Lenten Thoughts by Our Neighbors

Take On New Task, Get Fresh Slant On Life - Dawson

By FRED A. DAWSON
Vice President, New York Central, of Bronxville

Our business on the New York Central is people—more than 30 million of them each year. To me, a very important part of my job is to gauge the morale of Central employees who serve our patrons and are responsible for the impression our customers have of the railroad.

People riding our trains are more than statistics in our annual report or money in our profit and loss statements. They are human beings on their way to loved ones or to the jobs on which their future depends.

We like to think of the average railroader as a God-fearing man, realizing the tremendous responsibility he faces each day in safeguarding lives of these people.

We railroaders think subconsciously of this responsibility and the personal integrity that must go with it, but once in a while we like to talk it over.

Since the public's impression of us starts with our employees, we ask them as well as ourselves how we're measuring up as individuals. Lent gives us a chance to re-examine our individual philosophy and think seriously about the brotherhood of man.

More Than A Season Of Denial
One way we can do these things is by making Lent more than a season of denial. Instead of just giving up something—take on a new task. Seek a service project in your church or community organization.

The best way I can think of to get a fresh slant on life is to strive for a better community of individuals and nations by starting with a personal-to-person rehabilitation.

One organization concerned with this is the Railroad YMCA, supported in part by the New York Central. The railroad "Y" realizes that the moral fiber of the men who make up the New York Central is more important than the steel that goes into their trains.

'Home Away From Home'
To this end the railroad "Y" offers "a home away from home," and an opportunity for spiritual, educational and social activities. Last year more than 32,000 New York Central employees participated in religious, educational and social branches on the Central system. More than 183,000 employees and their families engaged in social meetings and more than 6,500 availed themselves of educational projects such as public speaking classes and discussion groups.

Thus, while we keep our trains running 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, we still take time out, particularly during the Lenten season, to take stock of ourselves and strive for improvement. In this way we will strengthen the individual faith of our employees and pass on to our passengers the feeling that they can put their trust in us.

Combing The Town

Paintings by Norman Kent, of 437 Carroll Avenue, Mamaroneck, and Edmund J. Fitzgerald, of 94 Post Road, Larchmont, have been selected for the 86th annual show of the American Water Color Society, which has just opened for a two-week stand at the National Academy, New York City.

Mr. Kent has two works in the show, entitled "Old Firehouse" and "Bridges at Both Ends." Mr. Fitzgerald is also represented by two paintings, "In The Rock" and "Bridges at Both Ends."

Describes Vice Fight
An article by the Rev. Edgar J. Jackson of the Mamaroneck Methodist Church, on how vice and gambling were cracked in Bridgeport in 1946 while he was president of the Bridgeport Pastors' Association, is printed in the April issue of Male magazine, a national publication of the Male Publishing Co.

Rev. Mr. Jackson, who relates the story to Alison J. Smith, told how Bridgeport ministers led the fight to rid the city of vice.

Entitled "We Created Vice In Bridgeport," the article explains in detail how gambling rooms were driven out of business and, thereafter, vice gambling was closed down, the drive went on to include vice and dope.

Fire Alarms Changed
Fire alarm signals in the Village of Mamaroneck will change this weekend to an entirely new system, Chief Thomas Pappalardo, announced this morning.

Numbers on some alarm boxes have been changed. Boxes have been re-labeled and some new boxes have been added.

All of the new alarms are printed on page C43 of the telephone book sponsored by the Mamaroneck Chamber of Commerce, Chief Pappalardo said, and when the new system goes into effect either Saturday or Sunday those numbers will be used instead of the numbers printed on pages C39 and C40 of the same book.

No Meeting Tonight
There's another change in that Mamaroneck Village Board meeting. First it was changed from Monday until Tuesday. Then from Tuesday until today. It has now been postponed indefinitely. Mayor Walter B. C. Washburn has not yet returned from a storm-ridden trip to the West.

It's Not Halloo'en

Somebody in Larchmont drew the line a bit too finely between the front and aron last night.

Frank Winter of 200 Murray Avenue was watching television at 9:45 P. M. he reported, when the front door opened for a moment to answer it, there was no one there but a small mound of jellied substance was burning on the porch a few feet from the storm door.

Mr. Winter said he was awakened by the smell of the jellied substance. He went to the porch and saw the jellied substance. The police were unable to locate the culprit, but gathered some of the jellied substance and will continue the investigation.

Single copy, 1 cent; subscription, 30 cents a week; subscription second class matter at the postoffice, Mamaroneck, Westchester County, N. Y.

PRAYER FOR TODAY—On this day, dear Father, which in other decades might have been Inauguration Day, my mind runs happily to the effective manner in which the transfer of Federal government took place on January 20, reflecting the genius of our American system. Few republics in history, I know, have lasted so long, largely because the party in power became despotic while the defeated party gave no loyalty to the winner, thus requiring civil war to expel those in control. A pray in gratitude for the glorious difference here in the United States, for the freedom we have to make changes in leadership in a graceful manner, thus guaranteeing a better nation and a better world.

GET VOICE OF AMERICA BACK ON THE BEAM

DISSENTING were the revelations by Senator McCarthy's investigating subcommittee that there had been perversion, to some extent, of the content of Voice of America broadcasts.

The whole story has not yet come out, even with yesterday's testimony by the former acting director of the program. But it must be brought out and we must make sure that corrective measures have been taken and the program strongly rechecked.

Voice of America is our best, our only effective means of counterpropaganda for the enslaved people of Europe poisoned by Kremlin lies about us as an enemy.

To learn that anti-Communist portions of the scripts had been deleted before broadcast, that quotations of Russian-loving residents of this country—we can't call them Americans—were being used during the Truman Administration, was discouraging but understandable.

If the Voice of America was our best weapon in one phase of the cold war, the Communists were bound to try to worm their way into its operation.

And in the Acheson days that wasn't difficult. Any newspaperman could understand what happened. No matter how objectively a story is written, a copy editor with his going over it can change a word here, alter a phrase there and achieve a slanted version in the final text. It would be true that the directors of the Voice of America program had the purest American motives and yet that a copyeditor hired without proper scrutiny could be unduly their work perverting the broadcast and not only wasting our money but actually helping to try the work of the Communists.

The danger is that a Congress disturbed at the revelations of past corruption—Secretary of State Dulles has rescinded several of the directives of the previous administration—will cut the funds for the Voice of America. That should not be allowed to happen. The entire Voice staff should be gone over with a fine-toothed comb to root out the Reds; a high-level official of unquestioned integrity should go over the edited scripts to weed out the perverters.

And then the strengthened Voice program should be expanded in our battle for the minds of men on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

THE REALITIES OF NEWSMAKING

ANY administration making news as fast as the Eisenhower Administration is doing must expect to have that news published, and not always as it is intended.

Mr. Eisenhower's first big news conference provided a chance to test the strength and hold it. Washington correspondents had been hinting that a gag had been clamped on newsmen in the various departments and complaining that news gathering would be reduced to collecting "handouts," that is, prepared releases from the government bureau. That was after Mr. Eisenhower had warned his Cabinet and others there must be no "leaks" of news. His concern undoubtedly was that during the change-over in command and the formative days of setting up new staffs and programs, announcements of policies and new departures should not be permitted to "leak" and be half-baked and while still subject to change. Rightly so.

But the correspondents realize the stifling atmosphere of "leakages" and the press is beginning to ask questions about news developments, questions they are trained to anticipate and get answered for their readers.

There had been speculation for months, said the President in his news conference, on the thought that he had developed a good deal of antagonism toward the press. He didn't know why people felt he had hostility toward newsmen. He had been dealing with the press ever since he was a boy and had found nothing but a desire to dig at the truth and the press had been open and forthright about it. This is the kind of relationship that he and the press are going to continue. That settled that, and then the President gave the newsmen five good page-one stories.

The Presidential news conference is the ideal place for executive decisions and developments and policy formulations to be announced—and even "trial balloons" to be pumped. It is tested for public reaction before being put into practice.

But Mr. Eisenhower and James A. Hagerty, his press secretary, cannot expect that the White House news conferences will be the only source of news on Presidential thinking, planning and execution. Congressional leaders have to be kept informed of plans and decisions, and their staffs will know of them before formal announcement time.

Mr. Hagerty has expressed amazement that so little can be told "off the record" in Washington, and that almost nothing stays off the record. Mr. Hagerty came from similar experience in Albany where the dealings were with a much smaller press corps, where the chance of "leaks" from Governor Dewey's official family were fewer, and where most of the newsmen had covered the Executive Mansion for a number of years and worked for publishers with much the same interests.

The trouble with press relations in Washington is that so many "new letter" writers are admitted to news conference, along with the correspondents for the Soviet news agency Tass and paid publicity agents for lobbying interests. Also the correspondents along with legmen for "merry-go-rounders" and peephole columnists anxious for gossip with a politically harmful angle. In addition there are the magazine men who are tempted to hint in print one week at a confidential story for fear it will be announced officially before their next week's issue appears.

News is a commodity in Washington as it is everywhere else, and these changing times. And it's the newsmen's job to see that it gets printed at its highest value.

ARMY DRAFT MAY LENGTHEN

DRIFT service in the Army may be extended from the present 24-month period. That is the unpleasant and politically dangerous possibility facing Pentagon officials.

Congress would have to authorize any extension and it is questionable whether votes could be mustered for such an unpopular move. The Army would have to make out a good case. Leaders are trying to decide whether to ask for an extension to 30 months' service, or even 36 months. They claim to have figures to back up the request. It has been shown that the present rate of rotation on 24 months' service is unacceptably high and is using up manpower at a wasteful rate. Draft officials estimate that fewer than 600 men on 36-month service could accomplish the same amount of work as 1,000 men serving 24 months.

Two and one-half or three years' draft service in the Army would bring that too close to the four-year Navy enlistment period.

It is something the country may have to come to if military requirements maintain present levels, particularly if reduction of defense expenses is to be accomplished.

ROKS REGAIN PEAK
IN SAVAGE BATTLE
SEOUL (AP)—Valiant South Korean Infantrymen repulsed the top of a bloody offensive launched on the central Korean front today, in a thunderous climax to 22 hours of savage close-quarter fighting with an estimated 500 Chinese Reds.

The Republic of Korea troops had pulled back from the outpost of midday and the Allied warplanes turn the hill into a smoking mass of bomb craters and debris.

American fighter-bombers blasted the attacking Reds with napalm bombs and high explosive.

The 6th Army bristling officer said a casualty toll of 130—more than one-third of the Red attack force.

The Life Of Christ

There Came to Him 10 Men Who Were Lepers, And They Were Made Clean

The story of the Life of Christ, with illustrations by M. Strubel, began in this paper on Dec. 1. It was suspended on Christmas Eve, and is being concluded during the Lenten season. And it came to pass, as He was passing through the midst of Samaria and Galilee. And as He entered into a certain town, there met Him 10 men that were lepers, who stood afar off.

accounts, many bearing the same name. Without the Social Security number one is unable to distinguish one account from another. You should get a duplicate account number card by applying for it at this office. Better do it immediately since March 15 is close at hand.

Question: I have two full-time jobs as a self-employed person. Need I pay a Social Security tax in the future since I understand that one and a half years coverage fully insures any person under Social Security?

Answer: First, every person must pay Social Security taxes as long as he is engaged in covered employment, regardless of his age or whether or not he is fully insured. Secondly, not all persons are fully insured with one and a half years coverage. A year and a half of work that counts toward Social Security provides monthly benefits only in case the worker reaches age 65 or dies before July, 1954.

Question: In 1952 my net income from my business was more than $3,000. However, I was ill for 2 months and was not able to do any work at all. Can I receive Social Security benefits for the months in which I did not work?

Answer: Yes, if you did not render any services in the operation, or management, of your business during those months.

Question: Could I possibly receive any Social Security payments for my young daughter? My husband died while in the Army. He never worked under Social Security, but a friend of mine says she receives benefits for her child based on the amount of time she worked on a job that is covered by the law.

Answer: Both your daughter and yourself may be eligible for Social Security benefits based on your husband's military service. Generally speaking, persons who serve in the armed forces at any time after September, 1940 are given Social Security credits just as if they had been working covered employment. Many widows and children are now receiving benefits based on their fathers' or husbands' military service.

VIOLENCE FEARED IN FILM DISPUTE

SILVER CITY, N. M. (AP)—Peace officers looked at a new threat of violence arose today over the controversial movie, "Salt of the Earth," being filmed in this southwest New Mexico mining area.

The State Police force was alerted after Sheriff Owen Matthews reported the townsmen at nearby Central had decided to warn makers of the film, who are expected to soon or so out in black masks.

The movie makers have been accused in Congress of making the film under Communist auspices.

Yesterday Clinton Jencks, international representative of the U. M. W., was arrested by police workers, had his eye blackened by a state citizen who objected to the movie. He filed a complaint of assault and battery against Earl Lee, a stocky forty-two-year-old dustman at neighboring Bayard.

The mine-mining union was tossed out of the CID some time ago because its leaders refused to swear they would not join Communist organizations.

Rosaura A. Revueltas, Mexican movie star who has a leading part in the film, attended the Soviet-sponsored International Film Festival in East Berlin last summer; she is held by the Immigration Service in El Paso on charges she entered this country illegally.

Music Group Of Woman's Club Gives Menotti Opera For 150

The Music Department of the Woman's Club of Larchmont concluded its current program season yesterday with a dramatic production of Gian-Carlo Menotti's "The War of the Witches" for an audience of more than 150 members and guests at the Larchmont Avenue Church.

Theora Pierce Hahn of Larchmont, soprano, in the title role, and Alma Kitchell mezzo-soprano, Department chairman, in the role of the Mother, gave highly convincing performances. Excellent narration was provided by Mrs. E. Vincent Stratton and Mrs. Fred S. Child, Larchmont piano teacher, who conducted the orchestra. Finished sympathetically with accompaniment.

Members of the little lane boys and his mother, who are visited in their poverty-stricken home by three kings seeking the Christ child, vividly spoke his message of faith and hope, appropriate to the Lenten season.

Lenten Thoughts by Our Neighbors Priest's Word Eased Branca's Agony After Big Home Run Pitch

By RALPH BRANCA
Fisher, Brooklyn pitcher, of Mount Vernon
I must be considered unique as far as major league baseball players are concerned. For I've had the same question asked of me by more people than any other query filed at most big leaguers in a lifetime.

You're all familiar with it. It goes something like this: "Tell me, Ralph, how did you feel after Bobby Thomson hit that pennant-winning home run in 1951?"

Well, I'd like to answer that question that has never been printed before. These additions prompted this "brokie" attempt at column writing and made me very grateful for the opportunity it presents.

Need I say that the minutes that followed that never-to-be forgotten home run were the most heart-crushing I've ever endured, or ever hope to endure. Hurt. Every Jeer. Every eye-piercing cry that echoed the broken sentiments of every Dodger fan in the country. You're a bum, Branca, just about describes the screams of everyone who roared his disapproval of my effort.

He Cried His Heart Out

Many of you have probably seen the picture of me, lying prostrate on the steps of the Dodger dressing room. That picture best explains how I felt and what went on in the clubhouse later. I cried, I cried my heart out.

Little did I think, however, that less than four hours later most of my burden would be lightened. And it was, as you will learn in the next few paragraphs.

When I headed to my car, parked in the parking lot in back of right field, I was still stunned and couldn't recall what happened. I was in a daze. I opened the door of the car and my friend greeted Ann Mulvey, then my fiancée, now my wife, who, I needn't add, was in tears. Seated with Ann was her father's cousin, Father Francis Rawley, of the Jesuit order, who was consoling Ann as I stepped into the car.

And what Father Rawley had to say immediately cleared my mind and straightened out my shattered thinking.

"Forget it, Ralph," he said. "You did your best. Why did you do it to me? Why me?" His answer came quickly and will live with me as long as the memory of that home run pitch, and I hope longer.

"The reason God picked you to throw that pitch was because He felt that your faith was strong enough to withstand the agonies that would follow. That you would know it was His will and you had done your best, and no one could ask more of any man."

A Boost For Morale

Father Rawley's words didn't hit home immediately, but after mulling over them for awhile, I realized how comforting.

Three Register

Election inspectors handling registration in Larchmont and Mamaroneck Saturday had a dreary day of it. Over 100 names registered for the March 17 Village Election in Larchmont and only one in the Village of Mamaroneck. At least 20 persons in two villages spent the afternoon waiting for registrants.

The joy number is accounted for by the fact that registration had fallen for the Presidential election was at an all-time high, so there weren't many unaccounted for.

Scouts' Field Day

A practical demonstration of fire prevention techniques and talk on wildlife restoration by Capt. Anne E. Horn, executive secretary of Wildlife Restoration Foundation, were presented Saturday at the Mamaroneck Rangers Conservation Club, 1120 Cove Road, Mamaroneck.

Fifty Boy Scouts and four scout leaders from the Bronx made the trip by bus to attend the program which was arranged by Charles Pich, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Pich of the Cove Road address.

The group enjoyed a barbeque outdoors on the sanctuary which Charles has established on his waterfront home, and then attended the talk and demonstration. The outing was the first of a series of Educational Field Days given by the Rangers as part of their work as a Wildlife Restoration Foundation.

Larchmont Patrolmen Fire Shots To Halt Fugitives In Manor Chase

Four teenage fire youths were apprehended late Saturday night by Larchmont police in front of St. Augustine's School after they abandoned a stolen car at Manor Place and the Boston Post Road. The car, owned by James T. Anderson of 131 Purchase Street, was taken from the front of the Highland Hall Apartments, Rte. about 9 P. M. Police shot at the boys drove to the Fort Chester tavern where they picked up the other youths and their cousin, Westchester County youth apprehended in Larchmont at 1:20 P. M.

Their apprehension here resulted from the sighting of Larchmont Police Sgt. James Greer, who spotted the car parked at Manor Place and the Boston Post Road. Two of the youths were in the car when Greer spotted a nearby signboard. Greer stopped to question the driver, who became rattled. He jumped from the car and, with his friends, fled.

A costly delay resulted when the fire hydrant, which suffered an estimated $20,000 worth of damage, was believed to have started shortly after midnight Saturday. The blaze of undetermined origin was believed to have started in the Harrison fire house at 12:54 A. A second follow-up at 1:24 A. M. and a third at 1:54 A. M. were held at the scene failed to operate. As a result, the firemen

VANDALS SMASH SHOW WINDOWS

Three Boats Also Damaged On Post Road; Culprits Apprehended

Thorough detective work by Mamaroneck Police Sgt. Joseph Palmer solved a case of vandalism early yesterday morning that caused $460 worth of damage to three boats and left two smashed windows in the Batter display building at 451 East Boston Post Road.

The smashed windows were discovered by Patrolman Alton Palmer, who was on patrol in the vicinity at 4:20 A. M. Sgt. Joseph Palmer, his brother, took up the investigation and interviewed the neighborhood for information that might lead to identification of the culprit.

Rev. Roger N. Jackson, pastor of the Mamaroneck Methodist Church, who lives opposite the boat builder's at 541 Post Road, told Sgt. Palmer that he had been awakened by his dog barking around 3:30 A. M. He heard voices outside, he said, saying "Keep quiet, don't make too much noise."

Sgt. Palmer next learned that there had been a dance at Bellows Falls School and that some of the dancers had eaten at the Mamaroneck Diner, next door to Balster's, and had left the diner about 3:30 A. M.

Sgt. Palmer then questioned the father of a boy who had been to the dance and asked the father to question his son about the broken window. The father came to headquarters later with three teenage boys who admitted having smashed the windows with stones.

George Shonout of 330 Carroll Avenue, Mamaroneck, manager of the Batter display house, was pointed and declined to press charges. The parents of the boys involved promised to pay for the damage.

PRAYER FOR TODAY—I am proud and glad... Father of us all, for the current emphasis on religion...

STENOGRAPHERS WHO USE 'INVISIBLE INK'... OUR State Senators and Assemblies are still exceedingly reluctant to ask their official stenographers to make one typewritten copy of the shorthand notes they take at sessions of the Legislature.

This year, as in other recent years, a measure is before both houses, calling for this simple and sensible procedure. In every office in the land—in business, industry, the profession or in private life—the stenographer who takes shorthand notes is expected to complete the task by preparing one or more copies in typewritten form.

Taxpayers spend about $25,000 a year to have expert stenographers take down what happens. Their notes are not transcribed. It has happened that a stenographer has died and nobody could read his notes.

One wonders why we go through the sham of having proceedings set down in hieroglyphics that nobody ever gets to read or even check. Why do we insist on this "invisible ink" or throw away their notebooks after each meeting they have recorded.

If a citizen, a lawyer, a judge, a newspaper reporter—anyone else—ever requires a transcript of these notes, he must first be willing to purchase a transcript but that is only a beginning. He must then obtain permission of all the stenographers who are quoted in the portion he needs—and if any one of them refuses, he doesn't get it. Furthermore, before any transcript is made available, the stenographer must be notified that the reporter is entitled to receive the copy to suit himself, without anyone knowing how he has changed it.

During the present session, the legislative leaders have agreed that on demand a transcript will be provided to the press. If it wants to buy such a record, without some of this red tape.

But it is an oral arrangement which the present leaders have made with editors—a reluctant consent wrangled from them. This pact has no binding effect on themselves in future years, or upon their successors.

There is a ray of hope this year that a bill embodying the requirement for a typewritten copy—introduced by Senator George Manning of Buffalo, and introduced in the Assembly at least in the Senate. Some legislative leaders have expressed themselves in favor of it. The measure is now in the Senate Finance Committee and its chairman, Senator Walter J. Mahoney of Buffalo, is one of those who favor the bill.

However, it appears that the measure will not be reported out, unless Majority Leader Arthur H. Wickes of Kingston gives us the go-ahead signal. Mr. Wickes is one of those who oppose such a transcript.

The New York State Society of Newspaper Editors has been advocating a legislative transcript for many years, and it has had the support of the New York State Publishers Association, among other groups.

Individual legislators have opposed the measure. Some fear it will "cost too much" for a session during debate might prove embarrassing to them. They hint that the knowledge that a record would be accessible might restrict debate.

The fact is that the plan of a session during debate might prove embarrassing to them. They hint that the knowledge that a record would be accessible might restrict debate.

It would be even more helpful to the courts. Frequently our courts are called upon to interpret State laws. A most valuable aid would be a record of what actually was said on the floor of the Legislature when the laws were being discussed, debated and adopted. It would certainly help jurists to determine the intent of the lawmakers.

It will be a happy day when once citizens write or telephone their Senators and Assemblies to ask them why they do not hurry up and push through this essential bill, without any further delay.

It will be reasonable if such citizens demand some common sense explanations and insist that if transcripts are so dangerous to the legislators and to the public—they fire the stenographic staffs, and save the $25,000 or more of taxpayer money that now goes down the drain.

POINT OF NO RETURN ON GASOLINE TAX... SUGGESTIONS that the State add a new tax of 2 cents on each gallon of gasoline should be given serious consideration before any action is taken.

First of all, as the new tax is said to be needed to provide funds to carry out long-deferred improvements and extension of highways, there should be a definite requirement that such money be earmarked for highway projects, and no other. It would also seem to be only proper that some fair plan for allocation of the money be devised than the present system under which frequently the localities which provide the major share of the money receive only a small part of the benefits.

Without such assurance there would be the danger that the new tax money would quickly be absorbed into general funds of the State and diverted to other purposes, as has happened in the past.

If highways can be repaired, improved or extended only by means of new taxes, the motorists will probably have to bear the brunt of the impost.

NO BEDS BUDGETED

Question: "What at the White Plains YWCA have resident girls. In one room we have a bed with no sheets or covers. If the girls live there has to sleep across the bed. It is a youth bed. Up to now, we were lucky to have a very short sheet occupying this room. In our budget we are $100 for furnishings and replacements. Most of this already can-marked for appliances we must have. It does not leave us enough to buy a new bed, or the bedroom chairs that all the girls badly need. Do you think your readers could help?"

Answer: "The poor girl must wait to treat every morning before she ever starts the day's work. The Y.W. at 45 Prospect Street, I hope to have them work in White Plains, away from their families and friends. It is an unusual single bed somewhere to give the girl a good night's sleep. The Y.W. will be more than glad to pick it up. The same is true of the chairs. Small pull-up chairs or wooden chairs will be fine. The girls will appreciate the refrigerators to buy. Mrs. Heiberger cannot stretch her budget far enough to include these comforts for the girls. Her telephone is WH 9-2435."

PIECES FOR QUILTS

Question: "In going through a box of materials that had been saved away for some time, I found many small pieces of say colored cotton. I wonder if any collector or home for the aged might be interested in the lot? I have about 100 pieces of the like? Also, what nearby veterans' hospital might like to have these pieces?"

Answer: "The elderly women at the Westchester County Home at Hawthorne will be glad to get the cotton for their aprons, etc., as well as quilts to use in the State Farm for Women at Bedford Hills. If you send them to the latter address, the name of Miss Bernice Byfield, 756 York Ave., New York, N. Y., will be of use to the American Red Cross. The women of the Red Cross take the books to the veterans' hospital every week."

CROUSES OR CRAY?

Question: "Now that my crocuses, or should it be, are in bloom again, I have suddenly become interested in the origin and story of this is one of the flowers. My impression is that it has to do with Easter or the Paschal lamb. I am hazy about it and don't know where to get the facts. Can you help me?"

Answer: "Crocuses or croci, or croci, plural is correct, with Latin being pronounced cross-lit. The Hebrews, Greeks and Egyptians loved them thousands of years ago along the shores of the Mediterranean Sea. Solomon mentions them in the beautiful Song of Songs. The Egyptians wreathed their hair with crocuses and the Greeks put them in their hair. The Greeks learned of the story of a noble youth who loved a "worse maid, but knowing they could never marry, killed himself in despair. Flora, the goddess of flowering plants, felt so sorry for the distraught lover that she changed the youth into the golden crocus which the young girl into the trailing vine Snailix so they could always be side by side."

Other crocuses are the Pasque flower which is blue and white with the crocus. They look some what alike but are not related. It is from the stamens of the saffron crocus that old-time chemists obtained a powder used in dyeing and in perfumery. It is called saffron. The yellow crocus blooms a few days earlier than the purple sister, but stays long enough to present its brilliant contrast to the dark flower. For an effect to take one's breath away, try mowing 200 or 300 under a letty elm or beech tree. You'll never forget that sight!

The Life of Christ
And Being in His Agony,
He Prayed the Longer

The story of the Life of Christ, with illustrations by D. Straub, begins in this paper on Dec. 1. It was suspended on Christmas Eve, and is being concluded during the Lenten season.

And going out, he went, according to his custom, to the mount of Olives, and his disciples also followed him.

And when he was come to the place, he said to them: Pray, lest ye enter into temptation.

And he was withdrawn away from them a stone's cast, and kneeling down, he prayed.

Saying: Father, if thou wilt, remove this chalice from me; but not My will, but thine be done.

And there appeared to him an angel from heaven, strengthening him.

And being in an agony, he prayed the longer.

And his sweat became as drops of blood, trickling down upon the ground. Luke 22:39-44.

Combing The Town

Just Taxpayers
In one of its shortest sessions to date, the Mamaroneck Village Board last night postponed most of its agenda until Wednesday, March 18, and adjourned five minutes after the meeting opened so that trustees could attend the PTA Institute on centralization at Mamaroneck Junior High School.

There, many trustees and village officials agreed to a body and occupied half a row of seats, looking for all the world like they were interested taxpayers.

Not Just For Sailors
The subject of tomorrow's discussion at the Larchmont Civil Defense meeting at 8 P. M. in the Murray Avenue School sounds like a course for sailors. It is to be "Knits and Rigging."

The picnic is explained by the fact that the group is composed of rescue and excavation squad workers and they will be taught knots and rigging in connection with the removal of persons from bombed buildings.

William Hyatt is chairman of the group.

ELKS' STEWARD KILLED AS AUTO SMASHES TREE

Crash on Mamaroneck Ave., Takes Life of John Calka

John Joseph Calka, steward of the Mamaroneck Elks Club, 411 East Boston Post Road, was instantly killed last night when his car veered from the road and crashed into a tree after crossing over Mamaroneck Avenue near Archbishop Sheehan High School in White Plains.

The accident occurred at 8:20 P. M. near Gedney Circle in the southbound lane of the road which is divided by an island. Police said the 1951 sedan heading toward Mamaroneck ran onto the island, then rebounded and struck the tree on the west side of the road.

T. N. Kottke of Brian View Manor Apartments at 1000 Mamaroneck Avenue reported that the car approached at "terrific speed."

Mr. Calka was thirty-eight years old and was a native of Glenville, Pa., to Peter J. Calka.

Centralization Cared Feasible And Practicable' In Citizens' Report To Institute

More Efficient Use Of Buildings And Tax Savings Indicated

Centralization of the Mamaroneck and Rye Neck school districts would result in more efficient use of the school buildings and a saving in taxes by 1957-58 with no decline in educational standards, according to a committee report made last night by the PTA Institute at the Mamaroneck Junior High School. The committee recommended centralization as "feasible and practicable."

Before use of the buildings is anticipated from the district which would send the Barry Avenue students to Mamaroneck Avenue School; from the chief of Bellows High School to a junior high school; and the construction of a "neighborhood school" which would relieve the pressure at the Central and Murray Avenue Schools.

The lower tax rate is expected to result largely from three factors: the savings of $150,000 annually in State aid, the need for only 200 teachers instead of 306 by 1957-58, and the saving of building costs which otherwise would be paid by each district separately.

The maintenance of present class size and the probable expansion of special services were noted as the instructional quality would be continued at its present high level.

Data Projected
The committee's report was presented in two sections by Thomas P. Sweatt and David B. Chisholm, chairmen, who were introduced by Richard I. Land, the moderator.

Mr. Land traced the background of this centralization study, resulting from the PTA Institute at Rye Neck which was presented a building study by the PTA Institute.

Maynard Found Not Guilty Of Knife Attack On Bartender

WHITE PLAINS—A laborer accused of assaulting a bartender who asked to pay for a drink when served was cleared yesterday by a jury of charges arising from the incident.

Wilfred James Maynard, thirty-three, who gives his address as Larchmont Acres, Larchmont, was charged with assaulting a bartender while drinking at the Capital Restaurant, 100 Westchester Avenue, New Rochelle, on Jan. 20, and taking a swipe at the bartender.

The bartender, James Palaia, sixty, of 51 Prospect Street, New Rochelle, died of natural causes on Feb. 26.

The jury returned "not guilty" verdicts to a second-degree assault charge and a charge of intoxication possession of the knife.

The laborer was defended under court assignment by David Kilbourne of New Rochelle and the prosecutor was Assistant District Attorney John C. Mattocks. The case was before Judge George M. Pappalardo, hearing his first criminal trial. Judge Palaia was appointed to the bench at the end of December and is not handling criminal cases which began while he was District Attorney.

Board Cites Clergy For Menu Grace

The Mamaroneck Village Board last night passed a resolution commending the Rev. William B. Fairman, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, for his part in promoting a non-denominational program to include prayers at Mamaroneck restaurant menus.

In moving the resolution, Trustee Ralph H. Mann called it "a step in the right direction." He said he hoped it would be followed by the adoption of a "simple, non-denominational prayer in the schools for daily recitation by students."

HYDRANT FAILURE LAID TO 'WRENCH'
Stem Snapped As Firemen Hooked Up To Fight Harrison Fire

The Westchester Joint Water Works, after completing an investigation into the failure of a fire hydrant on Stirling Avenue, attributed the failure to a stripped stem that was caused by a sudden wrench by someone attempting to open the valve.

The stem, a brass casting of an older type which has never been proved upon, was already well worn and at the time of the final wrenching was held by only three small pieces of metal thus making it impossible to force a break even if the hydrant had been tested one hour prior to the incident.

"The sudden wrench is meant as a criticism of the fireman" a spokesman said.

It is understandable that in their haste to hook up to the hydrant they were concerned merely with opening the valve as quickly as possible. As a matter of fact the faulty stem was so old it had become almost crystalline in structure.

The water works readily inspected the hydrants at least once a year, spring and fall. The hydrant failed to operate when the Stirling and Osborne Road hydrant failed to operate when Harrison and Mamaroneck Fire Departments were called out on a fire in Harrison on March 1, which resulted in $25,000 damage.

Supervisors' Committee Reports 'No Objection' To Proposed State Plan For Financing Institute

By OSCAR FOVALL

WHITE PLAINS. The Board of Supervisors' Legislative Committee, presided over by the State Education Department...

Only change recommended by the committee was a proposed amendment providing that if, at the end of the fiscal year of operation, it appears there is a variation or deficit in the estimated budget or costs of operation...

The committee, headed by Supervisor George W. Conell of Westchester, declared in a unanimous report that it has "no objection."

Mr. Conell emphasized that the proposed bill "does not commit" the County on the matter. The eventual determination whether the County will take over the institute will have to come before the board of supervisors at a later date and also be considered by the board's budget committee, he said.

Mr. Conell stated that the proposed plan "means additional expense to the County and the residents will have to bear the cost of the proposed plan."
