PRAYER FOR TODAY

Amid the splendor of Nature's unfolding on this first day of June, dear gracious God, I pray in gratitude for the glorious arrays of flowers all about us, helping to inspire men and women in their deeper emotional and spiritual moments. Let the beauty, the innocence, the purity and the dazzling glory of flowers bring inspiration, pleasure and comfort to every beholder. None is nearer God's heart in a garden than anywhere else on earth."

For How Much Longer?

OUR PATIENT motorists have tolerated for much too long the dangerous conditions left by incompleted repair work on the highways of our community.

Several accidents have already been reported as a result of the potholes which line sections of the heavily-trafficked Boston Post Road through Mamaroneck and Larchmont. Fortunately none has yet been serious.

Only last week a truck axle was broken after the vehicle hit what the police termed a "depression in the road." The accident happened in a busy section of Larchmont where a wheel was sent caroming into a plate glass window and the truck skidded 400 feet out of control. Luckily, only the driver was injured, and he not seriously.

The car-jarring holes present a greater hazard as the Summer approaches with its increased Post Road traffic.

From Mamaroneck Village, through the Town of Mamaroneck, Larchmont Village and into the City of New Rochelle, trucks, cars and buses are forced to weave their way around and over depressions in the road caused by these badly backfilled repairs.

Bumps and depressions stud the highway.

No one questions the work which is needed on conduits and pipe lines but there is a reasonable limit to the time which should be required to restore the highway to a safe condition.

Modern vehicles are created for modern roads and certainly U. S. Highway No. 1 should be a modern road. Instead it resembles much more closely a back-country lane of the early twenties.

Local officials of all three communities have notified state highway authorities of the intolerable condition but no action has been forthcoming.

As vacation traffic increases so does the possibility of a major accident.

We believe it is about time that someone with proper authority issues orders for a complete resurfacing of these extremely hazardous hole-in-the-road areas before someone suffers a hole in the head.

The New Haven Case

COUNTY Attorney Harry Herman put his finger squarely on the issue in argument yesterday before the Public Service Commission over New Haven Railroad passenger rates:

"The people of Westchester County and the commuters of the New Haven Railroad are willing to pay for what they get, but they are not willing to pay, and I am here to resist, any increased rates based upon costs and charges which are unnecessary, unwarranted and excessive.

"The New Haven Railroad must first put its house in order and demonstrate that it is running an economical and efficient railroad, stripped to the bone as far as waste fat is concerned, before it can presume to ask the Commission to inflict on the commuters increased charges to subsidize wasteful and uneconomic operation."

That is plain talk. It is rightly so.

For there have been grave suspicions in recent years that the New Haven has not been as economically and as efficiently operated as was possible. Those charges, in fact, have emanated in part, from the board of directors of the railroad itself. And the feuding and fighting, the clawing and cussing, within the ranks of New Haven management, have not at all inspired public confidence.

Before the PSC accepts railroad evidence at face value, we urge a careful scrutiny. If necessary let it make its own independent study to determine whether the railroad is, as County Attorney Herman intimates, "helplessly immersed in a morass of financial involvement".

Let's have the full facts before we get a decision.

4-Cent Stamp Needed

POSTMASTER General Summerfield wants to balance his department budget. Chief factor would be raising postage for ordinary first-class mail from three to four cents per ounce or fraction thereof.

Doesn't seem much, does it, just an extra penny?

Yet it would be the principal cause in eliminating our annual postal deficit. And that deficit has been mounting alarmingly.

From 1900 to 1940 the average annual deficit of the department was about $35 million. But in the decade following world War II the average annual deficit has increased to around $460 million, almost 14 times as great.

Losses from these deficits since World War II total $4.6 billion.

Postmaster General Summerfield figures that if we had that money available for other purposes than meeting the postal deficits we could have built or bought any one of these: 46,000 miles of new roads.

150 more destroyers for our Navy.

6,000 new high schools.

20 new bomber wings, a total of 1,000 planes.

13,000 elementary schools.

Equipment for 23 infantry divisions.

460,000 new homes.

13,800 public libraries.

4-year scholarships for 1 million youngsters.

All this for a four-cent postage stamp—and the letter delivered promptly, too!

Try and Stop Me

A conceited columnist was in the Far East on vacation when news of a serious volcanic eruption nearby was cabled to the USA. His managing editor, licking his chops over an anticipated on-the-spot scoop story, cabled the columnist: "Send all details and spare no expense."

Back came the answer, "No cause for alarm. I am safe."

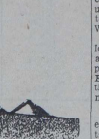
MY ANSWER

By Billy Graham



Question: I work in a store on weekends. On two occasions I have taken small obects from the store which have never been missed. However, I am unhappy about it and want to make it good but am afraid to. What should I do?

Answer: You have answered your own question. You are unhappy because your conscience hurts. Your are unhappy because you have not made restitution and you know you should. Happiness of mind and peace of heart will come back by doing the thing you know you ought to do. Go to the owner of the store and tell him the whole story, and happiness, too.

Make good all of the value of the things you took and promise, by God's help, not to do it again. It is my opinion that your employer will honor your attitude and forgive you fully. You have raised a question which is of importance to all Christians. Restitution is a sign of true repentance. Only too often we think that the admission of a sin to ourselves, and to God, is all that is required. But, where our sins have involved other people we must make proper confession and, where indicated, restitution. This is the road to full forgiveness, and, it is the road to peace and happiness, too.

Another Run For Old Nylons

Question: Some time ago you gave the address of the Westchester Blind Association for used nylon stockings and I usually took mine there. But upon inquiry today, I learned they have more than enough temporarily. Have you any other address where they could be sent?

A. W. R.

Answer: Send them to the Occupational Therapy Department of the Westchester County Home, East View, where many elderly women make all sorts of attractive gifts using nylon, for their Christmas Fair. Or to the Westfield State Farm, Department of Education, Bedford Hills, where the same use is made of them. The Ladies Auxiliary of the VFW Post 396, 13 South Third Avenue, Mount Vernon, also can use old nylons. Don't throw them away.

GROOM'S CAKE

Question: Could you tell me where "Groom's Cake" originated, and supply me with a recipe? T. A. L.

Answer: The "Groom's Cake" is the second wedding cake, the dark fruit cake usually cut into small squares ready for guests to take home on leaving the reception. Sometimes it is placed in small boxes and stacked near the exit door on a table, sometimes simply wrapped in silver foil and tied with white ribbon. The origin is lost; the idea of taking home bridal cake dates back to Anglo-Saxon days in Great Britain. As for the recipe, any rich, dark fruit cake recipe may be used. The more fruits, spices and nuts the better.

CRACKS IN DAMS

Question: I understand that there is some chemical which, if put into a pond, will form a sort of jelly and will seal leaks in cracks in dams, etc. Can you tell me the name of the chemical? D. M.

Answer: No. If there is an effective substance to hold back a head of water from flowing through a crack, the Bureau of Standards, Washington, will be able to give specific information about it. Experts here advise displacing the water around the dam, and calking up the cracks with compounds made for this purpose; they believe other materials however well advertised will not hold. Also, chemicals in water with the property of congealing would be fatal to any life in the pond, and unpleasant for boating and swimming. Why don't you consult swimming pool builders?

Studious Boy Must Learn To Take Time Out To Play

"We are worried about our boy. He is eleven years old, does good work in school and all that, but he does not want to go out of the house to play with other boys.

"He sits in the house with a book about atoms, rockets, planes, space ships and the like. Once he is pushed out to play, he does all right—but he will not go of his own accord.

There are some children, and some of their elders, who have no interest in sports. Their interests lie in other directions. Some of these children are deeply interested in modern inventions, scientific discoveries—and who would say that that interest was not a healthy one?

Then, too, we have the children who forever stand on the sidelines looking on while the team plays. Maybe they serve a good purpose? If we are to have teams, and it seems we are to have them in increasing numbers, they have to have an audience, and a cheering squad, and a bat boy and a water boy. It could be that those who only looked on did their bit to help those who worked so hard at the game.

Still, every child needs to play a little. This studious boy who prefers to read rather than to play ball might well set aside an hour or so of his day for outdoor play, for the sake of his health and, too, for the sake of the breadth and depth of experiences association with others allows him.

Scholars, scientists, students in any field need all the enrichment contacts with people and their affairs offer them. The broader their education, the better. That means the more people they know, the more different experiences they have with them, the better for them and for their work.

So we try to induce the boys and girls to do some work on the playground, in the gym, for the team. We would like to have them take some part in whatever doings are going on, not for the sake of the doing, but for their own so-precious growth and development.

Propaganda Drums Up Tempo

WASHINGTON — Although American prestige is supposed to be at low tide overseas, there is no sign of such a decline in the propaganda and pressure currently exerted by the foreign diplomatic colony ensconced on Washington's stubborn boulevards — Massachusetts Avenue and 16th Street, once known as the "Avenue of the Presidents".

The volume of diplomatic chatter today is strange and significant. As a rule, the ambassadors and ministers slope down with the advent of Summer, fleeing to the mountains or shore to escape the heat. And they usually call off their press agents toward the close of an administration, being uncertain of the political identity of the next occupants of the White House.

But this eventful year, the diplomats are staying at their posts as never before in the humid period. And all expect President Eisenhower to be reelected, as they have nominal their governments.

AIMS OF ENVOYS—In different ways, from the haughty imitation castle of Her British Majesty on Massachusetts Avenue to the rococo Pullman palace of the Communists on 16th Street, to regal diplomatic family vies for the good will of the White House, the State Department, Congress and the American people. Most of all, the American people.

The great powers—Britain and France—do not indulge in ostentious propaganda. They rely on quiet cocktail, dinner and garden parties. They circulate no literature except on special occasions, and they do not court headlines. They engage in more subtle and effective endeavments.

The Russians, for obvious reasons, try to keep out of the news instead of in it. They have nothing worth selling. They have, however, a lot to hide. It is easier to crash sing sing's gates than to get inside the Communist Embassy, which was built by the Pullman family in the expectation that their son-in-law, the late Frank O. Lowden, would become President.

VODKA AND CAVIAR — The Russians' guest list at their annual vodka-and-caviar celebration of the October Revolution is a selective sheet. Anybody who has ever criticized the Communist regime, save for officials who must be invited because of protocol, is taboo. They open their guarded gates only to supposed sympathizers.

The Anglo-French failure to indulge in conventional press agentry does not mean that they do not lobby for their national interests at the nation's capital. They prefer more polite and polished methods. An invitation to their rare "teas" (Scotch is the preferred beverage), dinners or lawn receptions, especially when they trot out Buckingham royalty or Paris statesmen and gowns, is looked upon as a great distinction.

Supreme Court Justices, Cabinet members and Congressmen ache and angle for an invitation to these functions. And it is rather difficult, if not impossible, to vote for or support an anti-British or anti-French proposal after partaking of such hospitality, and literature except on special occasions, and they do not court much and what under the military aid program.

Following are publishable highlights of this memorandum, bearing the signature of Defense Secretary Wilson:

FLASHES — President Eisenhower will make a nationwide broadcast in a couple of weeks discussing the whole military program, with special emphasis on the development of long-range guided missiles which is under a lot of congressional criticism. Wilson May Get Say About Aid

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower is taking a highly significant step on the heavily-embattled multi-billion dollar foreign aid program.

He proposes to give the Defense Department a lot more say regarding it.

That will be done by asking Congress to create a new Cabinet-rank office of Undersecretary of Defense, and promoting Assistant Defense Secretary Gordon Gray to it.

As Undersecretary of Defense, the able and popular North Carolinian will be virtually on a par with Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., the Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air and Coordination Administration that runs the foreign aid program.

Supported by Georgians

This is essential as Mr. Gray will participate directly in the top-level activities of the National Security Council, key policy agency of the government, the State Department, the three military services, and the ICA.

Senator Richard Russell, D., Ga., and Representative Carl Vinson, D., Ga., chairmen of the Armed Services Committees, have been apprised of this significant change and have indicated they favor it. Their influential support ensures approval by Congress.

Mr. Gray, a combat veteran of World War II, has extensive Pentagon experience. He was Secretary of the Army in the Truman administration, resigning in 1953 to become president of the university of North Carolina. At President Eisenhower's urgent request, Mr. Gray returned to Washington last year as Assistant Defense Secretary for foreign affairs.

WHAT IT'S ABOUT — A Defense Department memorandum stresses that the purpose of the new cabinet-rank office is to give the department a bigger voice in international affairs, particularly foreign aid spending.

The memorandum, which spells out the scope and functions of the new undersecretary, indicates they include such momentous matters as the shipment of arms to Saudi Arabia, negotiations for U. S. bases, East-West trade controls, and who gets how much and what under the military aid program.

Following are publishable highlights of this memorandum, bearing the signature of Defense Secretary Wilson:

"This proposal is designed to provide the Department of Defense with a position which fully recognizes the important and complexity of the part which the Department plays in the international affairs. The Unersecretary would coordinate foreign military affairs throughout the entire Defense establishment, especially in the military assistance program.

ON THE SPOT — Ambassador John Sherman Cooper is doing some blunt talking about the forthcoming visit of Premier Nehru.

The former Kentucky Senator, who is doing a brilliant diplomatic job, is telling congressional leaders that unless the U. S. provides the economic assistance India needs, Russia will do so.

A five-year program totaling $500 million is Mr. Cooper's answer for this Soviet threat.

"It seems unbelievable to me," the Ambassador to India said to a group of former congressional colleagues, "that the U. S. would withdraw or not challenge Russia in this strategic country."

Representative Thomas Morgan, D., Pa., a ranking member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, asked how much aid India has received from the Reds.

"They have given a $100 million credit, to be repaid in 12 years at an interest rate of 2.5 per cent," said Mr. Cooper. "Russia has also agreed to construct a steel mill there, and to supply India with one million tons of steel at the going market price for three years. Russia is also entering a lot of technical assistance, and perhaps some equipment, for the development of India's coal and oil industries. Russia is moving quickly and decisively, and so far has made good on every promise."

The visits of Billy Graham and Walter Reuther, CIO head, were very helpful to the U. S. Mr. Cooper stressed they did much to counteract the Communist propaganda of Premier Bulganin and Communist Party boss Khrushchev.

NOTE: One matter President Eisenhower plans to discuss with Premier Nehru is solving the long-smoldering dispute between India and Portugal over Goa, the tiny island area on the Malabar coast of India. The President plans to suggest to Nehru that India buy Goa from Portugal, as the U. S. bought Louisiana Territory and, later, Alaska in the 1800s.

SOCIAL WHIRL—Senator Walter George, D., Ga., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, who rarely attends a social affair, has agreed to attend one in his honor. It's a buffet dinner by Senator and Mrs. J. Allen Frear, D., Del. . . to signalize Mr. George's appointment as Ambassador to NATO . . . The annual ball of congressional secretaries for their children was a sell out. More than 500 secretaries and members of Congress jammed the biggest ballroom in the capital, after partaking of a dinner that featured steaks weighing more than a pound each. Former Republican Speaker Joe Martin, Mass., declared, "This was one party I wouldn't miss, because these are the people who make us look good to the folks back home."

Atom May Be Pep Pill To Foods

By SAM DAYSON
A. P. Financial Writer

NEW YORK — Industrial scientists are looking to the atom and miracle drugs in their search for ways to prolong the edible life of food.

The day when you can leave meat, fish, milk and vegetables just sitting around indefinitely on the pantry shelf may be some distance away. But large sums are being put into the search. And progress is being reported.

Chiefly interested in the long run will be housewives. But right now it's of prime importance to the Army, which has a big problem feeding distant troops. And it's being studied, and in some cases used, by the processors, distributors and retailers of food. In time it conceivably might be of interest to the makers of cans and glass jars, and to some in the frozen food industry.

The long-term business goals: cut food losses during storage, simplify food preparation, tenderize meats, expand the market for foods.

The Army plans a pilot plant for research on adapting atomic energy to the food market. Already some foods have been kept long periods by subjecting them to atomic irradiation. Scientists are busy now trying to overcome the changes in color, flavor or texture that such irradiation often causes.

On the miracle drug front, aureomycin is being used to keep some foods fresh for longer than usual periods. A number of poultry raisers here in the South and East report commercial success with it, and the Canadian fishing industry is seeking a permit from the government there. Scientists are studying the use of aureomycin for red meat products, such as fresh pork sausage and ground beef.

This process, called aconize by American Cyanamid, isn't a substitute for refrigeration and other sanitation, however. When you get your chicken home, you put it in the refrigerator or freezer like any other.

It just is billed as keeping perishables fresh for longer than usual at the market or in transit and as helping to some food distribution and retailing costs.

The process calls for 1.6 ounces of the drug solution to each 100 gallons of ice water in which dressed poultry is chilled. By halting bacterial action it is said to extend distribution and shelf life by several days.

Mrs. Fine Receives Club Gavel At Luncheon At Winged Foot

Mrs. Seymour Fine took over the gavel of the Woman's Club of Mamaroneck yesterday, succeeding as president Mrs. Leonard O. Carson, at the annual president's luncheon.

The luncheon, held at the Winged Foot Golf Club, followed a reception at the club house. A program of entertainment was given after luncheon and introduction of new officers, other club personnel and guests of honor, by Emilie Jacobson, English humorist. Her program was entitled "You and Your Ego" and subtitled, she said, "Who's A-Freud?"

A comparative newcomer to Mamaroneck, Mrs. Fine, a native of Oslo, Norway, has served the club in many capacities, including the ways and means committee, the Sub Deb Section, and the American Home and International Relations Departments.

New officers, introduced by Mrs. Fine, were Mrs. Isabella W. Conkling, first vice president and civics chairman; Mrs. Charles Loeb, third vice president and Mrs. Jacques G. Allerand, recording secretary.

New Heads Introduced

New chairmen and department heads introduced were Mrs. Fred Marschner, Federation chairman; Mrs. Ivan Hardingham, printing; Mrs. William R. Hegeman, publicity; Mrs. Bernard Gould, American Home; Mrs. Atalanta Homer, Fine Arts; Mrs. Henry B. Zeiger, International Relations; Mrs. Eldon R. Thorn, Evening Section representative; Mrs. M. R. Marsland, advisor to the Juniors, and Mrs. Asa Lawrence, assistant advisor to the Sub Debs.

Mrs. Carson welcomed the 156 members and guests present, including past presidents, charter members, presidents of neighboring clubs, and county and state Federation officers. The latter group included Mrs. Irving Harris, retiring Westchester Federation president; Mrs. Robert B. Day, Ninth District chairman; Miss Virginia Dougherty, Ninth District director and state Federation candidate for treasurer; Mrs. J. Stanley Preston, third vice president of the New York State Federation and Mrs. Goode R. Cheatham, State Federation president.

Past presidents attending were Mrs. Thomas Heatley, Mrs. S. Charles Hanna, Mrs. Henry Boak and Mrs. Harry G. Waltner Jr., and charter members present were Mrs. Walter Baxter, Mrs. Emerson Heyworth, Mrs. A. E. Meyer, Miss Jennie Halstead, Mrs. Herbert Houghton, Mrs. J. P. Trowbridge and Miss Frances Larmon.

Mrs. Carson also introduced her board as follows: Mrs. Allerand, first vice president; Mrs. Michael Barclay, second vice president; Mrs. Marsland, third vice president; Mrs. Homer, recording secretary; Mrs. Joseph P. Salmon, corresponding secretary; Mrs. William Chester, teasurer; Mrs. Dominick Santomenna, budget chairman; Mrs. Hanna, constitution chairman; Mrs. Conkling, Federation chairman, and Mrs. Albert Sichel, grounds chairman.

Luncheon Chairman

Also Mrs. H. R. Peterson, hospitality chairman, who was in charge of yesterday's event; Mrs. Lauchlin M. Currie, house chairman; Mrs. Frederick M. Other guests introduced by the retiring president were the following Westchester club presidents: Mrs. Frank Walton, Bronxville; Mrs. Charles Merritt, Chaminade; Mrs. William Bayles, Dobbs Ferry; Mrs. Maurice Adelaar, Harrison; Mrs Perry B. Crane, retiring president of the Woman's Club of Larchmont; Mrs. William Chamberlain, Mount Vernon; Mrs. John Ellis, New Rochelle; Mrs. Andrew Short, Ossining; Mrs. Morgan Casey, Pelham Manor; Mrs. Henry Hall, Pleasantville; Mrs. Ray Tuttle, Scarsdale, and Mrs. Robert Greenwald, incoming president of the Woman's Club of White Plains; also Mrs. Irving B. Taub, woman's page editor of The Daily Times.

Female Ego Analyzed

Introduced by Mrs. Barclay, program chairman, Mrs. Jacobson entertained club members and guests with a running account of her observations and interpretations of the female ego, what helps it and what frustrates it, accompanying her witty remarks with a generous sprinkling of illustrative anecdotes and stories concerned with children, adults, and life in America and abroad.

The guest speaker, who had previously addressed the club's "Men's Night" program with great success, told the audience she is soon returning for the Summer to her home in England, where, she noted, she hoped "to correct her countrymen's false notions of Americans", as in the United States, she attempts to correct our false notions about the British. Her remarks ranged from the "trying quality" of the amateur psychologist, psychiatrist and psychoanalyst, through the "eloquence" of children, (don't ever underestimate their intelligence or their knowledge), she warned, to a comparative analysis of the British, Italian, French and American egos.

Mrs. Jacobson concluded her talk with Goethe's oft-quoted list of the nine requisites for happy living: enough health to be able to work; enough will to meet one's needs; strength enough to overcome life's difficulties; enough grace to deal with one's sins; enough patience to accept what comes one's way; enough charity to be able to help others; enough love to see good in the rest of mankind; enough faith to accept reality, and enough hope to cope with anxiety for the future.

Noting how much the high school senior knows, as opposed to how little the Ph.D., realizes he knows, Mrs. Jacobson said that "at seventeen, neurotic is a lovely word, especially if the user doesn't know its meaning, and parents of course are villains, particularly mothers." She cited the understatement and politeness of the English, and the effect of their possessive pride in and affection for the royal family, on their ego. The French, she continued, "adore their country and despise their government, being content to get along for long periods of time with no government at all."

The Italians she cited for their "sublime tact" and their endearing warmth, as shown, for example, in their use of such words as guests or visitors, rather than foreigners. "A trip to Florence is marvelous for the sagging female ego", she added. "male attention and appreciation for women in Florence is spectacular!"

Other observations of the speaker were concerned with the American taxi driver, "in a class by himself", our daily diet of soap operas, about which she advised "let's not be stuffy; the scripts are nonsensical but the acting is excellent"; the effect of automatic doors and the ease of department store exchanges on the American ego; television and its effect on children (children know much more parent psychology than vice versa, and use it more); marriage, and the relation between height and ego.

"The most practical piece of psychology in America", she declared, "is that women are never too old to be called girls."

Assisting Mrs. Peterson as hospitality chairman were Mrs. William Polk, who arranged the flowers, Mrs. Anthony Rigano and Mrs. Alex Scott Jr. Place cards were made by Mrs. Robert L. Christie. The reception committee, headed by Mrs. Brewer, included Mrs. Chester Russell, Mrs. William Barrett, Mrs. John Bister Jr., Mrs. Robert Blackwood, Mrs. George Lambert and Mrs. Robert Milar.

Luncheon opened with Grace written by Lois Townsley, and sung by Mrs. Margaret Norris, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Meigs.

Mamaroneck Trackmen Nipped By Pelham

Master the Master

How's your golf? Not so hot, you say? Well cheer up, there's plenty of time left to improve your game. And if you're in doubt, ask veteran linksman Selah B. Masten of Winged Foot, who at the age of seventy-five is giving ole man par a pretty good battle.

SELAH MASTEN
golf star at 75

Masten, a lovable old gent with plenty of drive in his legs and still more in his golf game, fired an 83 in leading the Class A field (for golfers seventy-five years of age and over) at Siwanoy Tuesday in the Westchester Seniors' Association Spring tournament.

The Pelham Manor resident finished among the top ten in a record field of 186 Seniors, despite the fact his cards showed two sevens. Pars at the par-5 fifth and par-4 18th, would have given the hardy Senior linksman a cool 78. And when was the last time you broke 80?

"Golf's been good to me," says Masten, one of the original members and officials of Winged Foot. "I've been playing the game for 60 years and it's kept me busy and occupied. A man has to keep himself busy when he retires and golf has been the answer for me."

Shooting in the low eighties is not unusual for the senior star. In fact, it's almost a daily occurance. He's had as low as 71 over the big, rugged Winged Foot layouts and countless rounds in the seventies. Here's a salute to Selah B. "Tony" Masten, a real golf champion and the best golfer for his age in these United States.

Westchester PGA prexy MIKE TURNESA fired a new non competitive course record 64 at Knollwood C.C. Wednesday, bagging eight birdies, a bogey and nine pars en route. He had nines of 33 and 31. . . . Two more aces were recorded at Siwanoy this past week: BILL BYRON of New Rochelle aced the 190-yard 13th with a No. 3 wood and ex-Marine Lt. JACKIE DOLAN of Bronxville holed out a seven-iron one-shotter at the 155-yard 6th, playing with brother BILL DOLAN JR., Dr. E. B. SULLIVAN of Mount Vernon and J. M. McCULLOUGH of Bronxville.

At the suggestion of EARL A. ROSS of Rye, the outstanding golfer at each Westchester high school will be invited to compete in both the Westchester and Metropolitan Junior championships this Summer by the sponsoring associations. Each schoolboy coach will be asked to enter his best golfer whether or not his parents are members of clubs. This is a wonderful gesture, on the part of both Ross and the sponsoring association.

Westchesterites JIMMY O'NEILL, PETER GRUNTAL, HARRY GLICK, GUS MANGANIELLO, LOU TINTRUP, CHARLEY O'CONNELL AND LOU SANTORO entered in the Metropolitan publinx championship beginning at Hubbard Heights in Stamford tomorrow. . . . The Masters plan four events this Summer including both a senior and junior caddie championship.

HERMAN BARRON'S par-busting 30 for the front nine at Hampshire the other day a brilliant effort in the face of a fighting wind. . . . Congrats to Winged Foot's TOM ROBBINS for leading the county seniors' field again with his 74 at Siwanoy Tuesday. . . . Harrison's SKIPPY DiBICCARI may join the pro staff at a White Plains area club in the near future. . . . The golfing HAROLD SLOANES of Vernon Hills are now residents of Harrison. . . . Qualifying for the U.S. Open draws a near-record field to Westchester Country Club Monday with only 11 places open to the district.

DEFEATED 54-41 IN TIGHT BATTLE

The Mamaroneck Tiger cindermen dropped a tight 54-41 meet to Pelham yesterday afternoon on the Manchester Field track to end their season's dual meet slate with a three and three record.

Excelling in the MHS loss were Jerry Storey, Bob Kaufmann and Ken Keating who turned in the only three wins for Coach Bernie Boyle's squad.

Keating copped the 100-yard dash while Kaufman took the pole vault and Storey pulled one of the upsets of the year when he bested favored Tony Murphy of the Pelicans in the shot put. Both boys were off their best form, apparently affected by the sudden heat and humidity, but Storey's 48 foot, three inch heave was still five inches better than Murphy could muster.

Kaufmann soared a foot higher than his competition to capture the vault with a 10 foot six inch leap and Keating copped the 100 easily and, despite a pulled muscle, managed to take second in the 220, won by Dave Daly of Pelham in the fast 23.6 time.

Other outstanding performances for the Tiger outfit were turned in by Bob Colyer and Bones McIntyre with Colyer lowering his school record in the half mile to 2:04.5 but being forced to take second place as Pelham's Jack House sped the distance in 2:04.1.

In the 440 McIntyre fell victim to Berry Cash of the Pelhamites who flashed home with a brilliant 51.1 clocking.

In addition to the three wins in the 10 events the Tigers took six seconds and a half-dozen thirds.

The Mamaroneck outfit is slated to close its season tomorrow when it competes in the Section One finals at White Plains.

It will be the last MHS appearance for such Tiger standouts as Storey, McIntyre, Colyer, Kaufmann and Conner Moore but Coach Boyle has juniors and sophs coming up who, with this season's experience in the bag, should prove extremely tough next year.

Among them are Ben Schapanick, a soph shot putter who yesterday got in a 42 foot nine inch heave and Stan Brubaker who has been consistent in the pole vault and hurdles, finishing in a quadruple tie for second in yesterday's vault.

The summary:

Wykagyl Readies For Pro Golf; County Pros In Celebrity Event

Wykagyl Country Club is being fitted with a full-dress suit for the forthcoming Palm Beach golf tournament.

The round-robin professional links extravaganza begins next Wednesday with the pro-celebrity pro-amateur phase of the de luxe tourney.

For the only major pro tournament in the metropolitan area, Wykagyl will be prettied to the finest. Not only will the course and clubhouse facilities be in tip-top readiness, but already other signs of the event are visible.

The big Palm Beach plus-minus scoreboard is already up, and TV towers are being erected at Numerous vantage points.

Tournament officials yesterday were hosts at the press luncheon which annually precedes the contest. Wykagyl president Edward Cohan was on hand to welcome the gathering as was Elmer Ward Jr., son of the tournament founder, along with tourney officials Fred Corcoran of Scarsdale and Charles Thompson.

Name 14 from County

Fourteen Westchester pros were announced as having been invited to compete in the pro-celebrity event, which has a field of 131 amateurs and 45 professionals. The latter figure includes the 16 who will vie in the Palm Beach tournament proper, starting Thursday.

Westchester pros selected are Claude Harmon and Craig Wood of Winged Foot, Harry Cooper of Metropolis, Mike Turnesa of Knollwood and brother Jim of Empire State, Herman Barron of Fenway, Harry Dee of Scarsdale, Toney Tiso of Vernon Hills, Bob Watson of Ardsley, Mickey Homa of Westchester C. C., Bill Goldbeck of Mount Kisco, Fred Annon of Ryewood, Frank Strazza of Round Hill and Jack Coyle of Dellwood.

Wide Coverage

Tourney officials revealed that the last hour and a half of tournament play next Sunday 4 to 5:30 P.M., will be covered over an NBC network of 170 television stations coast-to-coast and 10 in Canada. Harmon, Lindsay Nelson of Hartsdale and John Derr will handle the commentary.

In addition, there will be considerable press and radio coverage including a daily broadcast from the scene of the tournament by WFAS.

From 7 to 10 A. M. next Wednesday the Dave Garraway TV show will originate from Wykagyl when a $1,500 special putting contest for the pros will be staged.

Wives at participating players will be interviewed by Arlene Francis on her "Home" show.

Harry Wismer will give daily coverage by radio over the Mutual network from the course.

Proceeds of the Palm Beach tournament will be shared by New Rochelle Hospital, New Rochelle Boys' Club and New York Boys' Club. The tournament, which was formerly held at Wykagyl for five years, returns this Summer after a three-year sojourn on Long Island.

Sam Snead, a four-time round-robin champion, will be seeking his third straight Palm Beach crown.

Little League Grows To Six-Team Circuit

Organization of the Larchmont Little League moved on apace last night as officers and a board of directors were elected two new sponsors acquired, and team managers appointed.

The new sponsors assure a six-team circuit instead of the four-team loop originally planned. They are Hughes Pharmacy of 106 Post oad and Plaza Radio of 1941 Palmer Avenue.

The officers of the league chosen include Edward F. X. Ryan, president; James Farrell, vice president; Edward Farrell, treasurer and Jack Keresey, secretary. Mr. Keresey and Lee Gibson will handle league publicity.

In addition a board of directors of 25 members was elected to aid in guiding the destinies of the new loop.

It was also announced that uniforms have been purchased and will soon be on hand for the half dozen teams.

Managers named for the six outfits are Mr. Gibson, Tony Dyer, Paul Abrahamsen, Tom Price, Harry Reed, and Jerry Osterweil.

All boys interested in participating in the league must be at Flint Park at 1 P.M. tomorrow, weather permitting, for further tryouts and team assignments of boys qualifying will be made in the near future it was announced.

Gaels, Gang Play Sunday

The Gaels will meet the Roma A.C. of White Plains and the Village Gang will collide with the Southside A. C. of Hastings Sunday in a Westchester Softball League twin bill at Harbor Island. The Gaels will open the double header at 10:30 A.M.

Bobby Simmons will probably do the Gael hurling in an effort to maintain the squad's undefeated record in the loop. However, should he need help Cleve Montaro and Brandon both will be on hand to take the hill. The Gaels league record is two wins and no losses and their overall season record including Mamaroneck Independent Softball League games is eight and nothing.

In the Westchester loop the Villagers have split two games and if the independent league record is taken into account they hold a five and three mark. Sunday they are expected to pitch Tommy Zeh, Joe Lynch or Manny Pimentel.

Troop 7 Cops In Scout Loop On One-Hitter

With Charlie Duross hurling a one-hitter Troop Seven of the Larchmont Boy Scout League humbled Troop Eight by 15-0 in a game last night on the Chatsworth Avenue School field.

Duross got some lusty batting support to rack up his victory as his mates pounded out 13 safeties off Bill Hart including a round tripper by Neil Barmac.

The winners scored in every inning except the fourth and really iced the fray in the third when they pushed a half dozen tallies across the dish. After that outburst it was strictly no contest.

MICKEYS SLASH MAGRINOS, 16-4

Mickey's Nine got in some good batting and walking practice last night as it crowned Magrinos in a Mamaroneck Independent Softball League "contest" on the Harbor Island diamond.

The score was 16-4 and the Mickeys managed to amass the big total on 10 safeties, 11 walks a wild pitch, a hit batsman and a variety of errors on part of the Magrinos.

The victors were trailing momentarily in the first as the Magrino outfit opened the game with a single tally, but at the end of the inning Mickeys had seven tallies without the benefit of a single hit.

They just let Charlie Rigano toss the ball toward the plate and in that one inning he walked seven, conked a batter with a pitch and was victimized by an error.

When Rigano started to get open handed again in the third he was relieved by Al Glennon who could find the platter but started to give up hits as the Mickey squad scored five times on a pair of walks, a couple of singles and a homer off Jim Guinee's bat.

That was plenty, but the victors insisted on getting four more in the sixth to end the scoring.

The Magrino's meanwhile were pecking away at Cimaglia's slants but could rack up only a single tally in the fourth and a couple in the sixth. Cimaglia permitted a mere three safeties and gave up only two passes in his seven inning workout.

Tonight's game pits the Century Club against the Rockets.

Bellows JV Nips Stepinac By 7-6 Count

The Bellows JV diamond outfit, making the most of two solitary hits and capitalizing on 10 Stepinac errors won a 7-6 free-for-all yesterday afternoon on the Harbor Island diamond.

The battle started with the teams matching four-run first innings and Stepinac moved out in front with a single tally in the top of the third.

The Bellions, however, came back with a trio in their half of the same frame and that was the ball game, although the Country Seaters threatened in every inning.

Winning hurler was Scarangella and Ray Oddo was the loser.

CONVERSATION CLINIC

Question: I found the following in local real estate advertisement: "34 years of real estate experience, backed by that late experience, backed by that precious ingredient — the honor, integrity and ability of he who would serve you." That "he who" doesn't sound right to me. Is it?

Answer: Certainly not. In fact, it's a good example of elegant English in its finest and most misbegotten flower. For some obscure reason, many people deliberately avoid the objective case forms of personal pronouns —me, him, us and them. In their misguided search for the most "elegant" and "correct" way of expressing themselves, they force the nominative case into constructions where it doesn't belong. This results in barbarisms like "between you and I" and the example sent in by this reader.

Here the personal pronoun is object of the preposition "of" and must be in the objective case. The only correct phrasing is "the honor, etc., of him who would serve you."

Question: Is it permissible to say "pretty good" in such a sentence as "That's a pretty good cake you baked, darling"?

Answer: Although "pretty" in this sense was originally labeled "colloquial" — that is, acceptable only in informal speech—it is now considered good usage under any circumstances. All of the leading dictionaries now list it in the sense of "somewhat" or "to some extent or degree."

Having certified the expression as rhetorically sound, however, I'd like to point out to my correspondent that this particular comment is a pretty risky one to utter. From the letter it's clear that he's talking to his wife and, as a married man of some long standing myself, I can assure him that there's no such thing as a "pretty good" cake when your wife bakes it.

Take my advice, friend, if you can't say it's great, say nothing!

Robert's Celebrating 25th Anniversary

Robert's Department Store at 342 Mamaroneck Avenue, with a shoe store at 320 Mamaroneck Avenue, this month is celebrating its 25th anniversary of business in Mamaroneck.

The business was started in 1931 by Albert J. Lombino of 503 Munro Avenue, Mamaroneck, where Laptook Hardware store, 366 Mamaroneck Avenue, is now located. It was then known as the New York Men's store. He expanded the business to the Boyd Building in 1936 when his son Robert was born and changed the name to Robert's. In 1946 he added the shoestore and also Al's Army and Navy Store.

During the month, in addition to store-wide sales, Mr. Lombino announced that 100 silver dollars will be given away among those who stop in any of the stores and leave their names.

The three businesses feature men's and boys' clothing, men's women's and children's shoes, men's and boys' working clothes, sportswear and shoes and clothing for the boatmen.

Native New Yorker

Mr. Lombino was born in New York City and attended schools there. He moved to Mamaroneck in 1931 and in 1934 was married to the former Vivian Cuce of Mamaroneck.

He is a member of the Mamaroneck Rotary Club, the Mamaroneck Chamber of Commerce of which he was formerly a director and chairman of the Retail Division, and is a communicant of St. Vito's Church.

25 Year Service

The couple have four children. They are Robert, twenty, a junior at Williams College; Joan, sixteen, a junior at Mamaroneck High School; Bert, twelve, at Mamaroneck Junior High School, and Susan, nine, who attends Central School.

Working with Mr. Lombino for the last 25 yeas are his brother James, manager of the men's and boys' department, of 222 Waverly Avenue, Mamaroneck, and Nicholas Maldaro, manager of the shoe department, of Scarsdale.

Don Cuce, his brother-in-law, is manager of the men's clothing department and has been with Mr. Lombino 20 years. A native of Mamaroneck, he now lives in Harrison.

Also working with him are his nephew, Sal J. Lombino, 149 Elm Street, Mamaroneck, assistant manager of the shoe department, and Thomas Bonacci of 418 Prospect Avenue, Mamaroneck, a clerk, who has been with the business for four years.

Fontanilla Now Chef At Town House

Juan T. Fontanilla of Port Chester, resident on Fulton Road, Mamaroneck, for 13 years until his house was destroyed to make way for the addition to the senior high school, is now the chef at the Town House Restaurant, 127 Mamaroneck Avenue.

Mr. Fontanilla, until recently, was chef at Chris' Restaurant, 118 Mamaroneck Avenue, and prior to that conducted his own business at 236 Mamaroneck Avenue, known as What's Restaurant.

He is a graduate of the New York Institute of Dietetics Inc. and is a qualified dietician. He was required to become proficient in such matters as food preparation, menu planning, food service, quantity cookery, food management, restaurant operation, food cost control, nutrition, diet therapy, nutritional physiology, general and organic chemistry, food biochemistry and bacteriology.

Mr. Fontanilla left his native Philippines in 1930. During World War II, in which he served three and a half years in the Pacific Theater, he was a steward 1-cl. in the Coast Guard.

He is married to the former Cora Kuhn, sister of Edward and William Kuhn of Mamaroneck.

BACK HOME on its own side of the railroad tracks is Plaza Pharmacy, displaced 10 months ago by Thruway construction from the corner of North Chatsworth Avenue and Myrtle Boulevard. Until last week the business, owned by Victor Marraro, operated temporarily at 1918 Palmer Avenue. Park Radio Handles German Motor Bike

Park Radio and Television, 189 Palmer Avenue, Larchmont, has added a new line of merchandise: a two-wheel motor bike known as Zundapp Combinette.

The bikes, imported from West Germany, have already made a big hit in this country, according to Ray Faiola, proprietor. They operate with a one-cylinder motor and get 129 miles on one gallon of gasoline.

Demonstrators are on hand, he said, and he will be happy to let any man or woman try one out.

Manning To Open Westport Book Shop

A move from a Mamaroneck stationery store to a Westport, Conn., book shop will take place at the end of this month when Lee Manning, partner with Jules Siegel of the Jules-Lee Stationery Store at 116 Mamaroneck Avenue begins operations at the County Bazaar in Westport.

Mr. Manning, who has been located in Mamaroneck for seven years, has sold out his stationery store interests to Mr. Siegel who will continue to operate the business.

Mr. Manning, a resident of New Rochelle and a native of New York City, will take over one of six recently constructed stores at the County Bazaar Building located on Main Street, Westport. His new business, due to open June 30th, will be known as the Westport Book Shop.

Books In Variety

The shop will carry all types of books including current, rare and out of print editions. Greeting cards and gift wrappings will also be stocked. A lending library will be part of the operation of the shop and art books will be obtainable.

County Bazaar, an incorporated company, is attempting an unique approach to the shopping center development by combining the bazaar atmosphere and the suburban tone of shopping districts like the Westport community.

The general decor for the mart comes from the drawing board of Stevan Dohanos, artist and civic-minded resident of Westport who is best known for his cover drawings for The Saturday Evening Post.

Mr. Manning's shop will face out towards a 250-car parking lot at the rear of the Bazaar building, laid out along the banks of the Saugatuck River.

Future Plans

Future plans for the Bazaar include a main building to be taken over by Peck and Peck of New York City, and an additional six-store wing to the right of the main building.

Mr. Manning was educated in New York City schools and was associated with the New Yorker Hotel before entering the Army during World War II. He served with the 42nd ("Rainbow") Division in campaigns in France and Germany.

Following his discharge from the Army, he was a toy and sports salesman before entering into partnership with Mr. Siegel to take over the former Immerman's stationery store on Mamaroneck Avenue.

Mr. Manning is married to the former Marilyn Avreen of New York City and the couple have two children, Andrew, four, and Lori Beth, three months.

Ruff and Burd have been Chrysler – Plymouth dealers since 1927. Prior to that they were dealers for Hudson-Essex. In addition to their show room, they have a complete service department with Chrysler-trained mechanics.

Mr. Russell joined the firm on March 19 after four and a half years with Flinn Motor Corp. He was born in Mamaroneck and was graduated from Bellows High School in 1939. Until he went into service in World War II, he worked in the construction business. He spent three and a half years in the Army Air Corps, coming out a staff sergeant.

After working a short time for Schlitz beer as a salesman, he went with General Tire Co., leaving there to join Flinn.

Mr. Russell is a member of Mamaroneck Lodge 1457, BPO Elks, and the Mamaroneck Chamber of Commerce. He lives at 509 Carroll Avenue with his wife, the former Mary O'Kane of East Providence, R. I. The couple have two children, Don Jr., ten, and Jeanette, five.

The hearing will follow another public hearing to be held at 8:15 P. M. for the adoption of Local Law No. 1 to create the Traffic Commission.

The Rye Neck Board of Education's proposal of a $345,000 bond issue for the construction of a junior high school wing on the new Rye Neck senior high school will be thoroughly aired Monday at 8:15 P. M. at a public meeting in the Bellows High School auditorium.

The Board is expected to present tentative plans for the additional structure and to explain fully the need for the wing which will be in addition to the $1.85 million senior high school already authorized.

The plan includes the abandonment of the Barry Avenue School and the use of the present Bellows High School for elementary grades. No alterations are proposed for either Bellows or Daniel Warren Schools.

A referendum on the $345,000 bond issue will be held June 19 with registration for voting slated June 12.

ALGERIAN REBELS TRAPPED IN MAJOR MOUNTAIN FIGHT

French Say 290 Killed 110 Taken Prisoner In Three-Day Offensive

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—Two French divisions backed by jet divebombers battled furiously today to wipe out a big Algerian rebel force trapped in the "Gates of Iron" tirangle of the desolate Biban Mountains.

The French claimed the rebels already have lost 400 men —290 dead and 110 taken prisoner — in the biggest single encounter of the 18-month-old Algerian uprising.

Military dispatches disclosed that the 19th Infantry Division had been thrown in to support the crack 7th Mechanized Division and to contain rebel units desperately striving to break out of encirclement.

The 7th Division launched its offensive Wednesday. French officers said the division was performing "superbly". Originally it was trained on the NATO defense line in Germany to operate in small detachments under conditions of atomic warfare.

The French are making an all-out effort to dislodge the rebels from the mountain pass. If they take the area, they will command the southern rim of the disputed Soummam Valley on the outskirts of the rebel-held Grand Kayblie.

Beaming Tito Given Top-Level Welcome On Moscow Arrival

Yugo Leader Greeted By Shepilov

MOSCOW (AP) — President Tito of Yugoslavia, beaming with satisfaction, arrived in Moscow today for a triumphant tour of the Soviet Union, which just a few short years ago denounced him and tried to liquidate him.

On the platform to greet Tito was First Deputy Prime Minister V. M. Molotov. He resigned his job as Foreign Minister yesterday in a move widely regarded as an effort to placate Tito, who has little love for the veteran Soviet diplomat.

The new foreign minister, Dimitri T. Shepilov, a friend of Tito's also was there.

Shepilov has been editor-in-chief of the Communist Party newspaper Pravda since December, 1952.

(A Belgrade dispatch said the move created a sensation in Yugoslavia. It was regarded there as a Kremlin double-play to please Tito and bounce the closest associate of Stalin remaining in the Soviet hierarchy.

Molotov's departure from the Foreign Ministry post was announced in the form of a resignation. The Supreme Soviet Presidium gave a quick "yes."

"They are getting rid of the oldsters one by one," a middle-aged woman commented on Moscow's main street.

"It has been expected for a long time," said Ambassador Erik Brandland of Norway. "The choice of his successor is not surprising. Evidently there was some connection with the arrival of (Tito)."

Communist Party chief Khrushchev and Premier Bulganin have wooed Tito since 1954 with soft words. A year ago when the two visited Belgrade to patch up differences, Khrushchev said the Soviet Union was "sincerely sorry for the 1948 expulsion of Yugoslavia from the Cominform.

Despite the timing of Molotov's departure from the Foreign Ministry, there was no indication that the old Bolshevik was in disgrace. The announcement indicated Molotov retained his post as deputy chairman, equivalent to vice premier. And there were reports that he might take over from Marshal Klementy. Voroshilov is titular president of the country, in the post of chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet.

Shepilov is credited with setting up the deal for sale of Soviet bloc arms to Egypt, during a visit to Cairo last July as guest of the Egyptian government.

Primary Puzzler

How About The Rank And File?

By JOSEPH W. SHANNON

WHITE PLAINS—

Who will be the winners in next Tuesday's Primary?

The long-dominant GOP organization faces, for the first time in years, a full-scale countywide battle for control of Westchester's two seats in Congress.

Indications are that the "organization" forces will win, but in some areas the result will be close, with the "opposition" winning in some sections.

Possibly of even greater importance to Republicans is what the Primary will reveal of the extent of "rank and file" opposition to the leaders who made the decisions being contested.

The full result of this test may not be known until next year, when the enrolled party members elect the committeemen who form the bottom of the pyramid atop which the "high command", runs party affairs.

Race 3-Way in 26th

In the 26th Congressional District, which includes the cities of White Plains, New Rochelle, Mount Vernon and Rye and the towns of Bedford, Harrison, Lewisboro, Mamaroneck, New Castle, North Castle, North Salem, Pelham, Pound Ridge, Rye, Scarsdale, Somers and Yorktown, there is a three-way race.

Mayor Edwin B. Dooley of Mamaroneck is the choice of the Republican County Committee. He is being opposed by Edward J. Egan of Larchmont and Benjamin Nields of Rye, in the race to succeed Representative Ralph A. Gamble.

The 27th District, which includes the cities of Yonkers and Peekskill and the towns of Cortlandt, Eastchester, Greenburgh, Mount Pleasant and Ossining, and all of Putnam County, presents a much different picture.

Representative Ralph W. Gwinn of Bronxville is being opposed by Supervisor Christian H. Armbruster of Yonkers. The latter charges his opponent with failing to support President Eisenhower. Mr. Gwinn counters that he has backed the President's policies except on matters which his constituents have shown him they do not approve.

1 Contest for Democrats

The only Democratic Primary contest pits Edward F. O'Neill against City Councilman Aloysius Moczydlowski, both of Yonkers, for membership on the Democratic State Committee for the 1st Assembly District. Mr. O'Neill, the incumbent is party leader of the 9th Ward and has the backing of the organization. Mr. Moczydlowski, leader of the 5th Ward, has long been at odds with the city leadership.

The polling places in each of the county's 514 election districts will be open for voting from noon until 9 P. M.

Almost overlooked in the interest over the contests is the fact that the voters will also choose candidates for the county's three seats in the State Senate and six in the Assembly, and elect delegates to party national conventions.

CYCLIST INJURED IN DODGING DOG

Car Hits Bronx Man On Palmer Avenue

A Bronx bicyclist was thrown to the street and injured a few minutes after 8 A. M. today when he veered to avoid a little black dog at 274 Palmer Avenue and was struck by a car, Mamaroneck police report.

Edward Parker, about forty-five, of 241 East Mosholu Parkway, received first aid at the scene from Dr. P. R. Hunter who reported injuries to the lower back and both knees, a cut and swollen upper lip, and an abrasion of the chin. He was taken to New Rochelle Hospital in the Mamaroneck police ambulance for x-rays.

Driving Slowly

The car was driven by Mary Jane Haviland, nineteen, of 214 Rockland Avenue, Mamaroneck, whose statement to police that she was driving very slowly was verified by two witnesses.

She said she slammed on her brakes when the bicycle veered to avoid the dog, which had run out from in front of a parked car, but was unable to avoid striking the rider and bicycle with her right front fender. When police arrived, the front tire of the bicycle was still un-

Arabs 'Fight' British Plan For Peace

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Britain was under strong pressure today to drop a proposal that the U. N. Security Council come out for settlement of Arab-Israel disputes on a "mutually acceptable" basis.

The proposal was part of a British resolution following up Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold's April mission to the Middle East, on which he arranged cease-fire agreements between Israel and the Arab states of Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon.

Those four Arab countries held the British proposal would encourage Israel's continued opposition to old U. N. decisions on Palestine. They declared it would paralyze further efforts to reduce Middle East tension.

The four — nonmembers of the council speaking by invitation — gave that argument in two council meetings yesterday.

Shakeup No Surprise

Reds Butter Up Tito Washington Believes

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff

WASHINGTON — The replacement of Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov was regarded here today as a well-timed move by the Khrushchev-Bulganin regime to strengthen its ties with Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia.

Molotov's "resignation", announced in Moscow yesterday on the eve of Tito's arrival there, had long been expected in western capitals. The appointment of Dmitri Shepilov as his successor also came as no surprise.

United States officials said there was no reason to think that the change would alter American relations with the Soviet Union. Nor did they expect it to make any difference in the major lines of Soviet foreign policy.

Some authorities here said privately that the switch could mean a more vigorous conduct of Soviet diplomacy. But the most immediate significance was seen here as involving further Russian efforts to repair the damage done by the Stalinist regime to Soviet-Yugoslav relations in 1948.

Stalinist pressures on Tito to knuckle under to Moscow had caused the Yugoslav leader to revolt against Soviet domination.

keynote in his new post. But here are some of th ethings he had to say about the United States just a little more than a month ago:

"Do there exist in the world forces which are plotting against the popular masses, trying to force their will on other countries, systematically interfering in other peoples affairs? Yes, they exist. They are imperialist circles and first of all the reactionary forces of the United States.

Boy, 3, Killed Under Truck

WHITE PLAINS—

A three-year-old boy was fatally crushed by a panel truck yesterday afternoon on South Lexington Avenue.

Francis Feeney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard N. Feeney of 159 South Lexington Avenue, was struck in front of No. 168 as he tried to cross the street.

Gene J. Foss, forty-six, of 7 Charles Street, the driver, told police the child ran in front of the truck.

This is the third auto fatality in White Plains this year and the 66th in Westchester compared with 24 at this time last year.

U. S. No. 1 Villain In Shepilov's Mind

NEW YORK—Dmitri Shepilov, the Soviet Foreign Minister, sees the United States as the No. 1 villain in the world and as the main barrier to worldwide socialism.

Question Of The Week

Guardsmen In Traffic Role On Holidays? Idea Endorsed

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the 439th in a Saturday series of short interviews with Mamaroneck and Larchmont residents on issues of the day—local and national. This week's question: "SHOULD THE NEW YORK NATIONAL GUARD BE CALLED UPON TO HANDLE HEAVY HOLIDAY TRAFFIC ON MAIN ARTERIES?"

Yes, 16; no, 1; only on voluntary basis.

MAMARONECK

Mrs. Kenneth Bilby, 825 Orienta Avenue—"I think that it not enough police are available the men should be utilized."

Alexander D. Cole, 722 Cove Road East—"I think it a splendid idea. We don't have enough of a police force now to take care of rising traffic needs and the use of the National Guard would be a definite improvement."

Mrs. Fred Crisp, 710 Grove Avenue—"Anything that would prevent serious holiday accidents should be tried out at least once."

Sanford Waters, Taylors Lane —"Yes, because on big weekends the National Guard on the scene might be a good warning for motorists to drive more carefully."

Mrs. Thomas J. Ross, 1101 Old Post Road—"I think . . . It would probably alleviate congestion if more help were available on the roads."

Mrs. F. H. Schlapprizzi, 615 Oakhurst Road—"I think that's a good idea. It seemed to work well in Connecticut on Memorial Day."

LARCHMONT

Mrs. John C. Dillon III, 6 Oak Avenue—"Yes, I think that would help tremendously."

Peter Hubbard, 14 Harmony Drive—"Yes. I think that would help a lot."

Mrs. Benjamin Jaffe, 32 Forest Park Avenue—"No. I think the National Guard have their own work cut out for them. It is a police admission of failure to handle traffic if the National Guard has to be used."

Miss Georgia Jesse, 5 Winans Avenue—"Yes, I do. It would help cut down accidents."

Rosemary Lau, 283 Murray Avenue—"Yes, I think it would reduce accidents and perhaps save lives."

Mrs. Donald J. Peterson, 40 Iselin Terrace—"It would help, but it seems a shame these men, who are volunteers, should give up their time. It should be done on a volunteer and not a compulsory basis."

Your Baby and Mine

You'll Get The Best

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

It makes me very happy to be given an opportunity to help mothers who read the Standard-Star.

I'd like, here, to tell you briefly, what my column, "Your Baby and Mine", will try to do for you, starting next Monday.

Chiefly, through daily articles, it is my hope to acquaint parents with the best thinking being done on the subject of child care, feeding and training. It's my pleas ant task to read and evaluate new material, to keep abreast of developments in this field and to try to interpret them to readers in a nonprofessional manner.

When a mother has an individual problem which she cannot solve by applying these principles, I am most happy to try to help her with it. If she will write to me, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope with her letter, she will get a prompt reply.

Must Wait Turn

If she wants her letter to be answered in the column, she must recognize that there are only six days in the week and it may be some time before it can be printed there.

To help in answering parental questions on all subjects I have written a host of leaflets covering every imaginable non-medical subject. These are used to supplement the answer I give personally.

There are some things the column cannot do. One of these is to put one reader in touch with another. Because of the large correspondence it brings in, letters can be answered, but are then destroyed for lack of any way to file them so that they could be found again. So, when a letter appears in the column, it has been answered and torn up and I have no way of reaching the writer again except to appeal through the column space. This does not seem to be an economical way to use it.

I am distressed when mothers bring me medical problems. I am not a doctor. I want children to have medical help when they need it without waiting to hear from me.

May I say that I am sincerely grateful and appreciative of loyal readers whose letters keep me stimulated and eager to be of aid to them. Write to me, won't you?

ADVENTURE TODAY
At Home and Afield

50-Cent Coin Leads to Lost City of Incas

As the Incas were driven back farther and farther by the treacherous Spaniards, they built a fabulous city high in the mountains in a most secret place.

This city is now called Machu Picchu, after the mountain upon which it was secretly constructed. It was a fantastic place built of granite blocks cunningly fitted together to last for ever as a last stronghold of the vanishing race. This was in the year 1535 or thereabouts.

To this city retired the last of the Inca leaders, warriors and maidens. Pizarro's men had driven them into the hills, after plundering and murdering many. The vast hidden city was never visited by a stranger and none outside the Incas knew of its location 8,000 feet up in the peaks of the Andean mountains.

Last Warrior Killed

Finally the last of the warriors from the hidden city were ambushed in the canyons at the base of the mountain and only the old people and maidens remained. Not many months later silence took over the great granite city with its buildings and plazas, for none could go to the valley for food or help.

That silence continued for more than 350 years, for none knew of the great city, and the few who knew of it refused to tell—that is until 1911. In that year a joint expedition of the National Geographic Society and Yale University found it. Drawn by rumors of a lost city, Yale's Professor Hiram Bingham explored the Peruvian jungle. His offer of a single coin worth about 50 cents bought him directions to a hidden trail which he followed up and up into the thinning air of the great Machu Picchu peak.

Walls Found

Finally he began to notice artificially built walls and steps and at long last he climbed into the outer walls and ruins of what was once the last stronghold of Manco, the puppet Inca ruler set up and later dethroned by Pizarro.

This great lost city covered many acres with towers, plazas, rooms and courtyards, gardens and buildings, built of once the finest stone work. All of its once splendid details had been crumbled by the ages, but it still was an awesome sight even in the ruins in which it was found. Here, still, no trace of the fabulous Inca treasure for which the Spaniards murdered countless thousands to find. Somewhere still in the Andes lie buried the vast hoards of treasure saved from the Spaniards. That will make another story for a future Adventure Today.

Refusing to Lend Wedding Dress Is Perfectly Just

By EMILY POST

A letter tells me

My husband's brother is going to be married soon and his fiancee has asked me to be an attendant in her wedding. Now she wants to borrow my wedding dress. I don't want to be selfish, but I am very sentimental about the dress and don't like the idea of anyone else wearing it — except perhaps a daughter of my own some day. Could I possibly refuse to lend it to her without causing ill feeling?"

I think you would be perfectly justified in not lending it to her. Tell her that you are very sorry but that if you lend it to her you are afraid others will want to borrow it, and you want to keep the dress perfectly fresh for a daughter to wear.

Cribari Says . . .

Sports Greats Fete Golfer Craig Wood

If it's true that you measure the value of a man by his friends, then Craig Wood of New Rochelle must be a millionaire.

The former U.S. Open and Masters' champion will get an inkling of this wealth tomorrow night when some 450 friends from all walks of life gather at Toots Shor's to salute one of the grandest men in sport.

They're rolling out the red carpet for Craig for no reason in particular other than that Toots himself has decided it's high time someone did. As a matter of fact, Shor is footing the entire tab himself and he is bringing together the hundreds of Craig's close friends. It may be a $10,000 party before Shor is through.

Joe DiMaggio, Jack Dempsey, Eddie Arcaro, Sam Snead, ackie Burke, Claude Harmon, Fred Corcoran and far too many to mention here will be on hand to fete the Blond Bomber. And it's a tribute long overdue.

PERENNIAL BRIDESMAID

Wood, fifty-five - year-old Lake Placid native, is on eof the most respected men in golf. He's developed or encouraged more pros than any other in the business—Paul Runyan, Vic Ghezzi, Burke and Harmon to mention a few.

For many years he was called golf's hard-luck player. He's had more tournament seconds than any other player over the past quarter-century. In fact, Craig is credited with the line: "If you can't finish first, it's nice to finish second."

In 1933 he lost the British Open by a shot to Denny Shute. In 1934 he lost in the PGA final to Runyan on the 38th hole at Buffalo. In 1935 he lost the Masters' playoff to Gene Sarazen after Gene tied on that now famous double eagle. And in 1939 he lost the U.S. Open after a playoff with Byron Nelson.

Craig had his greatest year in 1941 when he won both the U. S. Open and Masters titles and captained the U. S. Ryder Cup team, which represents a sizable hunk of links conquest for a single season.

"Gentleman Craig Wood is what they ought to call him," says Corcoran, who first met Wood back in 1925 during the Open at Worcester, Mass. "There should be more Craig Woods in pro golf."

Wood should make golf's Hall of Fame this year. He lost to Leo Diegel by a few votes last year. No sport ever produced a more respected champion.

INTERNATIONAL CELEBRITY

Golfers in every part of the world are familiar with his name and accomplishments. At ancient St. Andrew's the Scots have a lasting remembrance of a Wood visit. Along one fairway they have a plaque which carries the inscription "Craig Wood drove here". The marker is a mere 420 yards from the tee. Yes, he was considered by many one of the game's real long hitters.

At fifty-five, Craig still busts par regularly. He got a great kick out of shooting 70 and beating out his old nemesis Sarazen in winning the Met Senior PGA championship last year at Metropolic, just 20 years after Gene whipped him in the Masters playoff.

Winged Foot honored him with a life-long membership last year, one of only two ever presented by the Mamaroneck plant. The course at Lake Placid has been renamed in his honor. Hundreds of golfers — pro and amateur alike — credit Wood for their success. Even Open champ Jack Fleck named his young son after the famed Winged Footer.

Need we say more concerning the man, Craig Wood? Except to add that it will be a privilege to sit in on the shindig tomorrow night and watch him squirm in delight as the greats of the sport world scramble to shake his hand.

Barry Ties Darmstadt For Golf Lead

Larchmont's Dick Barry fired a 75 5round with a six handicap to register a 69 total and tie Ray Darmstadt of Yonkers for the lead Sunday in the President's Trophy tournament at the Winged Foot Golf Club.

Copping kickers honors Saturday at Winged Foot was Irv Thoren of Larchmont with a 91 score and 11 handicap for an 80 total.

Yesterday's kicker winner was Gus Zimmerman of New York with a 92-16-76 effort.

Art Daly of Yonkers, meanwhile, belted a 200-yard, hole-in-one on the 10th hole of the West Course with a four wood, highlighting Winged Foot activity which was somewhat marred by rain Saturday and yesterday morning.

LEAGUE LEADERS if only between games of yesterday's twin bill. The startling Pittsburgh Pirates whoop it up in their dressing room at Milwaukee. They lost the nightcap and first place by percentage points to the Braves, though they still lead by one-half game in the won-and-lost column. BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Pirates In 1st Place For 145 Gold Minutes

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sportswriter

For 145 golden minutes, the giddy Pittsburgh Pirates led the National League yesterday afternoon before losing the second half of a doubleheader. Although Bobby Bragan's upstarts finished the day six percentage points behind Milwaukee, it would take a brave man to predict they won't hit the top again.

The fired-up Pirates, whose startling rise from the depths of the cellar has excited the nation, actually lead Milwaukee by a half game in the won-and-lost figures. Due to a difference in total games played during this rainy Spring (40 by Pittsburgh, 33 by Milwaukee), the Braves hold the edge in percentages.

Until Pittsburgh came to town Friday, Milwaukee's muscular home run hitters were tying records in every game. They had smashed 14 in their last three games and 16 in their last four, but Pirate pitching clipped their wings. With Bob Friend, Red Munger, Ronnie Kline, Roy Face, Nelson King, Vern Law and Jack McMahon doing the tricks, not a single Milwaukee homer was hit in the four-game series.

8-Year Hiatus

When Pittsburgh edged Milwaukee in yesterday's first game 3-1, it marked the first time they had been in first place since June 16, 1948 when they shared the lead with the then Boston Braves.

A two-run uprising in the sixth broke up a tight battle between Face, getting his first start after 15 games in the bullpen, and Milwaukee's Ray Crone. King finally came in to stop the Braves in the ninth with men on second and third and only one out.

Pittsburgh almost pulled out the second game against Bob Kuhl but finally bowed 4-3. The Pirates closed the gap to one run in the seventh and had two men on in the ninth with two out when Gene Freese grounded out. The defeat was charged to Law, who gave up all Milwaukee's rus.

Elsewhere in the National, Cincinnati remained in third place by splitting two with the New York Giants. A pair of two-run homers by Frank Robinson and Ray Jablonski set up the Redlegs' opening victory 7-3, but the Giants fought off a late splurge to save the second 4-3, despite two homers by Gus Bell, who has hit 11 this season.

Old teammates took turns working out on their former buddies at St. Louis. After Murry Dickson, an ex-Phil, pitched the Cardinals to a 2-1 edge over the Phils' Robin Roberts, the Phils came back for an even break 9-3 behind Harvey Haddix, an ex - Cardinal. Richie Ashburn had five hits in the second game and Stan Lopata homered in each contest. Lindy McDaniel, the Cards' bonus baby, was the second game loser.

Brooklyn Wins

Brooklyn awoke from its Chicago slumber after losing three straight to the cellar team and knocked off the Cubs 4-3. Clem Labine had to bail out bonus pitcher Sandy Koufax in the ninth. Carl Furillo and Gil Hodges of the Brooks and Gene Baker of the Cubs hit homers.

The American League "runaway" became more of a pennant race when Detroit dumped the leading New York Yankees twice, 6-3 and 7-4 in 10 innings. The results cut the Yanks' lead to four and one-half games over Chicago, which took over second by thumping Baltimore 12-0 and 9-2. Cleveland dropped to third in a split at Washington. The Tribe took the first in 12 innings 8-4 with the help of Vic Wertz' three-run homer, but Washington won te second 7-1 beind Hal Griggs. Kansas City eked out a 7-6 edge over Boston in 10 innings on Tim Thompson's winning single. Rain washed out a scheduled second game.

Detroit ran its winning streak to six games and eight of the last nine to earn a fourth-place tie with Boston, only six and one-half games off the pace. The Tigers knocked out Whitey Ford in the opener, the first time he failed to go the route in nine starts this season. Billy Hoeft exercised his usual charm over the Bombers, scattering nine hits.

Bill Tuttle knocked in the tie-breaking run in the 10th inning of the second game, but the Tigers added two more as 40,911 saw the Yanks lose their first home doubleheader since last July 4. Harvey Kuenn of Detroit had five hits in the doubleheader.

Rye Yacht Cops NYYC 2-Day Regatta

OYSTER BAY—Colin E. Ratsey's Golliwogg, the newly-launched centerboard yawl which made a shambles of last weekend's Storm Trysail-Block Island race, proved her successful debut to be no fluke by scoring another triumph this weekend.

The 40-footer, out of American Y. C., Rye, captured the Class C prize in New York Yacht Club's annual two-day Spring regatta. First in Saturday's race from off Greenwich, Conn., to this port and with a fourth in the corrected-time standings yesterday, Golliwogg was victorious with 26¼ points.

Carl Hovgard's big and beautiful mahogany yawl, Circe, also from American, took the Class A lead with a winning performance Saturday but dipped to sixth yesterday and ended second in the two-day standings with 31¼ points. William Moore's Argyll, an ex-Bermuda champ, beat last year's "B" Bermuda winner by a point. She was fifth Saturday, first yesterday.

Tom Watson Jr.'s 45-foot yawl, Palawan, from Indian Harbor Y. C., Greenwich, matched Circe's performance. Winner Saturday, she yielded top in the point-scoring by finishing ninth yesterday to aggregate 25¼ points. The winner was Bill Snaith's Figaro, out of Westport, which followed a second with a fifth for 28 points.

De Coursey Fales and his fabulous old schooner, Nina, beat Bill Ziegler Jr.'s Bounding Home Saturday. The positions were reversed yesterday and they shared first place with 5¼ points in the thinly-populated schooner and ketch division.

Bobby Coulson's Finn Mac Cumhaill was runner-up in Class C with 26 points after placing second to Ray Hunt's Harrier yesterday. Henry Scholtz's Condessa, from Riverside ,had first place in yesterday's "B" race.

Stamm-Arens Take Golf Play

Emerging victorious in the Four Ball golf tournament at the Hampshire Country Club Saturday were Louis Stamm of Mount Vernon and Joseph Arens of New York City.

Stamm combined with Arens to defeat Murray Lippman of Forest Hill and Nathan Block of New York City, 5-and-4.

Judge, Atkins Score Triumphs In Doubles

Beach Point Yacht Club launched its season Saturday with formal flag-raising ceremonies and immediately launched its annual three-day regatta with the Summer's sixth YRA regatta. The seventh followed under the same club's auspices yesterday.

Emil "Bus" Mosbacher Jr. of White Plains who, as commodore, declared the club in commission Saturday waited until yesterday to play the ungracious host. With his sleek blue-hulled Susan, Bus romped to a 3 minute 55 second International Class triumph over New Rochelle's Warner Willcox and Stardust.

The victory put Susan out-front in the early-season YRA standings, with a fifth and two successive victories, ahead of Stardust and Aileen. Glit Shields, finishing his school year, didn't have the latter out this weekend.

Series Lead to Dodger

Bill John of Mamaroneck, who won Saturday's rain-and-fog-plagued race (a Bermuda series event for the Internationals) with Dodger, was third yesterday and took a one-boat lead over Mosbacher in the special Beach Point series which ends with next Saturday's race. Susan was fourth Saturday.

Flag officers of the club participating in the commissioning included Arthur P. Davis, rear commodore; George Bienstock, vice commodore; and Raphael Dubrowin, fleet captain. Larry Marx Jr. is the regatta chairman. He's normally a member of Mosbacher's crew but by-passed those chores for the weekend.

Bus had his other regulars, Tommy Mac Niven and Bruce Brakenhoff, aboard Susan, and for yesterday's victory added Boots Le Boutillier, who is regular first-mate on Aileen.

John Judge of Larchmont with Celerity in Class S and Jim Atkins with the Luders-16, Judith, were double winners to stand far in front for Beach Point's special awards. They also augmented their leads in the YRA title-quests.

Bill Corwin's Harpoon fouled at the start of Saturday's race and withdrew, then returned to receive winners' salute in the Two-Ten class. The Scarsdale and American Y.C. skipper also holds the season lead over Tom Fitzsimon's Tomuz.

Sis Hibberd's Lightning, Splash, was bested by Towney Corning's Wiggleflop by five seconds Saturday, but Splash scored by 3:20 over the latter yesterday and claims the class leadership. George and Eddie Brazill's Sabre, not out the previous afternoon, beat Saturday's One-Ten winner, Seth Corwin's Wow, yesterday and also cemented first in the season's standings.

Owen Torrey Jr. of Rye continued to be master of the Star Class, winning yesterday after taking a sail-over for series points Saturday. Ann and Flying Cloud were the respective Atlantic winners and maintained their three-way bout with Hound in the season standings.

Two Turnesas Share Honors At Ryewood

RYE—

The Turnesa brothers—Mike of Knollwood and Jim of Empire State — shared honors yesterday in the annual pro-member tournament at Ryewood Country Club.

Mike, Westchester PGA president, teamed with Ryewood's Arthur Shapiro of Scarsdale for a nine-under-par net best-ball score of 62 to annex team honors. And brother Jim, who lost out in the team phase with member Jerry Cummins of Port Chester after a match of cards, took individual pro laurels with a two-under 36, 33—69.

Mike came back to share second place in pro scoring with Steve Doctor of East Meadow, both with 70's.

Matching par at 71 were host pro Fred Annon, Al Feminelli of Old Oaks and Ernie Catropa of Peninsula.

Bracketed at 64 in team scoring were Bill Goldbeck of Mount Kisco with member Richard Birnbaum of Harrison, Catropa with Philip Franklin of New York, Doug Turnesa of Briar Hall with Harry Wilschek of Hartsdale and Toney Tiso of Vernon Hills with Irving Littman of New Rochelle.

Littman won amateur gross prize with a fine 72, followed by Joe Risoli of Harrison with 73.

Rye Or Pleasantville SWIAC Meet Favorite

RYE —

The Rye Garnets and the Pleasantville Panthers, two of this year's strongest track teams will meet on the cinders for the first time tomorrow when the 19th annual SWIAC track meet is held at Rye High School.

Five other SWIAC schools — Harrison, Eastchester, Edison Tech, Bellows and Hastings — are also competing in the meet.

Although each squad boasts at least one outstanding performer, it would appear that the race for top honors will boil down to the Panthers and Garnets. The latter will be shooting for their third straight championship.

Rye made it two in a row last year when it beat the runnerup Panthers rather handily 36½-21. But Pleasantville has a much improved squad under the guidance of coach and meet director Herman Wittern. The Panthers are unbeaten in six dual meets this year. The only Garnet loss was suffered at the hands of Sleepy Hollow by a fraction of a point ,a decision which brought to a halt a three year, 13-meet winning streak under coach Bill Dwyer.

While the Panthers will have such standouts as Joe Corn, discus; Bob Berger, 100 and 220-yard dashes; Bill Russell, 440; Dick Craig, pole-vault, and Armin Merkle, mile, the Garnets will be well represented by Richie Caputo, both dashes; Jimmy Stoddart, 440; Bill Gundy, discus and shot-put, and Alan Nichols, pole-vault.

Caputo and Stoddart were responsible for setting last year's only two meet records, Richie touring the 100 in 10 seconds flat, and Jim breezing the 440 in 50.4.

Backus, Ellis, Connolly Set, NYAC Marks

Harold Connelly of the Boston A.A. heaved the 16-pound hammer 206 feet 9 inches yesterday at Travers Island to set one of three New York A.C. records in the Winged Footers' 67th annual Spring Games.

It was the first time in the metropolitan area's history that any one had ever thrown the hammer more than 200 feet. Previous meet record was 194 feet 8 inches.

Two others also bested the old mark, Albert Hall, the IC4A co-champ and record-holder, was runnerup with a toss of 195-3½. Cliff Blair of Boston University followed with a 194-11 throw.

Jack Ellis, formerly of Lafayette and now wearing the NYAC silks, emulated Connelly in demonstrating his Olympic potential. Ellis hurled the discus 177 ft. 11½ in., another all-time metropolitan mark.

Bob Backus, NYAC veteran, broke his own two-year-old standard in the 56 pound weight event with a 42 feet 9½ inches effort.

The meet was postponed from Saturday because of rain and a flooded track.

Combing The Town

Me Not Lost, Ma Lost

David Huber, three, of 121 Fenimore Road, Mamaroneck, literally found himself yesterday after his mother, Mrs. Melvin Huber, went to police headquarters and said he had disappeared while she was shopping.

Det. Dominick Pinto went to Mamaroneck Avenue with Mrs. Huber but the search ended as they went down Prospect Avenue.

There was David in the custody of Pfl. John Vaccaro, who was doing school crossing duty.

Slezak On TV

The role of Krison Rigo, a janitor and former Latvian school teacher, embittered because he can't get only a menial job in this country, was portrayed last night by Walter Slezak of Beach Avenue, Larchmont, on "Honored Guest," television play on "Robert Montgomery Presents."

The appearance was the actor's first on television since leaving his role in the Broadway musical, "Fanny." In a brief interview with Mr. Montgomery following the presentation, Mr. Slezak said he plans to leave for California to make a movie.

Only The Posies Smell

An odorless skunk "of excellent manners", a three-month-old 'possum, and Sandy, the two-year-old television raccoon, who "asks not to be bothered" are featured in the conservation service exhibit at the June flower show of the Garden Club of Larchmont today and tomorrow at the Larchmont Avenue Church house.

The exhibit has been arranged by Charles M. Pitch, president of the Mamaroneck Rangers Conservation Club, who says that "conservation is everybody's job". The exhibit includes cages of Spanish moss and "air plants" removed from cyprus trees which continue to thrive in the Mamaroneck, bearing evidence of his recent trip to Florida.

Pitch plans to enter the University of Miami in the Fall, majoring in biology, and studying also oceanography, botany, and zoology.

The animals are on view downstairs at the church house, where conservation literature is also available. Mrs. Winton L. Miller is conservation chairman for the club.

John Draws 25 Years As 'Mastermind'

NEW YORK (AP)—Three men were sentenced today to prison terms ranging from 18 to 25 years each for robberies totalling nearly $300,000 in two branches of the County Trust Co. in Westchester.

Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan described Angelo P. John, thirty-three, of 121 North Broadway, White Plains, as the "mastermind" and sentenced him to 25 years.

Rocco Tatco, thirty-two, of East Street, the Bronx, involved in only one of the robberies, was sentenced to 22½ years.

Judge Noonan ordered an 18-year sentence for Arthur L. Paisner, thirty-three of 2019 Monterkey Avenue, the Bronx, who pleaded guilty and testified for the government.

The trust company's Port Chester branch was robbed of $188,785 last March 2 and its Mount Vernon branch of $97,563 on Sept. 24, 1954.

INGENIOUS was the word used by Mamaroneck Police to describe hiding place for policy slips in the front seat of a car driven by Charles Doria, of 234 Center Avenue, Mamaroneck, arrested yesterday by Mamaroneck detectives as a policy slip runner. In picture at left, Det. Lt. William Paonessa, who made the arrest with Det. John Pendergast Jr., points to ignition switch which had to be turned on before two buttons hidden by Lt. Paonessa's wrist would operate the electric catches holding the front seat together. One button had to be pulled down, then the second pressed. Right photo shows box attached to hard part of the seat in which the policy slips were found. One of the two electric switches which held the seat closed until the proper button sequence was followed is at upper right on the rear of the front seat. — Staff Photos by Paul Byrne

Doria Charged As 'Runner'

'Rube Goldberg' Cache Spills Policy Slips From Car Seat

Something new in policy slip running was uncovered yesterday by Mamaroneck Police with the arrest of Charles Doria, thirty-one, of 234 Center Avenue, Mamaroneck, on a charge of policy slip possession.

Police discovered that the right front seat of Doria's car had a container ingeniously holding $860.30 in policy slips. But to get at the container, police had to solve an ingenious mechanical plan for keeping the container concealed.

Doria, police charged, had rigged up a wire connecting the instrument panel through the underside of the car and to the seat. They used a dry cell battery to energize the wire and heard a click in the seat. The seat was then released from its back just as a buzzer in an apartment building releases the front door.

Doria was caught in the afternoon on Mamaroneck Avenue at Warren Avenue by Det. Lt. William Paonessa and Det. John Pendergast Jr. Police found $292 on Doria's person but could not find the slips at first. They went over the car inch by inch and took it to a garage. After they put it on a hoist they spotted the wire.

Sheriff John E. Hoy sent over six deputies to take motion pictures of the device in action. Doria, police said, had 2,800 policy slips in the car. He was released in $250 cash bail pending a hearing.

Although police moved the seat with a dry cell battery, they toyed around with the instrument panel later and discovered that Doria worked the seat with a combination of turning on the ignition and then pressing two buttons in proper sequence on the dashboard.

After interrogation, fingerprinting and photographing, Doria was released on $250 cash bail on order of Judge Henry T. Hormidge for appearance Friday in Mamaroneck Police Court.

Chief Geary expressed "deep satisfaction" over the arrest. He praised the two detectives for their part in finding the combination to the seat which was the hiding place.

"Such an ingenious device as this," Chief Geary stated, "shows what the police are up against in this county. These runners are constantly thinking up new ways of holding their numbers and beating the police."

WFAS To Give Results

County's Voters Act As Poll Words End

By JOSEPH W. SHANNON

WHITE PLAINS—After weeks of oratory, of charges and countercharges and of all the other trappings of political campaigns, the contenders retire to the sidelines today to give Westchester's enrolled voters their chance to decide who will be their candidates in November.

Polling places in the county's 314 election districts will be open from 6noon until 9 P. M.

WFAS will broadcast complete coverage by the Macy Westchester newspapers of the contests in Westchester at 123 on the radio dial from 9:30 P. M. until sign-off time at midnight, with summaries of the tabulations on the hour and half hour and bulletins in between of local voting results by cities and towns.

Voting is by paper ballot. The voters mark an X in pencil before the name of their choice, or may write in any other name. Republican ballots are pink; Democratic, green, and those of the Liberals a grayish blue.

An unusually large number of voters is anticipated today, principally because of the battles for the Republican nominations for Westchester's two seats in Congress. The only other contest is for membership on the Democratic State jcommittee in the 1st Assembly district, in Yonkers and a small section of Mount Vernon.

Counting of the ballots, which also list candidates for nine state Legislature posts, and for delegates and alternates to party conventions, will delay announcement of the result of the contests for hours after the polls close.

Supervisors On Restrictions:

'Only The Beginning,' Moses Told On Parks

WHITE PLAINS—Two Westchester Supervisors lashed back yesterday at their monthly meeting at remarks made Sunday by Park Commissioner Robert Moses of New York City about the county's first steps to restrict its public playgrounds to county residents.

Supervisor Leonard Berman, R., Mount Vernon, Board vice chairman, said "this is just the beginning of serving Mr. Moses notice that we are going after the rest of our facilities." Both Dr. Berman and Supervisor George W. Cornell, R., Scarsdale stated that the county had dug deep into its own pocket to pay for the facilities which outsiders were using.

Mr. Moses' remarks were prompted by the recent action by the Westchester Commission in closing Willsons Woods Pool in Mount Vernon to outsiders. The county has taken restrictive action at Saxons Woods Golf Course and also plans to make Dunwoodie Golf Course, now being constructed in Yonkers, a county-only facility.

Mr. Cornell said that Mr. Moses asserted that Westchester had built a few parks. That was an underestimate, said Mr. Cornell. He valued the county parks at $75 million.

Both he and Dr. Berman revealed that the county had given the state the green light in developing Mohansic Park in Yorktown as a state playground but that the state, since 1953, has not come forward with the money to develop the area.

The Board accepted a committee report which backs the Park Commission in its Willsons Woods action. It was brought out that the restriction of Glen Island in New Rochelle and Tibbetts Brook Pool in Yonkers was considered but not adopted.

THE WEATHER

$2-Billion Tax Cut Proposed In Report Of Economic Group

For Rye Neck Junior High

Board Tells Savings In New School Wing

Reasons for an additional bond issue of $345,000 to build a junior high school wing on the senior high school building already approved by voters of the Rye Neck School District, and the economies that will result from a three instead of four-building operation, were outlined last night by the Rye Neck School Board at a public meeting in Bellows High School, attended by 30 residents.

A bond issue totaling $1.85 million for a new high school for grades nine to 12 was approved in January by a 70 per cent vote after a $2.1 million bond issue had twice gone down to defeat more than a year ago. The additional bond issue would add a junior wing to the building at less cost than if it were added later, it was explained, and result in such economies of operation that the additional cost would be absorbed.

Pelton Presides

Russell Pelton, board member, presided at the meeting and introduced board members Peter C. Doern Jr., who outlined the reasons for the proposal at this time; Frank Begnisch, who described the new wing, and Arthur Bysshe, who explained the financing and how it will fit into the bond issue already approved.

William C. Fitts Jr., chairman of the Rye Neck Citizens Committee, which for several months studied the problem of schools and recommended the structure which was approved, also approved the new wing, outlined the work of the committee on both occasions and their reasoning.

Dr. Alvin Hicks, superintendent, gave the school administrator's reasons for the new wing. George Garfunkel, board chairman, then conducted the question and answer period.

Mr. Doern explained that he favors the present bond issue for the very reason he opposed the previous issue, primarily because of the heavy tax load. He said he favors the addition to the building "now that the die is cast for the new high school building."

He was making the explanation, Mr. Doern stated, "in the hope that it will help in their thinking those who opposed the Palmer site and the new build-

COWLEY RESIGNS LPD SERGEANCY

Loman, Leahey Promoted By Larchmont Board

The resignation of Sgt. Joseph P. Cowley of the Larchmont Police Department was accepted with regret last night by the Village Trustees who also advanced two Larchmont patrolmen to sergeants to fill this vacancy and the one created by the resignation of Lt. Thomas J. Royle.

Ptl. Albert Loman was promoted to the sergeant's rating effective June 2, and Ptl. Joseph Leahey effective June 16.

The two men are the only ones eligible on the Civil Service list, according to Police Chief William Keresey. Both took the examination in October of 1954. Sgt. Loman finishing with an 85.17 score, including veterans' credits, and Sgt. Leahey with 84.37.

What's Long-Term Outlook On Reds?

U.S. On 10-Year Notice

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
A. P. Foreign News Analyst

NEW YORK—Americans have 10 years notice.

In about that much time, says Moscow, communism will be ready for the final phase of a struggle to erase the western ideal of democracy from the earth.

Communism, led by the USSR, vows it will catch up with and outstrip the west in production. Then it intends to concentrate economic might in an attempt to change the political face of the world, violently or otherwise.

Americans are taking the challenge seriously. Leaders of both major parties are taking long and searching looks at U. S. strengths and weaknesses, balancing them against the known strengths and weaknesses of the Soviet Union.

No Hand-Wringing!

The U. S. government appears to feel:

1. While this is no time for rose-colored glasses, neither is it a time for national wringing of hands. In many respects the United States and its allies are doing far better than the Russians. In some fields, the West lags behind. Over-all, the United States is immeasurably stronger than the Soviet Union and the advantage remains in western hands.

2. The struggle might be lost through a series of defaults. Thus the time to start mending weaknesses is now. The theory of capitalist boom-and-bust cycles, upon which communism pins so much hope, can be proved false. This means the United States must prevent crises which might send western economies into a tailspin.

3. The American people will re-

It's just some shots of the kind of dogs being picked up by the Westchester Shore Humane Society these days. According to T. That's "Count," a German shepherd up for adoption by anybody who wishes a good-looking and obedient animal. Center, Kennelman Joseph Filardia shows off "Rusty," an Irish setter also up for adoption. 'Ifs' Qualify Suggestions Made By CED

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Committee for Economic Development today recommended a tax cut of $2 billion or more next Jan. 1 — provided such a cut would not toss the nation's cash budget in the red.

The CED further qualified its proposal by saying there should be no tax reduction if only a small budget surplus is sighted for the fiscal year beginning July 1, or if inflationary pressures should build up.

On the other hand, the CED said Eisenhower Administration budget estimates of revenue for the new fiscal year "may not have made sufficient allowance for the growth of incomes, profits and consequently tax receipts that would come from normal, noninflationary growth of the economy."

Recession a Factor

Also, the CED added, a tax cut would be in line if "there is a marked reversal of economic conditions which requires strong action to combat recession."

These CED views were contained in a new study of the budget, the economy and taxes. The CED describes itself as a "nonprofit, nonpolitical economic research and education organization supported by voluntary contributions from business concerns".

The study by the group's research and policy committee said decision on a tax cut should be deferred until late in the current session of Congress.

Mixed Signs Considered

By that time, it said, a more "comprehensive, authoritative review" can be made of federal budget prospects, and what the CED called "uncertain circumstances" and "mixed signs" prevailing in an economy operating at high levels.

This congressional session already is well along, with leaders trying for adjournment by July 15.

Big Airport Plan Trimmed For County

WHITE PLAINS—Stating that it wanted to avoid "a second LaGuardia Field in a fine residential area," the Board of Supervisors' Airport Committee yesterday proposed a modified master plan for the Westchester County Airport.

Last month the county received a report from James C. Buckley Inc., airport consultants, but yesterday revealed that it would not go along with the Buckley report all the way to blueprint a plan for the airport. The report by the Airport Committee headed by Supervisor Douglas L. Barrett, R., Bedford, was made in cooperation with the County Department of Public Works headed by Commissioner James C. Harding.

The Board delayed action until the July meeting so that members could study the proposal.

The Buckley report contemplates vast expansion of various types of plane traffic at the airport. The Board committee, however, stated that it would not put down all of the firm's recommendations in the master plan because there were no funds available for such expansion and there was little evidence to date that the airlines wanted to make a major use of the airport. The report stated that the committee wanted the airport to benefit county residents and not be a "metropolitan" area type airport.

BUICK '55, white, over gray, plenty extras. Exceptionally clean. Cost $3200. A real buy. $1700. Phone VO 9-5000.

"Replies came from several sections of the county the first evening the ad appeared. Before long 15 readers had responded, and I made a good sale to a resident of Yonkers," reported the pleased advertiser.

ing" when the bond issue was twice defeated and finally approved.

91 Cents Per $1,000

The basic findings of Mr. Byssne and Edward Juller, district clerk, as a result of their work on the tax structure "motivated my thinking," Mr. Doern said. The $345,000 proposed bond issue, he pointed out, reflects about 91 cents per $1,000 on the tax bill. With the new wing, he continued, the Barry Avenue School can be abandoned and the children moved to the present Bellows Ridge School building, resulting in a decrease from four to three in the number of buildings to be maintained.

Work required by the State Department of Education on the Barry Avenue building would run around $385,000, Mr. Doern stated. This would represent 75 cents per $1,000 and even more if an extra teacher had to hired. This in itself, Mr. Doern pointed out, "is pretty nearly a standoff without considering the saving which would result from doing all the work at one time instead of part of it later. This is something I believe that all taxpayers should consider. Looked at objectively, now is the time to do it."

The additional costs of maintaining four instead of three buildings, added to the 75 cents for remodeling Barry Avenue, Mr. Doern explained, would bring the tax increase per $1,000 to about $1.05, or more than the 91 cents which the new bond issue would add.

'Now Is The Time'

"No matter how you analyze it," Mr. Doern stated, "now is the time to put on the junior high school wing. I know of no other alternative, and this after a long and exhaustive study of the problem by the school Board. I believe the new bond issue to build the new wing is a logical, sensible, practical step to take at this time."

Mr. Begrisch pointed out that the new wing is added to the right of the building, and a separate entrance has been provided for junior high students. The layout, he showed by a plan visible to the audience, offers a fairly good separation of the junior and senior high students. He pointed out the facilities that the two groups would use in common, and stated that the arrangement makes "for a minimum of confusion."

Mr. Eysshe pointed out that the new senior high school structure indicates a tax rate the first year of about $4.75 per $1,000 or assessed valuation, and averages around $3.75 over the 30-year period. The addition of the wing adds another 91 cents the first year with a 30-year average of about 80 cents. he said.

On the other hand, he pointed out, the permanent reconditioning of Barry Avenue School which would be required by the state if the building is to be used, would cost $1.05 the first year and about 93 cents the 15th year, the maximum length of such an issue.

Mechanics Simple

"The mechanics of arranging the two separate bond issues are fairly simple and need not concern you," Mr. Eyshe said. "In all probability they would be lumped together and put out as one 30-year bond issue totaling $2,185,000."

He explained that he has always talked a per cent interest, but added that the interest is out of the Board's hands and depends on the condition of the bond market at the time the issue is offered.

Mr. Fitts explained that when the Citizens Committee approved the bond issue passed earlier, every member recognized that a senior high school building alone would solve only part of the problem. There was never any disagreement, he stated, that the senior high school was the most urgent need, but the members recognized Dr. Beatty's plan of providing adequate and proper space for grades one through eight still remained.

The only disagreement at the time the committee carried on its studies was whether to build for junior high students, separately or as a wing, or attempt to utilize the present buildings, he said. "In short," he added, "which would provide the most economical solution."

When asked to study the present wing addition, Mr. Fitts said, the group concluded, with one dissenting vote, "that this plan presents the most economical, feasible means of meeting the problem we all know exists".

Dr. Hicks, speaking for the school district administration, said that with addition of the wing "our total high school problem will have received timely and adequate attention".

The new wing, he continued, is the logical and proper next step, recommended only after lengthy studies by the School Board and the Citizens Committee, the administrators and other school people and members of the State Department of Education.

The plan, he said, is based on considerations of good economy. Total costs of the alternatives, the new wing or reconditioning Barry Avenue, are about the same in the long run, and the fewer buildings in use, the less cost of maintenance with fewer staff people used to greater advantage.

Influx of Families

He pointed to the construction underway in the district, especially to one apartment almost finished and another about to be built.

"Families moving into the community have more children than those moving out," he stated, adding that it is an "unhealthy condition for a community to defer important problems for too long a time. This brings about less desirable facilities for its children, hurts its reputation and lowers property values.

"Approval of this plan by our school district now," Dr. Hicks concluded, "I believe will not only provide a better setup for our junior and senior highschool students, but it will also make possible better facilities in the near future for a large segment of our elementary population."

Questions were largely about registration and the mingling of junior and senior students.

Mrs. Vincent Rendich asked about the registration problem and who is eligible to vote. She was advised by Mr. Garfunkel and Mr. Juller that all except 51 residents will have to register June 19.

Registration

Registration books will be open from 7 A. M. to 9 P. M. that day, the men explained, and voting will take place between the same hours June 19.

Harry Coren of 911 Grove Street asked about mingling the junior and senior groups, prefacing his series of questions with the statement that he is favorably disposed toward the issue.

Kenneth R. Kinney, district guidance director, and Miss Annie McPhee, assistant principal and guidance counselor, both replied that the layout of the wing and the building permits little intermingling, and that staggering of schedules would make it possible for the two groups to clear each other while moving to and from common facilities.

Dr Willard Beatty, educational consultant for Perkins and Will, architects, pointed out that such intermingling is fairly common.

When Mr. Coren asked about separate buildings, Mr. Garfinkel agreed that it would be ideal, but that money is not available. As to distance to walk, Mr. Garfunkel told Mr. Coren that it was within walking distance for any normally healthy young child.

Mrs. Rendich asked if building would be ready in September, 1957, and Dr. Beatty replied that it would be then or at the latest December, depending on deliveries of building products.

Assessment Roll Open

The new assessment roll of the Town of Mamaroneck for 1956 was officially opened to the public on Friday. It shows an increase of approximately $1¼ million.

Town Assessor Thomas J. McEvoy said this increase is primarily composed of additional new construction in the amount of approximately $3¼ million erected since the last assessment roll was completed, and an increase of approximately $4 million in the assessed value of residential property already on the assessment roll.

Both the New York State Board of Equalization and Assessment, and the Westchester County Equalization Commission in an extensive survey have found that the present assessed values of residential properties in the Town of Mamaroneck are drastically out of line with the actual full value of such properties, and these increases are in line with the results as determined by this survey, he said.

Anne Downes' Tenth Book 'Captive Rider' Is Published

By MARIE BUCK PRICE

YONKERS—

The typical American businessman, who is receiving so much attention in contemporary fiction, is also the subject of a new novel by Mrs. Anne Miller Downes. "The Captive Rider", a story about a busy executive who has no time for anything besides his job, is being released today.

This is the 10th novel Mrs. Downes has written since she began her career in 1939. Five of her novels have been book club selections. The author has lived at 60 Edgemont Road for more than 30 years, and all of her novels have been written there.

"Another main theme in my book is the development of the hero's wife from a shy girl who comes from a very protected and sheltered family life into a very independent, self-reliant woman," says Mrs. Downes. Setting for this new book is a small college town in upstate New York.

Born in Utica

The author is familiar with the upstate area as she was born and reared in Utica. She was educated at Utica Academy, New Paltz State Normal College and Columbia University's School of Journalism. Mrs. Downes, who comes from a family of musicians and artists, received an extensive musical education. For a time Mrs. Downes was a concert pianist. She taught English at Laura Jacobi School, New York, and Knox School in Utica. In 1937 she was married to Frank Harley Downes.

Her first literary effort was a short story she wrote while at Columbia. "It did a great deal for my morale when it was published in H. L. Mencken's 'Smart Set' in the Atlantic Monthly", she said. Despite her earlier success Mrs. Downes said she was wary about how her first novel would be received. "My fears proved groundless, though, because 'So Stands the Rock' came out in August and by October was in its sixth printing," Mrs. Downes said.

Mrs. Downes began writing because she was concerned with the picture our books and movies were creating in the minds of peoples in other countries. "It was a time when there was a great debunking of the American way of life. No one abroad believed there were any real Americans just like other middle class people in the world. I saw no reason why ordinary people could not be written about. We aren't all saints, but we aren't all villains either," she explained.

Real Dramas in Life

The real dramas in life, the author believes, are the great events in peoples' lives, birth, marriage, death and their consequences. "One of the most rewarding letters I've ever received came from a Swedish woman who was so surprised to discover 'New England women are just like Swedish women'," said Mrs. Downes.

The author predicts a renaissance in the fiction. There is a definite desire for good stories and characters one can believe in, and publishers are looking for this type of fiction, Mrs. Downes says.

Mrs. Downes is a member of the Author's League of America and the International Pen Club. This Summer she will be director of the novel at the New England Conference for Writers to be held at Suffield, Mass.

Young authors can't read too much, states Mrs. Downes. "They should read the best books and study them, but never imitate other authors," she says. The only way to learn to write is to write, she advises, and young authors must above all "be themselves".

spond to a ringing reaffirmation of faith in their way of life. They do not need to be frightened into unity by a torrent of reports, many without foundation, that the Russians already outdistance them in science, education, technology and armaments.

New Era Open

4. Peace—meaning the absence of a major shooting war—can be maintained. This does not involve a "rust of Communist leaders. There can be no trust until today's leaders denounce Leninism as they denounced Stalinism. Leninism still preaches world domination through violent revolution.

Soviet tactics, dictated in part by a developing standoff in modern weapons, have opened a new era for American leadership. Americans are discovering Soviet capabilities and are on notice that the duel is in deadly earnest.

At home, the United States will have to maintain a good rate of economic growth . . . old depressions, convince the free world of the long-term stability of the American economy, devote more attention to training technical and scientific personnel, develop imaginative approaches toward aid to underdeveloped nations.

A bolder attitude toward accepting Soviet challenges is developing. The agreement for Gen Nathan F. Twining to attend Soviet Aviation Day ceremonies in Moscow is an indication of this. If it means Soviet officers must be invited back, the argument goes, the United States has nothing to fear.

The Red army is more aware than any other group of the Soviet economy's weaknesses, and it could be healthy to show them what happens in a nation which devotes to its people. Absent this attitude underscores American earnestness in the quest for peace and faith in its social system.

Highly placed persons in Washington acknowledge that the American approach to many areas of the East-West competition is changing. Much of the future, these persons say, is bound up with an intangible substance called understanding. This may mean a broad overhauling of many aspects of American activities abroad.

Stalin, like Hitler, forced western unity. With Stalin gone and the worry over imminent world war receding, Europe restively and interestedly eyes the Soviet economic drive. It is sometimes difficult for trade-hungry people to remember it was Lenin not Stalin—who laid down the principles of world revolution now guiding the Soviet leadership.

Soil Conditioning

The guest speaker, who stressed the use of scientific knowledge and the new gadgets, discussed chiefly three areas of horticulture: soils and soil conditioning; fertilizing; and pest and disease control. A well-conditioned soil, retaining moisture, is the most important consideration for better flowers, she noted. Her advice on improving the soil by conditioning, which is done in the Fall, stressed the value of compost, peat moss, humus, wood ash, which she said is especially good for peonies, lime, and certain detergents. She noted the advantages and disadvantages of synthetic conditioners, and said that the ideal soil for growing flowers has a granular structure.

Fertilizing, she continued, means the addition of nutrients to the soil. The three major elements she named as nitrogen, for green foliage, phosphate, for flowers and fruit, and potassium for stem strength, color and disease resistance. Discussing the two types of fertilizer, organic, which is generally slow-acting, and inorganic, usually quick acting, Mrs. Tanenbaum noted that the various types are used for varying purposes and at different times. A new high analysis fertilizer is designed for leaf-feeding she said.

Turning to a discussion of plant protection and disease prevention, the speaker emphasized that total protection is impossible, because of "limiting factors" of time, effort and money. Sanitation is most important in the garden, she said, urging the prompt removal of annuals and biennials, and cutting back of perennials in the Fall, as well as "paper bag gardening," prompt removal of "garden trash material" on which many insects thrive. She suggested several effective sprays, and warned that spraying must be done before the disease is advanced.

Mrs. Tanenbaum answered members' questions on many phases of gardening, and advised that roses should not be fed after July 15.

Bums On The Skid Says Ralph Branca

"Wait 'till next year." An old tune with a familiar ring to Dodgers ears is currently enjoying a successful revival in Brooklyn.

The world champs are looking more and more like the Bums of old and the diehards can't see better than a fourth place finish for Alston' sfading all-stars.

Latest to board the Dodger slide club is Ralph Branca, who hoping otherwise, goes along with the pressimists predicting the bottom of the first division for the Brooks.

Branca, who should know a thing or two about the Bums after spending over eight years in Flatbush, likes Cincinnatti, Milwaukee and St. Louis in that order of finish. And the club that gets the pitching will finish on top.

"There's no happy medium with this Dodger club," claims big Ralph. "It'll either be first or fourth place. I'm inclined to believe it will be fourth. The pitching staff has no depth. After the two key stoppers, what've they got? And after Labine, what's left to choose from in the bullpen

"The club has too many streak hitters who can be pitched to. And let's face it, Hodges, Robinson, Reese and Campanella are not getting any younger. The team is definitely past its peak and it look smore like a slide than a climb from this point on."

What's that, you say? Now let's watch the language you Dodger rooters.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

A study in opposites: Rocky Marciano retires and refuses to knock the sport which had given him wealth and fame. Less of a big leaguer is Duke Snider who took a few pieces of silver and rapped the baseball bizz with his "I play for money and not for fun."

Amazed at the distances the ball is being hit this year (50 home runs in one day recently), Joe DiMaggio rejects the idea of a souped-up ball and goes along with the theory better wood is being used in the bats.

In his recently-published biography, Walter Hagen says of himself, "I didn't want to be a millionaire, I only wanted to live like one." And Fred Corcoran adds "He was the first man ever to make a million out of golf and the first man to spend it."

Sam Snead has succeeded Tommy Armour as pro at the fabulous Boca Raton, Fla. who'se been associated with Boca since its opening back in 1928, is reportedly deeply hurt by the move. The game never produced a more amazing personality than the silver-thatched Armour.

Those in the know are predicting that the Giants will move out of the Polo Grounds by the end of the '57 season, with either Minneapolis or California as the next home base. And while on the Giants, manager Bill Rigney's favorite tune these days must be, "ain't this a shame."

Heard the latest moron line making the rounds? "Let's put our heads together and make a rock garden." Ouch!

Shaw Sparks Village Gang's 10-5 Triumph

The big bat of Manager Bill Shaw sparked the Villagers to a 10-5 triumph over the Magrinos in the Mamaroneck Independent Softball League last night at Harbor Island.

Shaw rapped out a single, double and triple in four at bats to collect three of his team's eight safeties.

However, it was the two-run homer of Roger Schacklinsky in the last of the fifth which enabled the Villagers to break up the game and gain undisputed second place in the loop.

Tigers Defeat Port Chester In Finale, 9-0

A 9-0 victory over Port Chester yesterday at the Tamarac Country Club enabled Mamaroneck Hi's golf team to cop the WIAA championship and finish unbeaten in six matches.

So powerful were the Mams this season that they scored 51 of a possible 54 points in their six matches.

Only New Rochelle experienced mediocre success against Coach Bob Sampson's charges, scoring 2 ½ points in defeat. The other ½ point was registered by White Plains.

Finishing the campaign unbeaten in match play were Roy Humphreys and Kirk Bunnell in the third flight, while Nick Lapolla and John Bunnell ended undefeated in the second flight.

Captains Ray Nolletti and Charlie Capalbo, competing against the opposition's best, allowed three points while scoring 15 markers.

Yesterday Nolletti and Capalbo fired 78 and 77 scores in defeating Mike Ricci and Dave Dianni in first-flight play.

John Bunnell and Lapolla posted 83 and 87 efforts as they halted Frank Sapione and Joe Sabia, 3-0, while Kirk Bunnell and Humphreys completed the sweep with a 3-0 win over Harry Rich and Elliot Boro of Port Chester.

Mamaroneck's only poor performance of the season was a fifth-place finish in the Section I tournament at Poughkeepsie earlier in the campaign. After a poor first round, the Mams played brilliant golf to dominate activity. However, first-round scores prevented the Tigers from doing better than fifth. Pleasantville won Section I honors.

It was Coach Sampson's first season at coaching golf at Mamaroneck. . .And Sampson, who plays a fine game himself, produced a champion.

Pete Thomson Wins In Dallas To Play Here

DALLAS (AP) — Peter Thomson, the sturdy Australian who dominates British golf, showed Americans a thing or two about stretch running yesterday when he won his first tournament in the United States.

The cheerful young man from down under came from a tie for eighth place with a 7-under-par 63 to deadlock with Cary Middlecoff and Gene Littler for first place then won a playoff and first money in the $70,000 Texas International Open.

As Thomson departed today for New Rochelle, N. Y., where he will play in the round-robin tournament he carried a check for $13,478 to show that he had taken down the top prize in one of the finest fields ever to play in an American tournament.

Thomson, twenty-six-year - old two-times British Open champion from Melbourne, Australia; Middlecoff, the ex-dentist from Memphis, and Littler, the big money winner from Singing Hills, Calif., tied over the regulation 72 holes at 267. Then on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff, the sturdy Australian sank a 12-foot putt for a birdie while Littler missed by inches a 10-footer that would have given him one.

Connolly Posts 4th Loop Win

With Joe Connolly hurling brilliant ball after a shaky first inning at Flint Park last night the defending-champion Old Timers defeated the Cavaliers in eight innings, 3-2, to remain the only unbeaten team in the Larchmont Softball League.

After being belted for three hits and two runs in the initial stanza, Connolly scattered three bingles over the next seven innings to gain his fourth win of the season.

The Old Timer ace fanned nine batsmen while displaying perfect control to best Gene Crowley and the Cavaliers.

Crowley's Skein Snapped

Crowley, who had pitched three 21 scoreless innings, blanked the Old Timers for three frames to extend his scoreless streak to 24 stanzas.

Hence, as the Old Timers came to bat in the last of the fourth facing a 2-0 deficit, things looked bad for Connolly and Company!

Sid Anton alleviated the condition slightly by ending Crowley's skein with a four-base wallop to narrow the Cavalier margin to 2-1.

A single by Pat D'Onofrio opened the last of the sixth for the Old Timers, with D'Onofrio circling the bases to score the tying run as Dan Rituno's bunt single was thrown away. Crowley worked his way into more trouble by walking Connolly and Mike Melielo to load the bases with no outs.

The Cavalier ace, however, showed championship form by getting Home - run Anton on strikes, Joe Roma on a pop and Werner Herlyn on a fly to maintain a 2-2 deadlock.

That menace Anton singled to start the last of the eighth for the Old Timers. Crowley, who retired Roma and Herlyn to work his way out of trouble in the sixth, was then belted for singles by Roma and Herlyn to work his way out of trouble in the sixth, was then belted for singles by Roma and Herlyn to suffer his first defeat of the year.

The victory moved the Old Timers a game ahead of the Cavaliers in the LSL race.

LSL activity is slated to continue at Flint Park tonight when the Embassys meet the Taverns. The Cavaliers meet the Diavolos tomorrow.

The blackfishing on Ling Island Sound is in full flower. Everywhere you go plentiful catches of tautog are to be seen.

So good is the supply of the voracious denizens of rocks and reefs that they are now making up the bulk of the hauls in salt water. Bags of 50 to 100 fish have not been uncommon.

Rowboaters are doing especially well off Port Chester Harbor, Playland and New Rochelle. Fishing near Fort Slocum, New Rochelle, Eino Ranta of the Bronx and a friend hooked into 60 blacks none of which were under a pound. One was a six-pounder. A few flounders also showed in the catch.

Charles Greer of New Rochelle offers the first word on weakfish this year. He reports seeing a five pounder taken just outside of Neptune Creek. The angler made the catch while fishing for blacks.

During a lull in their work shad netters Louis Proszenyak of Yonkers and Anton Davidson of Long Branch, N.J., were seen fishing for bullheads with handlines.

Asked if they were seen taking "sailors' holidays," Proszenyak explained, while waiting for bites at Ludlow Dock, that it was one way of helping to meet expenses in what has been a profitless season.

Keating Gains Semis At Net

WOODSIDE — Jack Keating of Tuckahoe, representing Iona College of New Rochelle, gained the semi-finals of the second annual Metropolitan College Tennis Conference singles tournament yesterday. He scored a pair of triumphs over two Hunter College players at the Boulevard Gardens courts.

In the first round Keating disposed of Andy DuBrin, 6-4, 6-4, and followed by defeating Eric Hauben, 6-2, 6-4 in the round-of-eight.

Iona's other singles contender, Bill Madden of North Tarrytown, bowed out in the first round. Ronnie Dick of Pratt beat him, 6-2, 2-6, 6-0.

In doubles, Keating and Larry Battersby, also of Tuckahoe, advanced into the semi-final bracket by default from Steve Benyo and Phil Roussakis of Fort Schuyler.

The tournament will wind up with play today and tomorrow.

White Sox Win Nine Of 12; Hold 2d Place

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Staff

The Chicago White Sox have gained a little weight and appear recovered from their most recent attack of Yankee-itis, but the question is—how long can it last?

Manager Marty Marion's crew looked just as healthy a couple of weeks back, having won six straight and edging to within 1½ games of the American League leading New Yorkers. Then the Yankees laid 'em low, winning three in a row to touch off a five-game losing streak for the Sox. Before it ended they were 6½ games behind and in fourth place.

The White Sox since have perk*ed up considerably*, winning nine of their last 12 and six of their last seven. The recovery came at an opportune time — while the Yankees were losing six of 13.

Clip Orioles

Chicago continued to fatten up at Baltimore last night, trimming the Orioles 13-4 and cutting the Yanks' lead to four games. Cleveland, in third and only 4½ back, defeated Washington 7-0 in the only other American League game scheduled.

In the National, meanwhile, Pittsburgh slipped into first place while enjoying a day off as Sal Maglie and Brooklyn's Dodgers combined to dump the Milwaukee Braves out of the lead 3-0. The Braves now trail by a full game —as do St. Louis, an 11-5 winner over New York, and Cincinnati, an 8-2 winner over Philadelphia.

Billy Pierce, the 5-10 lefthander who calls the Orioles "cousins," had only a slight bit of trouble gaining his seventh victory for the Sox and his ninth straight over the Orioles. He allowed but two hits for seven innings, then gave up all four Baltimore runs in the eighth on four hits and two walks. Anndy Consuegra relieved for the final 1 1-3 innings.

Philley Bat Hero

It was the third straight victory for the Sox, who test their recovery against Washington and Boston before running into the Yankees again a week from today. The Sox, 0-5 vs. New York this season, banged 14 hits off loser Don Ferrarese and reliefer George Zuverink. Dave Philley, an Oriole until two weeks ago, drove in four Sox runs with two doubles and a single.

Mike Garcia got the job done for the Indians with the help of home runs by rookie Earl Averill and Jim Busby and three runs batted in by Vic Wertz. The big bear struck out 12 for a 4-5 record and his first shutout since last Aug. 24.

Cotton Leads Open Qualifying; Bill Kuntz Third In Big Field

HARRISON—

LONDON'S Henry CKOTTON A Larchmont's Billy Kuntz created the big links storm at Westchester Country Club yesterday and stroked off with two of the top spots in district qualifying for the U. S. Open championship.

Cotton, forty- nine-year-old three-time British Open champ, fired corking rounds of 68 and 69 for a medal-winning 36-hole total of 137. The soft-spoken Londoner, here for the forthcoming Palm Beach tourney, posted a pair of 34s for the rugged par-72 West course in the morning, and came back in the afternoon to card another sub-par 36-33—69 over the par-70 South layout. He was best in a big field of 163 golfers, second largest Open qualifying field in the country.

Two strokes behind Britain's famed teaching pro came N. Y. State amateur champion Billy Shields of Albany, with 66, 73 for 139.

Bracketed at 140 were amateur Bill Kuntz of Bonnie Briar and pro Al Feminelli of Port Chester and Old Oaks, followed at 141 by young Winged Foot assistant Dave Marr, Fred Gronauer of Briarcliff and Sleepy Hollow and Bob Watson of Ardsley.

Completing the 11 qualifiers from the district are Pat Circelli of Ridgeway, Fred Annon of Ryewood, Mike Homa of the host club and Mario Laureti of Harrison and Quaker Ridge, all pros and all at 142, even par for the day.

The performance of Bill Kuntz, thirty-five-year-old ex-Yale University golfer, was startling to say the least and coming as it did against one of the strongest fields ever assembled here. Bill summed up the effort as follows: "I've played little golf since winning your tournament of club champions last year and I just came up for a day in the country, never expecting to qualify."

Bill, who is a year older than his brother Bob, the present Metropolitan medal and match play champion, burned up the South course in the morning with a tour of 32, 34—66. He had 36, 38—74 for the West course in the afternoon. His cards showed nine threes and three deuces, five bogies and 19 pars. He had seven birdies, including a 3-2-3 string at the seventh, eighth and ninth holes in the morning.

The 5-9, 150-pound Bonnie Briar champ, a pupil of Sal and Joe DiBuono, had never won a major event until capturing the Tourney of Club Champions last year at Winged Foot. He will be heading for Rochester and the U. S. Open early next week.

Many "Casualties"

Yesterday's list of qualifying victims was extremely high, many of the area's greats missing out by a stroke or two.

The casualty list includes Herman Barron of Fenway and Mike Turnesa of Knollwood, who missed out by a shot at 143; Claude Harmon of Winged Foot, Jim Turnesa of Empire State and amateurs Bob Kuntz of Bonnie Briar, Tommy Goodwin of Westchester and Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, all at 144, two strokes off the passing grade.

Also failing to qualify were former American and British amateur champ Willie Turnesa of Knollwood, Met PGA titlist Harry Cooper of Metropolis, both at 145; and former U. S. Open champs Gene Sarazen at 148 and Tony Manero of Greenwich at 158.

Bob Kuntz had 67 in the morning but soared to 77 in the afternoon.

Town Golf Tournament Open To 'More' Links Enthusiasts

Official confirmation was made this morning by Tournament Director Joe Germani that all residents of the Village of Mamaroneck, who reside in the Rye Neck Section, will be eligible to participate in the second annual Town of Mamaroneck Men's Amateur Golf Tournament on June 25 at the Bonnie Briar Club.

Germani received the official approval of Village Manager William Johnson yesterday, after a suggestion to appropriate a sum to assist the tournament was approved at a recent meeting of the Village Board.

Since last year's competitors did not consist of Rye Neck residents, it is now expected that a number far exceeding the 70 total of last season will participate.

It is again emphasized by Germani that prizes are available to all types of golfers, those in the 70's, 80's, 90's, triple figures, and probably the championship prize for anyone who can fire in the 60's.

Entry fee is $3, with an optional fee of $3 for the dinner. The tournament is sponsored by the Town of Mamaroneck Recreation Commission.

NEW ROCHELLE—

All-County gridder Tom Sutton received the Jerry Donnelly Award and three-letter athlete Hal Wissel the Florence and William Kahn Memorial Award at the seventh annual New Rochelle High Varisty Club dinner last night in the school cafeteria.

The Donnelly award symbolizes the football player who in the opinion of the coaches makes the greatest sacrifice and turns in the most outstanding performance. The Kahn Award goes to the athlete chosen by coaches and teachers as best exemplifying the combination of scholastic excellence, sports proficiency and good citizenship.

More than 100 athletes were honored. Dick Mason, head track coach at Columbia University, was guest speaker. Dick Noonan, coach and athletic director in Maine, and a former Donnelly-coached athlete, presented the award to Sutton. Coach John Keller, chairman of the NRHS physical education department, was toastmaster.

GOP BRASS

of the party. And those independents who were defeated yesterday may return to the Primary election fray next year when county officials are to be nominated.

Consider, for example, that in the 26th Congressional District the organization candidate lost Harrison, Lewisboro, Mamaroneck, New Castle, New Rochelle, North Castle, Pelham, Rye City, Rye Town, Scarsdale.

In Scarsdale, once acclaimed the GOP Gibraltar, five of the seven town's GOP executive committee had openly come out for an anti-organization candidate.

Consider further in the same 26th District that the organization candidate carried only Bedford, Mount Vernon, White Plains, Yorktown and the small towns of North Salem, Pound Ridge and Somers.

Wipe out the vote in either Mount Vernon or White Plains and Mr. Egan would have been the GOP nominee today.

If Nields Withdrew

Note that in all likelihood had Mr. Nields withdrawn Mr. Egan would have beaten Mr. Dooley.

It is worth note also that in the 27th District the organization candidate lost Greenburgh, once a stalwart unit of the GOP machine. Nor did the organization designee run any too well in Ossining, home town of Herbert C. Gerlach, Republican County chairman. The Ossining vote was Gwinn 903, Armbruster 824.

Further, the unofficial figures show that Mr. Gwinn carried Yonkers by fewer than 700 votes. That is not an overwhelming tribute to the GOP leadership in Yonkers of Gedward J. Ganter, County Finance Commissioner.

By way of contrast, Mayor Edwin Michaelian of White Plains, the city which gave organization candidate Dooley a lead of 1,324, will get a big share of the credit for the machine victory in the 26th District. So also will Lester Gradshaw of White Plains, Mr. Dooley's campaign manager.

Sharing this credit will be County Clerk Edward Warren, GOP leader in Mount Vernon, which gave Mr. Dooley an unofficial lead over Mr. Egan of 999.

It was White Plains and Mount Vernon which won in the 26th for the GOP organization yesterday. Subtract either city and the machine would have suffered an upset.

In 1952 in the 26th District, organization candidate Ralph Gamble, retiring from Congress this year, won over Mr. Dooley by a 2,329 majority. In 1954 Mr. Gamble won over Mr. Nields by 4,392.

This year the organization candidate won a plurality of 974 over his nearest opponent. But the anti-organization vote for the two independents was 14,871 against That means, in substance, a de- 9,678 for the machine designee, feat for the machine by 5,193 votes.

Not much for the GOP organization to cheer about in those figures.

wants to cope with it. Materials and labor for housing are short because of the vast appetite of heavy industry.

Agriculture remains another weakness. The supply of grain for a growing urban population is less than in 1938. Farmers gross output 70 per cent by 1960, to double production of meat and milk. Vegetables — even the staple potato—are in short supply.

Transportation Problem

The state of Soviet transportation would be a serious menace strains on the inadequate rail system which carried 87 per cent of Soviet domestic transport in 1955. The problem of automotive transport is acute. By 1960, the USSR still will be producing only 650,000 passenger cars, trucks and buses a year. There is an acute shortage of tires. There is pressing need for good roads.

On the political front, de-Stalinization is a certain weakness. It seems to be a lollypop for the Soviet people, once again ordered to wait for the consumer goods they long for. Stalin gets the blame for all that is wrong in the USSR.

While the needs of Red China and the attempt to compete for world favor through exports continue to be a drain on the Soviet economy, the consumer must wait. But revolutionary communism is not the force it once was in Russia. The Soviet structure is changing. The people have demonstrated they can be impatient. Their pressure will be felt more and more in the Kremlin in the next 10 years.

Next: Americans take stock.

Mr. Eisenhower asked why Tito had been received in Moscow with such elaborate acclaim and then answered his own question:

It was because of the success Tito had in defying the Soviet regime. To get him back the Russians had to make great concessions.

Mr. Eisenhower said this would cause the Russians to think seriously about relations with other satellites.

Still, Mr. Eisenhower said, there must be another look at American aid to Yugoslavia in the light of what serves our best interests.

Inn. Leo Helthaus is chairman of the affair, and he will also conduct initiation ceremonies for Lions elected since the last initiation ceremony.

The club was in a spending mood yesterday, voting unanimously $65 to hire a bus to take blind persons to the picnic next Sunday sponsored by the Westchester Blind Association, $25 toward the annual athletic dinner at Bellows High School and $5 to the Joyce Eaton Memorial Society of New Rochelle, which takes care of blind children.

Carl Strauch reported that two teams headed by Mr. Manchon and Mr. Harper will canvass the village Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights as feature of the Club's flag sale. Names of the team members were not announced.

A letter from United Cerebral Palsy Association, signed by Village Manager William H. Johnson member of the club, asked for a contribution. The letter was referred to the solicitations committee. Mr. Johnson is chairman of organizations in the drive for funds.

Fred Brinkman was the guest of Mr. Manchon, and Ben Fetterson and Milton Underdown were guests of Sam Magid.

Representative Gwinn carried every community in the 7th District except Greenburgh. There Mr. Armbruster won with 1,810 to 1,796.

Yonkers, Mount Pleasant and Eastchester provided most of the Gwinn lead. In Eastchester the vote in Bronxville put the town in the incumbent's camp. Without the lead in that village Mr. Armbruster would have taken Eastchester by about 100 votes instead of the town going for Mr. Gwinn by 340.

Mr. Gwinn received 54 per cent of the more than 25,000 votes cast in the 27th District, with his opponent polling 46 per cent.

Auto Deaths In May Double 1955 Figure As 8 Die In County

Eight automobile deaths in Westchester in May were more than half again as in April and more than twice as many as in May, 1955.

The increase in the death toll raised May's average of fatalities from 6.45 in 22 years of record keeping to 6.52 in 23 years.

Last year in June there were six traffic deaths in Westchester, and already this month there have been half that many.

Bail Jumper, No Runner; Loses Chase

NEW ROCHELLE—

An attempt to outrace a patrol car on foot proved futile for twenty-four-year-old Attilio Joseph Gallo of 131 Franklin Avenue last night.

Gallo has been wanted by police since he jumped bail Jan. 27 on a grand larceny charge dating back to last October.

Dets. Frank Civitano and Lyman Schwartz riding a patrol car on North Avenue last night spotted Gallo on Pershing Square at almost the same instant he spotted them.

He set off at a run. The officers made a U-turn and took after him. Gallo kept going down North Avenue and they grabbed him at the entrance to the Police Station alley.

In City Court today he changed his plea to guilty to selling a mortgaged automobile to used-car dealer Henry Fanelli, 21 Huguenot Street June 11, 1955. There was a lien on the car of $375.

Acting City Judge Edward K. Kennedy set sentencing for June 20 and remanded Gallo to the County Jail without bail.

The man has also reportedly jumped bail on a similar case in Mount Vernon.

Village of Mamaroneck districts by 519 votes, Mr. Egan carried the five Village of Larchmont districts by 199 votes, and Mr. Egan also carried the Town's 10 districts by 456 votes, even though he lost two districts to Mayor Dooley, one of them by one vote.

Mr. Nields ran only eight votes under Mayor Dooley in Larchmont, carrying one district and tying in another, but fared badly in Mamaroneck where he trailed the mayor by 621 votes and Mr. Egan by 102 votes.

In the Town he trailed Mayor Dooley by 123 votes, but led the mayor in three districts and was close in three others. However, he failed to carry a single district.

The two districts which Mayor Dooley won in the Town of Mamaroneck were the 13th by one vote and the 14th by nine votes. However, in the 11th, Mr. Egan trimmed Mayor Dooley 125 to 34.

In another Town district, the 20th, Mr. Egan polled 147 votes to Mayor Dooley's 52 and in the 19th piled up 112 to 42, in the 16th 113 to 46.

Mr. Nields beat Mayor Dooley in the following Town districts: 11, by 39 to 34; 15, by 36 to 33, and 19, by 59 to 42. He trailed by only three in the 20th.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

For all the men and women in our armed services, who are in the vanguard of our defense of freedom, I pray this day, dear God almighty. On this anniversary of D-Day, when the citadel of Europe was stormed in World War II to liberate a continent from enslavement. I salute the valiant citizens who are trained to act swiftly and effectively in any emergency affecting the destiny of our nation and our people. I recognize that but for them—at the barriers near and afar—the hordes of hate and of anti-God would swarm upon us and wrest from us our precious God-given freedoms.

Park Restrictions

WHETHER you like it or not, you simply can't put more than a gallon of anything into a gallon jug.

That's about the situation which has developed in several Westchester recreation centers. And since these places were bought with the money of Westchester taxpayers, developed by Westchester agencies, maintained out of Westchester budgets, it is only natural that preference in patronage be given to Westchester residents.

It is to be expected, we assume, that smart-aleck or politically-minded spokesmen for New York City will endeavor to distort the picture. There will be charges of discrimination, of course. And there may even be threat of reprisals. We can not prevent that.

But it seems to us that the really important thing is to keep a cool head and a calm tongue. Let's not get into any name-calling hassle with our neighbor to the south. We have only recently reached a gratifying plane of joint planning between that city and Westchester. And we would hate to see this trend toward neighborly cooperation harmed in any way.

The real facts are, as mentioned, that some of our parks have been so badly overcrowded in recent years that remedies simply have to be applied. Accordingly, three units will be restricted to county residents. These are Saxon Woods golf course in Scarsdale, Willsons Woods pool in Mount Vernon and Dunwoodie golf course in Yonkers.

All the other parks, golf courses, pools, beaches, amusement centers, recreation spots, picnic grounds, remain open to visitors from outside the county as heretofore. And certainly we have not closed nor do we intend to attempt to close to these outsiders any parks toward which the state contributes money. That intimation was unfair and wholly inaccurate.

Incidentally, there is one thing about this forced restriction of patronage of congested Westchester parks which has always intrigued us. Nassau has for many years limited its county-owned golf courses and parks and beaches to Nassau residents. Then why have these metropolitan critics of a partial Westchester policy of this character exempted Nassau? Why for years have they excused that Nassau policy, only to turn bitterly upon Westchester when it its forced to adopt to a small degree the same policy?

Let's keep a sane outlook on this whole matter. Where we can find the room, let's welcome our neighbors to our playgrounds and relaxation centers. But at the same time let it be clear that wherever congestion makes restriction necessary we intend to take care first of those who pay the bill—our county residents.

It Makes You Poor Indeed

GOVERNOR Harriman has announced that he has withdrawn his name as a sponsor of a charity ball. He did so upon learning the nature of the collection split.

One feature was that the promoter was to get 60 per cent of the proceeds. Out of the remaining 40 per cent the New York Council of the Marine Corps League was to pay all expenses. Any funds left over were to go to the Council's rehabilitation and hospital fund.

Makes you pretty mad, doesn't it, to see the Marines used in such a shabby affair?

And we are glad that Governor Harriman acted promptly to retrieve his good name as soon as the circumstances of the campaign were brought to his attention.

Only, we wish he had ascertained the facts first. And we wish the same for a lot of Westchester folks, sincere do-gooders who are upon occasion too willing to allow the use of their names without adequate inquiry as to the contract between promoter and beneficiary. Far too frequently, we fear, the promoter gets a jug of cream and the beneficiary charity is left just a saucer of skimmed milk.

Said Shakespeare:

"Who steals my purse steals trash; 'tis something, nothing;
" 'T was mine, 't is his, and has been slave to thousands;
"But he that filches from me my good name
"Robs me of that which not enriches him
"And makes me poor indeed."

We would like to think that this embarrassing incident of Governor Harriman will make other citizens more careful about lending their good names. Remember that many persons who contribute to such causes do so because of reputable names on the lefthand side of the begging letter. Your name may be the trademark of respectability which encourages generous donation to a crooked promoter or toward an unfairly-split percentage arrangement.

Find out the facts first.

Democrats Despair Now Deeper

WASHINGTON—With the completion of the Democratic primary contests reflecting a "plague on both your houses" attitude toward the Stevenson and Kefauver candidacies, party politicians believe that their plight has become more desperate than they had anticipated. The struggle at Chicago now l- ns as an attempt to stave off a complete smashup rather than an effort to capture the Presidency from the popular Dwight Eisenhower.

Both Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Kefauver emerge from their battling as bedraggled figures too "anxious to be President". From New Hampshire to California, regardless of their personal fortunes in the various states, there was no enthusiasm or turnout for either man. Their performance stimulated no great demand for the Chicagoan or the Tennessean in other sections.

Mr. Stevenson's selection is still a possibility, in the opinion of the backroom experts. But he will be given the nomination again with no expectation that he can defeat Mr. Eisenhower.

If he is chosen, it will be because his middle-of-the-road attitude on controversial issues offers the only means of keeping all factions in line for the day when the political wheel revolves in a Democratic direction.

SPECULATION — In view of the Stevenson-Kefauver standoff, for such it is regarded in political circles, speculation on substitutes turns toward the various "inactive" but energetic candidates, and the so-called "dark horses". There has been greater activity in their camps, regardless of their professed shyness, because of the primary indifference toward the front runners.

But there is little balm as the politicos look ov r the string of second choices—Governor Averell Harriman of New York, Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri, Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Governor Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, Governor Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey and Governor George M. Leader of Pennsylvania. As of today, that comprises the full list of outside possibilities.

SLIM HARRIMAN CHANCE—The nomination of Mr. Harriman would set the stage for a political Fort Sumter, according to Southern spokesmen. His views on social and economic questions, especially segregation, would insure an Eisenhower victory in more Dixie and border states than the President carried in 1952.

The New Yorker's Tammany connections would handicap him in the Middle and Far West. In short, he would have to be forced upon an unwilling but desperate assemblage of delegates. His selection would be notice to the South that the New York liberal faction was ready to gamble on losing Dixie's electoral votes in the vague hope that his New Deal-Fair Deal-New Vision philosophy would sweep the great cities elsewhere.

Harry S. Truman's supposed partiality to Mr. Harriman would be another liability. In short, the latter's nomination might incline the South toward Republicanism as the conquences of Fort Sumter made it a Democratic stronghold. It is doubtful if the convention will make such a sorry choice.

SYMINGTON AND JOHNSON—The nomination of Senator Johnson would have an equally divisive reaction, but in reverse. His stand on tidelands oil, natural gas and segregation would drive millions of Northerners into the GOP ranks. His conservative leadership has been denounced again and again by spokesmen for the Roosevelt-the Texan himself is not serious about wanting of seeking the honor.

Senator Symington is likable, able and popular, and a compromise whom both sides might accept. But he is not too well known off Capitol Hill. He has not seized upon any outstanding or appealing issue, for national defense is too technical a problem.

The very fact that he was "handy man"—surplus property head, Assistant Se- tary of War, first Secretary for Air—operates against him. He has spread himself too thin.

OPPOSITION UNHAPPY—No politician takes seriously the talk of Governor Lausche. He is too unpopular with labor because of his Ohio record, and his admission that he voted for the late Senator Robert A. Taft. Democratic foes brand him as a "part-time Republican". He is not yet a national figure. That final observation also applies to Governors Meyner and Leader.

As of today, with the convention less than 10 weeks distant, that is the Democrats' admittedly unhappy situation.

MY ANSWER

By Billy Graham

Question: In a recent Sunday school class it was suggested that Saul had an epileptic fit on the road to Damascus and that changed the course of his life. What do you think? P. W.

Answer: If Saul had an epileptic fit, it was the most glorious such seizure in the history of the world, for he arose from that experience a completely transformed man and went on to be the greatest single force for Christ and His church the world has ever known. No, it was not an epileptic seizure but a personal encounter with Jesus Christ, the One he was persecuting and the One he now realized, for the first time, to be the Son of God and his risen Saviour. It is very foolish to try to explain away supernatural experiences such as this and state them in terms of everyday happenings. By this, I do not mean that many of our daily experiences are not used by God for specific disciplines and teaching. But, when we try to give a natural explanation of many of God's actions, we are forgetting that the natural thing for God to do is to act in a supernatural way. The Bible is full of miracles and of supernatural manifestations. We may blind ourselves to the fact that He may act the same way today. In the case of the Apostle Paul, God simply stopped him in his tracks and showed him that in persecuting the early Christians, he was actually fighting against God and His Son. The transformation of Saul's life is being duplicated in many lives today, for when men completely surrender to Christ, He makes them new creatures, imparting to them something of His own divine nature.

ROBERT S. ALLEN

AEC Blooper On Damage Bared

WASHINGTON — The Atomic Energy Commission is belatedly plugging up a curious oversight that could cost the government huge sums for life and property losses in foreign countries.

This costly possibility is due to inept AEC agreements for the sale of power and research reactors.

In a number of these agreements the AEC failed to protect the government from potentially immense claims for radiation damage in the event something happens to these nuclear reactors.

This peculiar blunder was uncovered by members of the Joint Atomic Committee, particularly Senator John Pastore, D., R. I.

AEC Chairman Lewis Strauss was ordered to take immediate corrective steps.

It can be disclosed that one of these faulty agreements is the largest of the 29 so far signed with foreign countries. It is with Belgium for an 11,000 kilowatt power reactor being made by Westinghouse under a contract to complete it for a World Fair in that country in 1958.

SWAP WITH ENGLAND—Actually only 28 reactors will be sent abroad undler these agreements. The one with Britian is for exchanging information in this vital field. Britain is building its own reactors, and in certain respects is ahead of the U.S. New negotiations are underway on this 1955 agreement, which covered only "fast breeders" and "homogeneous" reactors.

Of the 28 reactor agreements, only one other, with Canada, is for power, and 27 are for research purposes.

All the reactors are made by U. S. companies which sell them to the foreign countries under government authorization. The "fuel" for these reactors is supplied by the Atomic Energy Commission, which sells it to the foreign countries at a normal charge that is far below production cost.

The controversial multi-billion dollar foreign aid bill pending in Congress contains a provision for the U. S. to pay half the price of research reactors for countries that can't afford them otherwise.

ON THE GRIDDLE—there has been no explanation for the AEC's strange failure to protect American taxpayers from huge foreign damage claims.

At a closed-door session of the Joint Atomic Committee, Mr. Strauss and William Mitchell, AEC counsel, were subjected to bipartisan grilling on the matter. Mr. Mitchell gave assurance that protective provisions are being included in all new foreign agreements.

Following are publishable highlights from the transcript of this revealing discussion:

"I want to make sure," said Representative Sterling Cole, R., N. Y., "that these bilateral agreements contain a provision protecting us against liability for public damage."

"It does not exist in the early agreements," admitted Mr. Strauss. Then turning to Mr. Mitchell, he asked, "Has such language been incorporated since this question was raised by Senator Pastore months ago?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Mitchell. "We are now incorporating such a provision . . . It is a disclaimer. That is, the foreign country recognizes it has a responsibility for anything that may happen there. That is now being included in all our bilateral agreements. When we come to amending those that don't have it, we are demanding it be inserted in them, too."

"What about the Belgium agreement?" asked Mr. Pastore.

"Nothing can be done with that until it comes up for amending," declared Mr. Strauss. "Then, of course, we will include the provision."

FLASHES — The President's son, Maj. John Eisenhower, may accompany Air Gen. Nathan Twining to Russia. That's being considered by the National Security Council, top policy agency of the government. The Joint Chiefs of Staff favor sending Maj. Eisenhower with Gen. Twining to the Red air show. Communist boss Khrushchev had his son with him on the trip to Britain . . . Senator Stuart Symington hopes to give his "dark-horse" candidacy a boost when he addresses the Democratic State Convention at Superior, Wis., later this month. Wisconsin's 28 delegates are pledged to Senator Kefauver, and are required to support the Tennessean as long as he gets 10 per cent of the convention vote. But a vigorous backstage scramble is underway to win the 28 Badgers' second-choice support . . . Harold Stassen, special White House assistant for disarmament, has been summoned by the special Senate subcommittee headed by Senator Hubert Humphrey, D., Minn., for questioning on Russia's recent announcement of a big cut in its armed forces. Mr. Stassen and Secretary of State Dulles have publicly differed on the significance of this, and the Senate group wants Mr. Stassen's explanation for the variance.

THE COUNSELOR

Rules On Use Of Rifle Range

Question: I would appreciate a little information regarding a rifle range. I have a son, eleven, who would like to join the range. Can you give a list of those in our vicinity? Also, what age do the boys have to be, nd what are the fees? Mrs. L. E.

Answer: The two ranges nearest you are at the Hudson Tire Co. yards in Yonkers, and the police range at Ardeley. You must first learn the law about the minimum age a boy may own or handle a gun. See a lawyer about this. Next, the boy must be under the guardianship of a parent or other guardian while on the range, and under the sponsorship of a member of one of the association gun clubs. This perhaps means that you or your husband must join a gun club. For further information, call the secretary of the Yonkers Range Maintenance Association, Jacob Dick, YO 3-7784 or write him at 180 McLean Avenue, Yonkers. The Ardsley range is temporarily closed because of construction. Any shooting boys do must be done under careful supervision.

LOW COST WARDROBE

Question: I have to travel in England, France and Italy for two months this Summer. I have a very small sum to spend on clothes, but I want to take the necessary items for the trip. I am in my sixties. Can you help me? Mrs. H. P.

Answer: The absolute minimum, much of which you may already own, follows: one suit with quick-drying blouses; small hat to match, probably made of ribbon; tweed coat for warmth on shipboard, also wool scarf, umbrella and toe rubbers. Three drip-dry cotton dresses or nylon jersey, one of these a dark color, others pastel; one simple dinner dress, one cardigan sweater; swimming suit, crepe rubber-soled shoes, walking shoes, pumps for dinner dress; dressing robe and underwear, a dozen pair of nylon hose. Climate in Europe is much like ours, but less humid. Nights are often cool.

HAYFEVER VICTIM

Question: Could you tell me the locations of towns in the East where people can go for the relief of hay fever and asthma? Mrs. W. R. M.

Answer: We can give locations that are relatively free from pollen or ragweed, but it is important to remember that a locality which may be favorable for one patient may not be for another. It is best to consult your own doctor for this information, particularly if you have asthma. Pollen low-incidence localities are: Maine, pine woods and lakes and some parts of the coast; Lake Placid and Saranac Lake in the Adirondacks, N. Y.; Nantucket Island and Boston, Mass.; even New York City has a low ragweed pollen count because of the surrounding sea and few weeds. Where there are strong winds carrying the pollen, even across lakes, there will be suffering, but when winds come from the water, or pinewoods, the count will be very low.

DOUBLE NEGATIVES

Question: Will you settle a friendly dispute? I think it is incorrect to say, for instance, "I don't have none". I say when my friend uses double negatives he is saying the opposite of what he really means. "I don't have none" would really mean "I have some". Am I correct? M.E.G.

Answer: Yes. Many persons use double negatives incorrectly.

Race On To Improve Metal Breed

By SAM DAWSON
A. P. Financial Writer

PITTSBURGH—Improving the breed—usually associated with Churchill Downs or Belmont—today is the goal of thousands of scientists, engineers, technicians and pilot plant workmen in the nation. The breed they're out to improve isn't horses but metals.

They are trying to meet the ever growing industrial and military demands for better metals to do precise and often seemingly impossible tasks. Business in general, and even the stock market, watches their result.

That's because improving the breed of metals not only can bring success in the defense armament race but also, metallurgists here say, can make the difference between profit and loss for railroads, airlines, trucking. They say that in improved metals lies the future of automation in manufacturing, building construction, auto design, mining and even man-made satellites.

Handling Methods Studied

U. S. Steel has just opened a research center at nearby Monroeville, Pa., dedicated to improving the breed of metals. Two thirds of the work there is aimed at improving processes of handling metal and one third at seeking new products or applications.

Allegheny-Ludlum Steel's research scientists here are working on many problems, including new alloys to enable the Air Force to pierce the heat barrier (the speed at which many metals now used would melt). There already exists a small pilot plane that can fly that fast without melting and big ones are the new goal.

Allegheny-Ludlum's scientists say they have special heat resistant steels that the auto industry can put into turbo jet engines. The problem they're working on now is to get the cost down so that the auto companies could put them in mass production.

American Brake Shoe, which has a plant here and a research center at Mahwah, N. J., is working on new alloys, new heat techniques.

Challanges Faced

Among the challenges that metallurgists today are being given by industry and defense—and licking or constantly improving upon—brake shoe scientists point out the following:

Tougher mteals for crushing—to get the iron out of one of the hardest rocks in the world, taconite, and vastly expand the nation's iron resources.

Stronger metals for wearing and moving parts — to keep automated manufacturing from breaking down and losing production time.

Three purpose metals for highway construction — offering strength, hardness and impact resistance in the same piece, to meet the demands of the nation's multi-billion dollar highway expansion program.

Consumers, Not Manikins, May Be Figured For Styles

NEW YORK—I think it entirely possible that we are about to enter a much desired era when high styles will be geared to the normal adult figure of the typical consumer, instead of to the unrealistically thin, emaciated looking fashion manikin.

If it does come to pass, it will have been implemented largely by our soaring population figures. Specifically, the tremendous increases at both age extremes.

If, during the next decade or two, our over-sixty population exceeds that of under-sixty adults, as statisticians predict, designers will have to key their styles more toward the group which represents their biggest market.

Since today's woman in her seventies dresses in the same fashions as her daughter's generation, this will mean not old-ladyish styles but youthfully adult ones that acknowledge the existence of a figure grown past immaturity.

These may consist of sophistication in silhouette, both the Empire and the princess; in the cool comfort of open necklines, and open-weave tissue fabrics; or of our beloved separates, additionally practical for the very young because spilled food need send only half the outfit into the washer.

And here's the joker: these clothes are geared to the "average" child, since problem figures are rare among the very youngest. When these children become adults, they may well demand fine, children's haute couture. Currently it is devoted to providing the small fry with delectable adaptations of current adult high fashion.

At the other extreme is the bibbrates have brought into existence a very real, and very new generation. Its booming the wearable styles they've grown to take for granted!

Rye Wins 3rd Straight SWIAC Track Title; Pleasantville 2d

By ARN SHEIN

RYE—

The Rye Garnets walked off with six of 11 blue ribbons at Rye High School yesterday to capture their third successive SWIAC track championship.

Thus ended a league sports season of almost utter futility. Rye finished as the runnerup team in the SWIAC standings in football, basketball and baseball, blowing a chance to be crowned champion in the final game of the campaign in each instance. But such was not to be the case in yesterday's 19th annual meet as the Garnets scored at least one point in every event to finish with 49½ points as compared to 44 by runnerup Pleasantville.

Behind the Panthers were Hastings 25, Harrison 18, Edison 13½, Bellows 9½, and Eastchester 5½. The only pair of double winners both wore Rye livery, Richie Caputo winning the 100-yard dash in 10.4 seconds and the 220 in 23.1 while Billy Gunday tossed the discus 140 feet, six inches and the shot put 49 feet, six inches to shatter a school mark by a foot.

Other first place finishers for the three-time champs, coached by Bill Dwyer, were Jimmy Stoddart who breezed through the 440 in 51.2 and sophomore Terry O'Connor whose time in the mile was 4:45.0.

Rye so dominated the field that only one other school—Hastings—was able to take as many as two first places. Bob Anderson of the Yellowjackets led the field of high jumpers with a leap of 5 feet, nine and three-quarter inches and Rosario Chenard paced the broad jumpers with his 20 feet, four inch mark.

Although runnerup Pleasantville won only in the pole vault, Dick Craig clearing the crossbar at 10 feet, 10 inches, the Panthers, coached by meet director Herman Wittern, took six seconds, three thirds, two fourths and three fifth place finishes. Points were alloted on a 5-4-3-2-1 basis.

In other track events, Tip Galyon of Harrison's Huskies grabbed the 880-yard run in 2:09.6 and the Hastings relay team of Bill Ketterring, Bob Kelly, Bill Neely and Tim Barnes squeezed through ahead of Edison Tech in the 880 relay, in 1:38.3.

Not a single meet record was established although Anderson came within an inch and a quarter of equalling one of the oldest records in the books. It was in 1938 that Rye's Doc Savage did the high jump in five feet, 11 inches. In the past four years, the only meet records established in the SWIAC meet were accomplished last year by Caputo in the 100 and Stoddart in the 440.

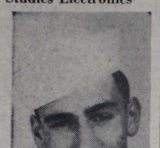
Combing The Town

Studies Electronics



James F. Rivera, above, U. S. Navy seaman apprentice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sheila Rivera of 25 Halstead Avenue, has been assigned to the Great Lakes Naval Training Center for electronics training.

Seaman Rivera recently completed boot training at the U. S. Naval Training Center at Bainbridge, Md., and was given a 14-day leave. A graduate of Mamaroneck Senior High School, he was employed by T. J. McEvoy in Larchmont before entering the Navy on Feb. 16.

Yerick To Broadcast

Mamaroneck Town Police Chief Paul A. Yerick, third vice president of the New York State Association of Chiefs of Police, will participate at 10:45 P.M. today in a radio roundtable discussion on burglary prevention, over WABC.

Also on the panel is Chief Stuyvesant Pinell of the Nassau County Police Department, with R. N. Clark, New York chairman of Burglary Prevention Week, as moderator.

The program is designed to bring to the homeowners' attention the seriousness of the crime of burglary, and the simple precautions the homeowner may take to discourage prowlers.

Panel On Recreation

The Mamaroneck Advisory Council at its annual meeting tomorrow at 8:15 P.M. at Village Hall will present a panel discussion on "Recreation—What We Have and What We Need," Mrs. Harvey Conover, council president, announced today.

Four panelists, Mrs. Conover said, and the areas they will cover are Mrs. Harvey Clarkson, Rye Neck; Steve Johnston, Harbor Island; Charles Warren, Mamaroneck Avenue School, and Walter Warner, the Town Recreation Commission.

To Plan For July 4

Harry Alpiser, president of the Larchmont Softball League, announced that a meeting will be held at 8 P. M. tomorrow at the Larchmont Legion Clubhouse in Flint Park to appoint committees for the annual Fourth of July day-long celebration for children and adults at Flint Park.

He urged that all members of the League, the Legion and the Fire Department, cosponsors of the event, be present. He anticipates, he added, a much larger attendance this year than usual because the holiday falls in the middle of the week.

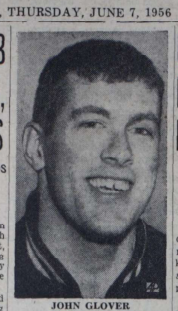
Unkindest Cut Of Day

A bold pair of thieves, riding in a 1956 dark-colored Plymouth, at 10 A. M. yesterday stopped 150 feet from two men working on Thruway property on Winfield avenue, put a 23-inch almost new chainsaw in the car and drove away in spite of the shouts of the workmen, Mamaroneck police report.

According to police, Ferdinand E. Roy of Tarrytown and R. H. Goldreau of Bristol, Conn., had put the Homelite saw, valued at $245, in the grass and were working on something else when they saw the car stop and the men put the saw in it and drove off. It was described as an EZ direct drive. The Detective Bureau was notified and a teletype alarm sent out.

JOHN GLOVER, 23 SWIMMING STAR, COLLAPSES, DIES

Larchmonter Succumbs While Drilling At Yale For Olympic Trials



JOHN GLOVER

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—John Glover, twenty-three, of 80 North Chatsworth Avenue, Larchmont, one of the nation's top swimming stars, died suddenly yesterday while working out at the Yale University swimming pool.

Glover, a former county and Dartmouth University swimming great, apparently suffered a heart attack in the water at the practice pool in the Payne-Whitney Gymnasium and was pronounced dead on arrival at the Grace-New Haven Hospital.

According to Delaney Kiphuth, Yale's athletic director, Glover had been in the water for approximately 20 minutes when he collapsed. Rescue efforts by a New Haven Fire Department emergency squad failed to revive him.

Eyed Olympic Berth

Glover had been pointing for the Olympic swimming trials in August and was regarded as a strong contender for a berth on the American team.

His career, which was culminated by his selection to the 1955 All-America swim team, first became spotlighted in 1950. That Summer, competing under the banner of the Larchmont Shore Club, Glover was voted the outstanding junior swimmer after the Westchester swimming championships at Rye. Glover won three titles in the meet and set two individual records.

The following August he returned to Rye in the men's division and captured three more titles with victories in the 100-yard backstroke, 150-yard individual medley and the 100-yard freestyle.

Dartmouth Captain

During his undergraduate years Glover continued to ascend the swimming heights. He captained the 1954 Dartmouth swim team which grabbed five wins in a row and in March of his senior year outdistanced the field in the east-

Trial Ordered In Loyal Inn Lease Dispute

WHITE PLAINS—

A suit involving the landlord and tenant of the Loyal Inn, Mamaroneck, destroyed by fire on Dec. 5, can be resolved only by a trial, the State Supreme Court ruled today.

Justice Arthur D. Brennan said he was unable, on papers submitted to the court, to decide either for the landlord, Gustav Getjen of 164 Crestwood Avenue, Yonkers, or the tenant, Bado Realty Co. Inc. of 11 Third Street, Rye.

In the suit, Bado Realty wants the court to force the landlord to abide by a claimed option agreement and deed over title to the ruined building.

Mr. Getjen says the option was part of a lease given Bado on the property and that the lease ended with the fire. Bado replies that the option was separate from the lease. Bado moved to exercise the option on Dec. 7.

The landlord says the option specified a $75,000 purchase price if the tenant wished to buy but that the Bado suit seeks a $100,000 abatement in the purchase price due to the fire.

Justice Brennan said he felt only a trial can say if the option was part of the lease and, if so, whether the lease was ended.

WASHINGTON AP — Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin has written a new letter to President Eisenhower. Soviet Ambassador George N. Zarubin arranged to deliver it at the State Department this afternoon.

BURKE TO LEAVE PLAN PANEL POST

O'Conor Joins Board; Maggini Is Chairman

Morgan J. Burke Jr. of 4 Locust Ridge Road, chairman of the Town of Mamaroneck Planning Board, last night presented his resignation from the Board due to pressure of his own legal business in New York. John P. O'Conor of 11 Huguenot Drive will succeed him on the Board, and Fred Maggini of 87 Palmer Avenue, was named chairman.

In commenting on the resignation, Supervisor George D. Burchell pointed out that Mr. Burke had agreed to serve as chairman when the Planning Board was created about two years ago, in spite of his large law practice that requires much of his time.

"In resigning, Mr. Burchell stated, "and rightly so, that his personal obligations must come first. However, I feel certain that if his advice or service should be needed, he will give them gladly and willingly."

With Regret

The resignation was accepted with regret and a proper resolution will be inscribed and sent to him.

Mr. Maggini, a board member, and previously a member of the Zoning Board of Appeals, as was Mr. Burke, was appointed chairman on motion of Councilman Peter P. Kane Jr., seconded by Councilman C. Benjamin Brush Jr.

O'Conor was recommended by Mr. Burchell to fill the Board vacancy. Mr. Burchell pointed out that the only board lawyer, Mr. Burke, is leaving, and it would be proper to appoint a lawyer to succeed him. Mr.

U.S. PRESSES HUNT FOR REMAINDER OF KHRUSHCHEV TALK

Foreign Policy Section Believed Missing In Monday's Version

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. officials believe a big chunk is missing from the version of Nikita Khrushchev's attack on Joseph Stalin which the State Department released this week.

American diplomats and agents abroad have been ordered to hunt for any missing portion —which may run between 10,000 and 15,000 words — and get it to Washington at once if they find it. The search has been assigned the highest priority.

What is missing, authorities here feel, is a long section believed to have dealt with a denunciation of Stalin's conduct of foreign affairs.

It could be especially significant for the free nations to know what Communist Party boss Khrushchev said about these matters because it would indicate Khrushchev's own thinking about them.

President Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday he thinks the Khrushchev speech was designed primarily for Soviet domestic purposes. If this appraisal is correct, whatever Khrushchev said on foreign policy would be written not for foreign but for Soviet ears — and the most trusted Soviet ears at that.

Subjects not covered in the text given out Monday by the State Department include Stalin's handling of Russia's relations with Red China, the Korean War, Soviet pressures against Iran and Turkey, western formation of the Atlantic Alliance, postwar treatment of Germany, the Marshall Plan for European recovery and the anti-NATO Warsaw Pact.

The State Department said its version of Khrushchev's denunciation of the dead dictator had been prepared for the guidance of Communist Party leaders in some country outside Russia.

It is understood this was one of the eastern European satellites and not Yugoslavia, there have been reports that the speech reached Washington through the French government.

Driver Dies Trying To Dodge Auto

PELHAM MANOR—

A truck driver was killed shortly after last midnight and two persons were seriously hurt in a trailer-truck collision with a car on Boston Post Road at Pelhamdale Avenue. Police say the truck swerved to the right in trying to avoid the car, hit a curb, slammed into a tree and overturned.

Hundreds of frozen chickens pies were tossed out of the trailer.

The truck driver, Bland Farrar, twenty-two, of Afton, Va., was crushed in the truck cab by the trailer section.

His passenger, Percy Snawalter, thirty-one, also of Afton, cut and bruised, was held at New Rochelle Hospital.

The driver of the car, Mrs. Nancy H. Kelleher, twenty-seven, of 18 Indian Trail, Greenburgh, is in the hospital with a skull fracture, numerous cuts and bruises and shock. Both survivors were thrown out of their vehicles by the impact.

Mr. Shawalter told police the truck was heading toward New Rochelle about 12:05 A. M. The car came out of Pelhamdale Avenue and struck the left door of the truck, causing the truck driver to swerve, he said. Mr. Shawalter told police that the green light had changed to yellow as the truck entered the intersection.

Mrs. Kelleher was not questioned immediately for her version.

Her car continued to roll for 350 feet before it struck a tree.

The truck was owned by the Morton Frozen Foods Co. of Louisville, Ky.

The traffic death was the first for Pelham Manor since Nov. 6, 1952. The death toll on Westchester roads this year now stands at 49 compared with 25 on a corresponding date last year.

McCarthy Brushed Aside

Tito Hand Out To U.S. As He Footsies Reds

MOSCOW (AP) — President Tito says his visit to Russia will not affect Yugoslavia's friendly relations with the United States.

Talking with reporters at a Kremlin reception last night, the Yugoslav chief brushed aside as "not important" Senator McCarthy's move in the Senate to cut off U. S aid to Yugoslavia because of (Tito's trip to Moscow.

"Our relations with the United States will not suffer," Tito said when asked about the McCarthy resolution. "Our friendship with the United States will continue as before our trip here."

(Informed of Tito's comment, Mr. McCarthy, R., Wis., said in Washington that he stood by his proposal to cut off all U. S. aid to Yugoslavia because of "Tito's pro - Russian statements during his current visit to Moscow."

(President Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday he believes aid to Yugoslavia should be restudied. The United States is giving Yugoslavia $30 million this year for economic aid in addition to unspecified military help. The Soviet bloc is reported to be offering Belgrade nearly $300 million in easy loans.)

When an American remarked that he would journey to Washington to make sure there was no misunderstanding of his intentions, Tito replied: "If I am invited, why not? But first I must be invited."

During the Kremlin exchange of toasts, Tito stressed Yugoslavia's independent foreign policy.

Blast More Fiction Than Fact

Who's Afraid Of Moses? Not Us

By JIM WOODWORTH

WHITE PLAINS—

Parks Commissioner Robert Moses, a veritable H. G. Wells in planning New York City's future, made like Orson Welles on television last Sunday.

Bob's scare story involved Westchester's "residents only" beaches, and a few picnic tables, intimating that the county was building an iron curtain calculated to keep New Yorkers sweating and stir crazy in the sovereign community of Hot Box-on-the-Hudson.

Moses' top blew when Westchester announced it was restricting use of Willsons Woods Pool in Mount Vernon, a crowded city of about 80,000. The County now operates Saxon Woods Golf Course for residents only, plans the same regulation for Saxon Woods Pool and a golf course and pool at Dunwoodie when the three units are completed.

The commissioner lashed Westchester for barring nonresidents (New Yorkers) "while its citizens pile into our subways". Here he conveniently neglected to mention the $49 million parkway construction job contributed by Westchester to the relief of New York drivers burrowing out to fresh air in the suburbs.

Look to Your Home

And when discussing restrictions on park lands, Bob forgot to look into his own backyard.

Over in Nassau County, his "home town," there is a far tighter rein on who goes where and does what. That area of Long Island is practically sealed off against such foreigners as New York City and Westchester people.

Nassau has 11 beaches —every one for residents only.

It has a county-owned and operated park, including picnic grounds, a lake area for small boats and tennis courts. For residents only.

Nassau has three county-owned golf courses — for residents only, and the residents get the private-eye treatment before they can tee off. First they must apply in writing for a DPW permit, then they sweat out a residence check as county officials make sure some Manhattan phoney hasn't hired a hotel room just to play 18 holes of golf.

Playland for All

State-owned Jones Beach, the mecca of bathers, is open to any resident of New York State. But so is county-owned Playland in Westchester; it drew 1,700,000 people last year, many of them New Yorkers. Legislation, covering authority-operation of Playland, made the park open to any state resident.

Nassau officials are quick to admit that restriction is the only answer to survival; there's just

Town Council Acts On Moving Taxi Office

Action to remove the taxi office of Frank Guadagnolo from Garfield Street, zoned for residential, will be taken immediately after July 6 if Mr. Guadagnolo has not removed the business from that location by then, the Mamaroneck Town Council decided last night at a meeting at the Weaver Street Firehouse.

Three months ago Mr. Guadagnolo was given three months to move, Supervisor George D. Burchell told the Council. Turning to Jerome Wanshel, Larchmont attorney, who was in the audience, he asked what Mr. Guadagnolo was going to do about it.

Two To Three Weeks

Mr. Wanshel replied that he had forgotten about it, and left the hearing to phone his client. Later he told the Council that his client will be in his new building on Fifth Avenue within two to three weeks. Steel deliveries, following wrong fabrication, a statement verified by Thomas McEvoy, building inspector has held him up, Mr. Wanshel stated.

Complaints about the Guadagnolo property included dumping of refuse, picking over the dump by tramps, parking of cars on the property, and general untidiness. Mr. Burchell declared that Mr. Guadagnolo had not shown good faith when he did not report the illegal dumping to the police as the dumping was done, that summonses could be issued to the dumpers.

Commuters' Cars

Mr. Wanshel pointed out that the cars parked are those of commuters and that they park without charge. He warned that if they are forced from the property it will create a traffic hazard around the station. He

British Bare Jailing Spy For Red Aid

LONDON (AP) — The Foreign Office revealed today a British court in World War II period sentenced Capt. John Herbert King to 10 years in prison for giving secrets to the Soviet Union in September, 1939.

A Foreign Office spokesman said Capt. King had been convicted on evidence relayed from the United States.

The Foreign Office statement followed testimony given to a U.S. Senate investigating committee that Britain executed a Soviet spy in the Tower of London in 1939.

The spokesman refused to go into details about the evidence sent from the United States. Asked if a former Soviet intelligence officer, Gen. Walter Krivitsky was involved in the evidence, he replied: "Yes, the assumption is correct that Gen. Krivitsky's evidence helped convict King."

Bellows, MHS Seniors Plan June 21 Graduation Dance

Bellows High School seniors will join Mamaroneck High School seniors this year on June 21 at the second annual graduation dance sponsored by the Rotary Club of Mamaroneck at the Mamaroneck Beach, Cabana and Yacht Club, Dr. A. R. Finelli, Rotary chairman, announced today.

Last year's party from midnight to dawn was such a great success that this year's graduating class practically demanded that it be repeated, Dr. Finelli said. Last year the two high schools held graduations on separate nights and Bellows seniors were unable to participate. But through the efforts of the Rotary Club the two schools will hold their commencement exercises the same night.

Dr. Finelli pointed out that the students set up their own plans, and committees from the two schools have already held meetings to forward their formation. Rotary acts only in an advisory capacity, he said. Last year about 150 couples attended, Dr. Finelli said, and this year about 200 couples are expected.

Request 'Moon'

An interesting sidelight of the plans so far completed by the students is the request that the "moon over Orienta Apartments" make its appearance again. Last year it went out once when a porter accidentally pulled the wrong switch, but the trouble was quickly corrected.

Push Post Rd. Pothole Repair Johnson Implores Con Edison

Mamaroneck Village Manager William H. Johnson, in a letter dated Monday, has pointed out to Consolidated Edison "the deplorable pothole condition" of the Boston Post Road, "caused by the work of your contractor in repairing gas mains."

The letter, addressed to D. H. Cruikshank, Con Edison manager in White Plains, follows:

"I wish to again direct your attention to the condition of the Boston Post Road in the village of Mamaroneck, caused by the work of your contractor in repairing gas mains on U. S. Route No. 1, Boston Post Road.

"Ever since this work started last Fall, I have been besieged by justified complaints from the public regarding the deplorable pothole condition of this highway. This matter has also been the subject of written complaints to the local newspaper because a good many people feel that the responsibility for keeping this highway in condition rests with the Village. As a matter of fact, you know this is a state highway and we have no jurisdiction.

"I have also called Joseph Brady, county assistant enginer of the State Department of Public Works in Elmsford, regarding this matter in the hope that he could do something to remedy the terrific hazard.

"In spite of the many actions on my part to get this work done, up to the present time nothing in the nature of a permanent repair job has been started. I understand from reliable authority that you have plans to start permanent repair of this highway at an early date. May I again respectfully request that you do everything possible to expedite this work before a real tragedy occurs."

ern-intercollegiate swim meet to gain sprint honors.

Glover was the national AAU 100-meter free-style champion in 1955 when he covered the distance in 0:49.8.

A native of New Rochelle, Glover was born Sept. 5, 1933. He attended Mamaroneck schools and was cocaptain of the Mamaroneck High School swimming team in both his junior and senior years. He also served for two years as president of the Mamaroneck High School Class of '51.

Walter Spence, Metropolitan AAU representative for Westchester, said it was a great blow to learn of Glover's death. Spence said, "He was working very hard to get below 0:49.0 for 100-meters in time for the Olympic trials. He would have been an excellent choice in the 800-meter relay too and perhaps he attempted to get in shape too quickly. I will always think of him in the highest degree as a great competitor, sportsman and gentleman."

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Glover, and an older brother, William C. Glover Jr., a varsity swimmer at Yale in 1948-'49, who helped him in training and conditioning exercises.

Local Driver Badly Hurt In Truck Crash

A twenty-nine-year-old Mamaroneck truck driver at 1:15 P. M. yesterday received serious head and back injuries when he was crushed between the seat and instrument panel of his panel truck after being forced off the road and into a stonewall in Greenwich.

John J. Franchi of 1207 Franklin Avenue, driver for B & J Cleaners of Port Chester, received a possibly fractured skull, spine, and nose and a possible concussion. He was reported today by the Greenwich Hospital as in satisfactory condition.

Greenwich police reported that Mr. Franchi, east bound on John Street between Riverscille Road and Nuckfield Lane, was going down a hill and around a curve when an unidentified car, traveling the other way, forced him off the road and into the wall. He was trapped in his truck and police had to remove the driver's seat to get him out. The truck was only slightly damaged.

Mr. Franchi was reported by police to be wearing a back brace as the result of a previous injury. First aid was administered by police at the scene before he was taken by the Glenville Fire Department ambulance to the hospital.

Panel Plans For Adult Ed In Rye Neck

Eighteen members of the Rye Neck Adult Education Advisory Committee met last night with Don Lonergan, director of Adult Education, at F. E. Bellows High School to consider preliminary plans for next year's activities.

Brown Jr., James Duggan, George Goodlett, Mrs. Milton Gurwitz, Miss Doreen Harper, Thomas Lewis, and Dr. William Schonfeld.

The advisory committee also discussed possibility of including in future programs a "Golden Age Group." This would comprise activities designed primarily to meet the interests of retired people. Mr. Lonergan reported that such groups are functioning successfully in numerous other communities in the state.

In addition to the community needs group, subcommittees for organization-planning, and publicity were established.

The first group includes Mrs. Stanley Avy, Marcel J. Bogart, Mrs. John Colety, Mrs. Bernard Corbett, Mrs. Albert Earl, Sidney Merlin and Mrs. Joseph Strilowich; the second, Mrs. Ernest Godshalk, Mrs. Hillier Krieghbaum, and Mrs. Norbert Sanders.

Others asked to serve on the advisory committee are Lewis Donaldson, Mrs. Herbert B. Livesey Jr., and Dr. Walter Lurie.

MOSES

so much room for too many people.

Mr. Moses in a fast shuffle last weekend before the TV cameras, dismissed Westchester's contribution as a "few county parks built with county money," giving the impression the county was getting a free ride with State-provided land and facilities. He thus ignored 13 parks, five golf courses and even Washington Headquarters Restoration, all built or improved at a cost of $21 million to Westchester's taxpayers.

Gross attendance at these parks last year came to 3,629,074, a tremendous number from New York. Playland gets a heavy play from New Yorkers, while patronage of Tibbetts Brook Park, Glen Island and Blue Mountain has been found, through license check, to be 80 per cent from "other - than-Westchester" communities.

Parks Commissioner George Haight recently reported all parks tend toward high percentages of out-of-town patrons, "and the number never runs less than 50 per cent in any park."

The county's park system was acquired, built and improved largely between 1925 and 1933. Lands and construction cost $12 million and improvements have run to $9 million. Only park involving State action, (deeded land to county) is Mohansic which, under the provisions of the legislation, is open to any resident of the state.

COUNCIL

also stated that the land had been filled "at great expense" and looked better than before, a point denied by Mrs. Louis M. Bernstein of 1 Huguenot Drive, who had reported some of the complaints.

Councilman Jeremiah C. Waterman declared that if Mr. Guadagnolo wants a further extension of time, he should write a letter to the Council, state the additional time he needs, and thus make a firm commitment. Mr. Wanshel agreed to write such a letter. Among the things to be removed at once, the Council ordered, is an unsightly pile of lumber. Mr. Wanshel explained that it was bought when Mr. Guadagnolo thought he would be permitted to build a commercial building, and that he is now trying to sell it.

The Council finally ordered the town attorney and building inspector to take action if the taxi office is not off the property by the July 6 deadline.

Ferndale

The Council voted unanimously to appeal the decision upholding the road to Weaver Street from the Ferndale Shopping Center. Town Attorney John L. Delius, recommended the appeal, to cost about $750, on the grounds that ne belives the decision to be a bad one and that it substitutes the court opinion for the opinion of the Town Council. He added that he believes the chances of a reversal are good.

Mr. Waterman made the motion for the appeal on the basis of Mr. Delius's opinion, that of bad precedent, but added he still thinks the street is good from the traffic point of view. Councilman Peter F. Kane Jr. disagreed, as did C. Benjamin Brush Jr.

Hommocks Dike

The dike which the Hampshire Country Club wishes to build on Town land along Hommocks Road to protect its golf course and the roadway is still unsettled. Mr. Wanshel told the Council that he had discussed the dike with Councilman B. J. Santoro just before the meeting started, and said that a basic principle was involved. Mr. Santoro, he stated, is protecting the Town's interests when he asks for a permanent dike, and should be commended for it.

But, Mr. Wanshel stated, the club has $3,500 for the earth-type dike it wants to build, while the dike Mr. Santoro wants would cost several times that amount. By permitting the type of dike the club can afford, Mr. Wanshel declared, the Town has everything to gain and nothing to lose, since it will protect the road as well as the golf course, and if later a beach shoud be built, or marina, the earth could be used to raise the level of the road.

The town engineer is working on the type of dike and costs, and the discusion was put over until the next meeting on July 11.

Badger Camp

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis C. Smith of 9 Barnard Road complained about the noise from the operation of the Badger Camp on Rockland Avenue, stating that they understood its presence there was a violation. Mr. Santoro pointed out that the sign at the entrance says; "Badger Camp School." If it is not operated as a school, that might be different, he added.

The council agreed to look into the matter, pointing out that the camp was originally a club, and as a camp has been there 11 years. This is the first complaint received, the Council noted.

Harbor Island

An unsigned note written on the back of a form sent Town residents who wish to use Harbor Island stated that the "condition here is a disgrace," referring to the lack of waterfront facilities. The writer wrote that "real estate dominates the thinking" and pointed to the Harbor Island facilities for Mamaroneck residents.

"Gentlemen, you've had it!" Mr. Burchell stated.

Unsigned letters should be thrown in the wastebasket!" Mr. Kane declared.

But Mr. Santoro said he believed the expenditure of a small amount of money "can give the Town a waterfront which all can enjoy at reasonable cost." He referred to an inlet into the Hommocks area which could be used with some dredging.

Mr. Burchell and Mr. Wanshel both felt the matter needed thought and further study.

Fifth Avenue

A bad condition on Fifth Avenue resulting from a catch basin without curbs to guide the motorists was brought to the Council's attention by Chief Paul Yerick. He pointed to increased traffic along that street and pedestrian traffic from apartments on Fifth Avenue, including baby carriages.

"In the interests of safety," Chief Yerick wrote, "I strongly recommend that the Board seriously consider" remedies including a sidewalk on at least one side, changed location of catch basin at Fifth and Madison Avenues, and elimination of the offset from Fifth Avenue into Garfield Street by bringing Garfield Street into Madison Avenue, directly opposite Fifth Avenue.

He pointed out that over the last weekend a car struck the catch basin and turned over.

"This requires immediate attention," the chief wrote in capital letters.

Town Engineer Maurice Friedlander said he was studying the situation in general and would study the catch basin in particular. He and Mr. Burchell were authorized to take whatever immediate steps are necessary to remove the hazard.

Park Commission

Mr. Brush read a letter from the Park Commission requesting that the Commission be permitted to develop as parks the Town-owned property at Murray and Forest Avenues, and a County-owned piece at Murray Avenue and Weaver Street. The Council told the Park Commission to go ahead.

Mr. Kane called attention to the dangerous condition of Loyal Inn as the result of the fire last December. He described it as "an attractive nuisance to children and a hazard in general."

Mr. McEvoy and Mr. Delius were instructed to take such steps as necessary to destroy the building.

Glen Rocks Estates

After a discussion on Glen Rock Estates request that the Council write the County Park Commission that it will assume responsibility for the road and utilities across the Cross County Parkway as shown on a map, the Council agreed to do so after road is complete and accepted by the Town.

Mr. Friedlander reported that the Planning Board, which last night was granted power to draw its own regulations and enforce them, had approved an 80-foot turnaround, 1,000 feet in from Fenimore Road, as well as a cul de sac at the end of 2,000 feet in.

Furniture

Mr. Wanshel reported on an unsightly condition at Post Road and Rock Ridge Road resulting from the display of outdoor furniture "up the hill," and suggested that Mr. Delius study an ordinance putting a stop to such display. He said there are two such places within a block of each other, one beautiful, the other a "disgrace."

Mr. McEvoy reported that he had had the tenant push the chairs back of the property line. At present, Mr. McEvoy said, the tenant is working from the shack there, but said that if the business works out, he will build a proper building.

Mandeville Picture

Owen A. Mandeville, former supervisor, will be invited to the next meeting so that proper dedication of his picture in the Council meeting room can take place.

The Council scheduled a public hearing on the request of Judge Reuben Sirlin that property on the northerly side of Palmer Avenue between the Larchmont and New Rochelle lines be rezoned for apartment or business use. The request had been adversely recommended by the Planning Board at the previous meeting.

A request by Richard Eggers that Armond Road be accepted as a Town road so that five houses may be built was referred to the Superintendent of Highways.

The Town will buy a new tax billing machine for $2,357.30 from the Burroughs Co. to replace a 22-year-old machine that is constantly breaking down. The machine will be ordered now, delivered the end of the year, and paid for out of the next budget.

CAR HITS HYDRANT, RESIDENT CHARGED

A Mamaroneck man at 2:40 A. M. today was charged by Mamaroneck police with reckless driving after his car struck and damaged a fire hydrant on Mount Pleasant Avenue near Mamaroneck Avenue.

According to Lt. Robert Clark, who made the charge, George K. Mullin of 151 Fenimore Road, going west on Halstead Avenue, turned left into Mount Pleasant Avenue, jumped the curb, traveled 30 feet, and struck the hydrant. After striking it Mr. Mullin fled from the scene and was overtaken on Palmer Avenue by Lt. Clark, police said.

Mr. Mullin's car sustained damage to the right panel, door and door handle, and the right-front fender. The broken hydrant was reported to the water company. Mr. Mullin will answer the charge June 15 in Mamaroneck Police Court.

Gardens Association Honors Russo Tonight

Anthony A. Russo of 31 Ellsworth Road, Larchmont, will be honored today at 8 P.M. at the annual dinner of the Larchmont Gardens Civic Association at the Larchmont Shore Club. Mr. Russo, a longtime member and officer of the association is moving from the Gardens area.

Departing from its stag-dinner custom, the association has invited wives of members, and Tony Saporito and his orchestra will supply music for a dinner dance. More than 50 persons are expected to attend.

Cocktails will be served at 7:30 P.M.

MAN HOSPITALIZED

Mamaroneck police at 9:10 P. M. yesterday took John Astorino, fifty-eight, to Dr. Emil Verrilli's office when he complained of head and eye ache. At 9:45 P.M. Dr. Verilli called and asked that he be taken to Grasslands Hospital, police said He was transported by police car.

Stevenson 1st So Far, Lags On Majority

WASHINGTON (AP) —Thirty-eight states, including all those selecting by primaries, have now chosen Democratic national convention delegates. They will cast 1,108 votes.

With 686½ convention votes needed for a Presidential nomination out of a total vote of 1,372, the latest Associated Press tabulation of pledged votes and first ballot preferences expressed in polls showed today:

Adlai Stevenson	266
Estes Kefauver	166
Others	306
Uncommitted	370
Total	1108

The "others" column covers 11 individuals, the five top men being Averell Harriman 93, including 80 won in New York Tuesday; Lyndon Johnson 56½; Frank Lausche 54; Stuart Symington 46, and Mennen Williams 44.

Ten states and three territories still must name delegates with 252 votes. New York also has delegates-at-large with 12 votes yet to select. Even if all the remaining 264 votes went to Mr. Stevenson he still would be far from a majority. His supporters, as well as Harirman backers, see prospects for picking up many more votes for their candidates in the now uncommitted column.

The 10 states still to name delegates are Arkansas, Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Kentucky, Mississippi, New Mexico, Tennessee, Virginia and Washington. Hawaii, Canal Zone and Virgin Islands also have not yet selected.

DOOR GLASS BROKEN

Ptl. Thomas Eaton of the Mamaroneck Police Department at 6:03 A. M. today reported that he had found a pane of glass broken near the handle of the door at Flowery Manicure Co., 145 Elm Street. Inspection of the premises showed no damage had been done to office equipment, police said. Joseph Warren, in charge of the property, was notified.

Mamaroneck Racing

NOW HEAR THIS!

On this page you'll find a coupon, somethin' we ain't never done before, but the boss says it's all right.

The coupon is so's you can enter the Mamaroneck Harbor Racing Association race which is starting at the committee boat rendezvous at 10 A.M.

Dave Easton, who heads up this new group, has done a wonderful job of organizin'. Now he needs more entries than he's got so's you boys and girls eighteen years and under can win some of them swell trophies. Olders than eighteen can race, too, but prizes is reserved for the younger fry.

The USCGA is goin' to police the course, it's fairly well protected, so what if you haven't ever raced before! Try it out!! You'll love it!

Clip the coupon, do like it says on it, mail it to Dave and get set for some real fun. Racin' for them as has Blue Jays and Lightnings is what them boats was built for, some other pleasures

Let's see a big crowd at the startin' line Saturday mornin', June 23!

Beach Point

Saturday mornin' old Juve Pluvius was good to Russ Mosbacher and his nice gang at the Beach Point Yacht Club and held back long enough with his dewdrops until the commissionin' was over and most of the libations on the altar of friendship had been drunk.

First off we got to tell you the telegram we got Thursday. We find we was invited to the "personissioning" of the club!! But don't blame the club. Even this boat-ignorant character knows it ain't that.

Second, compliments to the officers!

The first gun boomed out at 11 A.M., advertised startin' time! Just last week we made a comment about half an hour late being par for the course. Them boys broke par.

Barbara Hurley of Bellows High School used her bugle with real good effect. Bill Yarmy had his New Rochelle Armory color guard workin' smooth as silk and the flags went up smartly.

Smartly, that is, after Chick Olsey got flustered or somethin' and put the wrong buckle on the wrong eye on the rope and had to rebuckle it right. But that was all right. It just gave Barbara a chance to do a bit more bugle!

Buss then got off a nice speech sayin', it was goin' to be the club's best year ever, and in particular remarked on the improvements made over the Winter. Among them improvements is a new 25-foot club launch, built by Minnesford's, designed by Devereau and havin' special towin' hookup so's the club can ferry its Blue Jay fleet to races all over the place.

Also new is mure lockers. And newer yet is two instructors for to teach sailin' to the small fry and generally makin' the junior program work better than ever.

Others we mentioned before but a long time ago. So here goes again.

Buss Mosbacher, commodore; George Blenstock, vice commodore; Arthur Davis, rear commodore; Ray Dubrowin, fleet captain; Larry Marx Jr., chairman of the race committee; Richard Lane, secretary, and Norman Porter that all important treasurer.

Congratulations, lads, and may you have a wonderfully fine year and add to your already growing laureis!

Sidelights

Chick Olsey tells us that on April 1 he had put in 20 years with Beach Point! Good for you, Chick. We, and we'll bet the members, too, are lookin' forward to 20 more years of you bein' with 'em.

Ellie Friedman, our favorite water ski gal, was there, and we had a right nice chat with her. She looks good, and you'll find out soon when you see her cavortin' around the Sound on skis.

Important This 'n' That

We see by the paper our good friend Bill Ball of the Larchmont Zonin Board got himself elected a Larchmont Village Trustee. Good for you, Bill! We know from your activities on the Zonin' Board you'll do a swell job.

Which brings up that Bill sent us a copy of Ethyl News for March-April and in it is a good yarn about what the gas companies is doin' about gettin' out better gas for motorboats. The article is called "More Power Afloat" and if you can latch onto a copy or want to borrow ours, read it.

Motor Boating has a very interestin' short story on an integrated marina re. ~ center, costin' $1 million and goin' up over in Northport, L. I. Read about it and see what CAN be done.

We was thumbin' through Rudder and come across a real interestin' story called "To Canada by Outboard" by Donald Tuthill. The story is about him and his wife Maree and their 14-foot Fiberglas outboard runabout that made the trip 14-foot! Gosh, that's the same size as our Skimmar. But they had a 20 hp Evinrude. Ours is only 10 hp. But we're cavin' the story in case we get a gleam in our eye one day!

We found out the other day that Rosser Reeves down on Cedar Island in Larchmont has somethin' to do with boats magazine, which we was pleased to hear. Boats has gone to the trouble to publish four pages of coastal AM Radio Weather Broadcasts for 1956, and them as has boats oughta cut it out and hang on to it. You know quick and easy like a bunny what station to tune in when.

We was pleased to find ourself among Letters to the Editor in the Skipper. We remarked in March about a picture piece they done on the Staten Island Ferry, and they reprinted part of it. Thanks, Mr. Skipper.

Also, we been readin' with real close interest the first two installments of three called "The Waterway's Missing Link." It's about the Delaware and Raritan Canal which ain't wonnin' no more, but which if it was would give a complete inland water route from New York and points north and east to Florida. We need to use the Atlantic at all. We gather from what Alfred Lanning says so far (he's the author) that it wouldn't take a lot of doin' or money to put it back in commission. He'll probably come out with what we all should do in the July installment which we're lookin' forward to.

After all, we got more'n just a passin' interest. We was lucky enough somehow to get us a diploma from Princeton, and the canal runs down along side Lake Carnegie.

We'll be on the way there. If we ain't already when you read this. We're leavin' this afternoon for our 35th reunion. Down, Dog, down! Don't never ask embarrassin' questions!! We'd be right surprised if they ain't a few still fine, intelligent profs what struggled with us still wonderin' mostly in their graves, how come we ever got graduated!

But we ain't kickin'.

Harbor Patrol

Village M-G-M. Bill Johnson was good enough to call us the other day and tell us about increased patrolin' that our Harbor is goin' to get.

To Walt Savage who was on last year, he's added Jack Caley of Mamaroneck. They'll be supplementin' the work of Harbormaster Harriott. In addition to daylight, they plan some afterdark patrolin', and they ain't gonna mess around none with hotrod outboarders this year.

You know, they ain't no excuse in this world for disobeyin' the Harbor speed law. Showin' off, which s all it amounts to, ain't no excuse, it proves lack of courtesy, lack of consideration, lack of manners, reflects on your parents, is dangerous to boats not only from runnin' into 'em but also dangerously rockin' 'em at their moorin's, can result in personal injury to those aboard not just the speedin' boat and to put it mildly ain't somethin' any decent person will tolerate.

We hope Bill's boys get real tough with speeders, be they hotrod outboarders, or pleasure owners that ain't learned to live and let live!

Also, Bill said, the purpose of the ordinances about the Harbor, and the Harbor Patrol, ain't to harangue and persecute the boat owners. He said it's more a matter of education than law enforcement, and lettin' folks know they're only foulin' their own nests. You can't expect to lay down a hard and fast rule the first year and expect 100 per cent obedience, adds Bill.

We're awful glad Bill phoned us and told us all this, and real happy to pass it on.

Off The Row

We run into our friends George and Miriam Shipe the other day, which reminds we told you about has a boat, and they tell us she's gonna be launched soon and the name is "Thalia. So's we'd understand, Miriam told us that Thalia was the daughter of Titan, god of the ocean, and one of the famous three graces, the Muse of Comedy and Bucolic Poetry. We writ it down just like she said, so don't blame us if it's wrong. We don't know from nothin'. We just writ!

This is an SOS from Burt Pratt who sells advertisin' in our office. Burt fishes in a lake that's classified as "Emergency Water Shed," or some such. Anyway, he can't use a gas-powered outboard because of it. He's lookin' high and low for an electric outboard. Anybody know where he can buy one?

And while we're at it, and there ain't no connection as far as coincidence is concerned, we hear tell that Burt's boss, Fred Greenwood, bought a 1½ hp Evinrude recently at an auction. Wonder where he's gonna use it!

We was to Frank Ward's Sunday, and our eyes popped. There was Arthur Godfrey's famous "Aloha," the 8-boat we heard so much about when Arthur was able to be an active sailin' man and was known to run around the Larchmont Yacht Club. It's a downright shame that such a fine man and one who brings so much pleasure every week to countless millions of people has to have the trouble he's got with a gimpy hip just because some fool run him down 25 years or so with a truck. The best argument we know of for gettin' off the highways onto the waterways!

But back to "Aloha." Frank said she come in by truck from Miami Memorial Day and will soon be moored off American Yacht Club. We hope one of these fine days this Summer Arthur'll make a real try and get away from his beautiful Virginia farm long enough to go out on the Sound and sail "Aloha" again. We'd like to know if he does so's a good man he is on the tiller and with the sails, as well as on the mike with the sales!

We seen it with our own eyes: "Doreen" is afloat. She looks real pretty settin' like she was at her mornin' across from Frank Ward's dock. Mamaroneck's favorite young member of the constabulary, Joe Del Bianco and his lovely wife Doreen, done themselves proud with reconditionin' that boat! And Joe's mother happened by with some spaghetti for Frank who'd just gone to chow, and looked "Doreen" over with a real approvin' eye.

We met a nice couple at Shakeshaft's down on Rushmore Avenue Sunday. Name of Carol and Mike Parker who lives on Palmer Avenue just over the line into New Rochelle. He works for IBM, the "Think or Thwim" outfit. They been doin' a swell job, with another couple we didn't rightly catch the name of, puttin' a little cabin cruiser in shape. What fun they're gonna have. Powered by a Mercury.

We want to say thanks to our friend and Assemblyman Hunter Meighan for sendin' us the Report of the Joint Legislative Committee on Motor Boats, 1956. It don't apply to Long Island Sound, only inland waters, but we read every word of it with real interest.

And thanks also to Alma Eschenfelder (it looks like), publicity gal up at Mystic Seaport. Rudy Schaefer opened his Spouters Tavern up there last month, and it was in connection with that. See you next week.

Opening lead—king of spades.

South's prospects were not too bright when dummy first came down. It was likely that West had five spades with the ace of clubs for entry, but after ducking the first K-Q, declarer learned on the next spade play that West had overcalled with a four card suit. South led the queen of clubs from the ace, and West cashed his spade. A club was returned, and declarer cashed three club tricks, South then played the ace of hearts and when East dropped the queen, the hand took on a new shape. The question South had to solve was whether the queen was a singleton, or whether it was a falsecard from Q-J. South had eight tricks in sight, and if East had a singleton queen, the ninth would come by playing a heart to the ten. But if East's heart holding was Q-J, a heart to the king would make the ninth trick.

South found the answer by playing the king and ace of diamonds. West failing on the second diamond. This was all the information declarer needed to reconstruct East's entire distribution. East had started with seven diamonds, since West had been dealt only one. East had followed to three spades. He had shown up with only one club. Eleven cards were accounted for in the other three suits; therefore East must have been dealt two hearts precisely. Since it would make no sense for East to play the queen of hearts on the ace if his holding were Qx. South played to the king of hearts, catching the jack and making three notrump.

I give away no trade secret in saying there is a simple device used in the art of counting out hands. It is not necessary to use a calculating machine. As soon as either defender shows out of a suit declarer can always tell how many of that suit the other defender has. This was how South determined the number of East's diamonds. The spade and club holdings were already known. The final step to learn the number of hearts was to add the three numbers and subtract from 13.

WORKHORSE REWARD

LAWRENCEBURG, Ky. (AP) —Everybody knew that Johnny Lyon had worked like a horse on a factory repair job. But do you think his fellow workers patted him on the back for being such a workhorse? Well—yes and no. They sent a bale of hay—gift card and all—to Johnny.

Mah Jong Player Advised To Get Used To Kibitzer

By EMIL YPOST

A reader writes me:

"I look forward to playing mah jong every week. I do not get a chance to go out very often and would like to continue playing except for this problem. There is always one person who bets and that person is free to stand over your shoulder and watch you play. This makes me extremely nervous and I play poorly. I have tried to tell the person that I cannot play easily with someone looking over my shoulder, but it is always resented. Is it wrong to make such a request?"

I think you are quite right in asking her please not to look over your shoulder as it makes you very nervous. But if she persists in doing it, and if no one else in the group objects to her doing so, there is nothing you can do except learn to get used to it, or else not play.

Question: Our son's wife died seven months ago. He has two young children. His wife's death was a great shock to him and he has become very nervous. His father and I feel that he should start to go out a little, but he thinks it is much too soon and doesn't want to do so—unless you say it is proper. May I hear from you please?

Answer: I feel your son should endeavor to develop some outside interests. If he continues too long a solitary life results may be serious.

Question: I would like to know if it is ever proper for a woman to wear a ring over her glove? I saw a very well dressed woman the other evening who wore her ring over her glove and I wondered whether this was in good taste?

Answer: It was in the very worst possible taste! If we can get a picture of our namesake what we ain't never met and let you nice folks see what's

LOU PEARSON

Dock Space Featured At Pearson Yard

Oscar M Pearson of Soundview Gardens Apartments, Mamaroneck, known to his customers as Lou, has operated the Post Road Boat Yard, Inc., at 155 East Post Road, Mamaroneck, since 1945. He formerly managed the yard for four years for Fred Davis and upon Mr. Davis' death bought it from the estate.

The yard is noted for its shipshape appearance at all times and its fine docking space on the front and side. Catering primarily to owners of larger boats, he numbers among them such well known personalities as Marlow Lewis, CBS executive; Bob Smith of Howdy Doody fame, and others similarly well known.

Mr. Pearson was born in East Orange, but moved when seven years old to New Rochelle. After World War I in which he served as chief petty officer in Naval Aviation, he went to work with the Hygeia Ice Co. in New Rochelle as manager. In 1929 the firm sold out to Westchester Service Corp., and Mr. Pearson went into the printing business in New York until 1941.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearson have a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Caley of California who has a son. This son has resulted in Mr. Pearson's affectionate nickname, "Grandpappy".

Lax Parents Hit By Leader Of Red Cross

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The president of the American Red Cross says parents who are "unwilling to undergo the discipline of making a home and bringing up children" are probably a major cause of the nation's youth problems.

Ellsworth Bunker, the organization's president, spoke yesterday on the last day of his three-day national convention attended by nearly 5,000 delegates. He criticized "absentee parents" as the chief cause of juvenile delinquency.

Mr. Bunker, a resident of New York and Putney, Vt., said the "average urban family" remains in one location only a little more than two years.

"What effect does this have on children who are thus prevented from putting down any real roots in school, church and community?" he asked.

Because of "high pressure salesmanship," Mr. Bunker declared, the concept of saving and thrift has been almost forgotten and a large part of our population now lives with its income committed for years in the future.

Where They're Wanted!

A CONFERENCE has been arranged with City Council by representatives of the Guardian Life Insurance Company of America to explore the possibility of the insurance firm locating in New Rochelle on a seven-acre piece of property on North Avenue opposite the entrance to Bonnie Crest.

Guardian Life makes it clear, in a letter sent to Mayor George Vergara, that it has no wish "to locate where we're not wanted".

That leaves it up to the Council to tell Guardian Life whether the site it is considering would be acceptable to the City and its residents.

We think the attitude of Guardian Life is admirable, in seeking to determine whether this City would like to have an office building, properly designed and built in conformity with the good taste for this neighborhood, at this location.

In turn, we think the Council should express the greatest possible interest in this suggested project and make Guardian Life feel immediately that New Rochelle would like to have the firm's offices located here.

We feel sure that an acceptable plan could be developed for this location if Guardian Life decides to acquire the use of it. The site is between two heavily traveled highways, North Avenue and the Hutchinson River Parkway.

It seems like a natural spot for the limited commercial development zoning that is envisioned, (a new classification in the City's ordinance), and it would be of major benefit to the community as a whole, we believe, without adding any special problems, such as, for instance, the need for more school facilities.

Plans are not yet made up, but, with proper interest on the part of the City and with the cooperative attitude the firm has indicated in advance, this could be a great asset. No other use for the land has been proposed to date.

First of all, we think, the Council as the official representatives of all the people of the City should extend a most cordial welcome to Guardian Life and work out the details of this project from there on.

Lessons From The Primary

THE PRIMARY Election on Tuesday would have been intolerably dull except for two things.

One of these were the contests for Republican nominations for Congress in the two districts in Westchester. The two challenges to the GOP machine lifted the election level from normal apathy to keen interest.

Organization candidates won the Primary Election contests. But the margins of victory were by no means sufficiently substantial to evoke exultant enthusiasm from party leaders.

In fact, many more such intra-party contests as the two on Tuesday and the Republican organization in Westchester may be in need of a complete overhaul job. For the strain of inner stress can be endured for just so long before an explosion comes. And on Tuesday the creaks within the framework of the GOP machine were clearly audible.

There is no way to knowing at this time how Tuesday's election scraps will affect the vote in general elections in November. The Republican harmonists within their own camp, may benefit from the feuding and the fighting among Republicans. On the other hand, the wounds may heal within a few months and a solid front be displayed in November.

But there are ahead other years and other nominations and other Primary Elections. We suggest, in all friendliness, that it is about time for GOP leaders to sit down calmly and appraise the situation. This has long been a county dominated by the Republican Party. But there is no guarantee that condition will continue indefinitely.

Success to the GOP will not come forever through habit. Instead, political victory is something that is secured only through hard work the year 'round.

We suggest that there are in the Republican organization in Westchester some leaders who have not yet learned that lesson. Tuesday's close vote in which anti-organization candidates polled more than 50 per cent of the total vote and in which machine candidates won only because the opposition was split should impress that lesson.

The handwriting on the wall was pretty clear Tuesday.

WHO'S AFRAID OF THE BIG BAD WOLF!

By Billy Graham

Question: What is the "true church" of Christ? L. C.

Answer: The church is that great group of men and women around the world who truly believe in Christ as the Son of God and the Saviour of their souls. That these people are divided by race, color, national and other lines in no way affects their relationship in Christ, and, because they believe in Him, they are members of the great church universal. Also, within one country there are many other divisions such as denominations, societies etc., but again these denominational differences do not separate God's children. The one thing absolutely necessary is faith in Christ. The minute one believes in Him and accepts Him, that very instant one becomes a member of the church universal. We all know that membership in a particular church does not make one a Christian. This comes solely through faith in Christ. Fellowship in Christ is the one great solvent for all peoples of the world. I have found that among Christians around the world there is a wonderful sense of love and comradeship. This is because we have one Saviour and faith in Him has made us God's redeemed children.

Nixon, As Well As Ike, Is Liked

WASHINGTON — Richard M. Nixon's nomination as President Eisenhower's running mate was nailed down by the ovation he received when he addressed the Washington convention of the National Citizens for Eisenhower Committee. The only principal speakers at this affair were President Eisenhower himself, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty and Mr. Nixon.

There was never any doubt about Mr. Nixon's popularity with the grassroots, professional politicians, the so-called "backroom boys". They like him, for they regard him as one of them.

Every poll taken by National Chairman Leonard W. Hall and by newspaper canvassers has shown that the GOP workers, from the national to the local level, want Mr. Nixon on the 1956 ticket.

POPULAR IN MID-WEST—Although it may be held against the Californian in certain pro-Eisenhower circles, the Vice President is also popular with the Bricker-McCarthy, Mid-West American Firsters. It may have escaped notice, but Senator "Joe" McCarthy has come to Mr. Nixon's defense on the Senate floor several times in recent months.

It may be significant, too, that it was the McCarthy faction in the Wisconsin state convention which denied renomination of Senator Alexander Wiley, largely because of his support of the Eisenhower foreign policy as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Wisconsin isolationists will not go along with Mr. Wiley, but they will accept Mr. Nixon.

Thus, Mr. Nixon on the ticket may appeal to conservatives and isolationists who are not completely satisfied with the Eisenhower-Dulles foreign program. In short, Mr. Nixon is a balance wheel asset rather than the liability which his enemies claim him to be.

This consideration is not lost on President Eisenhower, who has turned out to be the shrewdest politician to inhabit the White House since FDR.

ADVISERS HAD ONE FEAR—The The particular fear about Mr. Nixon's renomination, and which numerous White House advisers shared, was that he would be unpalatable to millions of nonprofessional voters, who helped to sweep Mr. Eisenhower into office in 1952. The anti-Nixon enemies were supposed to consist of independents, liberals of no party affiliation, labor and certain racial groups.

It would be foolish to try to pretend that the National Citizens for Eisenhower Committee is a truly representative body of nonpartisan voters. It was organized in 1952 with the able and attractive Walter Williams as its head to serve as a sort of "popular front" for Mr. Eisenhower.

It was a catch-all organization. It was an extremely effective movement. Without its support, Mr. Eisenhower might have lost the nomination to the late Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

"PAPA" COMPLEX — This group represents Republicans, Democrats and independents who believe in Mr. Eisenhower, even though they may dislike his political and Presidential identity. They have a sort of "papa" complex toward him, as so many people once had for Franklin D. Roosevelt and Theodore Roosevelt. Not since Andrew Jackson's or Abraham Lincoln's day has there been such an attitude toward any man in the White House.

Therefore, this group's approval of Mr. Nixon, as evidence by the ovation they gave him, means that if you want to reelect Mr. Eisenhower next November, you will have to vote for Dick Nixon, like him or not.

The Republican ticket will be the same as in 1952—Eisenhower and Nixon. And they will win over any Democratic opposition by an overwhelming popular and electoral college majority.

President Eisenhower will campaign more actively and intensively in the forthcoming political months than he did in 1952. And his close associate on the Presidential appearances will be Dick Nixon.

ROBERT S. ALLEN

U.S.-Red Trade Spurts To Boom

WASHINGTON — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has learned of another significant development in U. S. relations with Russia and its satellites.

Trade is booming between the U. S. and the soviet bloc.

The Foreign Relations Committee has received a report from the Commerce Department revealing:

U. S. exports to the Iron Curtain in the first quarter of this year were the highest in six years, and considerably greater than the total for all of 1955.

U. S. sales to the Reds in 1955 were nearly double the 1954 figure.

Communist shipments to the U. S. also chalked up a big increase in 1955; 31 per cent over 1954.

The 49-page report, titled "Export Control", was sent to the Senate group after Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks was sharply questioned by House Appropriations committeemen recently on restrictions against the Reds.

The report discloses the Commerce Department has permitted shipment to the Reds of farm machinery, automobiles, rayon plant equipment, electric motors, medicine and technical data.

RED HAM FOR U. S.—Principal Communist imports to the U. S. were ham, bacon and furs.

Following are highlights of this important report:

"Two-way trade between the European Soviet bloc and the U. S. is on the increase, with evidence of broadening Soviet interest in U. S. nonstrategic commodities. The U. S. embargo of exports to Communist China and North Korea, effective since 1950 continues unchanged.

"U. S. shipments to the USSR and its European satellites rose to $5.7 million in 1955, almost double the $2.8 million in nonstrategic goods exported to that area in 1954. U. S. imports from the Soviet bloc reached $55.5 million; a 31 per cent increase over 1954 imports of $42.4 million. Principal items imported by the U. S. include $19.8 million of canned hams and bacon, and $8.4 million furs.

"Agricultural equipment and products totaling $7 million accounted for the bulk of first quarter 1956 licensing. This may be the result of the recent visit to the U. S. of Russian farm technicians.

"Other noteworthy commodities licensed in the first quarter include $340,333 in new passenger cars to Russia; $171,940 in equipment for a rayon plant to Poland."

THE ATTACK — Commerce Secretary Weeks told the House Appropriations Committee there has been "no over-all change" in policy on trade with the Communists.

Other nations may feel impelled to do that, he admitted, but the U. S. has not.

Mr Weeks pointed out that despite the increase in U. S. trade with the Reds, the total amount is small.

"You say that you want to hold this line," said Representative Daniel Flood, D. Pa. "Yet your own figures show it isn't being held very well. They indicate it's being stretched quite a bit. Now you can't do both, so just what are you doing?"

"Personally, I would make no change," replied Mr. Weeks. "On security and dissenting opinions we have lifted the curtain on some restrictions. You have to take each item on its own merit. But generally speaking, I am for holding the line against trade with the Iron Curtain."

NOTE: Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson won't get the authority he wants to sell surplus farm commodities to the Reds at cut-rate prices. His request to do that has been turned down by the House Agriculture Committee. The committee did this after Chairman Harold Cooley, D., N. C. read a letter from Mr. Benson and recommended he be rebutted. Mr. Cooley argued, "Selling our food surpluses to the Communists is playing squarely into their hands. The more food they get from us the more people they can release from farming to work on bombers and other weapons." The committee voted overwhelmingly against Mr. Benson's proposal.

SOCIAL SECURITY BATTLE —Senator Walter George, whom President Eisenhower has named as special ambassador to NATO, is clashing squarely with him on the bill to liberalize Social Security benefits.

The influential Georgian will lead the Senate Democrats' drive to pass a group of amendments opposed by the President.

These provisions were approved by the House last year, and are as follows:

Lower the retirement age for women from sixty-five to sixty-two.

Totally disabled to receive pensions starting at the age of fifty.

Increase the present $55 to $65 a month by raising the federal contribution to the states.

Increase federal aid to states by an estimated $300 million a year for larger payments to the blind, dependent children, and other groups.

Establish a food-stamp plan so those receiving Social Security benefits can obtain surplus food commodities without charge.

Senator George will open the battle for these amendments shortly with a speech. His fateful backing is being counted on strongly to put them over. But Democratic leaders admit the voting will be close and the outcome is uncertain.

ANGELO PATRI

Parent Shouldn't Cheat Child Of Praise For Achievement

"I hear Jamie won the scholarship and the prize for the best record of the year. You've got a boy in a thousand."

"Of course, we are glad he did well. But we expect him to. Why not? After all, he had nothing else to do but his school work. He ought to do well, don't you think?" and Jamie's mother winked significantly and gestured with her head toward the open door of the next room.

"We don't want him to get a big head you know", she whispered.

"Well", said the neighbor, and went home with a puzzled look on her face.

In my opinion, Jamie had earned a big cheer. His mother should have shouted for joy. She ought to have baked a big cake and called in all the aunts and uncles, and she and father should have been beaming upon their pride and joy, the center of all the congratulations and good wishes.

Why some people are so stingy with praise for work well done when it comes to their children, and so generous with it when it befalls other folks' children, is a mystery. The children who are preserved from praise because it might give them a "swelled head" are bewildered. They feel cheated. They cannot help feeling that their best efforts are going unnoticed and unappreciated, and that makes them feel deserted by those who should be their first friends.

One girl won top honors in her group. Her mother looked at the report sheet that set forth her accomplishments in great detail and said. "That's very nice. Don't forget to stop in at the cleaners this afternoon and get that coat I left there last Tuesday."

Said the girl in telling her aunt about it: "Lily made the honor roll, just made it. Her mother bought her a party dress, invited the whole class over for a hoop-de-doo. Just for making the honor roll, mind you. I won top honors, a scholarship, a medal, and my mother almost yawned in my face."

"Oh, now child, it's not as bad as that. Your mother is delighted and as proud as a peacock, but she is afraid to say so lest she be called chick-proud, and you get a big head. We are all busting our jackets with pride in you, but we have to pipe down. You know how the neighbors are."

"I know how I feel, and it's not funny," said the honor student. "The least my mother could have done was to say I'd done wonderfully well, say something that told me she was proud of me. But no. 'Go to the cleaners for my coat.'"

CONTEST PUZZLE SOLVED

"A friend and I had a difference of opinion the other day," writes a reader, "about the word 'exam'. One insists it is an abbreviation of the word 'examination.' The other says it is a word in itself—a colloquialism—and can be written without the period. We would like to use it in a puzzle contest where abbreviations are not allowed. Can it be considered a complete word?"

This is the kind of a query a columnist really likes to get, for both parties in this argument are correct. "Exam." followed by a period is an abbreviation for "examination." But "exam" with a period is also a colloquial word meaning "examination."

Please note that I said "colloquial" not slang. Many people mistakenly feel that because a word is marked "colloquial" it is beyond the pale, not a word to be used by genteel folk. This is quite untrue. A colloquial word is merely one which is most commonly heard in conversation or met in informal "chatty" writing. The label comes, you see, from the Latin "colloquium," meaning conversation.

Thus the verdict is that "exam" without the period is a perfectly good word. While it should not be used in the more formal types of discourse—serious state papers and the like —I certainly think it should be admitted as a suitable entry in your puzzle contest.

A Southerner who evidently feels that it's "Yankee" dominance of the air waves that leads to so many flagrant mispronunciations by network announcers, adds this fuel to the flames:

'Many Yankee expressions are bad enough, for instance GUNNA for 'going to' and beKUZ for 'because.' But what really gets me is the way they pronounce the worlds 'Mary,' 'merry' and 'marry' exactly alike—all of them come out merry."

Well, it's true that the use of "short, a" before "r" is not as carefully observed in some of the Northern states as in the South. But I'll have you know, sir, that according to the Linguistic Atlas, the most thorough survey of American speech patterns, the TRUE Yankees—those reared in New England — do observe the distinction very carefully.

PITTSBURGH—It may be hard to control the housewife but she can certainly put the controls on her house these days.

And the highly specialized automatic controls industry has cooked in its research laboratories still great marvels of automation for home—including one that will let her know when her husband comes home in the early hours.

Hidden inside today's home appliances are a variety of tiny automatic control devices to measure time, start and stop gadgets, maintain room or stove to cold. Just catching on is a thermal eye which makes it really hard for a cook to burn food prepared on the top of a stove.

$300 Million for Devices

About $300 million worth of these devices each year go into the nation's ranges, refrigerators, water heaters, washing machines, dryers, air conditioners and other home appliances.

They are akin to the intricate devices that are automatically controlling the nation's industrial processes and are a respectable share of the industry's $4 billion a year business.

Research and development facilities are being added by most manufacturers. And from these laboratories come predictions that it won't be too long before appliances use ultra sonic waves to wash clothes and dishes "instantaniously and without agitation" and then high frequency will dry them "just as quickly".

One research center at nearby Irwin, Pa., which is spending about $250 million this year, has brought out the "thermal eye" which 40 manufacturers of gas and electric ranges are putting on the burners on the top of their new models. A dial set at the cooking temperature for a particular food keeps the heat constant for an indefinite period, working somewhat like oven temperature controls.

Fifty years ago few home devices were automatic. Now housewives are used to control devices that maintain proper water temperatures in heaters or washing machines, with timers that empty and fill washing machines at just the right time or that speed up or slow down the washing action.

"Dr. Snyder has been with him since early this morning. There is nothing wrong with his heart.'

At a news conference at 10:30 A. M., Mr. Hagerty said he had had no further word from Dr. Snyder. The press secretary added he hoped to have a fresh report about noon.

In reply to questions, Mr. Hagerty said no thought had been given to calling in other physicians.

The press secretary was asked specifically whether there had been any consideration of summoning Dr. Paul Dudley White, Boston heart specialist who has been a consultant on the Eisenhower case since the President's heart attack last Sept. 24. He said there had not been.

In reply to another question, Mr. Hagerty said this is the first time Mr. Eisenhower has suffered such a "stomach upset" since last Sept. 24.

That day, before the White House announced the President had suffered a heart attack, his aids characterized the ailment as a "digestive upset."

The announcement of the illness came from Murray Snyder, an assistant to Mr. Hagerty. Mr. Snyder said then it was in no way serious.

Mr. Hagerty said today:

"Anybody can have an upset stomach."

Mr. Hagerty was asked by one newsman, without explanation, whether the President had any tenderness in his gall bladder.

To that and related questions, Mr. Hagerty replied that since he is not a physician he would not attempt to provide answers on matters of that kind.

At a reception before dinner, guests reported, Mr. Eisenhower ate some hors d'oeuvres, including tiny meat balls.

He had an appointment scheduled at 8:45 A. M. EDT, with Theodore Streibert, chief of the United States Information Agency. He was to have gone 10 minutes later to the Cabinet room for the swearing in of Fred A. Seaton as Secretary of the Interior.

Those engagements and a Cabinet meeting afterward were postponed.

Last night Mr. Eisenhower attended the annual banquet of the White House News photographers Association. He left the affair about 11:10 P. M.

Mr. Eisenhower appeared to enjoy himself at the dinner, held at the Sheraton Park Hotel. He told his hosts in a brief talk that he also enjoyed the entertainment provided.

Joked With Hope

Among other things, Mr. Eisenhower joked about havin, played golf with screen actor Bob Hope, who was master of ceremonies at the dinner.

The President ate steak last night along with the other guests, but his meal was prepared specially by the hotel under Dr. Snyder's orders. It was mainly a fatless diet.

For dessert he ate strawberries with sugar. He also had a baked potato and some green peas, all cooked without fat. He was seen to salt his food rather heavily, something doctors frown on in some heart cases.

Ceremony On at 4

Mr. Hagerty's emphasis today that "there is nothing wrong" with Mr. Eisenhower's heart now recalled that the first announcement of his illness last September in Denver referred also to a stomach upset.

Preceding the heart attack, Mr. Eisenhower complained of stomach distress after having eaten onions along with his lunch.

Mr. Eisenhower was in Fitzsimons Army Hospital at Denver for seven weeks after the heart attack.

Mr. Eisenhower then flew East and spent several weeks more at his Gettysburg, Pa., estate.

Resumed Duties in January

He returned to his White House duties early in January.

Last Feb. 14 a panel of six of the President's doctors announced after a new exhaustive physical examination, that he had made a "good recovery" from the September heart attack.

Fifteen days after the doctors reported, Mr. Eisenhower announced he was available for reelection.

At the time he announced he was available for renomination, Mr. Eisenhower said that if he ever felt he was not physically up to the Presidential job he would not be "available for the job."

If such circumstances developed, Mr. Eisenhower said, he would tell the American people "instantly."

Doctors Reminders

In a speech to a Citizens for Eisenhower Committee meeting here last week Mr. Eisenhower said he wouldn't know he had been sick if his doctors didn't keep reminding him of it.

In recent weeks Mr. Eisenhower has been stepping up sharply his schedule of activities, which had been closely curtailed since he came back on the job.

In the earlier months of his recuperation from the heart attack he had studiously avoided evening affairs and dropped even some of the customary official social events.

Last month the President went to three annual dinners given by organizations of Washington newsmen—the Gridiron Club, the Women's National Press Club, and the White House Correspondents Association.

Also, Mr. Eisenhower has been playing more golf than he generally did before his illness. The White House says the step-up is on doctors' orders—more exercise needed. He played 27 holes on one occasion for the first time since the day before the heart attack. Twice in the last two months he has played three 18-hole rounds in a single week.

MOE

Thirty minutes after his original announcement, Mr. Hagerty came to the White House Press Room and told newsmen:

"The President has no fever."

The first signal of Mr. Eisenhower's illness came the morning of last Sept. 24 when he failed to show up at his Summer White House office in Denver. It was announced then that he had suffered "a digestive upset" and that Dr. Snyder was with him.

Attack Word Delayed

It was not until midafternoon that day that the White House announced the "digestive upset" actually had been a heart attack.

Like today's ailment, the President's heart attack last Fall occurred at 2 o'clock in the morning. Then as today Dr. Snyder was hasitly summoned.

On that occasion Dr. Snyder gave the President medication which caused him to sleep. Later in the day Mr. Eisenhower was given a cardiogram which revealed the heart attack.

Cardiogram in Doubt

There was no indication today that there had been any new cardiogram check.

In reply to questions, Mr. Hagerty said Dr. Snyder was called from his home early today and arrived at the White House to attend the ailing President at about 2 A. M. Mr. Hagerty said he did not know by whom Dr. Snyder was called.

Mrs. Eisenhower was at the White House this morning at the time Mr. Hagerty made his brief announcement.

Asked whether Mr. Eisenhower had been given any medication, Mr. Hagerty replied:

"I haven't talked to the doctor on that yet."

Doctor Not Concerned

Asked then whether Dr. Snyder was concerned, Mr. Hagerty replied:

"No, he is not, other than that the President has an upset stomach."

Mr. Hagerty said that at last night's dinner Mr. Eisenhower had clear consomme instead of the cream of mushroom soup which was served to the other guests.

The reason, Mr. Hagerty said, was that consomme makes it easier for the President to stay on his diet of 1,800 calories a day. He has been on that restricted diet since his illness.

For the same reason, a rich cream sauce served on the steaks for the other guests last night was left off the President's portion. Mr. Eisenhower passed up the potatoes and Mr. Hagerty said he doubted the Chief Executive ate the ice cream and cake dessert.

"He was fine, so far as I know."

Food Effect Unknown

As for whether the food he had may have caused Mr. Eisenhower's later distress, Mr. Hagerty said he simply did not know.

The press secretary added that he would "stay in touch" with Dr. Snyder and would keep newsmen posted regarding any developments.

That would be in line with the policy followed by the White House ever since the first announcement of the September heart attack.

While the President was hospitalized Mr. Hagerty kept a running report going, and the results of physical examinations since then have been widely released.

In reporting to him on his physical condition Feb. 14, Mr. Eisenhower's doctors said he appeared fit for "another five to ten years" in the job like the Presidency.

Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston, chief consultant on the Eisenhower case, said he and his colleagues came to that conclusion "after weighing carefully all the available evidence, and fully aware of the hazards and uncertainties" confronting the President from a health standpoint.

Fifteen days later Mr. Eisenhower made his second term announcement—first at his regular news conference, then in a radio-TV address that night. In that address he told the nation:

"I have decided that if the Republican Party chooses to renominate me, I shall accept."

He said that in reaching the decision he had been guided first of all "by the favorable reports of the doctors." He sketched their favorable conclusions but said "in the last analysis, the decision was my own."

Mr. Eisenhower also said "as of this moment, there is not the slightest doubt I can perform, as well as I ever have, all the important duties of the Presidency."

Confidence Expressed

He added: "I am confident that I can carry them indefinitely. Otherwise, I would never have made the decision I announced today."

Mr. Eisenhower said his doctors had advised him they felt that "adverse effects on my health will be less in the Presidency than in any other position."

He said they believed that "because of the watchful care the doctors can and do exercise over a President, be normally runs less risk of physical difficulty than do other citizens."

The President said then that in his bid for reelection he would "wage no political campaign in the customary pattern," but would set forth his views through the newspapers, TV and radio. He said he would have campaigned only in that limited manner—without any "whistle-stop" tours—even if he had not suffered a heart attack."

In the next few weeks he was aksed at news conferences what he would do if, during the campaign, his health deteriorated to a point where he felt he could not carry on.

"I have said," he replied, "that unless I felt absolutely up to the performance of the duties of the Presidency, I would no longer be there in the job, or I wouldn't be available for the job."

It was then he added that if such circumstances developed he would tell the American people "instantly."

Mr. Eisenhower also was asked whether he would resign without completing his present term if he felt his health was not up to the job. He said:

"I have told the American people this: That I am making myself available for additional duty if they want me, and what I told them was, I believed I was capable and would remain capable as far as I could determine. When I believe I am not capable, I will not be there, and that's all there is to it."

Never before had a President suffered a heart attack in office.

Never before had a Chief Executive been confronted with circumstances Mr. Eisenhower had to take into account in making his decision whether to run again.

"I have to guess as to the next five years, and the problem is what will be the effect on the Presidency, not on me." Mr. Eisenhower told a news conference Jan. 25.

He added it was a question, too, of "the zip and zest that you can take into conferences when you have got to get something done for the good of the United States."

Checked Last Month

Mr. Eisenhower's most recent physical check, made by Snyder and other Army doctors, was completed less than a month ago at Walter Reed Army Hospital here. When he left the hospital May 12 the doctors gave Mr. Eisenhower another clean bill of health.

The physicians reported at that time that his heart was "well healed" and his general health good.

Beaming over the accounting given him by the medical men, Mr. Eisenhower promptly took off for an afternoon of golf.

The Walter Reed report said Mr. Eisenhower "has shown good tolerance to increasing physical activity" over the six mon^hs since his discharge from Fitzsimons Hospital in Denver. It described him as physically active and mentally alert" and said X-ray and other examinations showed no enlargement or bulging of the heart scar resulting from the September attack. The report said the heart beat was at "a normal rate and rhythm."

A week after the Walter Reed examination, Mr. Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower would undergo one or two more physical checks during 1956. He gave no dates.

NO FUNDS NEEDED AT BARRY AVE.-IF

No funds are needed for the Barry Avenue School of the Rye Neck School System if a new junior-senior high school is to be built, the School Board has been advised by the State Department of Education.

The ruling is based on the hope that voters district will vote on an additional bond issue of $345,000 to add a junior high school wing to the already approved senior high school. If the bond issue is approved, the ruling will stand, it was pointed out by the Board.

However, if the bond issue is defeated, it will then become necessary to continue to use Barry Avenue School, and the State Education Department will require changes in the building that will cost an estimated $280,000.

In its letter the Education Department is "pleased" that the district has embarked upon the program to add the junior high wing. "It is my understanding," wrote Don L. Essex for the Department, "that two possibilities now confront you.

"These are addition of the junior high wing and accommodation of 800 elementary children in Bellows High School and Daniel Warren School. This plan includes abandonment of Barry Avenue," the letter notes, "which we feel has long outlived its usefulness as a safe modern school building."

"Minimum requirements of the Education Department would be the enclosure of the boiler room with a fire resistive material and the addition of a fire escape to provide two means of egress from every room in the building. Rehabilitation desired by the District would also include new fire proof stairs, new heating system, new fire resistive floors in corridors and new toilets.

"This program woud naturally prolongate the use of the building for at least 40 to 50 years and we would, therefore, have to insist that a play room of the minimum dimension of 36 by 52 feet be included. We would also recommend that a stage and and kitchen be provided so that this playroom would be a triple purpose facility."

But the Education Department would not recommend this second program, the letter states.

"We believe," Mr. Essex wrote, "that the funds necessary for such alterations and additions to the Barry Avenue School could be put to better use in providing new modern school housing facilities as outlined in Plan 1. (The junior high wing.) However, should the district insist on this latter plan we would reluctantly approve it as outlined above."

Lone Writer Tells Of Getting News Of President's Illness

(Marvin L. Arrowsmith has covered President Eisenhower from time of his nomination for the Presidency four years ago. His account of the announcement of Mr. Eisenhower's illness follows.)

WASHINGTON (AP)—I was, the only reporter on hand in the White House Press Room today when press secretary James Hagerty called for newsmen to come to his office.

A few photographers were there. On entering the office we found Mr. Hagerty seated at his desk with a small sheet of paper in his hand. Written on it in longhand was his statement announcing the President's illness.

The press secretary appeared calm and unruffled. Before he started to dictate the statement he instructed a secretary to put in telephone calls for other newsmen, saying he would talk to them as soon as he finished dictating.

Within a half hour the press room and the lobby outside Mr. Hagerty's office were crowded with newsmen.

Big Plant Plunged In Niagara Gorge

NIAGARA FALLS (AP) — The most destructive rockfall in the recorded history of the spectacular Niagara gorge took one man's life late yesterday and left the huge Schoellkopf hydroelectric station in tumbled-down ruins.

More than 40 other employes of the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. scrambled along the precipitous bank to safety as two of the station's three sections roared into the wild rapids behind them.

Company officials were appalled at the damage, which wiped out 300,000 kilowatts of power capacity in hardly more than the twinking of an eye. All power in this city of nearly 100,000 was off for two hours.

Damage in Millions

They could only say that it would run well into the millions. The original cost of the two wrecked sections, however, was believed to have been about $35 million more than 30 years ago.

Lost in the malestrom of rocky debris was Richard A. Draper, thirty-nine, of nearby Lewiston, a machinist. Two companions saw him disappear in the cascading remnants of powerhouse walls.

His body was not immediately recovered.

Mr. Draper and the others had been working feverishly sandbagging a leak at the base of the station half a mile downstream from the American Falls, where a giant rockfall destroyed Prospect Point on July 28, 1954. The seepage had been discovered only a few hours earlier.

'Really Scared'

The staccato reports of cracking walls warned the men that the end of the building was near.

"All I know is that the walls and ceiling started to come down and I ran like hell," said Chris Nelson, twenty-five, one of the crew. "I didn't stop for anything. I was rea ly scared."

The station, largest hydro plant in the Niagara Mohawk system, was hit by three earth-shaking slides which followed each other in rapid order starting just before 5:30 P. M. When it was over, the six turbine generators in the two sections were buried in debris at the the bottom of the 220-foot gorge.

Think for Self, Frost Advises 75 Graduates

YONKERS—

To a crowd of 1,000 that overflowed Westlands Terrace at Sarah Lawrence College, Robert Frost, America's foremost poet, yesterday urged upon the 75 members of the graduating class the importance of thinking for one's self.

"I'd rather have an idea myself, he said than have it given to me. I pay attention to what others say, but I find time to think over what I've heard to develop my own ideas."

Women, the poet said, do not seem to be great philosophers because to date no great philosophic ideas have come from women.

He stressed the importance of "dreaming", said President James Madison was perhaps one of the nation's greatest dreamers. The Constitution Mr. Frost termed as the embodiment of Madison's "dream to fulfill a new land with people of self control." He questioned if the vision of the Constitution is being lost by materialistic interpretation.

Of his personal concept of liberty he said "I value myself not for my liberties conferred but for the ones I take."

The educated person, he charged the students, does "not just opinionate about things but has ideas about things."

Harold Taylor, president of Sarah Lawrence College, discussing education and teachers warned against "the mass production of college graduates at the expense of education of the individual which can defeat the purpose of Democratic education."

This can come about from over emphasis on scientific education.

Masters of arts degrees were awarded to Mrs. Robert Sampir of Yonkers, Mrs. Warren Hackenburg and Miss Susan Henderson of Bronxville, Mrs. Sheldon Levin of Eastchester and Mrs. Richard Colby of Scarsdale.

Westchester students receiving B.A.'s were Miss Christina Kwa Ling Chang, Mrs. Richard Halpern, Mrs. James Klau and Miss Patricia Wagdin, all of Yonkers; Mrs. Malvina Frost and Mrs. R. Scott Inglis of Mount Vernon and Miss Barbara Richter of Scarsdale.

Mrs. Frost and Mrs. Halpern also received teachers' certificates.

Urban League Tops $200 In Local Drive

Mrs. DeLila Williams, chairman of the Mamaroneck-Larchmont Urban League campaign committee, announced today that the committee has received $209.10 in memberships and contributions to date. The goal is $350.

Mrs. Williams said that local citizens are doing their share in supporting the Urban League of Westchester in its work of fostering good human relations and improving social and economic conditions officiating Negro citizens throughout Westchester County.

The campaign committee recently mailed a letter to more than 100 local residents informing them of some of the achievements of the Urban League in the Urban League in the Mamaroneck-Larchmont area. The letter listed the following points:

"It has helped by encouraging our young people to prepare for better jobs, plan for higher education, secure college scholarships; it has helped by working with our local NAACP to open jobs in our chain stores, offices and factories—so that applicants are considered solely on their qualifications; it has helped in the field of housing—trying to secure more housing for everyone.

"It helps meet emergencies when families in our community are faced with eviction because the houses in which they live have been condemned.

"The Urban League maintains a full-time professional staff with headquarters in White Plains. It carries on a broad program all over the county which the rest of us, as volunteers, could not possibly accomplish alone."

The following persons are members of the committee:

Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Louise Brown, Wain Carrington, William Fisher, president Mamaroneck NAACP; Mrs. Wayne Lawson, Mrs. Mabel Williams, Clarence Brown, Mrs. Myrtle Dixon, Mrs. Willy Sue Dawkins, Dr. Alphonso Owens, Mrs. Della Steele, Mrs. Edna Huff, Mrs. Sidney Milwe, Joseph Green, Mrs. Howard Podell, Mrs. Paul Hoeber, Mrs. Benjamin Morrell, Mrs. Oscar Israel.

Tipsy Count Just Start Of Tough Breaks

Charges of damaging public property and public intoxication were filed yesterday against Thomas Bergin of New Rochelle, who spent the night in the Larchmont police lockup in lieu of $50 bail after he was apprehended on the Boston Post Road across from Nassau Road, police report.

Bergin at 4:15 P. M. was reported intoxicated and investigated by police.

They got him into the back of the police car, where he managed to break the left rear window.

Then, at the station house, he managed to fall on top of an expensive circulating fan and thoroughly smash that.

The police were patient and cautious, despite the damage to property and pride. They had Dr. Alan Van Sciver examine the man and Dr. Van Sciver's findings were that Mr. Bergin was intoxicated.

He is to appear Tuesday evening before Judge John R. Cahill on the charges.
