without her fiance? She probably invented him on the spur of the moment, to avoid you. Grow up a bit before trying serious romance.

Powell Reported Hurting Cause

WASHINGTON — Representative Adam Clayton Powell Jr.'s tactics in the various segregation controversies on Capitol Hill may assure his reelection from his Harlem district again and again and again.

But his selection of the racial issue into such important problems as national defense, housing and schools damages his basic cause and the Negro race, according to many of his colleagues. It may even delay implementation of the Supreme Court's decision against school desegregation in areas otherwise willing to comply on a rational basis.

BLOCKING ACTION — Mr. Powell who notes in his official biography that he is the first Negro Congressman to be elected in the East, is blocking action on building a strong reserve force, especially-financed houses and ungently-needed classrooms. His amendments barring segregation defeated the reserve bill in the House, and may serve the same adverse effect on the other two measures.

The Southern bloc, although generally favorable to all three proposals, will not vote for them if Mr. Powell continues to raise an issue which President Eisenhower characterizes as "extraneous". Other members, who oppose federalization tendencies on principle, hide behind the Powell riders as a pretense for their opposition.

Mr. Powell, who is a minister of the Abyssinian Baptist Church and a former editorial writer for the New York Post, has also hurt the school desegregation program by his extreme tactics. Southern members, as well as Representatives from other sections, have received mail to that effect. Certain Negro spokesmen condemn his actions.

HOSTILITY AROUSED — Numerous communities, although reluctantly, are preparing for gradual and eventual compliance with the Supreme Court's decision affecting public schools. Besides their respect for the judicial system, they feel that full educational advantages should be made available to all American citizens and their children.

But Mr. Powell's insistence on complete equality and mixing, especially in residential buildings has created suspicion and hostility even in these sections, according to many members of House and Senate. Other Negro leaders deprecate his extremist methods lest they operate against the gains they have already achieved. They prefer evolutionary to revolutionary development and advancement.

AGGRAVATED MATTERS — Politically, the member from Harlem has stirred dissension by aggravating the divisions which exist in both major parties, thereby losing good will for himself and his cause on both sides of the aisle.

Moderate members, mainly because they have large Negro constituencies, find themselves compelled to support Mr. Powell, whereas the solid southern bloc must oppose. It would be political death for them to do otherwise.

SEEK NEGRO VOTE — Republican politicians seek to recapture the Negro vote for next year's national elections, as National Chairman Leonard W. Hall's current campaign reveals. But they also want to line up behind President Eisenhower and his legislative program.

Despite Mr. Powell's stand, it is possible, although not certain, that the military reserves and housing bills will be enacted at this session in some form or other. However, the approval of the scheduled July 30 recess probably means that they will emerge in a mangled and unsatisfactory form.

Mr. Powell's demand for "mixed" homes and apartments, with the effect it would have on real estate values of privately-built residences, seems certain to kill that measure.

MARY MARGARET McBRIDE

Ex-Missouri Dean Proves Neighborliness Not Dead

Too late, alas, for me to get there, I received an invitation from Dr. Winston C. Curtis to the grand opening of "Squire Cook's reconditioned residence" in Columbia, Mo.

Dr. Curtis, an old friend, taught zoology at the University of Missouri when I was a student there. To his hospitable home I frequently went with my favorite young man on Sunday evenings. I remember also Curtis' collection of clocks in every room. But I had forgotten that Dr. Curtis himself built their home, heading a little do-it-yourself movement long before the name was invented.

I wish I might have been at the grand opening — if for no other reason than to witness for myself a most wonderful example of neighborliness such as I recently lamented was becoming extinct in these highly organized times. For Dr. Curtis has been working with hammer, saw, screwdriver and wrench for almost three years now to remodel the run-down home of his friend, Noble Mitchell, who for 20 years has served the Zoology Department as janitor.

Dr. Curtis retired in 1946 as dean of the university College of Arts and Science. When the former college head learned of the trouble Cook was having with his rapidly deteriorating two-room house, he came to a rapid decision.

He had been putting aside certain money to be available for Cook in the event of my death; it seemed to me that it would be better for him to have the benefit of this at once rather than at a later date."

Since Cook isn't so good at building ("except holding the ceiling up while the carpenter saws") Dr. Curtis picked up an assistant, Booter Brown, a neighbor of Cook's who retired on a pension some years ago after 35 years service with the Wabash railroad, and according to Dr. Curtis, like himself "would rather saw boards and pound nails than anything else he can think of".

Most of the three-page mimeographed invitation from Dr. Curtis consisted of a meticulous resume of the remodeling job, with so much carpenter talk — "the clapboards were nailed directly to the studs" — that I don't exactly understand what went on.

But that doesn't matter, for everything else about the story enchants me. I envy Cook his two good friends; I envy Dr. Curtis and Booter the fun they had remodeling Cook's house. Most of all, I am thrilled because of the loving, neighborly spirit that inaugurated the project. And, from now on, whenever I'm feeling low about the state of the world, I'm going to think of Cook, sitting on the porch of his remodeled house or resting in the cool of the evening under his vine and fig tree, and I'll feel better.

WEED TREES

Question: On the property which we just bought there are a large number of small trees mostly maple and oak, which are growing up in the shrubbery line. These trees are starting to pull up, and if we clip them down they will sprout again. What can we do to prevent them from sprouting if we cut them down? I am afraid to spray them for fear of injuring the surrounding shrubbery which is very nice.

H. D.

Answer: With a hatchet, cut deep gashes or blazes near the base of the trees. Dip a paint brush into a can of brush-killer solution. Paint the gashes lavishly, but don't touch the surrounding shrubs. After the corrosive liquid has been absorbed and the tree is dead, pull up the stumps, thereby losing wood will for himself and his cause on both sides of the aisle.

Moderate members, mainly because they have large Negro constituencies, find themselves compelled to support Mr. Powell, whereas the solid southern bloc must oppose. It would be political death for them to do otherwise.

SEEK NEGRO VOTE — Republican politicians seek to recapture the Negro vote for next year's national elections, as National Chairman Leonard W. Hall's current campaign reveals. But they also want to line up behind President Eisenhower and his legislative program.

Taking Injustice In Stride Must Be Learned By Child

Tommy's mother heard him crying long before he came in sight. She ran out to meet him, thinking something dreadful had happened to him. He was crying so hard there was no answer to her anxious questioning out as there were no signs of disaster she washed his face and hands and finally quieted him.

"What happened to you? What made you feel so bad?"

Tommy's chest began to heave again and he blurted out: "She chased me home and I wasn't doing a thing to her. I was just petting her cat."

"Whose cat? Where were you?"

"I was coming home from Jimmy's house and Mrs. Boole's cat was on the walk and I petted him and she came out with a big stick and chased me and called me a bad, bad boy and I'm not a bad boy and I didn't hurt her cat nor anything."

"Well, Tommy, you just have to learn that there are some strange people in the world. I suppose Mrs. Boole thought a boy would hurt her cat. I know you wouldn't hurt anything but she doesn't and she hasn't a nice little boy like you. Just keep away from her place and don't touch her cat."

Children have to learn the hard facts of life as they go along. They have to learn that there are disagreeable people in the world. That there are people who do not love them much even upon them sometime or other. They must be warned somehow that there are people who cannot be trusted. They have to learn to take disappointment and injustice in their stride.

Nobody wants to see a child unhappy, but as unhappiness falls to us all sometime or other, he must learn to make the best of a bad situation and cease fretting about it. When something like grief comes to a child, he needs comfort and ought to have it—but he should not be shielded overmuch lest he become dependent on other people for peace and happiness.

From the ground came a sudden interruption: "This is the C. O. Who's talking in that practice plane?"

Back came the answer. "Oh, no you don't! I'm not that snafued!"

"You can't walk out on me like this," shrieked the circus proprietor to the man who, for eight years, had allowed himself to be shot out of a cannon twice daily without a word of protest. "Where could I find another man of your caliber?"

Boy, 11, 'Dead' 2 Hours Saved By Massage

CHICAGO (AP) — A physician described today how an eleven-year-old boy was kept alive and returned to consciousness after a probable record period of almost two hours during which his heart twitched uselessly.

Dr. Ralph Adams of Wolfeboro, N. H., said he knew of no other case in medical literature in which a patient recovered completely after such a long period of heart twitching.

The boy's heart stopped normal beating for an hour and 50 minutes. During this period, his chest wall was opened and his heart was massaged by hand. Electric shocks was applied to the heart several times in an effort to restore normal beat. As breathing had ceased, oxygen was pumped into the boy's lungs to prevent damage to his brain.

Sprain Brook Parkway Revived

Road Building Speedup Near As Moses, County Men Confer

EMLSFORD—

State and County officials overhauled old and new plans for parkways and parks in Westchester and agreed upon a concerted movement to expedite construction. The meeting brought together 26 public officials at luncheon here, with Robert Moses, Chairman of the State Council of Parks, contributing the heaviest share of planning.

Outstanding points made yesterday were:

1. The State expects to revive and push for early construction the long-planned Sprain Brook Parkway from the Bronx River Parkway at Midland Avenue in Yonkers to the Hawthorne Traffic Circle in Mount Pleasant.

2. The State also plans to build a 1,200-foot connection between the Sprain Brook Parkway and the State Thruway south of Tuckahoe Road in Yonkers.

3. James S. Bixby, State District Engineer, reported that the State expects to have plans for the White Plains section of the Cross - Westchester Expressway ready for advertising by Fall.

4. Improvement of the Hawthorne Traffic Circle area at a cost of $2,500,000 has been proposed by the state.

5. State park officials announced they will seek once more to obtain appropriations to enable the state to take over and operate Mohansic Park in Yorktown.

6. Commissioner Moses intimated he disapproves of Westchester's plans to limit its of some county parks, beaches, pools and golf courses to county residents. However, he did not threaten retaliatory action by New York City, whose parks he also directs.

Mr. Moses said the State's plan to build the $26 million, 15-mile-long Sprain Brook Parkway was "An old proposal" that had been shelved too long.

"It is the only way to improve conditions on the Bronx River Parkway. It is a waste of time to rebuild the Bronx Parkway north of Cross County Parkway. The only answer is to go up the Sprain Brook Valley," asserted Mr. Moses.

Final orders dispossessing 10 persons and three businesses from property on Myrtle Boulevard, Byron Place, and North Chatsworth Avenue which stand in the way of the New England Thruway were issued last night by Judge Munn Brewer in Town of Mamaroneck Police Court.

Victor Marrara, doing business as Plaza Pharmacy, 8 North Chatsworth Avenue.

Mr. Lott pointed out to Judge Brewer that the tenants in the buildings have had plenty of time to find homes and business places, and the demolition contractor is ready to move in the sites and destroy the buildings so that Thruway construction can continue.

Heat Spell To Continue

A weekend of sizzling temperatures perhaps near 100 degrees with no relief in sight anywhere was predicted for Westchester today.

Yesterday's high at the Westchester County Airport was 92 but the mercury today is expected to zoom to the upper 90s. And the same sort of weather is in store for tomorrow and Sunday.

Scattered showers are forecast for Sunday in the late afternoon and evening. Monday may be a shade less hot but there is no real relief in North America or far out into the Pacific.

The temperature has hit or bettered 90 degrees in two of the first three weekends of July, indicating this month may become the hottest July on record.

By the way, yesterday's high temperature in Miami, Fla., was 79.

CONGRESS CHIEFS DOUBT REDS WILL AGREE TO SWAP

Some Leaders Hopeful, Others Say President Went Too Far

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bipartisan Congressional praise for President Eisenhower's newest disarmament inspection proposal was tempered today with expressions of doubt that Russia will accept it.

The proposal brought quick and generally favorable reaction from many Congressional leaders who had been advised in advance of its broad outlines.

Some expressed hope—but not confidence — that Russia will agree. Some were skeptical Some professed to feel the offer went too far.

Senator Saltonstall, R., Mass., called the proposal "a very forthright step toward ending the cold war". He expressed "hope the Russians will see the light and allow the inspections."

Senator Sparkman, D. Ala., a Foreign Relations committeeman, commented: "I don't believe that the Russians will accept, but if they do, it should go a long way toward ending present world tensions."

Chairman George, D., Ga., of the Foreign relations Committee said, "We certainly have nothing to lose from the military viewpoint because we live in a fishbowl."

Others elaborated on that idea Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, D., Tex., said "it will test the good faith of the Communists and demasks the warmongers from the peacemakers."

Senator Clements, D., Ky., acting leader in Mr. Johnson's absence, also hailed it as a "practical and workable" plan, and his opposite number in the house, Representative McCormack, D., Mass., said its rejection by the Russians would amount to an exposure of "insincerity" on their part.

On the Republican side, House GOP Leader Martin of Massachusetts said the proposal "might be the step which would lead to peace".

Objections came from two members of the House Armed Services Committee. Representative Short, R., Mo., said "that's certainly cooperating, almost to the point of dinner". Reresentative Rivers, D.,S.C., commented that "I'm opposed to giving the Russians anything."

15th Office Looted

Burglars Net $200 In 2 Hits, 2 Misses

Two more burglaries, one in the Town, the other in the Village of Mamaroneck, last night netted more than $200, police reported today, and brought to 15 the number of local business places looted in the last two weeks.

The morning's blotter also recorded ten unsuccessful attempts to enter Mamaroneck business places, but precautions taken by the proprietors foiled the intruders.

Door Pried Off

Town police reported that at 5:47 A. M. John Carri, an employe of Westchester Limousine Service, 181 Myrtle Boulevard, found the office had been entered by prying off a door in a partition dividing the office from unoccupied living quarters.

More than $200 in bills and about $8 in change had been in six pay envelopes, Steve Santangelo of 1010 Halstead Avenue, Mamaroneck, proprietor, told police. All desk drawers had been opened, police found on a chair a $10 bill which the burglar had dropped or overlooked.

Window Broken

The other burglary, at Red Top Service Station, 976 Mamaroneck Avenue, was discovered at 7:05 A. M. by an employe.

Mamaroneck police found a rear window in the lubritorium broken and the latch opened.

The burglar took $2 in pennies from a cash drawer, but missed silver and bills elsewhere in the station, police said.

Gas Stolen

The burglar must have run low on gasoline, police reported, since he also turned on the gasoline pump switch and helped himself to $2 worth of gasoline.

The station had been checked at 1 and 2 A. M., and nothing was amiss at those times, police said.

Glass Cracked

An attempted break at Crown Service Station, Mamaroneck and Halstead Avenues, was discovered at 5:40 A. M. by Pfl. Thomas J. Eaton while making routine backdoor checks. A pane of glass in a rear window near the oil and grease storage bin had been broken, he said, but the window was secured in a manner that defeated the burglar's attempt to enter.

The building has been checked at 2:05 A. M. and was all right, police reported.

Mrsh Tampered With

The other attempt, at Tony's Lunch, 658 Old White Plains Road was discovered by Anthony Nollette, proprietor, at 6 A. M. when he opened. Police said that wire mesh had been pried from a rear door, but no entry made.

The rear is surrounded by a wooden fence topped with barbed wire, police reported. The restaurant was closed at 8 P. M. yesterday.

Big Four Consider Session Tonight On Eisenhower's Offer

Timing Keen on Strategy

Quarterback Ike Saw Hole, Cut Loose

GENEVA (AP)—President Eisenhower's timing of his sensational proposal to trade military power secrets with Russia had a good deal of football quarterback strategy about it.

The President waited at the Big Four conference for a quick opening —which U. S. officials feel Soviet Premier Bulganin provided—then cut loose with the ball.

Mr. Eisenhower had the play in mind all along. He decided the moment had come when Bulganin presented pretty much the same old Soviet proposals on disarmament.

Mr. Eisenhower went to yesterday's summit meeting with a prepared statement outlining the general U.S. position on freeing the world from fear of an atomic attack.

But there was a deliberate gap in Mr. Eisenhower's prepared text. It did not include the two-point proposal he made for an exchange of military information.

There probably were at least three reasons for that:

1. The President undoubtedly wanted the Soviet disarmament ideas presented first — so the United States then could recapture world attention.

2. Mr. Eisenhower didn't know till an hour a meeting today's session would prove the strategic occasion for his move. For that reason he decided it would be best not to bring the proposals into the conference room in written form.

3. Presidential aids feared that if the proposals were included in the prepared text, the substance of the plan might leak out and give the Russians a chance to develop counter-strategy.

Mr. Eisenhower had the play in mind all along. He decided the moment had come when Bulganin presented pretty much the same old Soviet proposals on disarmament.

But when Bulganin concluded disarmament presentation, Mr Eisenhower saw his opening.

He read from his prepared statement for three or four minutes, then whipped off his horn-rimmed glasses, put aside his text and looked directly at Bulganin.

Speaking extemporaneously, the President addressed himself "particularly to the delegates from the Soviet Union."

When he resumed reading his text two minutes later, he had set forth "off the cuff" his challenge to the Russians to exchange military power blueprints with the United States.

PERONISTA CHIEF QUITS PARTY POST

Gunfire Kills One In Demonstration

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Rear Adm. Alberto Teissaire, Argentina's vice president, announced today his resignation as head of the Peronista Party.

Adm. Teissaire's unexpected announcement came amidst political demonstrations marked by some violence.

Political activity, including formation of new parties, has heightened since the abortive June 16 revolt.

Yesterday Adm. Teissaire issued a party statement calling on all political parties to support a truce appeal made by President Peron in a speech earlier this month.

Mr. Peron announced on July 15 he was stepping down as leader of the Peronista revolution to become "the president of all Argentines, friends and foes." He was not an official in the party himself.

One person was reported killed by gunfire in political violence early today.

BONN ARMY BILL GIVEN APPROVAL

Acts For Volunteers, Screening Unit Passed

BONN, Germany (AP) —Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's first rearmament bills for the build-up of West Germany's new 500,000-man defense force won final parliamentary approval today.

The Bundesrat (upper house) swiftly passed two bills authorizing the government to call up the first volunteers this year and creating a permanent civilian committee to screen the appointment of all senior officers.

The bills now go to President Theodor Heuss for his signature. They were approved by the Bundestag (lower house) last week.

Today's vote cleared the way for Mr. Adenauer's government to take the first steps toward building up the 12-division army, 1,300-plane jet air force and coastal defense navy pledged to the Atlantic Alliance.

Driver, 75, In 1st Accident Hits Horse

YONKERS—

James O'Neill, veteran State Supreme Court stenographer, who had a 43-year driving record without an accident, ran over and seriously injured his housekeeper at 3 P. M. yesterday and struck a junk wagon horse.

Injured was Mrs. O'Neill, seventy-five, of 235 Palisade Avenue, was pulling up at Herriot and Clinton Streets to pick up her housekeeper, Mrs. Myrtle Douglas, fifty, of 115 Hewitt Street.

Just as Mrs. Douglas walked in front of the slow-moving car, police said, it lurched forward and struck her. Mr. O'Neill told police his accelerator got stuck. The car dragged Mrs. Douglas several feet then struck the horse and wagon owned by Frank Chiarra, seventy, of 186 Oak Street. The wagon overturned and the horse's front legs were broken.

The horse was destroyed by police on advice from a veterinarian.

Mrs. Douglas was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital with multiple injuries.

Anthony J. Familia of 1 Addison Street, Larchmont, yesterday was honored by his fellow employes at the Larchmont Post Office as his retirement brought to an end more than a quarter century of service with the United States mails and 23 years' association with the local office.

In a ceremony in the office of Postmaster Paul Lane, Mr. Familia was presented a $200 check from the Larchmont Postal Employes Benevolent Association by Joseph Gibbon, treasurer.

On hand for the occasion were Lane and the Larchmont postal staff including carriers, P. K. Reilly, superintendent of mails; Augustus Funck, president of the association; Mr. Lane, and Florence Hunter, clerk-in-charge.

Mr. Familia is retiring to Canoga Park, Calif., where he intends to go into real estate construction, the corporation for which, he says, has already been formed.

He started in 1919

Mr. Familia was a postal clerk at the time of his retirement. He entered the postal service in April, 1919, in New York City where he worked at Station A. He was on sick leave from 1926 to 1932 and came to the Larchmont station on reentering active service.

More Time Sought For Key Issues

GENEVA, (AP)—The Big Four were reported to be considering a possible summitt session tonight to permit more time for discussion of key problems, including president Eisenhower's dramatic proposal to trade military blueprints with Russia.

As the Leaders plunged into a full afternoon of talks, Informed quarters said united nations officials had been alerted to have the Council Chamber of the Palais des Nations ready for a possible night meeting.

The President was said to be definitely committed to leave tomorrow evening for Washington and the summit conference was running far behind schedule.

Ministers in Session

The four Foreign Ministers went back into session this afternoon after a three-hour session this morning failed to complete final recommendations to the heads of government on any of the three problems under discussion.

One informed source said the President's proposal was not specifically mentioned at the morning session. This meant that Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov had not given a hint as to whether Russia would accept the plan or even promise to consider it further.

Some quarters saw a possibility that the Eisenhower proposal might get shunted aside, along with other proposals on disarmament, German unification and European security for discussion after the summit conference.

The leaders appeared to be aiming now primarily at issuing top directives for the guidance of a Foreign Ministers' conference next October and for future discussions in the U.N. subcommittee on disarmament.

The Foreign Ministers spent the morning on this problem and returned to the job in the afternoon.

The four heads of government —President Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Bulganin, British Prime Minister Eden and French Premier Faure—arranged to meet later to take up whatever recommendations were handed up by the foreign ministers.

Today's summitt meeting was postponed for an hour when the Foreign Ministers asked for more time to work on their recommendations. It had been scheduled for 4 P. M.

'Club 75' Jubilee Talent Show Is Feature Of 1955 Race Week

"Club 75", talent show by members of the Larchmont Yacht Club and their friends, was the feature of last night's 1955 Race Week event, held in the club's Pandemonium following the afternoon races.

Master of ceremonies for the show, marking the club's 75th anniversary, was Harold Barry who also entertained with his wife as a dance team. Also on the roster of entertainers was Phil Carney, brother of club manager Bob Carney and Art Carney, noted television performer who led community singing and entertained with his record act.

Helen Malpin proved a show stopper with her songs and imitations, recalled for many encores. She was accompanied at the piano by Buddy Weed, musical director of the Ernie Kovacs radio show and a featured performer annually on the Gershwin memorial show.

Jimmy Blaine of the "Stop the Music" program entertained with a group of songs, and Helen K. Adams, pupil of the Lorna London School, danced to "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue."

Lucille Lawrence entertained at the harp, playing several Debussy compositions, and Bob Murray offered a group of Burl Ives folk songs.

Salt Shaz Routine

Mr. and Mrs. Barry danced a soft shoe number to the accompaniment of a Patsy Waller record, followed by their interpretation of the Lindy. Phil Carney gave a program of imitations and comedy sketches, including a hit imitation of Johnny Ray, and a jam session band featured Betty Munger at the piano.

Other acts included the "Four Cats", rock-and-roll quartet singing, and a guest quartet of American Yacht Club members. The orchestra featured Don Wood at the piano and John Keenan at the drums.

Many yacht club members entertained tables of guests. At one table were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vanderwarker, Mr. and Mrs. George Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. Carl McClure, Mr. and Mrs. George Squibb, Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Donnell, Mr. and Mrs.

It's a Man's World . . . Except on Ladies' Day

BY RUTH R. TAUB

No one will deny it's a man's world, least of all that lively band of women whose husbands have made the Larchmont Yacht Club synonymous with good sailing, and Race Week a classic, known wherever sailors meet.

Except on "Ladies Day", a happy feature of Race Week each year, when the distaff side takes over. The 1955 Diamond Jubilee Ladies Day party yesterday repeated last year's spectacular success aboard the "Kiaora III", luxurious 55-foot cabin cruiser of affable Vice Commodore and Mrs. Sydney G. Rodgers of Scarsdale. Mrs. Erwin D. Tuthill of Larchmont, wife of the Race Week Committee chairman, presided as vivacious official hostess, and cocktails and luncheon preceded the afternoon's cruise to follow the races.

And . . . it's been said before, but it bears repeating, particularly in a Diamond Jubilee year . . . never underestimate the power of a woman: aboard the Kiaora yesterday were a good many members of racing skippers, including three winners. Each received from Vice Commodore Rodgers a resounding blast of the ship's horn as he came across the finish line first, under the watchful eyes of the alert men aboard the bear-by committee boat.

Wives Of Officials

The guests at luncheon were a pleasant and attractive group. They included Mrs. Vincent J. Monte-Sano, wife of the Commodore; Mrs. Henry C. Boschen, wife of the Rear Commodore; Mrs. George S. Hills, wife of the secretary; and Mrs. Hugh Kilmer, wife of the Fleet Captain.

Also, Mrs. G. H. Wolfe, wife of the house committee chairman; Mrs. Douglas Williams, wife of the entertainment committee chairman; Mrs. George Egan, wife of the pool committee chairman; Mrs. C. Townsend Corning, wife of the junior sailing committee chairman; Mrs. Fred L. Bentley, wife of the regatta patrol chairman; and Mrs. Clinton M. Bell, wife of the Winter sailing committee chairman.

Completing the group were Mrs. M. L. Van Slyck, wife of the Race Committee secretary, Mrs. Stanley H. Rose, chairman of the ladies cruise committee; Mrs. Edmund G. Anderson, wife of a former Race Committee chairman; Mrs. Charles Ogilvy, long identified with the club, through her late husband and her sailing sons; and the wives of the Race Committee, Mrs. Jan. C. Rasesem, Mrs. Austin M. De Lisser, Mrs. Tom L. Pitsimons, Mrs. Malcolm Tuttle, Mrs. Walter L. Yates and Mrs. Robert S. MacCallum.

Most of them spent the day on the Kiaora following cocktails and luncheon served in a decorative Diamond Jubilee motif featuring "diamond" studded streamers and table centerpieces of blue delphinium and white daisies. Place cards, also "diamond" trimmed were attached to dainty corsages of cornflowers and baby's breath.

The Old Order Changeth

The gala 1955 Ladies Day event marking the club's 75th year, bore no slightest resemblance to ladies' days of a bygone era. Many veteran sailing wives on board could remember when ladies' day meant that the ladies were permitted (none too graciously at that) to remain quietly on chairs lined up on the yacht club lawn, to await the return of the racing contestants. And it's not too many years ago that women were forbidden to go above the first floor at the club. Gentlemen, o mores . . . the old order has indeed changed and today in this Diamond Jubilee year effectively dramatized by Mrs Tuthill in her decorative plans for the Larchmont Yacht Club wives will agree: they never had it so good on Ladies Day!

Making her debut at a Ladies Day event was blonde Mrs. Hills Larchmont Junior Leaguer, in Larchmont for the first time during Race Week. The Hills who reside at 296 Forest Avenue, New Rochelle, usually spent their Summers on Cape Cod, at their cottage in West Harwich near the Belmont Hotel. Their daughter Ann is a Vassar College student and their daughter Joan is a Wheaton College graduate.

Back for her second Ladies Day party, ("now that the children are older and it's simpler to get away"), miniature-sized Peggy Monte-Sano was stunning in a colorful silk print, the design inspired by a panel at the yacht club.

Mothers of Winners

Mrs. Monte-Sano, busily taking movies of the Blue Jay fleet in which young Bizzie was sailing his "Gray Ghost", was a proud and happy mother as his boat came in first in the class.

Another sailing youngster was Mrs. Brassem's sixteen-year old daughter Elma, a Mamaroneck High School student, in her Thistle, "Allons." Mrs. Brassem turned out to be a fashion-conversation piece, with her dress the exact shade of the luncheon table corsages.

Mrs. Boschen was gleeful over her son's win, seventeen year old Rico (he acquired his nickname at the age of two when the Boschens, Scarsdale residents, were living in South America), sharing his S-class success with his crew, the Tuthills' son Bob, recent Columbia graduate and Class Day presiding officer. The Boschens are truly a water sports family. Mrs. Boschen crews, and fourteen year old Tommy is at Camp Aquatic in Massachusetts and a proficient swimmer. The Boschens' daughter Georgia is almost twelve. Mrs. Boschen is active in a Mariner's group.

One of the best known of Larchmont's sailing champions was also a winner yesterday, Stan Ogilvy in his famous Star. His crusader is one of those rare women who realize their blessings and appreciate them. Mrs. Ogilvy enjoys to the fullest measure her three sons and her grandchildren: her charming house at 943 Greacen Point Road, Mamaroneck, a pleasant haven for family and friends; her garden, where she raises all the vegetables used by the household, (including potatoes and peas), which she freezes; and her frequent and exciting travels.

A 48-Hour Day!

Mrs. Ogilvy's life is so full that she wonders at those who wish for a mere 48-hour week. What she needs is a 48-hour day!

Another contented grandmother on board was Mrs. Tuttle. The Tuttles, former Larchmonters and members of the club for more than 20 years, reside at 56 Avon Road, New Rochelle. They too travel abroad often during the Winter months, Mrs. Tuttle accompanying her engineer-consultant husband on his trips. In the Summer they enjoy sailing and life in general, on Cape Cod, in South Orleans, with their daughters, Mrs. Donald Geary Jr., of Larchmont and Mrs. Arthur Snyder of Eastchester, and their five grandchildren, Susan, Donald, Laura, Patricia and John. Mrs. Tuttle is one of the active members of the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Episcopal Church of Larchmont. She and her family are great skiing enthusiasts.

Also active at St. John's, in the Evening Guild, is Mrs. Rose, who does a fine job planning the holiday luncheons at the yacht club.

Mrs. Corning, lustily cheering on young Tyner, was her usual smartly tailored self in navy blue. The Cornings recently visited the Hoke Simpsons in Tuxedo Park, where they are spending the Summer while Hoke directs Columbia University's study program for business executives. Suzanne, who was one of the shining lights aboard the Kiaora last year when her husband was serving as entertainment committee chairman, is "awfully homesick for Larchmont", Mrs. Corning reports, and looks forward to their return in September with joy.

Fish Year History

High-spirited Mrs. Kilmer sported her usual enviable tan. The Kilmers are planning a "land cruise" for a change, through the Berkshires and on to Montreal, some time next month. Mrs. Wolfe, whose husband is compiling a 75th anniversary history of the club for the yearbook, was looking forward to his return last night from a Pennsylvania trip.

Mrs. De Lisser, looking serene in lace-trimmed gray, and Mrs. Yates, in a black and white print with the hats now in vogue so becomingly, could not remember how many Ladies Days they had taken part in, Larchmont Yacht Club veterans both. Mrs. Van Slyck was eagerly awaiting news from her young son traveling to Europe on a freighter.

Mrs. Tuthill, wearing "air cooled" pale pink nylon cotton, received compliments in three departments: her stunning plastic shoes, blossom-trimmed; her efficient arrangements and handsome decor for the Ladies Day party; and Tut's competent management of the problems that go hand-in-hand with the enormous 1955 Race Week fleet.

Everyone on board responded to lovely Freddie Rodgers' outgoing warmth and innate kindness, (both qualities also dominant in her hospitable husband.) It is easy to see why this close-knit, devoted family has so many wonderful times together. A first year sailor, fourteen year old Glenn is usually at camp during Race Week, nine year old Lynn is at camp in Maine, and little Leslie, five, is at day camp. The family assumed early duty week from a cruise to Boothbay Harbor, in the Kiaora, visiting Lynn, at camp for her first season.

Yesterday may have been the hottest day of the year, as the Weather Bureau reliably reports. But to those on board the Kiaora it was the most delightful day of the Summer! Diamond Jubilee orchids to the Rodgers, to the Tuthills and to the Larchmont Yacht Club, and especially, to its ladies.

Picnic, Square Dance Honor Althea Bates

Althea Mae Bates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bates of 40 Pine Brook Drive, Larchmont, was honored last night at a 13th birthday anniversary celebration, as a picnic supper at the Bates home, followed by an evening of square dancing at Playland.

Guests at the birthday celebration were Pamela Bell, Lory Buechling, Mary Ellen Clark, Lynn Baron, John Harmon, Ian Fraser, John Rarris, Richard Talbot, Guy Caperaton and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Clark.

SOCIAL SERVICE HEAD

Mrs. Irving G. Fox, social service chairman of the Sisterhood of Temple Israel, New Rochelle, was incorrectly identified as its president Wednesday in a "Service-Committee" story.

Man Joins in Hunt For Lost Swimmer, Finds He's 'Victim'

X14 b7 Man Joins 11

LIBERTY, Ind., (AP) — The weekly Liberty terrain yester-day related this hot weather story:

A visitor at the Whitewater State Park lake had been in and out of the lake all after-noon while his wife basked in the sunshine at the beach.

Suddenly the wife missed her husband. An alarm spread and efforts were made to locate the bather. Friends tried to comfort the frightened wife while life-guards began diving.

Other swimmers and park of-ficials formed a human chain in the water as they joined in the search. As the chain inched its way up the beach someone asked for the name of the victim. When the full name was repeated a helper in the middle chain looked up with a startled expression and shouted, "Why

Both Parties Plot Auto Insurance

By ROBERT KASMIRE
Associated Press Staff

ALBANY (AP) — Experts on both sides of the political fence are rolling up their sleeves to tackle a problem posed by unin-sured automobile drivers.

The result of their labors could touch off a battle in the Legis-lature next year comparable to the bitter closing hours fight of 1954. It takes just two words to do that: around here—"compulso-ry insurance".

On their side, the Republican majority leaders of the Legisla-ture have called on a joint legislative committee to consider proposals and make a recommen-dation for dealing with financial-ly irresponsible motorists. The Democrats Administration mean-while, has quietly begun a study of its own, aimed at the same goal.

Motorist Pool Pondered

Right now it's an even-money bet that compulsory insurance will be the proposed answer. Other possibilities include strict financial responsibility laws of proposals based on the "unsatis-fied judgment" principle.

Under the latter plan, insured motorists pay a sum, beyond their premiums, into a pool, from which is taken money to pay judgments against uninsured dri-vers involved in accidents. The state already has a financial re-sponsibility law.

There is strong sentiment among the ruling Republicans for adoption of some sort of a compulsory insurance plan.

Governor Harriman's position is not yet clear. One administra-tion spokesman represents the Governor this way: "He hasn't made up his mind. That's why he's making a study."

Walter J. Mahoney, Senate Ma-jority Leader, and Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck, have designated the Joint Legislative Committee on Unsatisfied Judg-ments to do the Republicans' spade work.

Harriman Aids Huddle

Jonathan B. Bingham, Mr. Har-riman's secretary, and Daniel Gutman, the Governor's counsel, are heading the Administration's task force. The two men huddled this week to go over the plan of attack.

The administration study is be-ing made on an intradepartmen-tal basis, mostly by Mr. Harri-man's own office and the Motor Vehicles Bureau of the tax de-partment. Thus, whatever pro-posal is made probably will be u veiled in Mr. Harriman's second annual message on the opening day of the 1956 session.

The Republicans are expected to nail their plan into their own legislative program, presumably to be announced late this year.

One thing is sure. All it takes is one little bill proposing com-pulsory insurance backed by the leadership of either party, to set off a deluge of oratory, a flurry of party caucuses and the hum of lobbying machines in capitol corridors.

Lava Perils Sicily Village

FORNAZZO, Sicily (AP) — A wall of burning lava crept at the rate of 120 feet an hour today toward this village on the side of Mt. Etna.

The glowing red river, 15 feet high and 150 feet wide, was still some four miles from the center of Fornazzo, but was only 2,500 feet from some outlying houses.

Milo, another village a mile away also was in the path of the lava.

Louisiana GOP Starts Eisenhower Draft

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —Louisi-ana Republicans today organ-ized a "Louisiana Wants Ike" committee and said it was the nation's first statewide move-ment to draft President Eisen-hower to run again in 1956.

Nearly 100 GOP leaders from every congressional district met Oct. 1 for a statewide "D-E" (Draft Eisenhower) day filled with radio and television speech-es, distribution of "draft Ike" lit-erature and petition signing.

The thirty-four-year-old speed king raced his Turbojet Bluebird over the wa-ter of Ullswater Lake to break the old record of 178.4 miles an hour set by American Stanley Sayres three years ago.

Swede Beauty Wins Miss Universe Title

LONG BEACH, Calif., (AP — Miss Sweden, a blonde Grace Kelly type, tonight was named Miss Universe.

The runners-up were, in this order, the Misses El Salvador, Ceylon, Germany and Japan.

Miss U. S. A., Carlene King Johnson of Rutland, Vt., who didn't make the final five, said she was "very happy, anyhow."

"I don't see how they could have picked anybody else but Miss Sweden." Miss Johnson said. "As for myself, I feel that I have more honor than I de-serve."

The selection of the tall and shapely Hillevi Rombin was no surprise—especially to the other girls in the contest. Earlier today a reporter asked the 15 finalists their choice for the winner.

It came back practically un-animous for Miss Sweden.

Her measurements are in the traditional Miss Universe dimen-sions, hips and bust, 36, and waist, 23. She was one of the biggest girls in the contest, standing 5 feet 7 inches and weighing 130 pounds.

She hails from Upsala, in Swe-den, and is college educated. The twenty - one - year - old blonde speaks five languages fluently—German, French, Spanish and English in addition to her native tongue.

Latin America, which has never has a winner, won runner-up honors with Maribel Arrieta, the Marilyn Monroe of Latin American entrants. Exotic Mau-reen Hingert of Ceylon placed third for the Far East, which also has never had a Miss Universe.

A surprise entrant into the top five was Margit Nunke of Ger-many, a television announcer from Cologne who scored heavily in the personality division. Japan's Keiko Takahashi gave added prestige to the Far East with her fifth-place win.

110 Fires Dot Canada Woods

TORONTO (AP) — Toronto's rich timberlands today faced the worst fire menace in seven years.

The situation is so bad that 200,000 square miles of wood-lands, nearly a quarter of the province, has been sealed to pub-lic travel.

All told 110 fires were burning through the North Country today the Marilyn Monroe of Latin American entrants. Exotic Mau-reen Hingert of Ceylon placed third for the Far East, which also has never had a Miss Universe.

A surprise entrant into the top five was Margit Nunke of Ger-many, a television announcer from Cologne who scored heavily in the personality division. Japan's Keiko Takahashi gave added prestige to the Far East with her fifth-place win.

Thirty-nine were raging out of control despite efforts of 4,500 firefighters.

Some 250,000 acres of forest have been destroyed so far this year, the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests said.

Worst fires were reported at Kapuskasing, Cochrane, Swast-ka, Gogama, Chapleau, White River, Sudbury and Sault Ste Marie.

The meeting, which stressed "the positive aspects of building peace to help bring about disarmament," was held in the home of Mrs. James Picker of The Hommocks, Larchmont. Mrs. Meyer Lewuseski of New Rochelle, international relations chairman of the Westchester Federation of Women's Clubs, arranged the affair.

Mrs. Eleanor S. Towne, international relations chairman of the New York City Federation of Women's Clubs, outlined material available to organizations for use in planning meeting programs. She was assisted by Mrs. Teeko Miyasaki of the Metropolitan New York Division of the AAUN.

The purpose of the meeting, Mrs. Towne said, is for each program chairman to use the best technique for her own group, with films with discussion leaders, plays, music, book reviews or background workshops.

"The result of any method should stimulate the individuals to act for a positive peace," she said.

A film on human rights adaptable for use on patriotic themes, Brotherhood Day observances and other occasions was shown. The effectiveness of the work of the World Health Organization in underprivileged areas in this hemisphere was illustrated by another film, "The Rural Nurse." This picture is available with background material and information outlining the growth of the WHO.

The Technical Assistance Program and Food and Agriculture Organization were described in another movie, "Yesterday Today." Records and U. Delayed 'Mahiscan' Appears; Dedicated To New Addition

The 1955 edition of the "Mahiscan," Mamaroneck High School annual, was mailed yesterday to student subscribers.

Delay in distribution of the book was caused by a labor strike at the publishing house, it was explained by Harvey Ury, faculty business adviser.

Subtitled "Our Dream", the 1955 "Mahiscan" is dedicated to the new addition to the high school, and the annual develops the theme in nine colorful sections. "Realization", an aerial view of the new building as it will appear when completed, supplied by the architects McCoy and Blair, concludes the book.

The contribution of the Class of 1955 is described in the preface, entitled "The Start of Our Dream". It notes that from "the day of the black bottom and the raccoon coat," when the school was built, to the day of the "mambo and the white buck", the number of students grew until finally the community "lifted its eyes to the hilltop", approving the "long-needed addition."

The preface concludes with the dedication to "the memory of what Mamaroneck High School has done for us and with high hopes that it will do the same for countless generations just like us."

Red-and-white Scheme

The attractive red-and-white color scheme is carried through in the nine dividing parts, designed by Audrey Bloodgood; Administration Wing, Seniors, Underclassmen, Student Room, Dramatics, Music, Gymnasium, Publications and Realization.

Included are pictures and descriptions of the work of Dr. T. James Ahern, superintendent, Dr. Helen Halter Long, assistant, Dr. Joseph C. McLain, principal, Louis L. Sullivan and Mrs. Julia Gleason, deans of boys and girls, respectively, the members of the Board of Education, Parent-Teacher-Student Association and faculty, and the secretarial, cafeteria and custodial staffs.

Individual pictures of the 1955 graduates, together with their activities and nicknames are included, as well as group pictures of the other classes.

Along with pictures of Evan Buck, valedictorian, and Kost Pankiwsky, salutatorian, are the names of the 29 members of the Class of 1955 who achieved averages of over 90 per cent, surpassing by eight the number in the Class of 1954.

Other pictures show Jayne Piper, elected "Miss MHS", the girl who "best typifies the spirit of MHS"; and the runners-up, Maureen Hegarty and Eileen McMichael.

"Best Of 1955"

Two pages of "The Best of 1955", winners of the yearly senior poll, feature pictures of Miss McMullen and Jim Bartlett, voted most likely to succeed and most influential. Lynn Morrison and Bill Johnson, best dancers; Norma Thompson and Jim Van Nostern, best dressed; Pam Zucker feller and Anne Keenleyside, most considerate; Johnson and Bambi Burdick, best looking; George Cleland and Mary Lou Warren, biggest wolf and flirt; Jan Duncan and Miss Morrison, best all-around; Paul Cunningham and Miss Piper, best personality; Lew Rapaport and Sally Perkin, wittiest; John Kenney and Sharon Pollock, best athletes; Miss Hegarty and Mike Shimkin, most popular; Miss Hegarty and Cuningham, best mixers; Sally Goulding and Victor Ziskin, most musical; and Shimkin and Miss Piper, voted to have done most for MHS.

Photographs of members of all clubs, class councils, honorary societies and sports squads are featured in the 152-page annual, for which cartoons were drawn by Bob Howard. A four-page supplement, covering events occurring in June will be sent to graduates and distributed to underclass subscribers in the Fall.

The book includes the casts of the senior play, "Night of January 16", and the all-school play, "Time Out For Danger", as well as summaries of the work of the Record, school newspaper, and the Mahiscan staffs.

Special Features

Special features of the 1955, "Mahiscan" are eight pages of montages, pictures of well-known student cars, a two-page spread on dance highlights of the year, a month-by-month review of the year and stories on the open house, work theory, stage and fashion student programs.

The significance of the commercial cultivation of chlorella, a unicellular green organism found in ponds and streams, was described last week by mrs. harry Schwartz at a board meeting of Larchmont Hadassah.

Speaking at the home of the president, Mrs. Frederic Dannay, of 29 Byron Lane, Larchmont, Mrs. Schwartz described the research of the last five years by the Botany Department of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, where experiments have been conducted which Mrs. Schwartz said are followed with interest by scientists everywhere.

The organism, with the addition of sun, water and simple cheap chemicals, produces protein more effectively than any known plant, Mrs. Schwartz pointed out, and as it reproduces itself twice daily the supply is inexhaustible. In a world where population is expanding faster than food can be grown to feed it, chlorella is expected to "save us from ultimate starvation and in the immediate future to enable underfed populations to raise their standards of living", she noted. While it is palatable to man, at present it is planned to use this efficient protein producer only to feed cattle and poultry, she said.

Mrs. Schwartz said that the University's experiments prove that from one acre the annual yield from chlorella in dry fodder is 120 tons, whereas the best record for sugar-beet (the most efficient of present crops for fodder), if grown in two crops yearly, is 20 tons per acre. The problem now is to develop a method for growing chlorella commercially, she said, and Israeli scientists claim this can be done in plastic, transparent tanks with mirrors ingeniously placed to reflect the sun all day into the water, and power-driven paddles to prevent chlorella from sinking too far below the surface of the water, out of the sun's rays.

For lands poor in arable soil but rich in sunshine, she continued, chlorella promises a cheap source of feed for cattle and chickens, which in turn produce high protein foods, meat, milk, eggs, butter and cheese. "Tiny Israel, pressed by limited land resources and a vastly expanding population, is leading in solving its own and the world's pressing problem," Mrs. Schwartz concluded.
